Expert Declines To Make Identity

WASHINGTON (AP) — A handwriting expert testified today that someone else put Sen. Thomas J. Dodd's signature on 39 personal checks -- but did not say who.

The witness, Charles A. Appel Jr., was summoned as Dodd's lawyers sought to discredit a former bookkeeper for Dodd, Michael V. O'Hare, in the Senate inquiry into the Connecticut Democrat's financial affairs.

John F. Sonnett, Dodd's chief counsel, told the Senate Ethics Committee:

"I . . . propose to show that O'Hare lied under oath when he said checks introduced yesterday were signed by Sen. Dodd."

Then Appel took over, analyzed Dodd's handwriting and that of O'Hare.

With that as his preface, Appel went over a sheaf of checks, some written in the autumn of 1963, some during the last half of 1965, one batch cashed at a Washington liquor store.

They totaled over $3,000.

Sonnett: Were you able to arrive at an opinion as to whether Sen. Dodd signed these checks? Appel: My conclusion is that he did not.

Sonnett cited the sheaf of liquor checks, totaling some $560.

The question, and the answer, were the same.

Sen. John Stennis, D - Miss.: That's your professional opinion — that's what you mean to say?

Appel: Yes.

Early in Appel's testimony, Stennis had interrupted to ask Sonnett what he proposed to show.

"I propose to show that O'Hare told the truth yesterday when he said with respect to a number of money orders that he forged the signature of Sen. Dodd," Sonnett said.

"And contrary to his testimony," Sonnett continued, "I propose to show he was a very excellent forger."

"I also propose to show that O'Hare lied under oath when he said checks he introduced yesterday were signed by Sen. Dodd," Sonnett added.

The final witness presented by the bipartisan committee was Edward B. Lockett, who testified that in 1963 Dodd hired him to write a book and that he was paid $8,000 from a testimonial account.

Dodd contends that funds raised for him at a series of events between 1961 and 1965 were not campaign contributions.

SPRING FASHIONS FEATURED TODAY

Easter, Spring and Summer fashions for the 'in' Marin shopper are featured in a colorful, 18-page special section in today's Independent-Journal.

Combined with extensive previews of fashion-conscious Marin stores' offerings are reports from style centers in the U.S. and Europe about the newest ideas in the world of women's fashions.

'000777' Out For Licenses

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Six letter words or numbers proclaiming the likes of "YIPEEE" or "000777" are out on California license plates, an Assembly committee says.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee disapproved yesterday in a split voice vote a proposal to issue personalized plates of any six letters or numbers for $30 above current plate cost.

The Motor Vehicle Department said the state could make $350,000 a year profit. The California Highway Patrol disliked the proposal.

More Funds For War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed a $4,548,200,000 Vietnam war supplemental appropriation bill today.

Cong Unhappy With Failure To Kill Star

SAIGON (UPI)—The Viet Cong leadership has rebuked some of its Saigon terrorists for failing to kill Bob Hope and his entertainment troupe during their Christmas tour of Vietnam two years ago, it was disclosed today.

A captured secret Viet Cong document released today complained that the Viet Cong bombs intended for Hope exploded 10 minutes before the Hope group arrived.

The rebuke came in a general criticism of terror acts that failed by the "Urban Sapper Movement," the Viet Cong terror squads which plant bombs in the cities of South Vietnam. The document was captured by the U.S. 25th Infantry Division Feb. 6.

It was especially critical of the terror attack on the Brinks bachelors officers quarters in the heart of Saigon on Christmas Eve in 1964. The attack killed two Americans, injured 50 Americans and 13 Vietnamese.

"If the bomb exploded at the scheduled time, it might have killed an additional number of guests who came to see the entertainment," the document said.

The document criticized the sapper squads for failing to assess enemy countermeasures, for bad timing and for other errors including a waterborne attack in which one swimmer "made too much noise."

Some of the attacks criticized were the bombing of the U.S. Embassy March 30, 1965, when two Americans and 18 Vietnamese were killed and 145 persons injured, and the bombing of the My Canh floating restaurant in Saigon where 27 Vietnamese, 12 Americans, two Filipinos, one Frenchman and one German were killed and 80 persons injured.

MARIN BLACKOUTS IN STORMY NIGHT

100-Mile Winds Lash Tam; 2.6 Inches Of Rain Pound Hamilton Air Force Base

Gale-force winds gusting to 100 miles an hour whipped Marin last night and early today, bringing trees down across power lines and blacking out lower sections of the county.

Some power cuts lasted no more than two hours, said Leonard Whipple of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., and all electric service had been resumed

Heavy rain showers dumped more than two inches in some parts of Marin but no major flooding was reported. Winds of up to 100 miles per hour were recorded atop Mount Tamalpais.

Sewage began coming out of manholes on Grand Avenue in San Rafael — virtually in front of the county health department building — during the rain this morning. The same thing happened during January rains, causing County Sanitarian William L. Desmond to call for a complete overhaul of San Rafael's sewer system.

The wind and rain began to ease off during he morning and the U.S. Weather Bureau was expecting skies to clear this afternoon. A 10 per cent chance of rain was predicted for tomorrow.

Whipple said he had PG&E crews out around the county from midnight onward.

About 10 customers at Point Reyes Station were without electricity from 6:30 p.m. yesterday to 7:30 a.m. today due to a downed line, said Whipple, but other outages ranged from a few seconds to two hours.

Minor trouble was reported in Mill Valley, San Rafael, San Anselmo, and Fairfax.

Bigges headache for crews was a break in voltage over which they had no control, he said. A 230,000-volt transmission line developed a fault near Sacramento at 4:39 a.m., knocking out some Marin substations for from 45 seconds to about three minutes.

Electric switches at Hamilton Air Force Base failed to respond after a 35-second break and power there was out for an hour until 5:39 a.m. today. Casualties were early morning risers dependent on electric alarm

Campaign Rumor Denied By Lodge

SAIGON (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, the Republican vice presidential candidate in 1960, says he plans to take no part in the 1966 campaign, even though he is leaving his Saigon post.

"I'm not planning to get in the campaign at all," Lodge told newsmen.

Asked about reports that he had been approached to advise Gov. George Romney of Michigan on Vietnam policy, Lodge replied: "I do not intend to get involved."

Lodge declined to say when he would return to the United States, saying: "I'll go to Guam (for President Johnson's conference on Vietnam next week), come back here, then I don't know."

Kent Island Gift Strings Revealed: Ranch Mortgage

By ROBERT STREBEIGH

The much- publicized gift of Kent Island in Bolinas Lagoon to Marin County is more dream than fact and may take years to become reality, the Independent-Journal learned today.

Last month Nature Conservancy, a national conservation organization, announced it had purchased the land from Mrs. Thomas T. Kent Jr. for $85,000 and deeded it to the county for preservation as a wildlife refuge.

The only money that has been paid, however, is $10,000 down payment to Mrs. Kent by the Marin Audubon Society, which has also pledged itself to raise an additional $50,000 and has given a mortgage on the Audubon Canyon Ranch for that amount to Nature Conservancy, Huey D. Johnson, western director of Nature Conservancy, confirmed.

Another $10,000 has been put in escrow by the Marin Conservation League, which has pledged itself to raise $25,000 toward the purchase.

Nature Conservancy is legally obligated to pay the full amount, Johnson said, but is relying on other conservation groups to come up with the money. He said the purpose of the mortgage on Audubon Canyon Ranch is mainly "to keep future directors in line over the years" should they become less inclined than the present board to raise the money.

Johnson said it is hoped the $85,000 will be paid to Mrs. Kent within three years, but acknowledged it might take longer.

Until the 110-acre island is paid for, it remains Mrs. Kent's property.

Asst. County Counsel Thomas Hendricks today said the county will not accept the island until it is unemcumbered and its title clear.

Johnson said Nature Conservancy would normally have completed the transaction without all this uncertain fund-raising activity, but that "Nature did not have $85,000 in its loan fund." In fact, he said, his organization has pledged $10,000, but "will have to raise it."

He said the Sierra Club has offered to join the fund-raising and expressed certainty of succuess. "As conservationists, we are in this thing together," he declared.

The surprise announcement of the "gift" on Feb. 14 by Johnson, a resident of Mill Valley, brought charges that the plan had been hurriedly put together to block a Bolinas Harbor District plan for development of the island along lines proposed by Mill Valley architect Norman T. Gilroy.

Gilroy raised the question of whether the county would "in effect assume obligation if the subscriptions (by conservationists) aren't forthcoming."

The board of supervisors on Feb. 14, unanimously accepted the "gift" of the island, overriding a suggestion by Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen that a public hearing be held since it would affect the Bolinas Harbor District plan.

Though the money will be raised by such local groups as the Marin Conservation League, the terms of the proposed gift to the county provide that title to the island shall revert to Nature Conservancy if the use is not restricted to wildlife preservation and allied uses.

PERRY RUSSO
Tells of hypnosis

Key Plot Witness Admits Hypnosis

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Perry Raymond Russo testified today he was hypnotized three times on Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's instructions before he told a court hearing he witnessed businessman Clay Shaw conspiring to kill President Kennedy.

"Have you ever heard of a post-hypnotic suggestion?" Shaw's attorney, F. Irvin Dymond, asked him.

Dymond drew from Russo in a full day of cross-examination yesterday an admission that he once underwent psychiatric treatment and that he did not recognize Lee Harvey Oswald as one of the "conspirators" he knew as "Leon Oswald" for three years.

Today, Russo said he underwent the hypnosis sessions between Feb. 24, when he first got in touch with Garrison, and last Monday. Next day, Shaw's preliminary hearing began on Garrison's accusations that he conspired to kill Kennedy.

After Dymond's question about post-hypnotic suggestion, the attorney explained he wanted to know whether the hypnotist had instructed Russo to do anything after the session was over.

"He told me to be very relaxed and come out with a smile on my face," Russo said.

Dymond also bore in today on Russo's statements that he did not know Oswald was the "beatnik" he knew as Leon Oswald until a police artist on Garrison's instructions drew whiskers on a picture of the presidential assassin last Feb. 27.

Russo said he had always been haunted by the thought that Oswald might be the man he allegedly saw conspiring with Shaw and pilot David Ferrie in Ferrie's apartment in mid-September of 1963.

Russo said the hypnosis was conducted by Dr. Esmond A. Fatter under the supervision of

Sniper Fires At Patrol Car, Deputy Fires Back

A sniper fired a single shot at two sheriff's deputies in a Marin City patrol car early today, then escaped after one of the officers slammed three return shots into the darkend hillside.

No one was hit. The bullet shattered the car's right rear window at head level two or three feet behind the deputies.

It was the third time one of the pair Gary Bartolotti, has been a target of a shot in Marin City.

Bartolotti was riding with Deputy Raymond Von Savoye, who was driving north on Cole Drive when the shot rang out at 3:06 a.m.

Von Savoye halted the vehicle, he reported, and Barolotti fired the return shots into the dark in the direction of the gunfire. The two officers then searched the hillside between Cole Drive and Highway 101 on foot, without success.

Lt. Ellis Seibert, in charge os the southern Marin sheriff's subtation, said it was impossible to estimate the distance the sniper was from the car when he fired.

Last Feb. 26, Bartolotti and Deputy Richard C. Russell were fired upon in their patrol car in the 300 block of Drake Avenue. The slug hit the upper part of a door jam.

Bartolotti also was shot at several months earlier. That slug struck the patrol car's door.

HARLEM CANDIDATE — Mrs. Lucille Picket Williams has been named by GOP leaders to compete against Adam Clayton Powell for the congressional seat from which he was ousted. (UPI Telephoto)

Woman Gets Task Of Fighting Powell

NEW YORK (AP) — Lucille Picket Williams, a 50-year-old grandmother, has been given the Republican task of opposing Democrat Adam Clayton Powell in a special congressional election April 11 because she wants to "preserve the two-party system."

For 20 years, she has been working for the Republican party while holding a series of jobs ranging from a stock girl at Sak's Fifth Avenue to teaching beauty culture at the YWCA.

'I'M DETERMINED'

"I am a determined woman," she says, noting that there appears to be overwhelming popular support for Powell in the Harlem community. She says she has no fear that the people will turn against her as they did on James H. Meredith when he agreed to oppose Powell as the Republicans first choice, then withdrew.

"I have no fear of the people up here," she says. "I've spent the best years of my life here, 22 years. I've worked hard for the two-party system. I think it's important for people who don't want to vote for Adam to have a choice.

A week ago when Meredith had declared his intention to run against Powell, Mrs. Williams was determined to stop him, because she was sure he would wreck the small toehold the Republicans have managed to get in Harlem.

Two days ago, she went into a caucus of Republican leaders determined to convince her party it should endorse Powell, as it did in 1958, when she supported him.

"I'm not foolish enough to think I can win," she told the caucus which was considering her as the candidate to replace Meredith.

Today, as the formally endorsed candidate of the Republicans, she no longer will say she doesn't think she can beat Powell.

'A LEGEND'

She says she is determined to "do the very best I can" even though she realizes "Adam Clayton Powell is a legend in this community."

Several Harlem Democratic leaders appeared inclined toward simply dismissing her as a serious candidate.

A handsome Negro woman—5 feet 10 inches tall in her stocking feet—Mrs. Williams is little known outside of Harlem, where she has been a co-leader of the GOP in the 74th Assembly District for 20 years.

She unsuccessfully ran for the state assembly in 1952 but rolled up a bigger numerical vote in Harlem than did the presidential winner, Dwight D. Eisenhower. She also was an unsuccessful candidate for the state assembly in 1954.

For the past eight years, Mrs. Williams has been serving as secretary to the Cosmetology Advisory Committee of the state of New York.

No one was hurt in the accident which occurred about 10 p.m. but three diesel locomotives and one freight car were derailed. The front engine wound up half - submerged in Sacramento River.

Congressmen Plan To Quiz FCC Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission appears headed for bruising battles with two House committees over pay television and a controversial $2-billion broadcasting merger.

The House Small Business Committee already has launched preliminary studies of the FCC's approval earlier this year of the merger between American Broadcasting Companies Inc., and International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

BOTH ISSUES

The House Commerce Committee appears poised to look into both the giant ABC-IT&T merger, biggest in broadcasting history, and a proposal being considered by the FCC to authorize pay television throughout the country.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said today in an interview he has not yet decided whether the full committee or one of its subcommittees will look into the matter.

Staggers heads an investigations subcommittee, while Rep. Torgert H. MacDonald , D-Mass., heads a power and communications subcommittee with jurisdiction over FCC affairs.

HYDE ACCUSED

The pay television issue erupted earlier this week when Rosel H. Hyde, the FCC chairman, told the Commerce Committee that a three-member commission subcommittee expected to report within a month on the proposal for nationwide pay-TV.

Staggers accused Hyde of trying to put pay television into effect without first trying to get consent of Congress.

"Maybe we better have some hearings next week and have you all up and see what your thinking is," he told Hyde.

The FCC chairman told Staggers the proposal would permit establishment of nationwide pay television, a question which has been before the FCC for nearly 15 years.

'A FAST ONE'

"This is amazing to me," said Staggers, "I think you are really trying to pull a fast one on the Congress and this nation."

He told Hyde and the six other commissioners: "You ought not to even put it out until this committee has a chance to look at what is going on."

"We would be happy to have the committee's views on the proposed rules," said another commissioner, Kenneth A. Cox.

Staggers was less definite when interviewed as to when the committee would look into the matter. MacDonald said he also was interested in the pay television issue, as well as the ABC-IT&T merger.

Recovery Held

TUNIS (AP) — A French heart specialist attending President Habib Bourguiba said today the 63-year-old president should have a rapid and complete recovery from the heart attack he suffered Tuesday night.

Russ Supersonic Airliner Sparks Scolding For U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Russia has been secretly flying a supersonic transport (SST) for more than a year, according to the Air Force Association (AFA).

The AFA also charged yesterday at its annual convention that the United States was lagging behind the Soviet Union in strategic military technology.

The organization urged President Johnson and Congress to authorize fullspeed development of an American SST.

"Whereas, a Soviet prototype supersonic transport has been flying secretly for more than a year, and... the British-French transport is scheduled to undergo flight testing a year from now... a fullscale American SST program" should begin at once to minimize foreign lead time," according to an AFA policy statement.

The success or failure of the program, the association said, affects "this country's prestige, the balance of payments, our defensive posture and other national interests."

The AFA also said Russia was "far ahead" of this nation in its knowledge of how to neutralize long-range missiles before they reach their targets.

The group warned that the United States might face either a surprise nuclear attack or nuclear blackmail.

The policy statement called on the United States to abandon its "mental straitjacket" and proceed with further technological development of offensive and defense weapons.

San Rafael attorney Michael Dufficy, former deputy district attorney, has been elected chairman of the Marin County Romney Committee.

The committee will work with a statewide organization called RISE (Romney In Sixty Eight) to push Gov. George Romney of Michigan for President.

Reuther Plans Pullout Help

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Walter P. Reuther plans to ask representatives of 200,000 skilled tradesmen in the United Auto Workers for endorsement of his threat to pull the 1.4-million-member union out of the AFL-CIO.

Unless there is a last-minute change in plans, delegates to the UAW's 12th international skilled trades conference will be asked to support Reuther's charge that the labor movement is "vegetating" under leadership of the AFL-CIO's president, George Meany, 73.

The conference opened today.

A vote most likely will be called for tomorrow or Saturday among 1,300 delegates from practically every UAW local union in the United States and Canada.

Hold-Up Man Gets The Brush

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A gunman wearing a stocking cap failed to get the red carpet when he tried to hold up the Red Carpet bar, police said.

Instead, co-owner Mrs. Florence Hamilton brushed aside the intruder's resolver, which went off and fired one shot. It missed and the man left penniless and in a hurry, she told police.

"It all happened so fast that I didn't get scared until it was all over," she exclaimed of the Wednesday night incident at the bar, located near the state fairgrounds.

Frederick L. Ullner Is Sued For Divorce

Frederick L. Ullner, organizer of the Committee for Abolition of Capital Punishment and a self-styled leader of the Conservative Action Committee, yesterday was sued for divorce on grounds of drunkenness and cruelty.

The suit, filed in Marin Superior Court by Nancy L. Ullner, 37, alleges he twice threatened her and their children with physical violence, and threatened to kill her if she sought police aid.

Ullner once caused the children to get hysterical and run from the house, Mrs. Ullner's complaint claims.

It says she and the children have been residing with a neighbor because Ullner refuses to stay away from the family home at 206 LaBrea Way, Santa Venetia.

The complaint claims the 47-year-old Ullner, former owner of a Larkspur television shop, is now unemployed and drawing $65 a month unemployment compensation.

It asks, however, that he be ordered to support Mrs. Ullner and the couple's two children, Frederick L II, 9, and Mercedes Loret, 6, and requests a division of community property.

The Ullners married April 16, 1955, in Sparks, Nev., and separated on March 5, the complaint says.

Judge Thomas F. Keating signed an order restraining Ullner from staying at the residence or threatening and annoying any of his family, pending further proceedings in the suit.

Ullner has been identified with various causes. A strong supporter of Barry Goldwater for President in 1964, he organized the "26 Mill Club" after Goldwater's defeat. He initially backed Ronald Reagen for governor last year, then reported himself disillusioned with Reagan's policies after he failed to gain a position on a party policy committee.

At one time he attempted to rally public support of Hell's Angels after several members of the motorcycle-riding organization were arrested for assaulting peace marchers in Oakland.

There were 3,650,000 births in the United States during 1966, says the Bureau of the Census.

British Money Taken By Thief

Approximately $230, including 33 pounds 10 shillings in British currency, was stolen last night from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Nielsen at 137 Spring Grove Avenue, San Rafael, police reported.

The Nielsens discovered the loss on returning from bowling. The money was hidden in several places around the house.

Police found no signs of forced entry but reported indications entry may have been through an unlocked bathroom window.

942 'Yes' Votes For Library Bonds

A typographical error in yesterday's Independent-Journal dropped the March 7 vote on Sausalito's $250,000 library bond measure to 92 "yes" votes. The correct vote was 942 yes to 747 no, less than the two-thirds approval necessary to pass the measure.

Also incorrect was the time of Monday's meeting of the library board. Instead of meeting as usual at 8 p.m., the board will meet at 7:30 p.m. in city hall to discuss plans for a new library.

'Clean' Bomb Model Built, Swedish Newspaper Claims

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Swedish scientists have designed and built a model of the world's first "practically clean" nuclear weapon, the newspaper Dagens Nyheter said today.

The weapon if built to full scale and exploded would produce a great deal less deadly radio-active fallout than current nuclear arms, the newspaper said.

Official sources delinced to comment on the report.

Neutral Sweden does not have nuclear weapons. The government has indicated it will not produce them under present conditions. However Swedish industry and science is regarded as fully able to produce the nuclear arms within a few years if the government so ordered.

The model "clean" weapon emerged from studies at the Swedish Defense Research Institute (FOA), the newspaper said. The research is designed to find ways to soften the impact of a nuclear attack.

Scientists Sten Andersson and Bo Holmberg developed the "clean" model in this work, Dagens Nyheter said. It said the pair "proved it is a practical possibility to reduce the condensation around the fireball in a nuclear explosion by chemical means."

The reduction would send the explosion's radio-active particles flowing upwards because of their light weight and not send them directly down to earth, the newspaper said.

"At a high altitude the particles will begin to sink again but before they have reached the ground they have lost a considerable amount of radio-activity," the newspaper said.

"The particles thus are not as dangerous as they would have been if they sunk directly to the ground after the explosion," it said.

UOP Suspends Classes For Viet War Discussion

STOCKTON (AP)—All classes at the University of the Pacific were suspended yesterday for an all-day pro and con discussion of the Vietnam war.

Dr. William F. Byron, a visiting sociology professor, said the UOP administration agreed that "we should shut down the university for the day so that no student would leave feeling that the university had not brought his attention to the most important issue of his future."

Called the All University Study Day on U.S. Foreign Policy in East Asia, the event began with dove and hawk addresses in the gym, then broke into 91 separate discussion groups.

Students and faculty of the 3,000-student university, armed with voluminous fact-sheets supporting differing positions, deposed, argued, held forth, orated—peacefully. Passions were held to the academic level.

Reagan Names Four To Youth Authority

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has announced the appointment of four persons to the California youth authority board, posts which pay $20,500 a year.

Roger C. Chandler, 40, Yuba City, and Julio Gonzales, 50, Pico Rivera, fill new positions on the board created by the 1966 legislature. Capt. William L. Richey, 51, of the Los Angeles police department, and Christopher R. Byrne, 62, replace Robert R. Figone, San Francisco, and Juan D. Acevedo of Montebello.

Employee Spots Late Truck Rental

An alert employee of a San Francisco truck rental firm spotted an overdue truck in Novato yesterday, and as a result, a man wanted in both San Francisco and San Mateo was jailed.

Booked into Marin County jail on a no-bail warrant from San Francisco charging grand theft and receiving stolen property, and an $1,100 bail warrant on auto theft form San Mateo County, was Otis LeRoy Williams of San Francisco.

Novato police stopped the truck at Reichert and Grant Avenues a few minutes after it had been reported at Seventh Street and and Grant Avenue by David Charles Miller III of 40 Vista Avenue, Novato, an employee of Avis Car Rentals in San Francisco.

Stall Critically Injures Driver

A San Rafael accountant was in critical condition today in Marin General Hospital with extensive head and internal injuries suffered when his car stalled at a Novato highway intersection and was hit broadside by another auto.

Leslie Wilfred Simmons, 57, of 520 Canal Street entered Highway 101 from Lamont Avenue at 10:15 p.m. yesterday to make a left turn northbound when his car stalled, the California Highway Patrol reported. It was hit broadside by a car driven by 18-year-old Louis E. Butti of 1861 Virginia Avenue, Novato.

Dennis Coleman, 24, of 417 Turney Street, Sausalito, a passenger with Simmons, was treated at Novato General Hospital for head cuts and held overnight for observation.

Offramp Crash Hurts 3 Women

A young driver and her two passengers from Hamilton Air Force Base were injured in an auto accident at the Nave Drive off-ramp from Highway 101 at 10 p.m. yesterday.

Carolyn Jean DeBois, 19, of 98 Selfridge Way was turning the car into Nave Drive when it went off the highway and hit a power pole, according to California Highway Patrol. She was treated at the Hamilton Air Force Base hospital for fractures of left ankle and kneecap.

Her passengers, Phyllis A. DeBois, 18, of the same address and Christine F. Pricer, 18, of 163 East Kelly Drive, were treated at the hospital for minor cuts.

In Fair Condition

Delmar L. Coulter, 62, of Napa, collapsed from an apparent heart attack while attending the funeral yesterday of Dean De La Montanya Jr. at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Coulter was listed in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

PLOT

Coroner Nicholas J. Chetta.

Presumably, Russo was hypnotized to determine whether he was telling the truth about attending a party in Ferrie's apartment in mid-September of 1963 at which he said he heard Ferrie, Oswald and Shaw do the plotting.

A New Orleans grand jury also resumed today its own investigation of the assassination—or perhaps Garrison's probe of it. The grand jury subpoenaed two men, including attorney Dean Andrews who once told the Warren Commission he was approached to defend Oswald the day after the assassination.

Dymond also asked Russo today if he had ever jumped or threatened to jump from a window while attending Colton Junior High School in New Orleans or had tried to take his life on any other occasion.

"Absolutely not," Russo declared.

Russo said he saw Ferrie four or five times after the assassination, but did not discuss Kennedy's death, or the alleged assassination plot.

He referred to Ferrie at that time as a "broken man" who was developing an antagonism toward authority.

The grand jury also subpoenaed a man shown on the summons as "Gordon Novelle" of New Orleans today—a new name in the investigation. Sources said the correct spelling was Norvelle.

Garrison himself subpoenaed James Lewallen, a former roommate of Ferrie's.

Collision Sends Car Off Freeway

A San Rafael woman escaped with minor injuries yesterday at 3:20 p.m. when her car collided with another on Highway 101, crashed through the highway fence, and hit still another car on Francisco Boulevard near the San Rafael corporation yard.

California Highway Patrol reported a northbound car driven by Mildred McCann Thomas, 51, of 60 East Crescent Drive, San Rafael, changed lanes on the highway and hit the rear of a car driven by Corrine Mary Taylor, 55, of 148 Dominican Drive, San Rafael. Then Mrs. Thomas's car went through the chain-link fence and collided with a car on Francisco Boulevard driven by Larry Rudolph Leska, 26, of 1348 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Thomas was treated for facial injuries at Marin General Hospital.

Personnel Advisers Agree On No-Policy

The Marin County Personnel Commission today agreed that temporary promotions and resultant salary increases should be treated individually, rather than try to formulate a blanket county policy.

Supervisors recently asked the commission to study the problem in a case where a clerk was taking on higher responsibilities due to sickness in the municipal court office.

Young Cyclist Hurt By Novato Woman's Auto

A 6-year-old Novato boy lost three teeth yesterday when hit by a car while riding his bicycle across Sutro Avenue at the entrance ot Pleasant Valley School.

Michael Eric Mehrer of 3 Clarita Court was reported in good condition today by his mother, Mrs. Albert Mehrer.

He was hit at 9:20 a.m. by a southbound car driven by Mrs. George Barnwell of 842 Sutro Avenue, Novato, according to police. Mrs. Barnwell said she thought she was going about 15 miles an hour at the time of the accident and had applied the brakes and swerved but could not avoid the boy.

Police reported that Michael had just passed in front of a stopped northbound car driven by Louis Earl Baldwin of 10 Trish Drive, Novato.

License Charge Jails Driver

A 20-year-old Forest Knolls man was sentenced yesterday in Northwest Marin Justice Court to 15 days in the county jail for driving with a suspended driver's license.

The man, Richard Lee Wagner, was stopped on the Point Reyes-Hicks Valley Road March 4 by sheriff's deputies after refuse was thrown from his car. Subsequent investigation turned up the suspension of his license.

He had served two days in the county jail for the same offense in February after being cited Jan. 30 to municipal court in San Rafael.

One Injured In Crosswalk

One pedestrian received minor injuries and another was uninjured when both were hit by a car in a crosswalk on Tamalpais Drive, near Lakeside Drive in Corte Madera yesterday at 9 p.m.

Francis Blue, 22, of San Francisco, was treated at Marin General Hospital for bruises on her left leg. Imson Stutzman, 25, of 12 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, was uninjured.

Barbara Anne Noblitt, 28, of 327 Summit Avenue, Corte Madera, was driver of the car, police reported. The accident happened during heavy rain.

Novato Firemen Set Annual Fete

The annual Novato firemen's benefit dance, sponsored by the Novato Firemen's Association, will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday at the IDESI Halls at Machin and Sweetser avenues, Novato.

Tino Granucci and his five-piece orchestra will be featured in one hall. In the other hall, drinks and games will be featured.

This is the only fund-raising event of the year for the firemen's sick and benefit fund.

Second Deck For Span Is Held Urgent

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Redwood Empire Association said today a need for a second deck on Golden Gate Bridge is urgent.

An association report said the structure was designed for a maximum annual traffic of 25 million cars and last year volume reached 27.8 million crossings.

If volume grows at 7 per cent, the report said volume would hit 38 million annually in five years.

Bridge directors agreed in principle 17 months ago on construction of a second deck, and the association blamed delays on San Francisco political leaders, saying:

"Opposition, chiefly on the San Francisco side, has stymied progress toward improved approach routes, without which the new deck would be almost useless."

Welfare Budget Pared By Bruce

A county welfare budget of $2,089,661 for next fiscal year was pared down today on order of County Administrator Alan Bruce.

Welfare Director Betty L. Presley had asked for 28 new positions in her department, an increase in staff of 28 per cent. In a lengthy session with Bruce and other county staff members, Miss Presley agreed to drop five positions from her request. Bruce cut nine more, saying that he did not think the case loads would be as high as Miss Presley believed.

Her proposed budget was up considerably from the $1,718,876 budgeted for the current fiscal year. The 28 new positions alone would have added $190,000.

Merit System Is Recommended

The Marin County Safety Commission today recommended a system of merits and demerits for employees, with a provision that too many demerits for preventable accidents could lead to dismissal.

County ordinance already provides for restricting pay increases and dismissal, but there is no demerit system to back it up.

The commission also agreed to seek a budget for the coming fiscal year of $850.

Bell Piers Fund

A sum of $25,000 was allocated today by the California Highway Commission for construction to support the bell piers of the San Rafael - Richmond Bridge. The money will be used for additional backfill to protect the steel piles.

Richmond Man Feared Drowned

A Richmond man who set out from Loch Lomond Yacht Harbor in San Rafael yesterday to tow a boat to Richmond was feared drowned today in San Pablo Bay.

The Coast Guard said James Peterson, operator of a Richmond machine repair shop, was aboard his 28 foot cruiser towing a friend's disabled boat from San Rafael, when the towline broke.

His son Steven, 8, aboard the second boat, was found safe, wet and forlorn, hours later near Redrock. He told his rescuers that the towline had snapped during the windy voyage. His father tried to maneuver his boat near his son's craft and then dived in and tried to swim to his son.

He disappeared beneath the waves.

The Coast Guard had three cutters and a helicopter searching the choppy waters of the bay yesterday evening and the search resumed today, but with no success.

The 28-foot cruiser Peterson was towing with his own craft is owned by Ralph D. Lewis of South San Francisco.

Walter's Gallery Manager Jailed

Walter Connolly, manager of Walter's Gallery at 44 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, was jailed last night by Fairfax police for living in the third floor attic above the gallery.

Connolly was charged with violating the Marin building code by living in a building unfit for habitation. Connolly claimed today that he had been given until March 18 to move from the attic, but police and the city building department said he had been ordered to move by last Monday.

Bail was set at $56. Connolly was still in jail today.

'SCISSORS SPAN' GOES TO WAR

U.S. tanks engaged in Operation Junction City in South Vietnam's War Zone C make use of a portable "scissors bridge" because Viet Cong blew up the regular span across a river in the zone. Strawberry Pool Fate Still Far From Solved

By FRANK FARRARA

The Strawberry Recreation District and the Strawberry Swim Club are still on a collision course over operation of the Strawberry Pool.

Directors have voted to terminate the club's lease and take over operation of the pool April 5, while the club intends to start operating the pool March 21.

LONG PARLEY

There was long discussion about the moral and legal aspects of the clash at a special meeting of the district board last night, byt when it was over the impasse remained.

Board Chairman Clarence G. Bush contended that the board has never refused to enter into arbitration, but has asked for clarification of the points to be submitted for arbitration.

Last month Leighton Hatch, attorney for the Strawberry Swim Club, asked for arbitration by the American Arbitration Association in San Francisco on the lease termination issue.

Stanley Anderson, secretary of the Strawberry Swim Club, said the club intends to operate the pool starting "the first day of spring."

One resident contended that the district would be "taking over a $60,000 pool for $20,000" and members would be out $40,000. "I'd be out $190" (his membership fee), he said.

LEASE ENDED

Directors terminated the club's 20-year-lease after five years, claiming the club failed to make its rental payment Jan. 1. The club contends that it was willing to pay the rent if the district would go into arbitration on several points including the balance due, architect's fees, and district liability to the club for use to the pool.

Bush said the pool is on district land paid for by taxpayers, yet the club has not made an effort to encourage district residents to join.

"We didn't want to run this pool, but we weren't happy," he said. "The people of the district should have been encouraged."

One swim blub member said new residents have been reluctant to pay for membership recently because they are faced with losing the club.

If the membership fee were lowered, "a greater number of families would be represented," Bush said.

'PRIVATE CLUB'

Anderson said he didn't know how many charter members of the club were residents of the district. "We have no reason to want to know that figure," he said. "It's a private club."

Bush contended the board "is obligated to the taxpayers."

Director Arthur R. Senter said the club has antagonized district residents by depriving them of guest privileges at the pool which are available to people outside the district. He suggested that the club reduce its membership fee to $20.

James Garner, a swim club member, charged that the district board has not "actively cooperated to try to seek a solution."

ATTORNEYS ARGUE

Stephen H. Kaufmann, attorney for the district, and William Kiriakis, a San Francisco attorney who said he was representing Superior Court Judge Joseph Karesh of San Francisco and working with Hatch, engaged in several lengthy legal arguments.

Kaufmann said he didn't know if it were an appropriate time to debate, since the board had received a demand for arbitration and a claim for $50,000 in damages filed by Hatch.

CLUB'S CLAIMS

Hatch, in the claim, charged the district unlawfully solicited club members to donate their memberships to the district, causing loss of membership values, dues and assessment payments, and inability to continue operation of the club.

Kaufmann contended the claim was defective on two points.

Directors also discussed the $23,000 bond election in a special district May 2 to finance dredging of the Strawberry Channel, but took no action.

Forensics Club Competition Set

Seven members of the Redwood High School Forensics Club will compete in a qualifying speech tournament at Daly City April 15. Winners are eligible for the state speech tournament.

Competing will be Peter Birdsall, Scott Hansen, Jane Kieran, Roger Klemm, Louise Nemschoff, Judy Mock, and Karen Smoot.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM FOR EASTER

San Francisco: Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight or your waistline is larger than 32 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga.

Father Watches His Son Perish

BRAGANCA, Portugal (AP) — Portuguese Air Force Lt. Antonio Marcolino was stunting his T-6 training plane over his father's house yesterday when he hit a tree.

The plane crashed in flames and Marcolino, 21, died in his father's arms.

His copilot, Lt. Francisco Afonso, was reported in serious condition.

Marin To Join Bay Police Network If Budget Allows

Marin will enter the police information network covering eight other Bay Area counties if the fiscal 1968 budget for the county communications center discussed at the Civic Center yesterday is adopted by supervisors.

Mansfield Lewis, director of the communications department, estimated it will cost $12,250 next year to join the system.

The main computer in Alameda County collects outstanding warrants in its memory banks so that police in member counties can learn quickly what warrants are outstanding against persons.

Lewis said the county communication headquarters will operate with an International Business Machine 1050 that will relay inquiries to the main computer in Alameda County. Getting the outstanding warrants on file will require special forms from police departments in the county.

County Administrator Alan Bruce, reviewing the budget proposal with Lewis yesterday, asked if the county should try to charge the cities for the service. Lewis thought not, saying it was important to have all cities take part and a charge might discourage some.

Lewis proposed a total budget of $239,024 for the coming fiscal year, slightly above the $238,591 budgeted for this year. But his figure was reduced by a budgetary change which will charge more telephone and other communication costs against other departments.

Expo Grounds Under Study

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Whether or not the show should go on is being studied today by a Reagan administration task force reviewing the feasibility of the $32 million California Exposition and Fair.

The eight - member group heard a long list of witnesses testify during a hearing yesterday. Most said the project, sometimes described as a "Disneyland-North," was feasible and should be completed.

Gov. Ronald Reagan ordered the review and held up construction funds pending the reassessment after doubts were expressed about the fiscal soundness of the fair and exposition.

Pesky Mosquito Study Is Costly

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The pesky mosquito, sometimes a carrier of diseases, but more often just a plain irritant, will cost the American taxpayer at least $50 million this year.

Dr. Harry D. Pratt, of the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., said yesterday the $50 million will be spent on research, eradication and control of the mosquito.

He said that federal, state and local governments soon would be spending a total of $100 million annually for expanded programs.

ALL THE COMFORTS OF . . . Driver Tom Bryant and San Quentin Prison vocational supervisor Lester Ecke give "patient" Daniel Wakefield a ride in unusual ambulance which prison auto shop made from an accident-battered 1959 Renault Dauphine.

THE PRISON'S PRIDE

San Quentin Convicts Create Ambulance

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

It all started when a San Quentin correctional officer was taken ill suddenly in the lower yard.

Concerned at how long it took to get the guard to a hospital bed on a hand-pushed stretcher vehicle, the inmates decided to do something about it.

Out of an accident-battered 1959 Renault Dauphine, the men of the prison's vocational automotive workshop have fashioned a fast, streamlined, stretcher-carrying ambulance.

POOLED SKILL

It is the pride of the vocational auto shop and the auto body and fender shop, which pooled skill and resources to transform a wreck worth $5 as junk into a vehicle of almost revolutionary design.

Instructor John Jansoone explained that the men had no plans from which to work except their own rough drawings.

"A couple of those were ridiculous, but we eventually hit on this idea and it turned out very well," he said.

The men worked through channels with the prison hospital staff to find out what the requirements would be, then set to the task of building and rebuilding.

Then they added innovations. To guarantee operation in all weather, a trickle charger is built in to keep the battery fully powered. When the ambulance is garaged, a heater is hooked up to keep the engine at 150-degree temperature.

TWO-TONE HORN

The finishing touch was a two-tone horn, similar to the type found on French police cars and guaranteed to make the vehicle's presence known as it speeds accident patients to medical aid.

It took the inmates four weeks and $142 to build. Said Jansoone: "Downtown, it would have cost several thousands of dollars to make a vehicle of this type."

"Working on this project has been valuable training for the men," he said — men like inmates Tom Bryant, Ernest Sykes and Charles Aday, who did the custom work on the ambulance.

STATE VEHICLES

There are always several state-owned vehicles being rebuilt and maintained in the automotive workshops, which are under direction of Lester Ecke, supervisor of vocational training at the prison.

"The purpose is not only to keep the men busy but to offer valuable training, equipping them for work on the outside," said Ecke.

Courses in mechanical engineering take four years and 8,000 man-hours to qualify the men for journeyman status. Even if an inmate doesn't stay around long enough to work the hours needed, the instruction is such he can continue it outside at College of Marin or some other educational facility.

Jack Berry, 28, convicted of robbery in Orange County, intends to make the workshops pay off for him.

"I've worked here three years and have 6,000 hours plus credits towards my diploma," he said. "This vocational training gives a man a reason for living, a target to aim for.

CITES CAREER

"When I was about 19, I spent three years in prison and did nothing. I wasted the time and I was back again inside eight months after I was released.

"Only this time, I decided my life was going to be different. . . . I was going to make something of myself."

Berry said he has a sponsor and hopes to have a 51 per cent interest in his own small automotive business when he leaves San Quentin. He is vice chairman of the Inmates Vocational Trades Council.

"I think the majority of the men agree, the apprenticeship scheme at San Quentin is a very beneficial one," he said.

Judging from the new silver-blue ambulance parked outside in the sun, the scheme was proving beneficial all around.

Silveira Ranch Vote Unanimous

The vote Tuesday to change supervisors' action of February, 1966, on the agricultural preserve for the Silveira home ranch was unanimous.

A story in yesterday's Independent-Journal incorrectly said that supervisors Peter H. Behr and Thomas T. Storer abstained because they were not present when the preserve was established.

The vote Tuesday put an 1,800-foot wide strip, originally excluded, into the preserve, giving the Silveiras a reduction of about $1.1 million in total appraised value for next fiscal year.

County Faces Suit

The Belvedere Lagoon Property Owners Association has filed a $250,000 claim against Marin County, claiming siltation and storm flooding in the lagoon caused by a slide the county public works department has allowed to remain at old Mar West Street and Tiburon Boulevard, diverting flood waters into the lagoon.

Arraignment On Worthless Checks

Robert Allyn Voll, 44, of Hawaii, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on two counts of possession of checks with intent to defraud Myers Shell service station in Mill Valley last Jan. 11-12. He is to enter plea at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

He is also scheduled for sentencing in Marin Superior Court on April 5 for passing six worthless checks totaling $246 in Corte Madera last March, April and May.

Reagan Firing Plans Alarm Both Parties

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Democrats today charged Gov. Ronald Reagan's employee layoffs in mental hospitals will return California to the "snake pit" era while Republicans cautioned against cutbacks in services.

News that the Republican governor was eliminating almost 4,000 jobs, mainly in mental health, struck GOP legislative leaders without warning and some of them reacted with unexpectedly strong words.

Assembly Minority Leader Robert T. Monagan, R - Tracy, said the governor should have consulted members of his own GOP legislative team before announcing the biggest rollback of state workers in about 25 years.

Republicans with hospitals in their districts said they will support the governor only if mental care quality isn't hurt.

"If, however, the cuts in any way impair the quality of the program in the state mental hospitals, I will fight them with all the power at my disposal," said Senate Minority Leader John F. McCarthy, R - San Rafael.

Mental hygiene wasn't the only department affected by the latest administration economy wave. General Services lost 80 jobs, Corrections 140 and Industrial Relations 40.

But the cutback in the state's 10 hospitals for the mentally ill and four institutions for the retarded created the loudest furor.

Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Railroad Flat, a physician, said it was "a step backward toward the 'snake pit' conditions of the Middle Ages."

Democratic Senate Chairman Charles Warren of Los Angees, an assemblyman, also used the phrase "snake pit," the title of a novel and a movie exposing conditions in post-World War II mental hospitals.

"We're come a long way since the days of the snake pit approach to mental hygiene in California and this would appear to be a step toward wiping out the gains we have made," Warren said.

Monagan and Assemblyman John G. Veneman, R - Modesto, said they were going to look closely at the situation in mental hospitals in their own area.

Monagan, however, said he would approve if the administration shows the hospitals can do with less staff.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said Reagan is "doing exactly" what Post's office has suggested in the past.

"I have absolutely no basis for disagreement at all," said the legislature's economy expert.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D - Inglewood, withheld comment.

The administration was forced to revise upward the number of jobs affected by the move.

Tuesday night, Philip M. Battaglia, Reagan's executive secretary, said only 2,892 jobs would be cut from the 166,000 state positions.

But yesterday morning, the number was boosted. Spencer Williams, Health and Welfare Agency administrator, and Dr. James Lowry, Mental Hygiene Department chief, disclosed almost 4,000 jobs would be eliminated.

They said 2,632 mental health workers will be fired in the next 15 months and their jobs eliminated. Another 400 jobs normally emptied by attrition will not be filled and 600 to 700 current vacancies also will be unfilled. Add that to firings in General Services, Industrial Relations and Corrections, and the total approaches 4,000.

Children Aid Bill Is Passed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A much-debated bill to provide a $574,000 emergency appropriation for crippled children programs reached Gov. Ronald Reagan today.

The governor promptly said he would sign it. Press secretary Paul Beck said Reagan was "pleased and gratified" at a Senate vote Tuesday.

The upper chamber, with little debate, passed the bill late yesterday on a 38-0 vote—ending a month-long, sometimes strictly partisan battle.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE ASSEMBLY

Resolutions introduced:

Tidelands—Expands powers of Joint Legislative Committee on Tidelands to study all state land and changes name to Joint Legislative Committee on Public Domain; SCR 26, Teale.

Sicilian Banker Faces Embezzling

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — Carlo Bazan, former president of the state-controlled Bank of Sicily, was arrested last night on charges of having embezzled $1.6 million from the institution.

Bazan, 67, left the bank in October 1965, after having been president 12 years.

14 Marinites Are Inducted Into Service

Fourteen Marin County young men were inducted into the armed services to fill the March quota of Marin Local Board 25, Selective Service System, the board announced today.

None of the registrants is married according to the board's records, said Mrs. Joy M. Kinzer, clerk.

Three were drafted from outside the county, having registered in Marin and remaining on the rolls here.

The new draftees are:

Population Boom Causing Concern

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — America's fast - growing population may be good for business, but it no longer is good for the country, an authority on population told the North American Wildlife Conference here.

Dudley Kirk, director of the Population Council, New York, said, "It is time we stop giving priority to economics."

Highway Commission Acts Against Scenic Ridge Route

SACRAMENTO (AP)— Will the State Highway Comission say "no" to Walt Disney Enterprises in its bid for a $23 million highway?

Commissioners decided yesterday to give themselves another month to answer that question: whether the state should construct a road to the Disney firm's planned $35 million Mineral King ski resort.

But commissioners did, after nine years of second thoughts, decided against a controversial, scenic and roundabout San Francisco area freeway idea.

It unanimously voted down the plan backed by San Fracnisco and San Mateo County officials to construct a "ridge route"—with sort of an ice cone-shaped curve—instead of a straight line route.

Involved are about four miles of Interstate 280 freeway in San Mateo County, just south of San Francisco and near that city's Upper Crystal Springs Reservoir.

James K. Carr, San Francisco Public Utilities manager, argued for the ridge route, which he said would be more scenic and not harm the reservoir.

Commissioners said they were swayed to the straight line freeway because their engineers said the roundabout shape would cost $29.7 million and the other $8.6 million.

The commission first adopted the straight line route back in 1958 and ever since has faced an outcry from the San Francisco area.

Although the commission said its yesterday decision was "final," the PUC manager vowed to fight it to the courts, if necessary. He said state estimates of the "ridge route" were too high.

Money was also the key in the Mineral King project of Tulare County. The commission's tabling until its April meeting was to give members time to learn how much of the tab the federal government might pick up.

Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, opposed state construction of the highway, saying it wolud divert money now slated for Southern California freeway construction.

"If you've ever been on our freeways, you know the problem we have," Sieroty said. "These are Southern California monies you're being asked to divert."

But Republican Assemblyman Gordon W. Duffy of Hanford said the facility "will serve the unmet recreational needs of millions of Southern Californians."

Duffy, whose district includes the Mineral King site, accused opponents of "misleading quotations" and "emotion."

Australia's koala bears usually shun even liquids for an exclusive diet of eucalyptus leaves.

Open Housing Foe Loses First Round To Rumford

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The sponsor of bills to repeal the state's Rumford open housing law planned today to promote his legislation despite initial rejection by a Senate committee.

The Senate Governmental Efficiency Committee refused approval of the two bills by Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tulare, yesterday. But one member said the issue should be brought up again.

The committee action was the first legislative test of the open housing law since California voters approved Prop. 14 in 1964. It nullified the 1963 Rumford Act.

The State Supreme Court said Prop. 14 was unconstitutional and the case is now on appeal before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Former Assemblyman W. Byron Rumford, D - Berkeley, defended his law at the committee hearing. The act prohibits racial discrimination in housing sales or apartment rentals but excludes single units such as rented rooms.

Schmitz, a John Birch Society member, said he wouldn't endorse any compromise legislation "which would force the property owners to sell or rent against his will."

There were 102,300,000 licensed drivers in the United States at the end of 1966, says the Bureau of Public Roads.

COURTHOUSE FATE PLEBISCITE URGED

San Rafael Council Candidates Stress Importance Of Square To The Taxpayers

A referendum on acquisition of the Courthouse Square was proposed today by John A. Miskimen, candidate for the San Rafael City Council, who contended "a very large ex penditure of money in relation to the size of the city" was involved and "we must go to the people."

Miskimen said there are many conflicting ideas among the people of San Rafael on what should happen to the courthouse, ranging from retaining the old building to turning it into commercial property or a park.

His suggestion on the radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" was endorsed by two other council candidates in the April 10 city election. Joseph O. Dahlman said "this is something the people of San Rafael should have a voice in. The courthouse square should not just be put on the tax rolls for acquiring real property."

TIMING QUESTIONED

Candidate George S. Burton endorsed the referendum, and said he is concerned with the city council's statement that the county needs the money now.

"Why didn't this problem come before the city council before?" he asked. "I am sure disposition of the courthouse came about shortly after the civic center was built.

"Sales tax revenue to San Rafael last year was $1,250,000 so far this year, due to the business slump, it's less. We should by all means get the utmost out of the property."

Councilman Fred E. Jensen, who is seeking re-election said there was no time for a referendum. "The county needs the money in a hurry," he said. "The county wanted an answer last month and we've forestalled the sale one month already."

FOR CITY BENEFIT

Gene F. O'Connor, another of the six candidates for city council, said the courthouse square property should be acquired to zone it for the city's benefit, adding: "The greatest scource of revenue to San Rafall is from sales tax, and we should be ever cognizant of developing, at all times, any facility that will tend to bring revenue to this city to relieve property taxes."

The clutter of signs on Francisco Boulevard came under fire from all five candidates who spoke on the broadcast, to be repeated Sunday at 12:30 p.m. A sixth candidate, Orlando Conti, was unable to take part.

O'Connor said San Rafael was ineligible for state or federal landscaping on the freeway from the San Quentin overpass to the foot of the San Rafael overpass because the city's sign ordinance was inadequate. Candidate Miskimen a planning commissioner, called the ordinance "horribly out of date."

Burton, himself a merchant on Francisco Boulevard, said the "merchants there are trying to do their utmost to enhance the beautification and welcome any suggestions that the people might have."

FIRE PACT

Councilman Jensen said he will ask the city council to sign a mutual aid contract with the Terra Linda Fire Department, as a result of a recent fire which Terra Linda firemen could have reached more quickly than the San Rafael Fire Department.

Miskimen endorsed the proposal.

Miskimen attacked the city's practice of picking and choosing prime pieces of taxable property for annexation, "leaving the residential areas around them to fend for themselves."

Asked by a listener if he still thought downtown parking was a joke, Jensen said: "We are trying to buy the courthouse property for underground parking lot for 300 cars, and I don't know why I have ever been accused of thinking parking a joke."

Burton said one of the biggest problems in city parking is the top ramp of the Third Street parking lot, which is making only eight cents per meter per day.

Dahlman said some drivers don't use the lot because the ramp is difficult to get on, and others don't know of its existence.

Death Verdict For One Slayer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Death in the gas chamber for one defendant and life imprisonment for the other is a jury's verdict for two men convicted of killing Los Angeles police officer Keith DuPuis.

The seven-man, five - woman Superior Court jury deliberated about six hours yesterday. The jurors voted death for Edgar Leonard Robinson, 27, and life in prison for his cousin, Gilbert Durham, 31.

DuPuis, 27, was shot through the mouth after he stopped Robinson and Durham during a search for a stolen car. The officer died Oct. 27, 11 days after the shooting.

U.C. Profs Raise Viet Rally Funds

BERKELEY (AP) — Some University of California professors are chipping in to raise $5,000 to advertise an anti-Vietnam war rally in San Francisco next month.

The scheduled April 15 rally at Kezar Stadium is sponsored by the Spring Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. A similar rally is scheduled in New York on the same day.

Labor Council Sets Up Wage Committee

A special committee was set up last night by Marin County Labor Council to deal with wage and hour problems of any working person, whether a member of a union or not.

President Charles B. Weers said today the committee will deal specificially with complaints of violations of the new Wages and Hours Act which went into effect Jan. 1.

"We shall hold hearings to help anyone who might have some problem over whether they are getting the proper rate for the job and advise them as to their rights under the act," he said. "They do not have to be members of a union."

Weers said it was expected Thomas McCarthy of the Building Service Employees will head the committee, formed at a request made nationwide by George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

Weers said further information would be available through the council office at 701 Mission Avenue, San Rafael.

Speaker at last night's meeting was Marin Junior College District trustee Thomas A. Skornia, who spoke on the vocational training available at College of Marin.

Pasteur Treatment If Dog Not Found

A black Afghan hound that bit a 13-year-old boy on the hand yesterday at Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley was sought today to spare the youngster the painful anti-rabies Pasteur treatment.

John Rich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Rich of 410 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley, was bitten on the school playground at about 8 a.m. Shortly afterward, another boy at the school reported the dog attempted to bite him.

Burglar Takes Tranquilizer Dart Pistol

A burglar stole a tranquilizer dart pistol and a .22 caliber magnum pistol from the Marin County Humane Society office at 402 Third Street, San Rafael Tuesday night or yesterday morning.

Theft of the tranquilizer gun was reported to police yesterday. A further check showed the .22 pistol, owned by an employee, was also taken along with its holster, gun belt and ammunition.

The tranquilezer gun will be useless to the thief, Herbert Martin, director of operations, said today. The weapon is used to calm animals for capture. No darts were taken with the gun, and the thief will be unable to buy any, Martin said.

Entry was by prying a boiler room window, then prying the door to the gun storage room.

Permit On Agenda

George Cohoat's application for a permanent permit to teach sailing, rent and sell sailboats will be considered by the Tiburon Board of Adjustments at 8 p.m. Monday in City Hall.

Attractive Public Works Site Pledge

Tiburon will have an attractive, well landscaped public works site City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose promised today.

At two city council meetings, residents of Hawthorne Terrace have opposed location of a city corporation yard on Belvedere Tennis Club property below their residences.

"The spectre of a corporation yard seems to frighten people," comments a report from the council's public services committee of William R. Bremer and Gordon W. Strawbridge. "A corporation yard is nonetheless absolutely essential and it need not be unattractive or offensive."

Public Works Supt. Louis H. Brunini said today the city has been considering many properties. Eight of which have already been rejected. Still being considered are a park site opposite Little Reed Heights, Reed School, Tiburon Boulevard at Trestle Glen Boulevard, a site on Trestle Glen Boulevard, the Safeway store, old right-of-way of Mar West Street, Richardson Bay Sanitary District Plant, Tiburon Sanitary District plant, "Blackie's Pasture" and the much-discussed site on Belvedere Tennis Club property below Hawthorne Terrace.

Brunini noted that Sausalito recently completed an attractive corporation yard on Nevada Street.

Rose said he felt strongly the site should be handsomely landscaped "not only to be representative of how the city expects others to do similar improvement , but out of consideration for the congenial surroundings in which we find ourselves."

The council has provided $7,500 in the budget to accomplish the goal of a good-looking corporation yard, Rose noted.

Art Official To Talk

The ad hoc committee on fairgrounds Monday will hear Sue McDonald, consultant on arts councils to the State Arts Commission, speak on community service commissions on art. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in Room 102-A of the courthouse annex in San Rafael.

Arraignment Held On Ketch Theft

Norman T. Hettman, 24, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge of theft of a 29-foot ketch from Wilbur Hubbinett of San Francisco and is to enter plea at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Hettman, of San Francisco, allegedly took the $7,000 ketch, the Zealous, from Clipper Yacht Harbor in Marin County on Feb. 22, sailing her to Gas House Cove on San Francisco's Marina.

Waterfront Permit Plan Is Endorsed

Sausalito Planning Commission last night endorsed amendment of the city's interim use permit ordinance to allow permits for changes in use on the waterfront if no structural alteration is required.

The amendment, proposed by City Mgr. George M. Patterson, would allow him to grant permits with a recommendation from the planning commission's zoning committee. The amendment previously was rejected by the city council.

The ordinance was adopted last month to regulate development and changes in the waterfront area pending adoption of a master plan.

Commissioners also recommended subdivision into two lots of a 162,784-square-foot parcel on Bridgeway in Marinship. The Marinship general plan envisions a road through the parcel.

A proposal by Trident Productions to exchange a portion of the former Purity store for city property was referred to commissioners Roy Starbird, Robert L. Nissen and Hendrik J. Keizer.

Chairman Alan D. Bonapart appointed Commissioner Walter Thomson to a city committee which is to draw a plan for undergrounding utility lines.

Commissioners Keizer, George C. Hoffman and Norman Murdoch were absent.

Youth Held On Knife; Stolen Car Discovered

San Rafael police found an abandoned rental car yesterday in a follow-up to the arrest of 19-year-old youth for possession of a concealed weapon.

James Douglas Mettalia of 65 Fairfax Street was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on the weapon charge. Judge Hadden W. Roth ordered Mettalia to plead to the charge March 22.

Police found a hunting knife with a five-inch blade in Mettalia's coat, Inspector Richard A. Douglas said, after arresting him for throwing a bicycle into a back yard at approximately 3:30 a.m.

Police later found Mettalia's car at the foot of Gold Hill Grade Road, a fire trail, and found an abandoned 1967 Ford registered to Hertz Rent-a-Car of San Francisco farther up the road.

Mettalia was arrested earlier this month on a charge of stealing a 1962 Corvette from DeLong Chevrolet of San Rafael. Judge Roth referred that case to juvenile court on March 7.

Nine-Year-Old Burried Alive For 18 Hours

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) — For almost 18 hours David Shaw, 9, was buried alive under tons of earth.

His legs cramped tightly beneath him, he breathed the air trapped by an overhanging ledge above him—and stayed too frightened to fall aselep.

"Where's Ronnie?" David asked when a Marine rescue team found him yesterday.

His friend, Ronnie Staggs, 10, was killed by the earthslide that fell on the two boys as they played in a steep-sided canyon on the Camp Pendleton Marine Base.

"When the dirt first fell, I heard Ronnie scream 'get me out.' " David said.

"I told him I didn't think we could get out. Then I heard him crying and it was the last thing I remember until I heard footsteps and the noise the shovels to kill me because all the dirt was falling on me."

Hub Woman Said In Good Condition

Clara Shearer of 7 Roble Court, San Anselmo, was reported in good condition today at Ross General Hospital where whe was taken by ambulance yesterday at 7:20 p.m.

San Anselmo police received a call that an ambulance had been called to her home, and police found her lying semi-conscious on the floor. Hospital officials would not say what she was being treated for.

Theft Of Auto

Theft of a 1961 black and white Rambler convertible, license DOA 111, was reported yesterday to Sausalito police by Brian Heath, co-owner of Heath Ceramics, 400 Gate Give Road. His car was stolen sometime during the day, he said, while it was parked in front of his shop with the keys in the ignition.

Novato Father Is Given Son's Medals

The Bronze Star with valor insignia has been awarded posthumously to Army Pfc. Allan J. Nelson Jr. of Novato, killed in Vietnam in December.

The medal was accepted by his father, Allan J. Nelson Sr., in a ceremony at the Presidio of San Francisco.

It was the second decoration for young Nelson. His father also accepted the Purple Heart shortly after his son was killed during a search-and-clear mission in dense jungle Dec. 1.

A citation accompanying the Bronze Star said Nelson, of Troop C, First Squadron, Ninth Cavalry, First Cavalry Division, was "point man" of his platoon when it came under intense automatic weapons fire.

"Disregarding his own safety, young Nelson exposed himself to the hostile fire in an attempt to warn his unit of the impending danger," the citation said.

Nelson, 21, of 771 St. Francis Avenue, Novato, is buried in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Boating Fatalities Decline During 1966

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Boating accident deaths declined by six during 1966, to 103, compared with the previous year, the state reported today.

However, the number of all accidents increased from 444 in 1965 to 582 last year.

Kuchel-Reagan Rapport Sought

By WAT TAKESHITA

SACRAMENTO—The cool attitude between Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel will be replaced by a spirit of cooperation, in the opinion of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Bagley, who is in close contact with both the Reagan administration and Senator Kuchel, said that a "rapprochement" between the two camps will work to the benfit of the Republican Party. The Marin assemblyman made the statements at an interview in the state Capitol yesterday.

"The Reagan people realize that the worst thing that could happen to the Republicans would be blood-bath primary next year," said Bagley. "Some of the staff people around the governor want to effect a rapprochement, an accommodation, with Kuchel to avoid this."

Bagley said he has conferred with Senator Kuchel, and the senator welcomes a cooperative working arrangement with Reagan and is willing to reciprocate.

Senator Kuchel not only is a tremendous vote-getter, but also has the strong backing of such Republican leaders as Sen. Everett R. Dirksen of Illinois, said Bagley. "Senator Dirksen has said he's going to do all he can to see Kuchel re-elected. All we're trying to do is to hold this thing together—to keep the party unified—as we did last year."

Marinites Finish Their Boot Camp

Nine privates first class from Marin have completed their Marine Corps boot camp and six-month active duty training at San Diego and Camp Pendleton and will now attend monthly meeetings of their reserve unit in Marin, the corps has announced.

They are Jerome N. Akey of Woodacre, James M. Cranney and Kemp D. Dowdy of Novato, Richard M. Paulsen Jr. of Mill Valley, and John C. Breummer, Adolph J. Mendonca, Edward J. Posusney, Michael J. Solomon, and Richard A. St. Gaudens of San Rafael.

Ferry Exempt Plan Asked By McCarthy

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A passenger ferry that operates between Vallejo and Mare Island, under contract with the federal government, would be exempt from stringent sections of the Public Utilities Code under a bill introduced by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael.

McCarthy said his SB 493 would apply only to the Mare Island passenger ferry and one other ferry in Southern California. It also provides for an annual review by the PUC to make sure that conditions of the exemption are being met.

Another bill introduced by Senator McCarthy is SB 494, which gives retailers of alcoholic beverages more time to pay the wholesaler. The present 30 days' time would be extended to 42 days.

Nelson Luncheon Reset For April

A Democratic luncheon in honor of former State Consumer Counsel Helen E. Nelson will be held on April 12, instead of next Tuesday, at Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito.

Mrs. Elaine Guthrie, who is in charge of the luncheon, said that the date was changed because next Tuesday falls in the middle of Easter vacation.

The luncheon is sponsored by the Marin Democratic Central Committee.

Marin Women

ALONG THE BUNNY TRAIL

ENTRANCED with the clown (Mrs. Dean Reilly) during the hunt are Jennifer Dwyer, left, and Tanya Reilly. The fair also features pony rides, story telling and puppet shows. Proceeds from the two-day event are used to maintain and improve the grounds and equipment at Pixie Place.

Women Oversold On Glamor Of Working?

NEW YORK (UPI) —The "feminine mistake" —made by women oversold on the glamor of being a working woman.

Dorothy Whyte Cotton, editor of "Parents" magazine, believes millions of women are developing needless anxieties over such at the expense of their and their families' happiness by making "the feminine mistake."

"I'm tired of women who say that nothing less than a job will suffice," Mrs. Cotton said.

"I've interviewed hundreds of women and found that a lot of them didn't want to go to work and should never have been urged to. They had perfectly useful lives and many did important volunteer work."

Mrs. Cotton, the wife of a psychiatrist and mother of four, disputes the prevailing view that the only mothers who can justify working are highly talented women in creative fields.

"Feminists who maintain you have to be at the top of your profession add to the discontent," she said. "Numerous women get much satisfaction from jobs without status or title."

For those who are or want to be working mothers, Mrs. Cotton is reassuring, too.

"It is perfectly possible for a well-organized woman to have both the jobs of motherhood and the joys of work," she said.

"Going to work and being a good mother is not an either-or proposition. Recent studies have shown that there is no correlation between working mothers and juvenile delinquency."

However, she maintains many mothers fail to realize that working per se will not reduce existing tensions or establish a happier family environment.

She advocates a more rational attitude about what is necessary for the child and what is best for the mother in the modern world.

For example, so long as the working mother feels that her working is good for her, but bad for the child, little good will come of it for her or for the child.

What about mothers who feel guilty if they prefer spending their time in the home instead of working

"When there is more agitation than cognition as there appears to have been in recent months concerning the working versus the non-working mother, I believe it is time for each woman to re-establish her own individuality and thereby gain true independence," Mrs. Cotton said.

Mill Valley Couple Wed

Brian Joel Gustafson and Jeannette Potts, both of Mill Valley, were married on March 11 in a noon ceremony at the Mill Valley Community Church.

The bride, the daughter of Francis D. Potts and the late Mrs. Jeannette Potts of Mill Valley, was given in marriage by her father in the double ring rite performed by the Rev. Gordon L. Foster.

She recited her vows wearing a street length white faille dress. The maid of honor, Diana Gustafson, the bridegroom's sister, and bridesmaids, Anne Bassett and Jo Valens of Mill Valley, wore pink linen dresses.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joel F. Gustafson of Mill Valley and the grandson of Mrs. Joel Gustafson of San Anselmo was served as best man by his brother, Ronald Gustafson of Mill Valley. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Paul Potts of Fairfax and Lloyd Potts of Kentfield.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the former home of the late grandparents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wood of Mill Valley, which is owned by his parents.

Brian is a graduate of Tamalpais High School and attended the College of Marin. He is with the medical corps of the U. S. Army at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio, Tex., where the couple will live.

Jeannette plans to attend college in Texas in the fall. She has two other brothers, Ronald and Stephen Potts of Mill Valley.

Inverness Club To Present Primrose Tea On March 29

The Inverness Garden Club is preparing its renowned Primrose Tea for March 29 at St. Columba's Episcopal Church, set in a glade just beyond the town of Inverness, overlooking Tomales Bay.

Special transportation will be provided from the parking area up the hill to Frick Hall, where the tea will be given again this year. Traditionally the tea draws visitors from throughout the Bay Area to partake of the homemade breads made by the garden club members for the tea and for sale during it.

A special attraction are the fresh flower hats worn to the affair by the members and guests featuring primroses and other spring garden flowers.

Proceeds from the public event are use by the Inverness Garden Club for the Jessie Craig Lovell memorial scholarship fund, which is awarded each June to a Tomales High School graduate.

Hours for the tea are 1 to 4 p.m., announced the garden club press chairman, Mrs. Frank P. Myer of Point Reyes Station.

Inverness Club To Present Primrose Tea On March 29

The Inverness Garden Club is preparing its renowned Primrose Tea for March 29 at St. Columba's Episcopal Church, set in a glade just beyond the town of Inverness, overlooking Tomales Bay.

Special transportation will be provided from the parking area up the hill to Frick Hall, where the tea will be given again this year. Traditionally the tea draws visitors from throughout the Bay Area to partake of the homemade breads made by the garden club members for the tea and for sale during it.

A special attraction are the fresh flower hats worn to the affair by the members and guests featuring primroses and other spring garden flowers.

Proceeds from the public event are use by the Inverness Garden Club for the Jessie Craig Lovell memorial scholarship fund, which is awarded each June to a Tomales High School graduate.

Hours for the tea are 1 to 4 p.m., announced the garden club press chairman, Mrs. Frank P. Myer of Point Reyes Station.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Don't Give Him The Chance To Stand You Up One More Time

DEAR HELEN:

My boy friend lives in a different town and I don't get to see him often. Recently we had a fight and he wrote and apologized, then asked for a date the coming Friday night.

Friday, he didn't show or even call. In his next letter, no explanation, just asked for another date. Same Friday, same thing. This happened for three consecutive weeks.

Last Friday, I went on a date with another boy.

Yup, you guessed it. Boy No. 1 arrived on the scene and called me a "two-timer" in front of Boy No. 2. What should I say? —H.P.

DEAR H:

Tell him it's time to be a two-timer when you're a three-time loser, and from now on he's at the bottom of your list.

When a boy isn't dependable you can be sure he has other bad qualities too. Don't give him a chance to stand you up again. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

The problem is: college or marriage. I am 17, a senior, very popular with both sexes, also called "The Brain," an odd name for a girl.

I have won a $25,000 scholarship to the college of my choice. The boy friend thinks we should get married and go to college together. We'd probably have the money for it, but I might get pregnant.

We love each other, and marriage is all right, I guess, but after all I am very fortunate to have this scholarship and I don't want to lose it. My parents say the decision is mine, as my brother is getting married and going on to college. Which? —BEWILDERED

DEAR BE:

You're lukewarm on marriage, but all fired up about your scholarshhip. If that doesn't answer your question, you rate "A" on brains, but "D" on understanding your own emotions (which aren't all that strong for your present boyfriend. Right?) —H.

DEAR HELEN:

On TV, men who aren't married act so prissy. Like Batman and Captain Nice, flapping their capes around, etc.

I think it's the same in life. I think men who are not married should be, because their wives might straighten them out. —YOUNG BUT SMART (AGE 10)

DEAR Y BUT S:

I'm quite sure all unmarried girls agree with you, honey. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

My engagement party was held in a private room at a hotel. My mother told me beforehand not to open any gifts at the party as everyone wouldn't bring something and it might be embarrassing. I was to wait till I got home, then write thank-you notes.

Well, after the dinner, some of my fiance's family asked when I was going to open my presents. They insisted this was proper. I had no choice, so I opened them right there. My mother is mad because my future relatives won. Some of the guests are mad because they gave money which I didn't open, not wanting people to compare.

This is a heck of a way to start out. Who was right? —JANET

DEAR JANET:

Gifts may be opened whenever the bride-to-be wishes. The only thing wrong about this situation is that tempers were lost. Why, oh why, must relatives work overtime to make a girl unhappy about her wedding? These should be the loveliest moments of her life, yet how often they're spoiled by petty squabbling among adults who certainly should know better! —H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Chaplains Night

"Military Chaplains Night" will be the theme when the "Pairs and Spares" of St. Francis Episcopal Church meet for a potluck dinner and program at 7 p.m. Saturday at John Collins Hall in Novato. The Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Gebhart will be the hosts. Chaplain Howard Scholten of Hamilton Air Force Base will speak.

SOMETHING A LITTLE SPRINGY

Easter instead of St. Patrick's Day was the theme this year of the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club benefit bridge-luncheon yesterday. Around the table are members looking over the cakes donated as prizes. In front of the table are, from left, Mesdames Ernest Box and Fred Pierre. Behind the table, admiring one of the flower and Easter egg table centerpieces used for bridge prizes are president, Mrs. Bruno Maraccini, Mrs. Stuart Burt and Mrs. Parker Archer. Mrs. James Betts was chairman of the party attended by more than 200 members and guests. (Independent-Journal photo)

Tiburon Peninsula Club Sets Events For Easter Weekend

Two events are planned at the Tiburon Peninsula Club for the Easter weekend. On March 25 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. an Easter egg hunt for children under 10 is planned. Brunch for 200 will be given from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Easter Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Matthews are chairmen of the Easter egg hunt; Mesdames Bonnie Raisin, Joseph Bacheller and Bruce Moody will assist. Kevin and Karen O'Leary, dressed as bunnies, will distribute prizes to the younger children.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald O'Leary are chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Jack and Mr. and Mrs. Bacheller, assistants.

To Attend Meet

Sixteen members of the Novato Assembly 194, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, will attend their grand assembly Sunday through Thursday in Fresno.

Mrs. Buford Gilliland and Mrs. Vivian Mahler and Mrs. Wilfred E. Waldrop will accompany the girls.

To Participate

Mrs. J. Paul Hurd of Mill Valley is bonsai chairman for the Ikebana International spring flower show to be given by the San Francisco Bay Area chapter March 31 to April 2 at the Hall of Flowers, San Francisco.

Redwood Shrine Will Install

The open installation of Redwood Shrine No. 102, San Rafael, will be held Saturday at the San Rafael Masonic Temple.

The officers to be installed are Bonnie F. Jordan, worthy high priestess; Stanley Annis, watchman of shepherds; Gisela Ratliff, noble prophetess; Edward Robbins, associate watchman of shepherds; Emily Farris, chaplain; Florence Annis, worthy shepherdess; Lillian Studley, worthy guide; Dorothy Schad, scribe, and Marjorie Dangers, treasurer.

Marguerite Bates will be installing officer and Orrin Buell, assistant.

Statements Are Clarified

Dr. Patricia Hallinan, assistant public health officer for the Marin Health Dept., in speaking at a program sponsored by the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club at Del Mar School in Tiburon on Monday clarified some statements made in Tuesday's Independent-Journal.

Speaking on the topic, "The Child and Today's Changing Values," Dr. Hallinan was quoted as saying that there was a 64 per cent increase in syphilis in Marin when it should have been a 64 per cent increase in venereal disease in Marin.

The health officer was also quoted as saying that there is not a high school and scarcely a grammar school in the county where marijuana and narcotics are not used. Dr. Hallinan said that only in some grammar schools were marijuana and narcotics used.

The doctor was also attributed with the remark that LSD was an addictive drug and produces withdrawal symptoms.

The doctor said that LSD was not an addictive drug and has no withdrawal symptoms. "LSD is not an addicting drug except perhaps psychologically," Dr. Hallinan said.

Marinite Named To Membership

Mrs. Allen Feder of San Rafael is one of the 13 Bay Area women invited to membership in the San Francisco Auxiliary of the Stanford Children's Convalescent Hospital. New members will be honored at a tea at the home of Mrs. T. Edward Bailly Jr. in San Francisco.

Mrs. Feder, the former Conny Parry, attended the University of the Pacific and San Francisco State College. She was group president of the Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary and is a member of the Loch Lomond Guild.

Others from Marin who will attend the tea include auxiliary officers Mesdames Martin J. Waterfield, recording secretary of Kentfield; George K. Whitney, publicity, Belvedere, Byron Du Bain, telephone, Kentfield.

Service Award

The Grand Cross of Colours, highest award to be given for service in the International Order of Rainbow for Girls, has been awarded to Novatans Mrs. Marie Tubbs, assistant mother advisor, John Hoekman, worthy patron of Novato chapter, Order of Eastern Star, and Kristine Coursey and Kanani Jones.

Home Economics And Skiing Interest New Guild Leader

New president of the Tiburon Guild of Sunny Hills is Mrs. Thomas Duffy Teichmann. Mrs. Teichmann, who has been a member of the guild for three years, now lives in San Rafael.

She has been active in the guild, which last year changed its name from the Belveron Guild, and is a former chairman of the group's Grape Festival booth.

Raised in Louisiana, Jacquelyn Teichmann attended business college in New Orleans. The Teichmann's have lived in Marin for five years. Their daughters are Kerri Lea, 6, and Tammi Lyn, 5.

Mrs. Teichmann is interested in gardening, decorating, furniture restoring and sewing. She enjoys skiing at Lake Tahoe. Her ambition is to go back to college and obtain a master's degree in home economics.

Other new officers are Mesdames Michael Brown, vice president; Douglas Dwyer, treasurer; Gerald Schiffman, secretary; Robert Murphy, booth chairman; Forrest Whiting, Bargain Box, and Walter McGowan, project.

Pamela Finke Recites Vows

Pamela Michelle Finke of Terra Linda became the bride of Timothy Lewis Sallady at St. Isabella's Church in Terra Linda on March 5. The Rev. John O'Connor officiated.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Donald Walker of Novato, Pamela recited vows wearing a gown of white faille in Empire style.

The daughter of Mrs. Fredrack H. Finke of Terra Linda and the late Mr. Finke, Pamela was attended by her sister, Janet, as maid of honor, who wore a pink taffeta dress with pale pink overlay of lace.

Russel Sallady was his brother's best man, and ushers were Larry Lenhart and David Timmer.

A reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walker in Novato.

The couple will live in Terra Linda after a Lake Tahoe wedding trip.

Both are graduates of Terra Linda High School. The bridegroom is serving with the U.S. Navy, and is en route to Vietnam.

Russel D. Carpenter and the late Mrs. Carpenter are grandparents of the bridegroom, whose parents are Mrs. Benjamin Sallady of Terra Linda and the late Mr. Salladay.

Mrs. E. Theirot Cryer of Terra Linda is Pamela's grandmother.

Town & Country Village

For the wearin' of the green, or most any other color, you'll find just what you want in The Village. Whether dressing yourself or a springtime sprucing-up of the old homestead, The Village specialty shops will delight you.

On the 22nd at 12:30, the Wednesday FASHION-LUCNHEON at the Cherish Inn will feature Easter and other springtime finery. This Easter Show, during school vacation, would make a nice mother-and-daughter outing, since children's fashions will be included in the program. Reservations are suggested . . . phone 388-4212.

This is Grand Opening Week at THE DAISYBUG. You'll find this new shop adjoining The Little Daisy, and stocked with Villager and Ladybug labels exclusively. THE DAISYBUG is a charming addition to The Village fashion scene . . . Early American decor blends well with the merchandise to add an attractive note to your Villager and Ladybug collecting.

CAPRICORN BOOKS reminds us to remind you that an important publishing date is fast approaching. You'd be wise to place an order now for William Manchester's "Death of a President" which will be available April 7th. As always, CAPRICORN BOOKS is right on top of the best-seller situation, but this particular best-seller is bound to be bought-up quickly . . . so don't say they didn't warn you.

Have you ever been to a banquet where the rather small group is made to feel insignificant by a huge banquet hall? This uncomfortable feeling never occurs at KUBLAI KHAN since they go out of their way to make smaller groups feel at home. The menu at this attractive restaurant is also nicely suited to the smaller banquet . . . with American, Chinese and Polynesian cuisine to choose from, everyone is bound to be pleased. Banquet prices at KUBLAI KHAN are equally pleasing and bound to make a hit with the treasurer.

HAPPY HOUSE

My stars and garters, Harriet . . . just look at that Cleaning Tree in the window at HAPPY HOUSE. (Cleaning what?) Well it's a white plastic flower pot, "planted" with a tiny artificial tree with two plastic scouring pads "blooming" on the branches. In red, blue, green or orange this Cleaning Tree would give an attractive and useful touch of springtime to the old kitchen sink. Hard-to-find item noticed at HAPPY HOUSE . . . asparagus steamers . . . both upright and horizontal designs.

One of this season's most newsworthy fashions seems to be the coat and dress ensemble. CONTESSA ANGELA of ROMA offers this headliner in a number of colors and fabrics . . . and her realistic prices on these ensembles will make news too . . . $45.00 to $59.95 for the complete outfit. Our favorite in this collection is a cocoa brown sleeveless linen sheath with a coat of lighter brown tweed with cocoa brown piping. Perfectly stunning, and most appropriate for either city or suburban wear.

CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE TOMORROW!

When Irish Eyes Are Smiling . . . chances are they've heard about the St. Patrick's Day dinner feature at The HICK'RY PIT. Faith, and wouldn't you know 'tis Corned Beef and Cabbage as an entree, and dinner includes beverage and one of those wonderful HICK'RY PIT desserts. Since everything else on this menu has proven to be consistently delicious, we'll just bet their Corned Beef and Cabbage is a winner. And that's no blarney, darlin'!

If the family mutt suffers from seasonal wanderlust about this time of year, he needs this new item we found at MUTTS OF MARIN. A small golden disc for his collar, imprinted with the silhouette and name of St. Roch, patron saint of dogs. Maybe not a remedy for Fido's spring fever, but at least you'll know it won't prove fatal.

To celebrate the wearin' of the green, VILLAGE LIQUORS suggests the drinkin' of Irish Mist Liqueur. If nothing else the special decanter of Irish Mist shown to us would make a handsome conversation piece. Would you believe it, darlin' . . . this decanter is in the shape of a figurine of a long ago Irish soldier wearing his brightly colored dress uniform.

Springtime news from LAILA OF NASIMO'S . . . her new collection of suits that proudly display her own label. As always, LAILA combines fabulous fabric with fastidious tailoring . . . and the results are outstanding. Spotted a crazy caftan by Gernreich at LAILA's . . . this show-stopper is a floor length slink of white silk with a wild, swirling print . . . dramatic, yet ever so feminine.

Noticed that TOWN & COUNTRY VILLAGE T.V. has a complete supply of hard-to-find color T.V. sets. These remote control, portable and table models are available for immediate deliver. Again, we remind you about the excellent service department at TOWN & COUNTRY VILLAGE T.V. No need to fret when the "boob tube" goes on the fritz at some weird hour . . . this service department is open Monday through Friday from 9 to 9.

FU'S ART STUDIO

Madeline Fu, at FU'S ART STUDIO, is much too modest about her many talents as artist and teacher, but husband Paul was almost poetic the other day talking about this charming lady. Madeline Fu's classes in Chinese Traditional Brush Painting are always popular. Besides being a fine artist in her own right, Madeline is also an excellent teacher and guide. Her student's paintings are proof of the high caliber instruction at FU'S ART STUDIO. We like the expert framing done here . . . this framing is done by artists and looks absolutely right. You can tell an artistic hand and eye had a lot to do with the end results.

If you too get kind of itchy about now to see your garden in bloom, then follow us down to ALBERTA OF MARIN. We found some colorful splashes of bloomery here for 19c each . . . trotted on home and "planted" them . . . and, voila! we've got a whole bloomin' garden. Must admit we sneaked a few artfully artificial tulips into a drab corner of the living room for a welcome touch of springtime.

Louis Reimers, Master Chef at L'ENTREE, has thoughtfully made arrangements so you can still phone for catering bookings, even though L'ENTREE is closed until March 28th. While Louis is on vacation, just phone 383-1323 to reserve your party dates.

New shipment of nylon tricot travel robes at THE HOUR GLASS. These very packable, but not transparent, robes are in both long and short styles . . . and a number of pretty prints. There's a fresh and neat look about the blue robe with white polka dots (often a difficult look to achieve when traveling). Another HOUR GLASS travel robe is in a multicolored print, to belt or not as you wish . . . looks almost hostessy.

MORE LOVE AND HAIR AND MUSIC FOR FAIRFAX

The Sir Douglas Quintet, whose avowed aim is "to be happy and spread love and be part of a grooving scene," will appear at a dance at the Fairfax Pavilion March 24 at 8 p.m. The bespectacled chap in the middle is "Sir Douglas," who was Doug Sahm in San Antonio, Tex., until his group decided their American ryhthm and blues should jump on the British bandwagon.

Committee Told Another Tam Unification Vote Due

The Marin County Committee on School District Organization may have to do a hurry-up job of scheduling another election on unification of school districts within Tamalpais High School District.

The committee, meeting last night at the county schools office, was presented an opinion by Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lunch that another unification election must be held in any district within two years after an election failed. Voters twice have turned down unification with Tamalpais High School District of all elementary districts within its boundaries. The second turndown was in June, 1965.

This would mean that another election must be held this June.

The committee made no move toward an election last night, however, referring the opinion back to Asst. County Supt. Robert F. Stannard, who presented it, and asking him to confer with the county counsel.

A state requirement for a junior college district master plan for the county was neatly disposed of, however. The committee instructed Stannard to inform the State Board of Education that all of Marin County should be included in Marin Junior College District.

This would take three rural school districts in North Marin out of the junior college district of which they are now parts. Lincoln, Union and Laguna districts are in Santa Rosa Junior College District.

The committee went on record opposing criteria for unification which has been used by the State Board of Education, in particular the minimum of 10,000 students and the allowance of not more than 10 per cent deviation in assessed valuation if a high school district is divided.

No action was taken on a county grand jury recommendation that the committee be made up on basis of population, rather than school districts.

One member submitted his resignation — Dr. John Hamren, who has served four years on the committee. He said he lacks the time.

Mrs. Rachael Conner, committee chairman, asked that nominations for a successor to Hamren be addressed to her care of the county schools office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera. Hamren represented San Rafael Elementary School District on the committee.

Club Seeking Area Rezoning

Almonte Improvement Club directors last night recommended unanimously that commercial property on Almonte and Homestead boulevards be rezoned by the county to single-family use, reported club president Herbert E. Davis.

The county planning staff has proposed rezoning the parcels to multi-family use. Streets are too narrow and lots too small, Davis said, to support more than single-family use.

Directors also agreed to sponsor a clean-up, brush-up campaign with Almonte Sanitary District during the last two weeks of April. A debris box will be provided, Davis said, for garden clippings.

Waterfoul Departing For North

Most of the waterfowl that use the Richardson Bay Sanctuary having departed for northern breeding grounds, the sanctuary area will be reopened to public use Saturday, Charles H. Callison, executive vice president of the National Audubon Society, announced today.

This is done, Callison said, in accordance with the terms of leases of the submerged lands to the society by Marin County and Belvedere for wildlife conservation purposes.

The sanctuary is closed to public use each fall when overwintering migratory birds become plentiful, usually about the middle of October. Public notice of the closing date will be given next fall as usual.

"The National Audubon Society wishes to thank the people of neighboring communities for their fine cooperation during the closed period since last October," Callison said.

Linda Arrives In Vintage Car

NEW YORK (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson stepped out of a 1931 vintage Cadillac and was greeted by actor Henry Fonda, who played the role of doorman at the Sutton Theater last night.

The event was the New York premier of Charlie Chaplin's movie, "A Countess From Hong Kong."

Vintage cars of the 1920s and early 1930s, used to recreate the Chaplin era, pulled up to the entrance of the Sutton Theater and disgorged celebrities attending the charity benefit for Research to Prevent Blindness, Inc.

Thurber Play To Be Staged At Tam High

"Many Moons," a children's fairytale by James Thurber, will be presented tomorrow and Saturday at Tamalpais High School by the fine arts department's drama-music workshop.

Performances in Ruby Scott Auditorium will be at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow and at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Producer and director is Jan McReady Arian, Tam graduate and teacher's assistant and San Francisco State College student. Additional performances will be given at elementary schools at their request, she said.

The play is about an unhappy princess who wants something, but does not know what it is until wise men find that it's the moon.

Assistant director is Diann Rigby and set designer and technical director is Paul Stoll.

'Annie' Will Close

Final performances of the San Rafael High School production of "Annie Get Your Gun" will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday at the school auditorium. The show opened last weekend.

Gallery Plans Easter-Time Art Show Fete

The Braeloch Gallery of San Rafael has announced an Easter Art Festival to be held on the Braeloch grounds at 1456 Lincoln Avenue, March 24, 25 and 26, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

Gallery director R. Jeremy Dwyer said that while it is the first such show in Marin County, he and co-director Bruce Allen Walker have conducted similar events in San Jose.

Entrants are permitted one painting in each of two categories — modern and traditional work. Only Marin County artists are invited to compete, Dwyer said.

Finland has 130,160 square miles of water surface.

Floral Paintings

A one-artist show of floral paintings by Mrs. Traute Kindt of Tiburon will be held March 21-31 at the Tiburon Gallery. Mrs. Kindt's painting won first prize this month at an exhibit held in connection with a flower show in Sacramento.

A State Withholding Tax Seems Increasingly Vital

The Governor has consistently opposed withholding income taxes in California.

While consistency and "sticking to your guns" is a commendable quality, inflexibility in the face of changing conditions can be a liability.

Conditions have changed, even during the few months that the new Administration has been in office.

The much-hoped-for hold the line program on over-all spending, let alone a reduction, has proved impossible this year.

The Governor's new tax proposal indicates that various taxes, including income tax, will be rising. In fact, raised income taxes are counted upon as the biggest source of new revenue.

The Administration tax program estimates $325 million in new revenue from increased sales tax, $30 million from tax on distilled spirits, $83 million from cigarettes and tobacco taxes, $92 million from bank and corporation taxes, and $335 million from increased income taxes.

The government should exhaust every other legitimate revenue source before asking the taxpayer to shoulder further burdens. One such revenue source is the tax that is escaping collection because of individuals and firms which leave the state during the year without paying the income tax.

The withholding system, which requires each individual or firm to pay as they earn, would plug this loophole. Estimates of escaped taxes run as high as $250 million.

The purpose of withholding (like the federal income tax) is not only to ease the jolt of paying all at once but also to make sure that all taxpayers pay their share, regardless of the length of their stay in California.

The Administration's proposal to raise income taxes will only aggravate the inequity between "permanent" Californians who pay regularly and those who continue to escape taxes.

Faced with even higher income taxes this coming year, taxpayers are justified in demanding that those who go scot free now should help share the added burden.

As long as the Administration finds that it must raise income taxes, it would do well to reconsider its inflexible stand against the withholding system.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

The first computer to "talk" without prerecorded taped sounds has been invented by a Japanese scientist.

It took an entire year for the inventor and a team of four scholars to figure out how to simulate the 17 functions of the human throat in electronic terms. It took three more years to build the machine.

Within 10 days of its completion, the computer learned 20 of the 50 basic sounds in the Japanese language, and enough words to speak about 10 simple sentences. After it has been taught to master Japanese, the machine will start learning foreign languages.

Although its inventor hopes to make the talking computer sound friendlier as time goes on, the sounds it emits at present are flat and bare of emotion.

Computers can perform astonishing feats in enabling man to get quick answers for highly complicated problems. But even the most efficient and "friendliest" machine is no match for the spontaneity and personality which Almighty God has planted in the most ordinary human being.

"A pleasant voice multiplies friends, and a gracious tongue multiplies courtesies."
(Sirach 6:5)

Help me to develop my unique personality, Lord, by paying more attention to others and less to self.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Year-Old Medi-Cal Program Due Legislators' Searching Look

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The Assembly Committee on Public Health, with its new chairman, Assemblyman Gordon W. Duffy, R - Hanford, is launching one of the biggest in-session studies in years, concerning the state's year - old Medi-Cal program.

An air of urgency is present in plans for the hearings on the program because of the fact the 1967-68 budget presently calls for $99 million to make up for shortages in the current program.

THE PROGRAM was enacted quickly during a special session in late 1965 and took effect in March, 1966. It was to supplement the federal Medicare program, which provides doctor's care and medical services to persons under Social Security, or over 65.

Medi-Cal applies to persons not on Social Security or over 65 and includes persons on some sort of welfare program, as well as "medically indigent." The latter are persons of low incomes who would qualify for welfare if they spent necessary money on medical expenses.

"This is the first time there has been a study of this program since it began," Duffy said. "It was enacted quickly and there were a lot of questions. Many of those questions have been answered by the administration through adoption of policies.

"NOW IT'S TIME to see whether it's being carried on as it should," he said. "We want to know if the people who are supposed to be getting the care are getting it.

"We want to find out if the fees are reasonable," Duffy said. "And we also want to know if we are breeding a category of welfare doctors."

Duffy said the area of the study is so broad and so little is known that this is one series of hearings which the committee is entering with open minds. However, Duffy admitted that he had voted against the bill which set up the original program.

The present budget must pick up a carry-over deficit from 1965-66 of several million dollars, plus a deficit in the 1966-67 fiscal year. This total of some $24 million must be added to an expected shortage of $75 million in the coming year for a total need of $99 million.

DUFFY SAID some of the deficit is explained away automatically by the fact that nurses' salaries and other hospital costs have increased dramatically. However, Duffy said the committee also would study other possible causes of the deficit, including doctors' fees.

In another area, under a policy adopted by the health and welfare administrator, services to the medically indigent have been limited to in-service care — actual hospitalization. By July of this year, this service will have to be expanded, under federal law, to include out-patient care for the medically indigent.

This expansion will qualify the program for considerably more federal funds, Duffy said. However, this money will go to the counties who now are handling the out-patient care for medically indigent. The state actually will have to spend more under expansion of the program.

The committee's first hearing will be April 4.

FINANCIAL QUESTIONS hopefully will be resolved in time to permit adjustments in the 1967-68 budget, if needed.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Medicare Speed Is One Solution

Editor, Independent-Journal:

It may well be that your paper will not think it advisable to publish a copy of my letter to Congressman Clausen, dated Dec. 29.

Congressman Clausen did not choose to acknowledge receipt of my letter, evidently not deeming it important enough for comment.

I believe, however, there are many solid citizens and organizations who, if acquainted with the lack of efficient processing of claims by the California Physicians Service, will get together and do something to correct the situation.

As a matter of fact, reputable physicians have informed me after almost nine months since the inception of Medicare they still wait four months and more for payment of claims.

According to Look magazine, "the state of our nation's health is bad, we rank far below less affluent countries."

It is my opinion the prompt processing of Medicare claims will be of some help to correct the above quote.

To Servicemen: You Are America

Editor, Independent-Journal;

This is written in answer to L/C Doug MacRae, U.S.M.C. and A/2C Dave Rosso, whose letters recently appeared in your paper.

Gentlemen, we are as proud of you as you are of the uniform which you wear. You are the backbone and the salvation of the future of our country . . .

You are not ashamed of being called a "patriot." You are not so lazy in mind and body that you have to rely on the "needle" or "weed" to dull your senses to keep you from exerting any energy. You have a love of life and clean adventure so you do not have to depend on a pill to take a trip". You have enough confidence in yourself as an individual so you do not have to dress and look like a freak in order to attract attention. You have respect for others and their well-being so you believe in law and order and do not have to condemn law enforcement agencies to cover a personal weakness. You have enough pride and intelligence so that you can speak for yourself and not be a blurred face and chanting voice in a herd directed and controlled by a few radicals whose job it is to mold the weak in mind into one ugly mass of soft clay.

Because you are what you are and because you have left the shelter of your own home in the cause of freedom for mankind, we ask that you be given all the support and protection that our government can give, and that you not be handicapped by the ideas promoted by Senators Morse, Kennedy (Bobby), Fulbright, and their ilk, whose public utterings are giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

Thank you for the sacrifices you are making. When the job is done, we'll welcome you home with open arms and pride in our hearts. You are America.

New Year Time For Peace, Unity

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On March 21, members of the Baha'i Faith all over the world will celebrate Naw-Ruz, our New Year.

The date is astronomically fixed at the March equinox—the first day of spring. We look to a spiritual renewal to coincide with the physical rebirth in the world at springtime.

We are hopeful for peace and unity on earth, for "the earth is but one country and mankind its citizens."

Just What Are We Fighting For?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In a recent letter to the I-J, L/C Doug MacRae suggested that an invasion of Stinson Beach or Lucas Valley sounds proposterous. I disagree. It is entirely within the bounds of our current military action and morality. If we are foredoomed by a Communist plot to dominate the world, why don't we have the U.S. military bomb those two communities now? After all, what are Stinson Beach and Lucas Valley but a couple of small friendly villages.

If the parents involved are grieved over the loss of a few children, we taxpayers can easily afford to pay them $29.95 per child. Considering the cost of military might, it is far more expensive to kill than to educate, and we must somehow prove to those Viet Cong tax collectors that we peace-loving Americans, as well as the Communists, are willing and able to spend far more money to kill, than to feed the hungry, or to educate the living.

Those of us who continue to believe in the teachings of Jesus, such as "Love thy neighbor as thyself," cannot accept the incantations of Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas who urges us to kill thy neighbor as thyself.

What could be more civilized in this atomic-space age, than the peoples of a powerful nation, either American or Russian, who preach democracy and practice the opposite.

MacRae assures himself and all the small villagers that he is fighting for their right to protest military suicide and slaughter. I hope he lives to find out whether or not he is right. Other Americans have not been so fortunate. History did not fall in line with the U.S. propaganda of World War I. Over 125,000 were killed, believing that they were fighting the war to end all wars.

Good Samaritan Role Applauded

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In response to the letters from servicemen who have recently written about Vietnam, I want to assure you boys that there are many of us who pray for you and wish you well. May God speed your return home! We appreciate your sacrifices, understand that this is a dirty job that has to be done, and thank you for doing it for us.

It is hard for some to understand why we are sending you boys around the world to fight for people that we do not know; but not so hard if we picture it thus: If we should see a child in front of our house being attacked and viciously beaten, and just stand there and do nothing, are we not in effect aiding and abetting that crime? So too, if we were to allow the people of Vietnam to fall into the hands of the Viet Cong, who have proved by their actions that no crime is too unspeakable for them to commit, then our country must share in the guilt for that crime.

We hear a great deal today about how we should love our neighbor. But who is our neighbor? Christ answered that question with the story about the good Samaritan who stopped to help a complete stranger who had been attacked. May the United States continue to be a "good Samaritan" to the people of Vietnam.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

AT THE ST. JAMES club in England, an elderly party admitted, "I'll never forget a night I spent at a rundown old castle near the Welsh border. It was raining cats and dogs outside. The most sinister looking butler I ever beheld led me to a bedroom at the far end of a dank corridor. 'Anything unusual ever transpire in this room?' I demanded. 'Not in 41 years,' cackled the butler. 'And what happened THEN?' I persisted. The butler's chuckle froze the marrow in my bones as he answered slowly, 'A man who stayed here the entire night showed up for breakfast in the morning'."

Romney's Unstable Viet Policy Stand Renders Him Vulnerable

WASHINGTON—Gov. George Romney is in political peril because he has been all over the lot on Vietnam.

He could lose the Republican presidential nomination on this issue alone if he does not act soon to repair his uncertain and incomprehensible public statements and take a stand which is persuasive and credible.

Thus far, many of Romney's supporters are dismayed—and his opponents, Republican and Democratic, are delighted.

THE QUESTION is no longer whether the Governor needs to define his views on Vietnam and make them coherent. The question is what are his choices.

He could continue to be a jab-and-run critic of the Administration as he was during his recent five-state political trip.

He could move in the direction of let's-negotiate-at-almost-any-price, which would hardly distinguish him from Senators Robert Kennedy and William Fulbright.

He could make it clear that the United States was right in resisting the aggression against South Vietnam and that his goal would be to succeed at it.

AN ARDENT and knowledgeable supporter of Romney put it this way recently in private conversation:

"All he needs to do is to make it clear that he basically supports the President in the decision to defend South Vietnam. I am convinced that this would reflect his own convictions. He does not have to propose alternative actions. He should not play Kennedy. He should leave the conduct of the war alone. That's Johnson's problem. That's Johnson's responsibility."

It may not be quite that simple, because Romney does not wish and does not need to give the President any blank-check support for what he may do on the future or an unqualified endorsement for the way he has handled the peace possibilities.

I WOULD NOT be surprised to see Romney, after his upcoming trip to Saigon, clarify his position along these lines:

1. That the U.S. could not and should not have stood by and watched the aggression against South Vietnam take place without doing anything about it. We had to help if the word of the United States was to be kept.

2. That the U.S. must and should see it through, willing to negotiate, willing to keep up the military pressure as long as necessary.

3. That Vietnam ought not to be made a campaign football and that he has no intention of saying anything which would lend aid and comfort to Hanoi or make it more difficult for the President.

BEYOND HIS own convictions on these points, there are political factors which could add their weight to causing Romney to move in this direction.

The Republican party is overwhelmingly united in supporting the defense of South Vietnam. The Democrats are substantially disunited and at the highest level of party leadership, which helps persuade Hanoi that we are so divided that it can win by hanging on a little longer.

Robert J. Donovan of the Los Angeles Times reports from New Hampshire that as things now stand Richard Nixon — whose position is very clear on Vietnam — would defeat Romney in the New Hampshire primary.

The return of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge from Saigon in the next few months heralds an important political role for him. He won New Hampshire hands down in 1964. He wants to support Romney and his support in New Hampshire could be decisive.

Lodge can support Romney only if they are in basic agreement on Vietnam. They conferred at length recently in Washington and will be conferring in a Vietnam stand which would enable him to support him.

LBJ Cautious About Humphrey's Advice

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Vice President Humphrey is pressing President Johnson to make sweeping changes at the Democratic National headquarters.

Deeply concerned over the breakdown in communications between the National Committee and state organizations, Humphrey has proposed that Chairman John Bailey be replaced with former Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward McCormack, 42-year-old nephew of Speaker McCormack.

Humphrey also wants the committee restaffed with younger people to give the party a more vigorous image to attract the millions of voters who will be casting their first ballots in 1968.

IN URGING the changes during a frank discussion at the White House, the Vice President told the President that the appointment of a new chairman was vital to bolster his popularity and tighten control over the party.

McCormack's attributes of youth and energy, Humphrey stressed, could be used effectively to counter the appeal Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y., has for Irish-Catholic politicians within the party.

Although expressing doubts that Kennedy would attempt to challenge the President in 1968, Humphrey warned that this possibility could not be ruled out completely because of Kennedy's growing political activities.

President Johnson, after raising several questions about McCormack's past unsuccessful political bids, concluded the discussions, stating:

"ALL YOUR SUGGESTIONS are good and let's pursue them further when Marvin Watson is available. Changes are being made at the National Committee, and we should make more. As for Eddie McCormack, I would like to discuss this with Speaker McCormack and get his reaction."

Bailey, who has served in his present post longer than any other national chairman except Jim Farley, was selected by President Kennedy in 1961.

Following Kennedy's assassination in November 1963, President Johnson asked Bailey to stay on. He has served as a "figurehead" chairman, with authority for making political decisions remaining in the White House. At present, presidential assistant Marvin Watson makes most of these.

SIGNIFICANTLY, Vice President Humphrey has begun to take a more active role in President Johnson's growing feud with Senator Kennedy.

Before Kennedy delivered his speech calling on the U.S. to stop the bombing of North Vietnam, Humphrey personally contacted more than a dozen Democratic senators urging them to denounce Kennedy for his stand.

In these talks he pointed out that Kennedy had refused an urgent appeal by Ambassador Averell Harriman, a close friend, not to make the speech because it might upset delicate diplomatic negotiations on Vietnam.

THE PRESIDENT'S Commission on Crime is drafting its own proposed anti-eavesdropping statute.

The proposal, which would require law enforcement officials to obtain advance court approval, would permit the use of listening devices in major federal criminal cases. Federal officials would have to show that normal investigative procedures had been tried and had failed.

Class In Swahili Presenting Insight Into African Cultures

Who in Marin County would want to study Swahili?

For that matter, what is Swahili?

Putting the last first, Swahili is a language, more or less understood the length and breadth of the huge continent of Africa. It is especially favored by traders, including the traveling Arabic merchants, I've been told.

AND, BROTHER, if the natives of Africa can understand it easily, they're no simple savages. After a fair grounding in English grammar, wrestling with at least 10 tenses in Spanish and exposure to German, I'm fascinated with the complexities of the African tongue.

About 50 Marinites are interested enough in learning Swahili to go each Thursday night to a small schoolroom in Marin City. Eight out of 10 students are Negro. All seem to be keenly interested not only in the language, but also seek a new viewpoint on African cultures.

Teacher is a charming native of Africa named John Shoka. A former student at College of Marin, he's now a graduate student at San Francisco State College. He has a happy, relaxed sincerity that is getting across to his students.

The classes are a busy three hours, half devoted to learning to talk Swahili, and half to African culture.

And that is where the students really turn on.

The other night, one young man suddenly sat bolt upright while Shoka was talking about the glories of Egypt.

"MAN, I LEARNED all about Egypt in grade school — but I never thought those people were Africans," he exclaimed.

Not only that, but Egypt drew greatly from other cultures all over Africa, Shoka assured the class.

This was good; this was some of that identity with a past the young Negro students had been hungering for.

THIS IS NO different from the European who searches genealogies to find a family crest, or the American who boasts that his ancestors fought at Valley Forge. But there's surprisingly little in print about the powerful kingdoms that held sway in Africa when plague and superstition ruled Medieval Europe.

Some of John Shoka's students seemed a bit disappointed to learn that Swahili has no native alphabet of its own; it uses Roman letters.

HOW MUCH African writing exists, outside Egypt, we haven't been told yet. But I personally know that Africa strongly influenced European culture.

The pre-Christian Bushmen, who may have lived as long ago as Europe's cave men, were remarkable artists. The color and vigor of their drawings is still an inspiration to modern artists.

In the British Museum, I have seen cases full of African bronze and iron craftsmanship so sophisticated the objects seem destined to go in some ultramodern Marin waterfront apartment. Yet they are centuries old.

So, it will be interesting to see what comes out of the class in Marin City in the 10 weeks it has yet to run.

THE STUDENTS aren't interested purely in ivory-tower learning. Their insights and their resentments demand more than that.

It's humorous, and yet it isn't, to an Ofay like myself. I couldn't help remembering when I was the only so-called Anglo in a school in Mexico. As a seven-year-old, I got so I could run like hell, to keep my classmates from beating up the dirty Gringo.

Trying to tell my Mexican classmates that my family didn't rob its servants (or have any to mistreat, for that matter), didn't drive Cadillacs, and wasn't rolling in gold, didn't make any impression.

BUT WHEN they found out that my family once grew cotton and corn, and my father was a non-wealthy but busy artist—these things had value in relation to the Mexican background.

This is just one man's opinion, but I think John Shoka's class will give the students something to equate better Negro values with today's society. If Negroes know that back in Africa their ancestors were expert artisans, great architects, powerful politicians, even good farmers in a hostile environment, they'll have something to be proud of.

And not in the sense of the belittled Uncle Tom.

WHICH REMINDS me:

In lesson Two, the students wanted to know the Swahili for Uncle Tom.

It's Mjomba Tomasa.

There, now you know something in Swahili.

50 Marinites On Honors List At Davis

Fifty students from Marin have been named to the dean's honors list at the University of California, Davis, for maintaining a B average in the 1966 fall quarter, it has been announced. They are:

Belvedere: Thomas C. Cooke and Robert Merchant Jr.

Greenbrae: Amy L. Mazza and Anne L. Rakestraw.

Kentfield: Claudia J. Dimpfl, George A. Gutekunst, John Heath, and Peter S. G. Newton.

Larkspur: Susan A. Loeffler, Claudia A. Marker, Anne L. Proctor and Carol E. Shenson.

Marshall: Eric E. Angress.

Tiburon: Paul W. Brady.

Woodacre: Melinda J. Tarr.

Speaker Announced

Stanley Dunmire of Napa, director of legislation for the Retired State Government Employees Association, will speak before the Marin chapter of the organization at noon Monday at the Kettle Restaurant, San Rafael. He will discuss bills in the current Legislature affecting state employees' retirement.

Judge New Hanna Boys' Director

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court yesterday was elected to the board of directors of Hanna Boys' Center in Sonoma.

Judge Haley joins Albert V. Martin of San Rafael as a Marin representative on the board of the western "boys' town." Joseph W. Fontana of Sausalito, whose term has expired, was awarded a certificate citing his outstanding contributions to Hanna Center as a member of the board's executive committee.

What About Credibility Gap In Everyday Common Sense

OF ALL OUR MANY credibility gaps, no yawning chasm is as wide as that between the theories of our self-anointed intellectuals and plain, everyday common sense.

Yet there you are. If a first-grader says "Two and two make five," he is corrected. But let a so-called intellectual say it, and it gets serious editorial attention. Eventually, it may even become a law.

I've often asked the advocates of unlimited welfare to show me one case in recorded history where a government continually spent more than it took in and survived. The reply has always been—when I wasn't ignored altogether—that I placed property rights above human rights. That may be so, but it certainly is irrelevant and immaterial, and I wish the judge would direct the defendant to be more responsive.

IT IS THE LIBERAL'S proud—and patronizing—boast that he has made this the Era of the Common Man. I say patronizing because the last thing in the world he wants for himself is to be regarded as a common man.

No, he is a superior being, fairly reeking with intellect and goodness, and his heart bleeds profusely and constantly—I have termed the phenomenon cardiac hemophilia—for less fortunate folk. If God is dead, He was thoughtful enough to leave us intellectual humanitarians to take His place.

To these deep thinkers, money, though they scream at it in other hands, is not necessarily the root of all evil. Just give them enough and they will produce instant justice, integration, security and peace. So they say.

They do not, however, mention bankruptcy—a far more likely concomitant. If the poor, via the Anti-Poverty program, can make more—as has happened—by not working than working, you haven't cured poverty but are perpetuating it. Parkinson's Law.

LIKEWISE, IF YOU gush too sentimentally over the plight of an unmarried mother by giving her an extra allowance for each of her five children, the chances are good she'll have six. Just such a case was reported in England. When the welfare people asked the lady why she didn't marry the father of her five, she replied, "I don't like him that much."

The papers chronicle that the President's Commission on Education, after deep research, concludes that children of poor families, if taught with other such children, are bound to get an inferior education. To which I say, "Horsefeathers!"

In my day, the students at the College of the City of New York came almost entirely from the families of the "huddled masses" immortalized by Emma Lazarus. And out of that college poured thousands who wrote their names indelibly on the history of Manhattan.

In the arts, the professions and the business world, they ranked every bit as high as those from the Ivy League. And managed at the same time to turn out basketball teams that beat the bejabbers out of Yale, Harvard and my own Columbia. But that, of course, was pre-welfare.

WASHINGTON NOW has "public facility" plans, notes the Chicago Daily News, that will require $500 billion over the next decade, with the final cost of these programs coming to a trillion and a half. (I was going to run that last item in figures, but I never remember how many zeros there are in a trillion.)

Where is that money coming from, you ask? Sorry, but your conservative background is showing. Whatever is needed, God—oops!—I mean the Welfare State will provide. You can fly now—and let your children and grandchildren pay later.

I was shocked when friends, visiting India, wrote me of the beggar caste, which deliberately mutilates its children at birth to make them objects of pity that will stir the purse strings of tourists.

BUT, IF OUR bleeding hearts have their way, it won't be too long before visiting Indians are tossing pennies to our own children, sold into the slavery of the Welfare State.

Intellectuals? Says who?

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, March 16, the 75th day of 1967 with 290 to follow.

The moon is between its first stage and new quarter. The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The fourth president of the United States, James Madison, was born on this day in 1751.

On this day in history:

In 1882, the Senate approved a treaty making the United States a member of the Red Cross.

In 1945, Japanese resistance ended on Iwo Jima.

In 1966, astronauts Armstrong and Scott successfully docked their Gemini 8 with an Agena craft—the first docking of orbiting spacecraft.

A Thought for the Day — British writer Izaak Walton said it: "Look to your health; and if you have it, praise God, and value it next to a good conscience . . ."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Playing Can Be Tough Even In Far-Off Tasmania

Tasmania is almost as far south as you can go and still find good bridge players.

It's only appropriate, therefore, that the South cards in today's hand were held and elegantly played by a Tasmanian expert named Kaljuvee.

Opening lead — ◇ A

West made the inelegant opening lead of the ace of diamonds.

You don't often see this kind of play in the Australian National Team Championships, but you'll find only the truth in this column.

SOUTH PLEASED

West continued with the five of diamonds, and East took the king and continued with a diamond to the queen.

Kaljuvee sighed with some relief; he would not have won a diamond trick if West had made the proper lead of the four of diamonds.

Nevertheless, declarer was not yet out of the woods. He had only eight tricks and if he let East get a trick the rest of the diamonds would defeat him.

In a case of this kind it always pays to take tricks that present no problem.

Our Tasmanian hero cashed the four hearts to see how East liked them.

FEELS PRESSURE

East could afford to discard one spade, but could not part with another.

He likewise could not afford to part with a club.

For lack of anything better East had to throw one of his good diamonds.

Now declarer could afford to cash the good clubs and give up a club.

East could cash his remaining good diamond, but then dummy had the last two tricks with the nine of clubs and the ace of spades.

(Dummy had previously thrown a spade on the third round of diamonds.)

It's a comfort to know that you'll find experts and bridge clubs even if you take a trip more than halfway to the South Pole.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

♠ K J 6
♥ 8 3
♦ K J 10 8 6
♣ Q J 10

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

This hand was opened with one diamond in the Australian National Team Championships, but most experts would consider it not quite worth an opening bid.

Change either of the kings to the ace, and the hand would be a sound opening bid.

REMEMBER

the good old Fairfax summer houses you used to be able to buy for not much money? Lovely view of M. Tam, good sun and privacy, and lots of trees and plantings? Most of them are gone now, but we've just found one that brings back the good old days. On a lovely lot in the Cascades with such a big lot that there's an extra legal building site. The old house has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, a big deck and lots of charm just waiting for you to develop it.

DOUG DICKER SAYS:

JUST LEAVE US A BUCK PROFIT!

INVENTORY CUT-BACK ON NEW '67 CARS

Our showroom floor and warehouse are packed with new '67 cars! We're overstocked and undermanned! And must cut down on our inventory. So Doug Dicker wants you to select your new car from our over HALF-MILLION DOLLAR inventory of new '67 cars. As Dicker says: "Leave me a buck profit . . . JUST ONE DOLLAR . . . that's all I want on your choice from my inventory of new '67 cars."

LEAD THE EASTER PARADE IN A NEW '67 CAR FROM DOUG DICKER'S!

5 Reasons Why Dicker's Out to Become California's No. 1 Chrysler Dealer:

1. DOUG DICKER customers have the option of ORDERING any new car at a guaranteed base price . . . without being coerced into buying loaded models off our floor!
2. DOUG DICKER'S HIGH VOLUME SALES cuts the unit cost on every car. These savings are automatically passed on to you.
3. The convenient "$50 Delivers" and "Pick-Your-Payment" program at Doug Dicker's has enabled hundreds of Marinites to purchase cars they had never before realized they could afford to own.
4. A friendly, courteous sales staff at Doug Dicker's relies upon your customer intelligence to know "a good buy" without resorting to high pressure tactics.
5. DOUG DICKER'S factory-equipped service department is geared to handle high volume service requirements to customer satisfaction.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Mysterious Malabsorption Syndrome Can Be Common

VAN DELLEN

The malabsorption syndrome is impaired absorption of foodstuffs by the small intestine. Most of the victims cannot assimilate fats but many also are unable to utilize proteins, minerals, and vitamins. In the severe form, the bowel cannot absorb even water. These individuals are acutely ill and must be fed intravenously.

The malabsorption syndrome comes in many packages and may be more common than we are led to believe. Diagnosis is difficult because the condition develops so slowly and is accompanied by bizarre signs and symptoms. The severe forms of the disease are obvious, but the mild types are easily missed.

IN PRIMARY malabsorption the flaw is in the wall of the intestine. Nontropical and tropical sprue are examples. Celiac disease is their counterpart in children. The secondary form of the disease stems from disorders of the pancreas and the liver, parasites, tumors, drugs, and mechanical defects of the small bowel. Stomach resection because of ulcer also interferes with the assimilation of nutrients.

Since most of the victims cannot absorb fats, the stools are likely to be liquid and frothy (steatorrhea). Vitamins A, D, E, and K are dissolved in fats and a deficiency may develop when they are not carried into the system along with the fats. Inability to absorb proteins or vitamin B 12 leads to anemia. A failure here leads to deficiencies in other systems explaining the bizarre nature of the disorder.

DYSPEPSIA, lack of appetite, weakness, weight loss, depression, bloating and abdominal cramps are the most common complaints. Other signs include muscle spasms, aching and bleeding tendencies. The skin may darken, the tongue redden, and painful fissures develop at the corners of the mouth. Diagnostic tests are available and treatment usually is successful.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

DAILY VITAMINS

L. A. B. writes: Is it necessary for a person who is in good health (no apparent vitamin deficiency) and who maintains a balanced diet to take several kinds of vitamins daily?

REPLY

Not unless he has habits such as over indulging in alcohol that require additional vitamins.

NOT ADVISED

Mrs. M. E. J. writes: Will cod liver oil or baking soda help high blood pressure?

REPLY

No. Furthermore, soda bicarb may increase blood pressure because it, like table salt, contains sodium. In certain types of hypertension this element is taboo.

VITAMINS, BLEEDING

J. I. writes: Please correct me if I'm mistaken but I think you will find that bleeding tendencies are associated with deficiencies of vitamin K and not vitamin C.

REPLY

Did you ever hear of scurvy? Deficiencies of either vitamin C or K lead to bleeding tendencies.

FOOT CALLUS

L. E. writes: Will surgical removal of calluses prevent recurrence?

REPLY

No, not unless the source (fallen arches or improperly fitted shoes) is corrected also.

SCAR REMAINS

F. B. writes: In a case of arrested tuberculosis, does the lesion always remain?

REPLY

The healed lesion remains as a scar.

Two Appointed To Parks Board

SACRAMENTO (CNS)— Gov. Ronald Reagan has announced the appointment of Horace Parker, Balboa Island veterinarian, and Leonard S. Thomson, Taft stock broker, as members of the state park commission.

Parker succeeds John P. Elsbach of Los Angeles and Thomson will take the place of George C. Fleharty, Atherton, who was the chairman. Both new appointees are Republicans.

Parker, a retired veterinarian, is a trustee and former president of the board of trustees of Orange Coast college. Thomson is the the stock brokerage business in Taft and formerly was associated with the Honolulu Oil Corp.

Both new appointees are members of the Sierra Club.

Rights Group Revives Study

The education committee of the Marin Human Rights Commission last night revived preschool programs and courses offered by Sausalito and Tamalpail high school districts, seeking means of assuring quality, integrated education.

It was noted that no recent high school graduate from Marin City has gone on to a four-year college, and too few have gone to College of Marin, reported Robert Brauer, commission executive officer.

The committee, headed by Walter B. Belden, met at the home of Bella H. Aaron in Sausalito, in its first meeting. Further sessions will be set soon, Brauer said.

Sheriff's Station Rental Approved

The Kentfield Fire District Commission last night agreed to rent a sheriff's substation at the planned new fire station to the county on a five-year lease.

The commission originally proposed to add the substation to the new fire station for use on a 20-year lease, but the county Board of Supervisors asked the commission for a shorter lease. The commission did not set a rental figure.

Former Point Choirmaster To Lift Baton

An 85-year-old former choirmaster at West Point, now visiting his son in Kentfield, will pick up his baton again tomorrow.

Frederick C. Mayer, choirmaster and chapel organist at the U. S. Military Academy from 1911 to 1954, will direct a West Point alumni group in alma mater songs during the annual Founders' Day reunion at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Mayer, an organist, composer and carillon architect, also will play two of his own marches, "Spirit of West Point" and "Flying Falcons," which he composed for the military and Air Force academies.

He has been visiting his son, John R. Mayer of 16 Hillside Avenue, since Christmas Eve and will leave on a motor trip to his home city of New York tomorrow.

Mayer spends his time visiting his children, including a daughter in Geneva, Switzerland, "and went skiing on his 80th birthday," according to his daughter-in-law, Mrs. John R. Mayer.

GOP Women To Study Operations Of ABAG

The Novato Federation of Republican Women, headed by Mrs. John Haines, will meet Tuesday at 11 a.m. at Nave Lanes Restaurant, Ignacio.

Mrs. Eugenia Kay of Walnut Creek Federation of Republican Women will conduct a workshop on ABAG, Association of Bay Area Governments. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m.

To Graduate Saturday

Three students from Marin are scheduled to receive their bachelors' degrees Saturday from the University of California at Davis: John E. Heath of Kentfield in engineering, Edward E. Grissell of San Anselmo in entomology, and Betty J. Bregante of San Rafael in home economics.

Scout 'Fun Day'

Cub Scout Pack 7 of Fairfax will hold "Fun Day," its annual fund-raising event, from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Saturday at Manor School. Fairfax merchants have donated prizes to be awarded.

Professors Recite Impact Of Freud

By CAROL MARSH

Few fields of endeavor have escaped the impact of Freudian psychology.

That was the main message at a discussion by five members of the College of Marin faculty and a theology student yesterday at College of Marin.

The discussion, first in a "Great Man" series sponsored by the associated students, was shown over closed circuit television throughout the student center.

Donald R. Holmlund, a psychology teacher, briefly described Freud's theories. Freud defined the personality in three parts: the id, or pleasure principle; the ego, or reality principle, and the superego, or conscience.

Holmlund said Freud was the first to develop a complete theory of personality. He described man's thoughts, desires and feelings as being seven-eighth unconscious, and explained adult behavior in terms of "psychosexual" development in the first four or five years of life.

Holmlund said Freud's great impact on psychology is not fully recognized because many of the theories Freud developed are taken today as self-evident truths.

Karen Riley, a sociology and anthropology teacher, said Freud's theories marked the end of the assumption that man's cultural development was rational.

The relationship of the individual to his culture was neglected before Freud's theory of personality was developed, she said. Freud also opened up the field of sexual research, making sex "researchable."

Donald Palmer, a philosophy teacher, said Freud forced the re-evaluation of philosophers whose theories had been rejected until Freud provided a scientific basis for them. He said Freud's theories also led to a re-evaluation of philosophical thought on free will.

Charles Robertson, a theology student at San Francisco Theological Seminary, said the idea of progress, or of man's perfectability, ended with Freud.

The entire field of abstract art was influenced and made acceptable by Freud's theories, Thomas Johnson, an art instructor, said. And those theories, he declared, have made people more tolerant toward artists' attempts to portray something deeper than surface impressions. However, Freud's emphasis on symbolism has had a "threatening" effect on art, Johnson declared.

Jack de Benedictis, a communications teacher, illustrated the effect of Freud on literature by writings of Freud and of James Joyce dealing with similar subjects in similar ways.

Two more "Great Man" discussions are planned, at noon on April 19 and May 17.

Dentist Faces Back Tax Fine

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal grand jury returned an income tax indictment yesterday against Dr. Kenneth A. Hobson of Atherton. Jurors said he understated his income for the years 1960 through 1963.

The orthodonist is charged with evading taxes on $27,000 of income.

If convicted he could receive a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine on each of four counts against him.

Cub Scout Kite Derby Is April 1

A kite derby for Marin County Cub Scouts will be held at 12:30 p.m. April 1 at the Civic Center, with prizes to be awarded the largest, smallest, highest flying and most unusual kites. The Marin Council of Boy Scouts is sponsoring. Registration will begin at 11 a.m.

Court Hears Marincello Road Debate

Testimony on behalf of petitioners for a referendum on a Marincello access road has ended in Marin Superior Court and a two-day review session is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson, hearing the case, said he will rule at close of that session on how many petition signatures disqualified by the county clerk's office are actually legal.

If an insufficient number is ruled legal, the petition will be denied.

If the number of disqualified signatures found legal reaches the needed total of 316, additional hearing will be required to give Frouge Corp., developers of Marincello, opportunity to challenge names on the petition, said Judge Wilson.

Golden Gate Headlands Committee filed the petition last May 11, demanding that the board of supervisors either negate its ordinance granting the road access, or call a referendum.

British Halt Pipeline Sale

LONDON (AP) — The British government last night forbade the sale of the empty oil pipeline between Rhodesia and the port of Beira, in Portuguese Mozambique.

Operation of the 180-mile pipeline was halted in December 1965 as part of the campaign to overturn the unilateral declaration of independence by the white minority government of the British colony.

The pipeline is reported on the market, and the British are concerned that it might be bought by international interest sthat would flout the oil blockade against Rhodesia.

The order barring its sale was issued to the Lonrho company, a British firm which controls 62 per cent of the Portuguese corporation that owns the pipeline.

Group Discussions To Match Lectures

Small group discussions between addresses by major speakers will be a new feature this year of the Thomas Verner Moore Memorial Lectures, presented annually by San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

The group discussions will be aimed at producing questions to present lecturers at the April 10 and 11 event.

Theme for the lectures this year will be the Christian's involvement and responsibilities in facing the world's current revolutions.

Lecturers will be M. M. Thomas, a visiting professor at Union Theological Seminary in New York and director of the Christian Institute for the Study of Religion and Society in India, and Rev. Charles C. West, professor of Christian ethics at Princeton Theological Seminary, N.J., and formerly associate director of the World Council of Churches' Ecumenical Institute.

Thomas will give the opening lecture at 2 p.m. April 10 on "Christian Responsibility and World Community." After discussion groups meet at 4 p.m., Thomas will speak at 8 p.m. on "The Christian Response to the Asian Revolution."

The April 11 schedule opens at 9 a.m. with discussion groups, followed by open discussion with Thomas. At 2 p.m., Dr. West will lecture on "Theology, Ideology and Social Change." Discussion groups meet at 4 p.m., and West lectures at 8 p.m. on "Power and Reconciliation in Social Change." A final open discussion with West will be at 9 p.m.

Another new feature, an alumni luncheon, will be at noon April 11 in Alexander Hall.

All lectures and discussions will be in the sanctuary of First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo, and are open without charge to the public.

Park To Demolish Red Barn Landmark

The large red barn at Bear Valley Ranch is to be torn down by the National Park Service, which uses the ranch for headquarters for Point Reyes National Seashore.

In a letter to fellow county supervisors, Board Chairman Thomas T. Storer reported he had confirmed the park service's intention to remove the barn through correspondence with Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall. Storer said he asked Udall to see if further construction changes could be reviewed by the county planning commission prior to federal action.

Meeting Postponed

The regular meeting today of Sausalito Recreation Commission has been postponed to tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in city hall, reported chairman James E. Muldoon. Commissioners are to consider a senior citizen program.

Honoring Our "1966 Man of the Year"

ROBERT C. LAMPERT

For outstanding service to his clients, his profession and his community, we are pleased to recognize Robert C. Lampert as the recipient of our Man-of-the-Year Award. Mr. Lampert joined the local San Rafael District Office in 1964, and during his first twelve months he was named one of the Company's Freshman Five winners for 1965. Mr. Lampert led the Freshman Five in the amount of individual insurance protection sold, with a record $2,771,000. The first year total is unprecedented in the 115-year history of the Massachusetts Mutual and also is believed to be an industry record.

We proudly salute our associate, Robert C. Lampert, who has been honored by membership in the 1967 Million Dollar Round Table.

Next Move Is Up To Juan, Says Stoneham

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—"The next move is up to Juan Marichal", declared President Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants who put aside established company policy and said the club had offered $100,000 and the pitcher wanted $110,000.

Apparently pride is involved on both sides. Marichal believes Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers gets $100,000 and thinks that, as the only pitcher to win 20 games in each of the past four seasons, he should be paid more.

The Giants point out their right-hander would be getting a $25,000 raise and a total of $60,000 more over three years.

Stoneham called a special news conference yesterday, announced the terms of the negotiations and said, "We feel we have been fair to him and it would be unfair to the other players if we give him anything further."

In past years, the Giants never have announced contract figures nor amounts mentioned in negotiations and the seriousness of the holdout was seen in the unprecedented news conference.

Independent-Journal Sports
THIRD SECTION Thurs., March 16, 1967 31

The Giants paid Marichal $75,000 last season when he posted a 25-6 record and a 2.23 earned-run-average. The original offer this year was $90,000 where the ace hurler asked $125,000.

Willie Mays of the Giants is reported getting $125,000 and $100,000 is the amount believed received this season by Drysdale. He teamed with Sandy Koufax last year in contract negotiations with the Dodgers. Drysdale took a cut after a 13-16 season.

"Marichal is the highest paid at this stage of his career of any player in history", declared Vice President Charles (Chub) Feeney. "We know he is a great pitcher but are a little perplexed at his stand."

Marichal, 28, came to the Giants in mid-1960 and has 6½ years with the National League club. He pitched a 1-0 no-hitter against Houston in 1963 and was the winner in two All-Star games. His winning percentage of .691 is best among active pitchers.

Negotiations primarily have been by phone to Marichal in his Dominican Republic home. Feeney said the pitcher plans to leave for San Francisco but only because he has other business there.

Stoneham said he believes Marichal will be paid more for this season at $100,000 than is realized by many operators of major league teams and said the demands are "somewhat out of line. The next move is up to Juan. That was our last figure."

Feeney added, "He's stubborn, and so are we".

Spring Training: The Truth Season

After all these years, I've finally figured out what spring training is for. It's for the players to work the truth out of their systems.

YOU ARE ALL AWARE, I am sure, that when a player is in mid-season form, the truth is longer in him. Let a teammate get traded and his public comment will be enough to give you diabetes. Old Solly Shortstop, he will tell you, was (choose one) (1) "a great guy," (2) "a tremendous competitor," or (3) "a great team leader." "We will miss him," he will add piously.

Dissolve now to spring training. Some 2,000 players come to camp absolutely creaking with the Truth. Winter-long exposure to the little woman has convinced them of the utter futility of a lie.

"TRY THAT ONE on that dunderhead of a manager or sportswriter," she will shriek, "but don't tell me you've been to the public library. You wouldn't know which end of a book to open!"

You can see where, when Cincinnati's Joe Nuxhall came to camp and someone asked him of his opinion of teammate Milt Pappas, Joe still hadn't worked the kinks of truth out.

"I DIDN'T THINK he put out last year, not 100 per cent," Joe said candidly, adding: "Of course, I'll probably get a punch in the nose for this."

Of course, he won't. Browning tells us, "So absolutely good is Truth, Truth never hurts the teller." Besides, Joe is bigger. And tougher.

THE NUXHALL Knock was followed in short order by (a) Jimmy O'Toole's "Amen" to Joe's attack of truth; (b) Jimmy Piersall announcing he was glad Dean Chance had left the Angels because he used to get mad when outfielders made an error behind him; and (c) Don Cardwell laying the blame for the Pittsburgh pennant loss squarely in the lap of manager Harry Walker.

It was then that a reporter, seeking a few flowery goodbys for traded team captain Maury Wills of the Dodgers, approached ex-teammate Willie Davis for some prose Maury could press in his memory book.

"I NEVER CARED for the guy," Willie allowed, neatly throwing to the wrong base. "And most of the guys feel the same way."

Willie, of course, was putting out 110 per cent on this. Merely giving his own opinion would have served. Actually, the proper response where you feel this strongly is to say, "No comment." That alone is enough to sustain a whole summer of "dissension of the Dodgers" stories.

BUT ONE AREA of the Grand Old Game that is always in mid-season form as far as truth is concerned is the front office. No sooner did Willie Davis' burst of honesty come off the presses than general manager Buzzie Bavasi decided that this onslaught of truth was "bad for the game."

Now, we all know that nothing that makes Page One is bad for the game, but the facts are that the front office is always in condition to throw the truth out at first. Whenever they feel themselves weakening in this regard, they go back and replay some of their old public utterances, like "We will never leave Milwaukee," "I wish to give our manager every vote of confidence," or "Fire Casey Stengel?! (or Yogi Berra?!) (or Babe Ruth?!) Sell out to CBS?! Are you crazy?!"

MEANWHILE, WOULDN'T it be refreshing if the whole world went at spring training in the truth? Imagine the White House saying: "Bobby Kennedy? Never cared for the guy to tell the truth. Frankly, all he knows about China he found in a fortune cookie."

The British prime minister might refer to Charles De Gaulle as the "awful tower of France." Premier Kosygin could rip off a wire to Mao Tse-tung: "Shut up and do the shirts!" The CIA could say, "Of course, we're spies. What the hell did you think we were—the Salvation Army?"

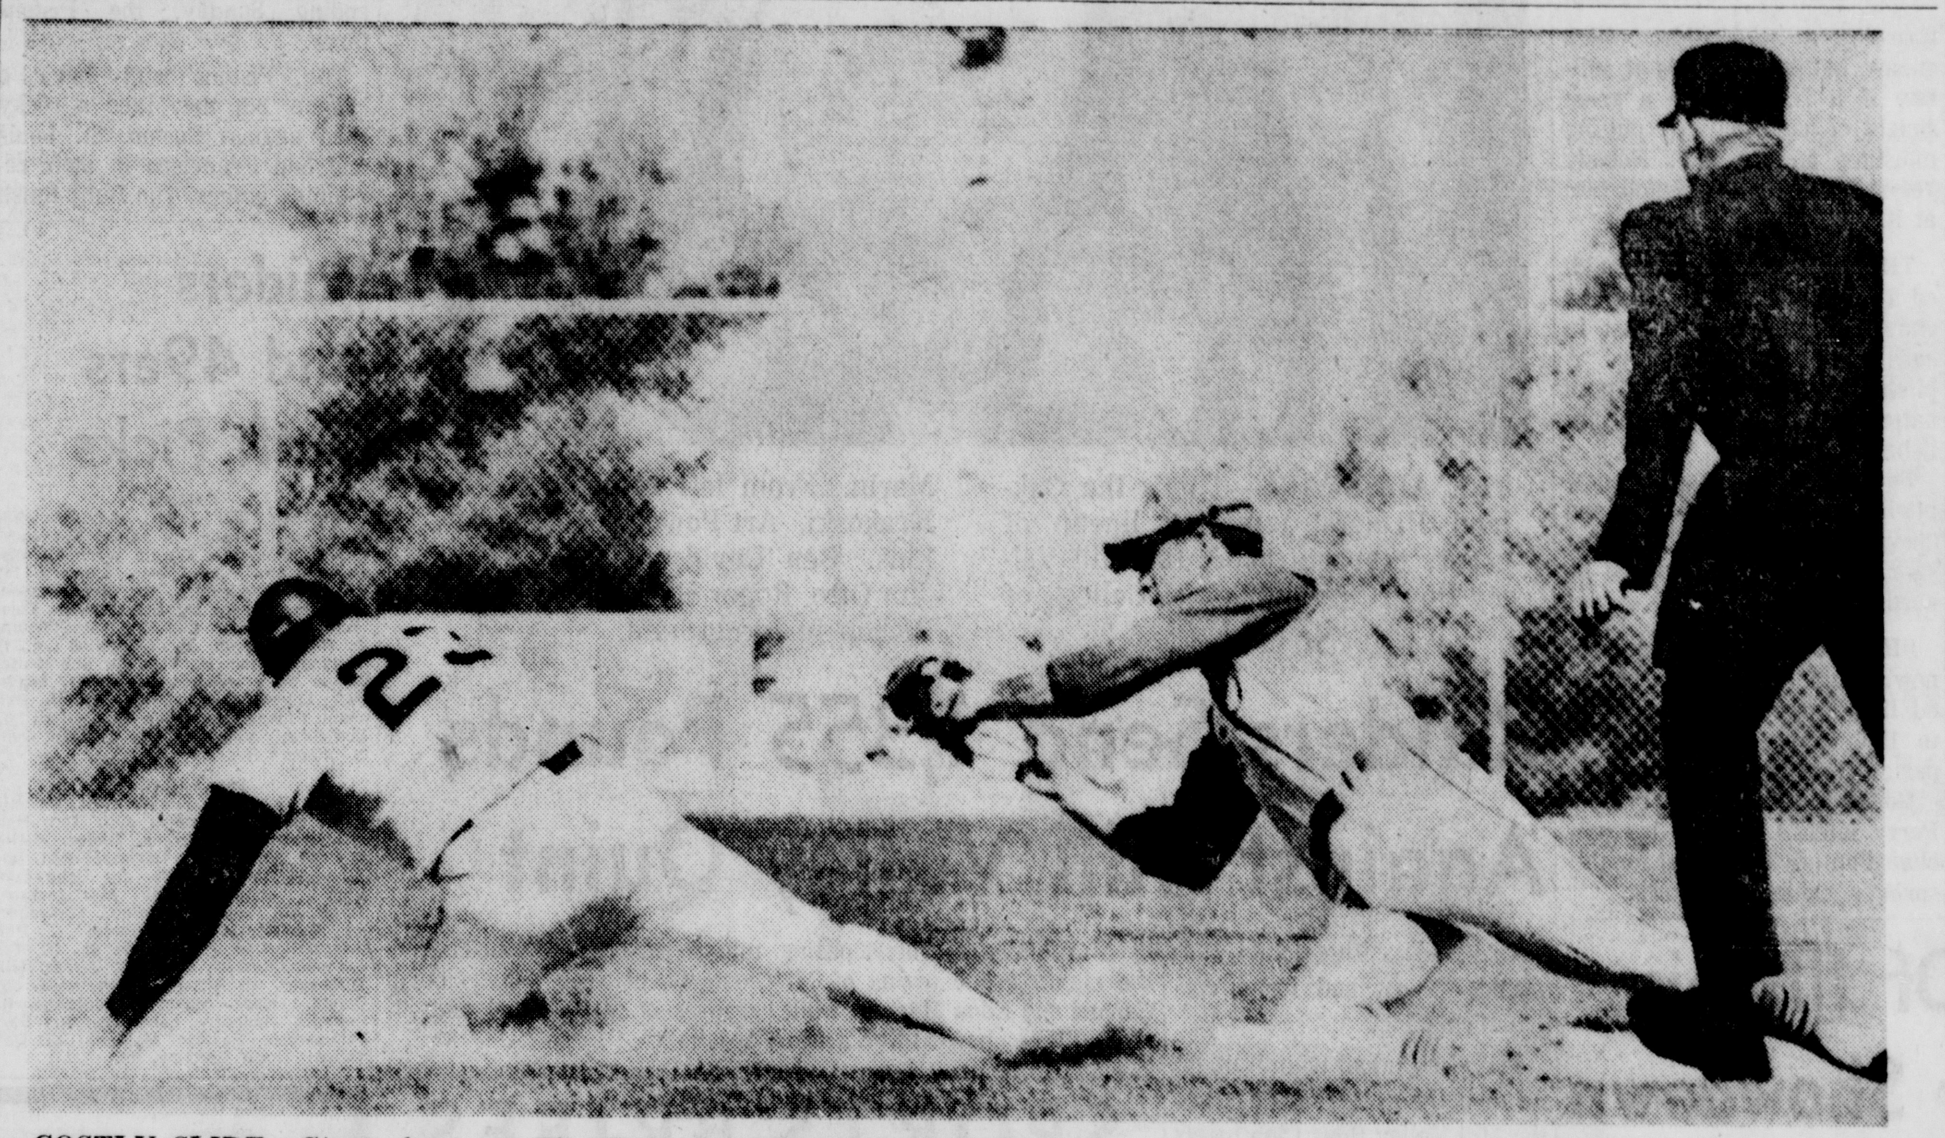
WELL, IT WON'T LAST any longer than the crocuses and the forsythia. Baseball will soon get these weeds out of its garden of lies. As James Russell Lowell has said, "Truth forever on the scaffold, Wrong forever on the throne."

Alcindor, Allen, Critchfield On Team

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — UCLA's Lew Alcindor, was the only unanimous choice on the 1967 Pacific-8 All-Conference basketball team that includes a Bruin teammate, guard Lucius Allen.

Alcindor and Allen are the only sophomores on a team filled out by three juniors-Washington State's Jim McKean and Southern California's Bill Hewitt at the forwards and California's Russ Critchfield at the other guard.

Thomas J. Hamilton, executive director, announced yesterday the picks oft he conference's eight coaches.



COSTLY SLIDE—Giant shortstop Tito Fuentes slides back to second base after a pickoff attempt by Cleveland pitcher Steve Hargan to Larry Brown. Fuentes strained at ligament in his left leg while sliding and will be out of action four or five days. Calling the play is umpire Doug Harvey. (AP Wirephoto)

Seven Errors Help Giants Win

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Sometimes it's advantageous to let a fellow rest.

Arguing the two sides of the question today would be Herman Franks, manager of the San Francisco Giants and Joe Adcock of the Cleveland Indians.

Franks didn't let Ollie Brown or Jesus Alou, usually his starting outfielders, into the game yesterday until the tenth inning.

Then with two on, Ollie belted some tremendous fouls and finally drew a walk to fill the bases. Alou, after running a full count, hit to shortstop and was safe on a bad throw as the winning run came in.

That was the Indians seventh error of the game.

The final score stood 3-2 but the Indians would have won if Adcock hadn't believed his first baseman, Fred Whitfield, needed a rest.

Willie Smith, first a pitcher and then an outfielder, tried his fortunes at first with little success although he lasted the route.

The Giants scored two runs in the first inning by virtue of one dingy infield single plus four errors, two by Smith. He dropped balls at first base to a point where he was cheered by the crowd of 2,682 in Phoenix Stadium when he caught one.

Tito Fuentes led off with a walk, Frank Johnson hit one back to the pitcher's box after Fuentes had gone to second when the pitcher's throw to first was dropped.

Fuentes scored when the catcher's throw to get Johnson hit the runner. Willie Mays, who continued his record of hitting safely in each exhibition game, was safe when Smith dropped the ball again.

Then Steve Hargan tried to catch Mays off first, Smith again dropped the ball and Johnson scored.

After three men had been officially at bat, the Giants had two runs and the Indians four errors.

Leon Wagner belted a 420-foot homer off starter Bob Bolin in the fourth and Joe Gibbon receipted for another run in the eighth on a double by Jose Vidal who advanced on a fly and scored on Chuck Hinton's sacrifice.

LAWYERS STILL BATTLING

Cassius Clay Might Be An Army Man By April 11

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Come April 11, it will be Pvt. Cassis Clay, U.S. Army — maybe.

The heavyweight champion, turned down by a presidential appeals board in his efforts to remain a civilian, has been ordered to report for induction on that date.

Clay's attorneys had anticipated the decision, however, and before the induction order was made public, they had begun a new legal action.

They filed suit in U.S. District Court alleging racial discrimination by Local Board 47, Clay's Louisville draft board, and by all other Kentucky draft boards because of a racial imbalance in their makeup.

Judge James F. Gordon set March 29 for hearing arguments on whether to name a three-judge panel to hear the suit, but he refused to issue a temporary restraining order barring Clay's induction. The suit asks for a permanent injunction.

TURNED DOWN

J. Allen Sherman, chairman of the local board ,said he had received word Tuesday that the appeals board had turned down Clay's request for deferment as a Black Muslim minister. He said the induction notice had gone out the same day.

But Clay apparently didn't know about it until reporters told him. He is in New York training for his March 22 title defense against Zora Folley.

"If what you say is true, this is gonna be my last fight," he said. "All those people who want to see the greatest heavyweight who ever lived better come to see me now."

The usually loquacious fighter visibly shaken, added, "I don't want to say any more. I don't want to talk to nobody. I'm gonna go see a movie and think about things."

Appearing in court yesterday, Hayden Covington, one of Clay's attorneys, said all of Kentucky's draft boards "discriminate against the Negro race."

The suit challenges the constitutionality of a federal statute that, Covington said, "allows the governor of Kentucky to appoint an imbalance of whites and Negroes to local draft boards.

CHARGE

"Unless Local Board 47 and all other boards are revised, Clay cannot be drafted," he said.

Sherman denied that there is any racial discrimination by his board. He noted that one member, Robert Terry Downs, is a Negro. Downs' wife said he recently was appointed to the local board.

Covington contended that only one-fifth of one per cent of draft board members are Negro, while Negroes make up seven to 12 per cent of Kentucky's population.

The suit names as defendants Gov. Edward T. Breathitt; Col. Taylor Davidson, Kentucky Selective Service irector; Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, National Selective Service director; the Attorney General of the United States, and members of Local Board 47.

Thurmond Not Expected To Play Against 76ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Nate Thurmond is expected to miss the San Francisco Warriors' final home game of the regular National Basketball Association tonight against the Philadelphia 76ers.

The 6-foot-11 center suffered two broken bones in his left hand on Feb. 10 and returned to action one month later wearing a protective cast.

But the injured hand was hit against Detroit last Monday and it became so swollen that he was forced to miss Tuesday's game against Philadelpha won 139-110 by the 76ers.

The game itself is meaningless because both teams have long since wrapped up their respective divisional titles. The 76ers have won seven of their eight games against the Warriors so far.

The Warriors finish the regular season on the road against Chicago, Cincinnati and Detroit in that order, with the last named game on national television next Sunday.

Then it's back home for the start of the Western Division playoffs next Tuesday in Oakland. The Warriors hope to have Thurmond reasonably healthy by then because they've lost 10 of their last 12 games, nine played without him.

Mrs. Roberts Wins Tourney

Mrs. Don Roberts came to within two feet of the 19th green to win honors at the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club Flag Tournament last week.

The results:

Class A—Mesdames Don Roberts, two feet, 19th; E. J. Halm, 27 feet, 19th; Frank Kern, 100 yds., 19th.

Class B — Mesdames Harold Wagstaff, 120 yds., 19th; Hugh Richardson, 125 yds., 19th; Joe Wittenmeier, cup, 18th.

Pro Grid Teams Pick Some Basketball Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — On the final day of the first combined draft by the National and American football leagues such stars as Jimmy Walker, Pat Riley and George Carter were picked.

If you say these three were basketball stars in college, you're right.

And if you also say such pro football players as All-NFL defensive back Cornell Green of Dallas played basketball instead of football in college, you're right again.

So, following the formula which has proved so successful in the cases of players like Green and his Dallas teammate Pete Gent, the pros selected Walker and several other basketball standouts yesterday.

WALKER

Walker, the All-America from Providence which fields no football team, was taken by New Orleans on the last pick of the 17th and final round.

The 25 NFL-AFL clubs drafted 262 players in the final 12 rounds after picking 133 Tuesday in the first five rounds.

Some college stars, strictly in football, drafted yesterday included quarterback Terry Southall of Baylor, by Baltimore in the sixth round; quarterback Virgil Carter of Brigham Young, by Chicago in the sixth; Tulsa tackle Don Bandy by Washington in the sixth, and All-America defensive back Tom Beier of Miami, Fla. by Miami in the 10th.

One player also was signed — San Diego's first round pick, defensive tackle Ronald Billingsley of Wyoming.

Riley, the backcourt star from Kentucky, was selected by Dallas in the 11th round. Carter, the scoring star of St. Bonaventure, another school which shuns football, was picked in the 13th by Buffalo.

Walker was chosen as an end, Riley as a quarterback and Carter as a halfback.

NO REDSHIRTING

Another well-known basketball player, big David Lattin of defending national champion Texas Western, was picked in the final round by Kansas City. However, Lattin is only a junior, and his selection undoubtedly will be voided.

Beginning with this year, there no longer is a future, or redshirt, draft.

Basketball wasn't the only other sport looked at in the search for talent, the world of track and field also was invaded.

Randy Matson of Texas A&M the world record holder in the shotput, was taken as a defensive tackle by Atlanta in the fifth round, and Tommie Smith of San Jose State, the world record holder in the 220-yard dash, was picked as a halfback by Los Angeles in the ninth round.

Oregon Says No To Match

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—The University of Oregon has pulled out of a weekend rugby match with the San Francisco Olympic Club because of the Olympic Club's recent refusal to change its discriminatory membrship clause.

University of Oregon president Arthur S. Flemming announced yesterday that it would not join Oregon State players in the match. California and UCLA have also canceled rugby games with the Olympic Club this season because of the club's racial policy.

But Olympic Club officials said that the Club Sunday would still meet a team of top Northwest players calling itself the Oregon-Washington Rugby Union.

Perry Trying Out New Pitch In Spring Camp: A Changeup

HANLEY

PHOENIX—Baseball is a game but to Gaylord Perry it is "my job." Perry works very, very hard at his job. He has a fine sense of humor but not while on the job. He is all business when there is work to be done.

"When I left North Carolina for spring training last year I was determined to work so hard that nobody could overlook my effort," said Perry, who was to become a 20-game winner for the first time in his major league career.

PRIOR TO 1966 Perry's pitching record with the Giants was primarily distinguished for the number of home runs hit off the 6-4, 205-pound righthander. In 1965 he was belted for 21 homers, most of them at critical moments in tight ball games.

Enroute to his 21-8 record last year, Perry threw only three home run pitches in his initial 19 appearances, 14 of which he won. The secret of Perry's success could be traced to his diligent work in spring training camp a year ago.

"I NEVER SAW a man work harder for success," Larry Jansen now recalls. "And this spring he is working even harder to retain it," added the Giant pitching coach.

Jansen converted Perry from a three-quarter delivery to an over-the-top serve and also taught Perry the technique of throwing a hard slider which enemy batters claim is a spitter. If it is, Perry is a great sleight of hand artist in putting moisture on the ball. Nobody yet has been able to catch him at it.

THIS SPRING Perry has added a new pitch. It's an off-speed changeup. "I added it just in case I need it," said Perry. "A pitcher can't stand still. Those batters will catch up with him if he does."

Perry may not need a new pitch. His fast ball, slider and curve were quite sufficient last year. Jansen isn't convinced he needs another pitch.

"HE HAS ALL the equipment now," said Jansen who believed that Perry's problems prior to 1966 stemmed from his experimenting with a sinker.

However, for the present Perry intends to keep his new changeup pitch—at least for this spring's exhibition games.

University Of Illinois Headed For Showdown

CHICAGO (AP) — The University of Illinois, ordered to fire three coaches in its $21,000 slush fund scandal or face ouster, from the Big Ten, goes into the showdown Saturday playing its cards close to the chest.

"I won't be able to say until after Saturday's meeting," University President Dr. David D. Henry replied yesterday when asked whether Illinois has a counterproposal to the Big Ten demand to fire the coaches.

Dr. Henry has called the demand "too harsh," a viewpoint shared by Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner.

The meeting was requested by Dr. Henry and convened yesterday by the Big Ten's commissioner, Bill Reed. Policy-making faculty representatives from the conference's nine other members will be present Saturday at the Chicago meeting.

Illinois must appeal by tomorrow the faculty group's March 3 mandate upholding a Feb. 22 action by Big Ten athletic directors.

The directors at that time ordered the firing of head football Coach Pete Elliott, head basketball Coach Harry Combes and assistant basketball coach Howie Braun.

Five Illinois athletes were ruled permanently ineligible. Two others were suspended for one year. Seven who were suspended by the school Dec. 23 were reinstated March 3 by the faculty group.

At the March 3 session, Dr. Henry pleaded for 45 minutes on behalf of the school, the 14 athletes and the coaches.

Although the school has been ordered to show cause why it should not be expelled from the Big Ten, the faculty members held that the March 3 appearance did not fall in the "show cause" category. Saturday's meeting apparently does.

The faculty action will be final, said Commissioner Reed. But he added that Illinois "would have an opportunity to make their announcement as to reaction and, if confronted with options would have a period of time to consider them."

Boros Climbs To 2nd Place In Golf Money

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Julius Boros' victory in the Florida Citrus Open Golf Tournament Sunday, worth $23,000, lifted him to second place among leading money winner of the Professional Golfers' Association this year.

Arnold Palmer leads the pack with total winnings of $52,942 while Boros has $44,908 and Doug Sanders is third with $41,883.

Here are the top ten, with official, unofficial and total winnings:

Arnold Palmer, $45,298; $7,644; $52,942. Julius Boros, $43,287; $1,621; $44,908. Doug Sanders $27,016; $14,867; $41,883. Gay Brewer, $22,497; $910; $23,407. Bob Goalby, $16,833; $2,140; $18,973. George Knudson, $14,617; $3,149; $17,766. Art Wall, $12,211; $5,364; $17,575. Ken Still, $11,439; $912; $12,351. Harold Henning, $10,947; $73; $11,020. Bruce Crampton, $9,973; $695; $10,668.

Raiders Send 1,355 Pounds Against Mill Valley Quint

The starting five totals 1,355 pounds — not bad for a construction gang.

For a basketball team it might be something else again when the Mill Valley Boys Club meets the Oakland Raiders' beefy all-stars, led by 6-8, 285-pound Ben Davidson Sunday at College of Marin at 2:30 p.m. in a benefit game with the proceeds going to the Mill Valley Boys Club.

Tickets are $1 for adults and can be bought at Taveggia-Brusati Sports Shop in San Rafael and several Mill Valley locations.

The Raider All-Stars, who have compiled a 3-3 record, will have two ex-Raiders among them as of Tuesday. They're end Art Powell and quarterback Tom Flores who are now Buffalo Bills.

Also playing for the Raiders are 6-0, 250-pound Wayne Hawkins, 6-2, 212-pound Jim Otto, 6-2, 250-pound Joe Krakoski, and 6-2, 240-pound Roger Hagberg.

Hagberg leads the club in scoring with a 23-point average followed by Powell with a 17.8 average.

Flores, Hagberg and Powell are no cage neophytes. They played basketball in college.

The Mill Valley Boys club are 13-13 on the season in the San Rafael A League.

They'll have such stars as Reg Corolan, 6-6 and a member of the AFL champion Kansas City Chiefs, Jay Johnson, a student at UCLA who scored 99 points in the Recreation Christmas Tournament and top scorer Brad Busch, who's pushed through 462 points in 19 games, for a 23.7 average.

Steve Anderson has 435 points in 26 games, Terry Jorcik, 206, Mike Anthony, 159, Jim Tupper, 112, Mike Planchard, 109, Dan Busch, 61, Jim Harvey, 55, Bob Ostaggi 24, and Stan Wells, 20.

For the season, the Mill Valley Boys Club average 73.3 points per game so it's likely to be a high-scoring contest.

The game will be preceeded by a preliminary contest pitting the eighth grade teams of Mt. Carmel and Edna Maguire while the halftime show will be a two-minute per quarter, four-quarter contest between the fourth graders of Mt. Carmel and St. Anselm's.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Wednesday's Sports In Brief
By Associated Press

FOOTBALL

NEW YORK — The Baltimore Colts, looking for a quarterback to play behind Johnny Unitas, picked Terry Southall of Baylor in the opening round of the second day of the combined American and National football leagues draft.

SAN DIEGO — The San Diego Chargers of the American Football League came to quick terms and signed their No. 1 choice in the pro football draft — defensive tackle Ron Billingsly of the University of Montana.

BASKETBALL

NEW YORK — Walter Kennedy, league president, announced that in the event of ties for playoff berths at the end of the NBA regular season, first and fourth places in either division will be decided by a playoff game; ties for second and third will be determined by the season's record between the two teams.

Bulls Might Make Pro Cage Playoffs

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Bulls have taken a giant stride towards landing a spot in the NBA playoffs in their first season in the ational Basketball Association.

The Bulls whipped the Detroit Pistons on the road last night 98-91 and moved into fourth place in the Western Division, a half-game ahead of the now last-place Pistons.

The Bulls have two games left to play in the regular season ending Sunday, the Pistons three.

The Pistons still have a chance, but they face a rocky road against Boston, St. Louis and San Francisco in their remaining games. The Bulls finish against San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Jerry Sloan threw in 32 points to lead a second half Chicago rally that erased a 69-62 Detroit lead.

Baskets by Dave Bing, who led the Pistons with 28 points, pulled Detroit to within three points before the Bulls sewed it up on a 20-foot jumper by Jerry Ward with 45 seconds to go.

Cincinnati broke a tie with the New York Knicks for third place in the Eastern Division. The Royals beat the Boston Celtics at home 112-108 while the Knicks lost on the road to the Baltimore Bullets 121-114.

Philadelphia came from behind in the second half to rout Los Angeles on the road 138-123 in the other NBA game scheduled yesterday. The 76ers played the second half without Wilt Chamberlain. He was ejected for unsportsmanlike conduct with 75 seconds left in the first half.

Oscar Robertson's 31 points, including two free throws that insured the victory in the closing seconds, paced the Royals to their first conquest of the Celtics this season.

The Big O got seven baskets and 17-of-17 free throws to extend his foul shooting streak to 34 in a row. In addition, he handed out 15 assists. John Havlicek was high for Boston with 30 points.

Kevin Loughery, with 29 points, led Baltiore over the Knicks. Two of his 11 free throws helped pull the Bullets out of danger after the Knicks had rallied to within 109-105. Walt Bellamy, with 32 points and 22 rebounds, paced the Knicks.

Billy Cunningham, with 31 points, and Hal Greer, with 29, led the second half attack for Philadelphia after the 76ers trailed at halftime 69-68. It was the 66th vicory against only 12 defeats for the Eastern Division champs. Gail Goodrich's 26 points was high for the Lakers.

Inclement Weather Cancels Out Great Sturgeon Challenge Derby

STEVENS

The great Sturgeon Challenge Derby scheduled to take place Sunday, was postponed because of very inclement weather. George Mura, official publicity man for the Reel Rod Benders sports club, made the announcement.

Captain Eugene Walker, Fire Marshall of South County, had the honor of installing the new panel of officers for the Reel Rod Benders at their festive installation dinner, hence congratulations are due to the new president, Bob Reinkie, vice president Willy Naruo, secretary Bob Connor and treasurer Mat Southworth. May they reign in spite of rain and wind.

SPEAKING OF WIND and rain, the past weekend was almost a complete washout for the salmon trollers outside the G. G. Then Monday happened, and happy days were back again. Limits and near limits were the order of the day on Monday. Betty Urbais of the Sausalito Boat and Tackle called me to report the Blue Horizon with only five rods working, came back to port with limits at about 8:45 a.m. Not lunker sized salmon but hard fighting mediums.

Betty Urbais also mentioned the Blue Horizon braving the wild waters to do a stint of rockfish angling. Twelve rods working and limits all around of assorted rockfish and eight lings to 27 pounds.

The most productive area on Monday for the salmon trollers was Duxbury Reef and adjacent waters.

THE SCUTTLEBUTT has it that a flock of avid anglers will begin fishing for five-dollar bills in Lake Nacimiento. Seems a generous Department of Fish and Game has tagged or will tag 300 black crappies, each carrying a tag which, when turned over to the F&G, will win a reward of five bucks.

Better make a mental date right now to try for a tagged black crappie in Lake Nacimiento. Historically, the black crappie catches rank high during the months of March, April and May, but drops after that as the fish retreat to the deeper water, and shun the shoreline areas.

BY THE WAY — you are reminded again that angling in Santa Clara County for trout won't be open until April 29. (Coyote Reservoir will remain closed to all fishing until April 29, but you may fish for other species of fish in Uvas, Chesbro and Lexington reservoirs, so long as you release any trout you may hook until the opening of trout season.)

HAVE YOU and other members of your club made arrangements to attend the 10th Biennial Wilderness Conference at the Hilton Hotel in San Francisco on April 7, 8, and 9? If you are really interested in the present and future of our wilderness lands, especially as pertains to the fish and wildlife, you most certainly should attend one or all sessions. Why not write for registration while it's fresh in your mind. Send your request to the Sierra Club, 1050 Mills Tower, San Francisco.

Here's hoping that you were not one of the 54 eager anglers who opened your year of angling sans a legal license.

TWO SAN RAFAEL sportsmen, D. K. Sherwood and George Dreyer, recently returned from a week's vacation at Mazatlan, Mexico where they experienced plenty of deep sea fishing thrills.

Dreyer, a realtor, said he and his pal caught four blue marlin weighing between 140 and 200 pounds and measuring up to eight feet in length.

"It was my first time for marlin," Dreyer said, "and it was quite a thrill. It takes about 45 minutes to land one of those whoppers."

Physical Education Book Written By Charles Nagel

Charles Nagel, Ph.D., coordinator and general counsultant of health, physical education, science, safety and athletics for the Marin County Superintendent of Schools, is a dedicated advocate of physical education.

Nagel, 57, in good shape at 6 foot, 220 pounds, recently teamed with Fredrica Moore, special consultant in physical education, Santa Clara County Schools, to compile a book entitled "Skill Development Through Games and Rhythmic Activities," intended as a text for elementary school teachers. It was published by National Press of Palo Alto.

Already he has to his credit two previous publications, "Methods in Physical Education and Recreation for Elementary Schools," written in 1956; and "Developing Boys and Girls Skills Through Physical Activities," printed in 1958.

Nagel began his career as a teacher and coach in Montana Public Schools where he worked from 1934-1941.

In the forefront of the 308-page hardback edition, it states the goal of physical education "is to develop in children the capacity to meet the physical, social, emotional, and mental challenges of their present and future environment."

Incorporated within the text is a well-planned, detailed method of achieving that end. It is through the skills of locomotion such as dancing; the game skills, such as starting, stopping, jumping, etc.; ball skills such as throwing, catching, etc., all of which in the expert opinion of the co-authors serve to prepare children for enjoyment of effective everyday living. Among its complexities, it is also intended to make physical education a major contribution to education.

San Rafael Cager Is All-Far West

San Francisco State forward Joe Galbo, a Chicago transplant living in San Rafael for the past four years, has been named to the All-Far Western Conference basketball team for the second straight year.

The 6-4 senior has also been named to honorable mention on the all-coast team.

He led the Gators with a 19.7 scoring average this year and his total of 507 points is third best for a single season in S. F. State scoring annals. His career total of 1,223 points also places him third on the Gator lists.

He hit on 507 field goals in 430 attempts for a 48 per cent accuracy and cashed in on 92 out of 126 free throws for 73 per cent.

Susan Van Meter Is Learning Fast; Bowls 245 Game And 589 Series

Susan Van Meter, a housewife from San Rafael, has been bowling for only three years but she continued to show that she's a fast learner last week as she spun out a 245-211-589 series in the Girls A Go Go league to top the ladies at Country Club Bowl.

The 245 was also high game for the distaff bowlers.

Dan Jeung, manager of Diablo Bowling Supply in San Rafael, chopped out a 247-231-636 to take high series honors for the men, in the Belles and Beaus League while Fred Ness was a close second with a 237-235-630 in the 840 Scratch League.

Frank Helbing had the high game with a 267 in the Civic Center League followed by Jeung's 247.

Baltimore Rookie Leads Punters

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie David Lee of Baltimore, who averaged 45.6 yards for 49 kicks, was confirmed as the National Football League's 1967 punting champion in official league statistics released yesterday.

Billy Kilgore of Los Angeles was second with a 42.8 average for 71 kicks.

Bobby Walden of Minnesota had the longest punt, 70 yards, against Chicago at Minnesota on Oct. 2, while Bobby Joe Green of Chicago had the most punts, 80.

Gary Collins of Cleveland, the 1965 leader, averaged 39 yards on 57 punts.

Nicklaus Might Build His Own Golf Course

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus became a millionaire by playing golf, but the 27-year-old Ohio belter says he thinks there are "lots of things more important in life than beating a golf ball around a course."

The three-time Masters champion — and only golfer to win consecutive titles — isn't ready to halt his bid to become the game's undisputed top player, however.

"As long as I enjoy it and can compete successfully, I'll play," the blond distance-hitter said before starting his challenge in the $100,000 Jacksonville Open today.

"But there are a lot of things I want to do, particularly building golf courses," he said. "I can't make as much money doing that as I can playing, but that is one way I can put a little bit back of the things I have gotten from golf."

Nicklaus won the Bing Crosby Tournament in January for his last triumph, but his failure to claim championships in the spring swing doesn't worry him.

"Any time I play, I play to win," Nicklaus said, "but you can hit your peak only five or six times a year, and I don't want to burn myself out this spring before all the big tournaments come up."

Warehouse Auction Presages Moving Firm's Moving Plans

Construction is under way for a new warehouse and office for Pierce-Hardin Van and Storage, Inc., at 4238 Redwood Highway, opposite Terra Linda, where Tamalpais Fences was formerly located.

The company will have an 8,000-square foot building, 27 feet high, allowing space for three tiers of palettized storage. Ralph Murphy and Sons is the general contractor.

Pierce Hardin, agent for North American Van Lines, is now located at 26 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, and hopes to move into the new building by the end of April. One of the reasons for its auction of unclaimed storage goods this Saturday is to help in clearing the warehouse.

If the weather is clear, the auction will be held at 10 a.m. and probably continue straight through the lunch hour until the goods are sold. If it rains, it is quite probable the auction will be postponed.

CHRIS CRAFT SALES OF SAN RAFAEL has closed at 25 Third Street, and owner William N. Denton has retired.

In doing so he says it is a case of "doctor, take your own medicine." Over the years (18 of them in the boat business) he has advised countless boat purchasers to take time out for relaxation. With his own 38-foot Chris Craft he'll probably voyage down to Mexican waters on an extended fishing trip and may even stay there—or return to a place he has in Nevada.

During the eight years Denton has had the San Rafael agency of Chris Craft, he reports he built up its rating among the 584 nationwide dealers from No. 432 to No. 2 in sales volume. No wonder he can retire so young.

No Chris Craft dealer has been appointed to succeed him in Marin.

STEPHEN KRAMER, who closed his Mill Valley real estate office in 1962 and opened up in New York, has established another office in Marin—this one at 1330 Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael. He is a licensed real estate broker in both states and will keep his 500 Fifth Avenue address in New York City. He and his family will settle again in Marin.

Previously in Marin he was chairman of the Mill Valley Planning Commission and for two years was executive director of the Marin County Development Foundation (now the Marin County Chamber of Commerce).

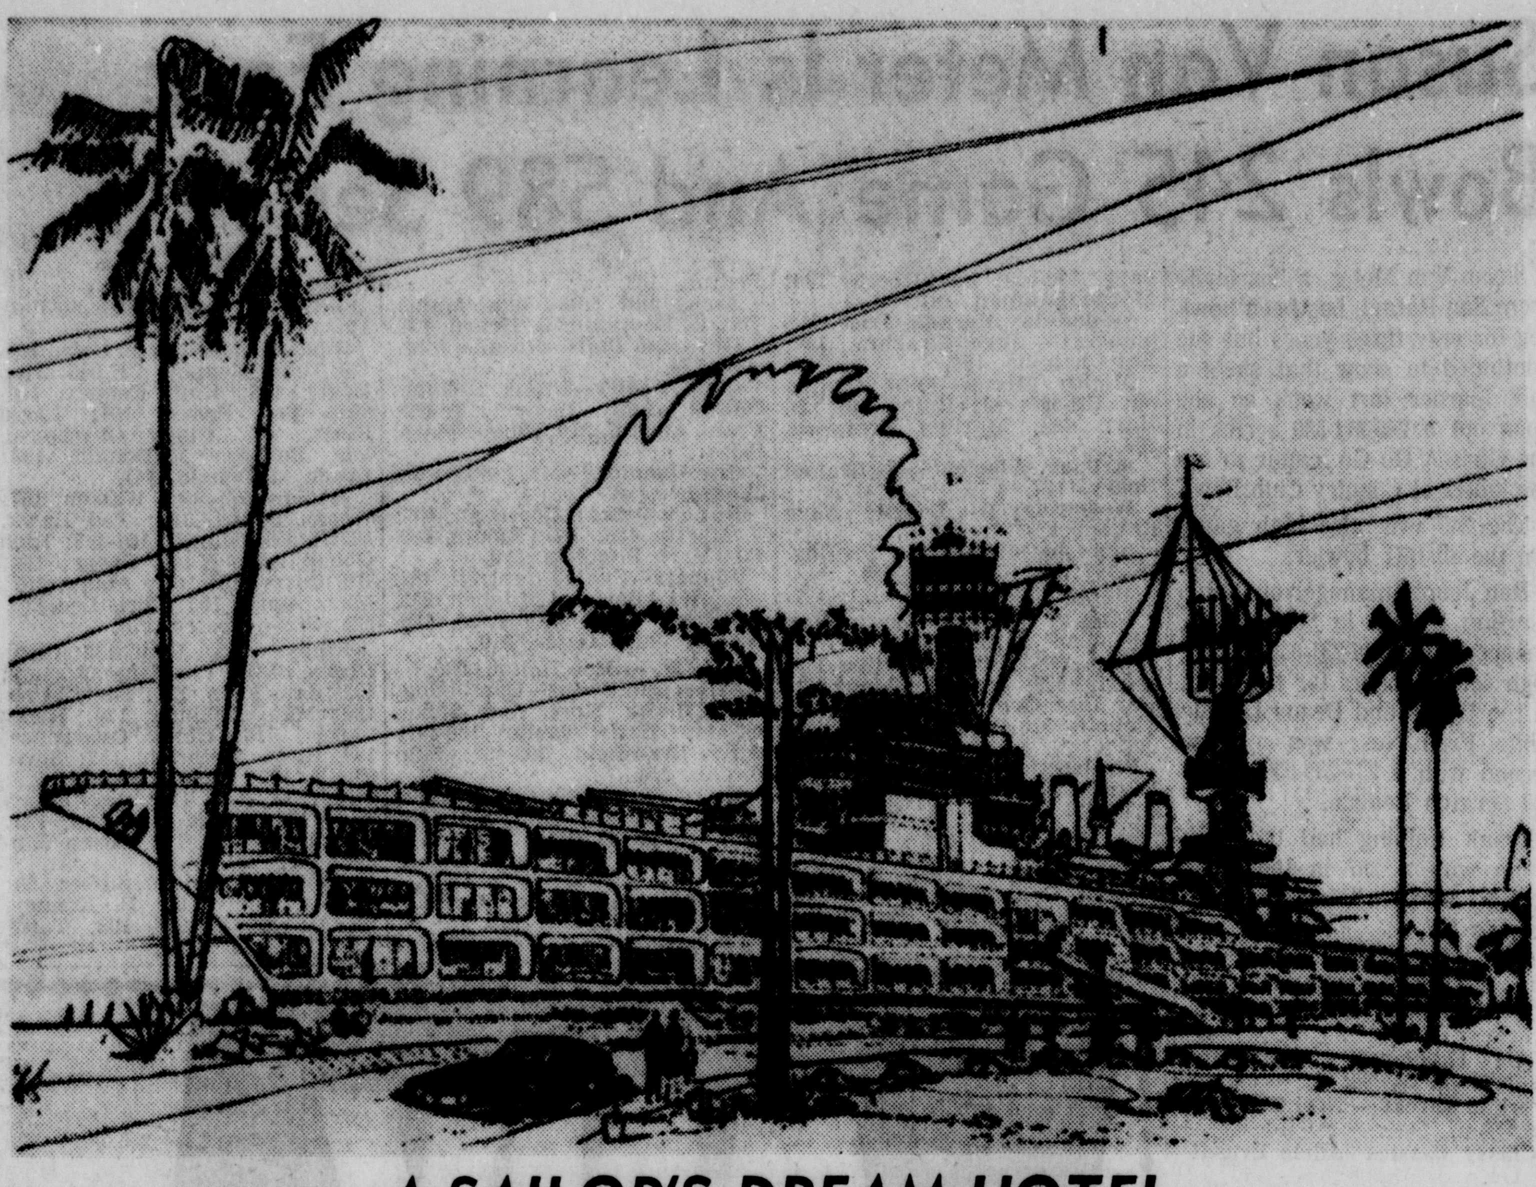
ROBERT L. SHERMAN of Novato has been appointed assistant director of life insurance sales and training for Insurance Securities, Inc. He was formerly supervisor of training for Northern California with Aetna Life Insurance Co. and has been in this field of business since 1949. He is a director of the Marin County Life Underwriters Association and serves as an educational instructor for Chartered Life Underwriters.

A NEW OPENING TODAY in Strawberry Town and Country Village was The Daisybug, a ladies' specialty store featuring wardrobes of dresses, knits, sweaters, skirts, pants, blouses, coats, swimsuits and accessories for misses and teens.

Decor of the shop is early American and almost all fixtures are antiques of that period. It adjoins and is under the same ownership of Little Daisy of Marin, 420 Town and Country Village.

HARBOR BOAT REPAIR is back in business in San Rafael—with the same telephone number, but a new address. Owners Larry LaBruzzi and Bernard Weis closed on Harbor Street last November to make way for the new shop of Rossi Garage and then associated themselves with Seaway Marine for a time. The new location is 630 Point San Pedro Road at Loch Lomond, where La Bruzzi says they have "topside quarters"—an office and a berth for working, which may be expanded later. Hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays. La Bruzzi and Weis have been together more than nine years.

In 1965, timber sales, grazing permits and other fees yielded the U.S. Forest Service $149 million.



A SAILOR'S DREAM HOTEL

Navy Chief Petty Officer David Graham hopes to see this replica of the battleship California built near San Francisco's Cliff House, or ideally, Alcatraz to serve as a plush hotel, with executive suites in the gun turrets, a swimming pool on the quarterdeck and a fancy restaurant in the conning tower. It all is the result of a dream two years ago, Graham says, that he was driving down the road in search of lodging and suddenly came upon just such a hotel. (UPI Telephoto)

Stocks Close Higher In New Peak Level

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed substantially higher today, making a new peak for 1967. Trading was heavy.

The ticker tape lagged in final transactions. Blue Chips had "a real move," market technicians said.

Although Chrysler dipped on profit taking from Wednesdays' 3-point jump there was great strength elsewhere.

In late dealings, IBM was up 7, Du Pont 5, Alcoa and Anaconda 3, Montgomery Ward 2 and General Motors 1.

The market was higher from the start as it resumed yesterdays' powerful rally.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up a dozen points in late afternoon, more than enough to put it above the 1967 closing high reached Feb. 18 if the gains were held until the close.

A 4-point jump by Du Pont gave powerful support to the popular averages.

Schenley was again the volume leader but dipped fractionally as some mild profit taking followed its rise of 11¼ points Wednesday.

Chrysler, off a fraction, also underwent profit taking from tis 3-point jump of the previous session.

A big Blue Chip, Standard Oil (New Jersey) stepped into the breach with a gain exceeding a point.

Gains of a point or more were made also by Carpenter Steel, Kaiser Aluminum, General Motors, Leesona, Consolidated Cigar, Parke, Davis and Publicker Industries, all on big volume.

Alcoa rose about 3 and RCA 2. American Airlines added a couple of points in further response to its stock split proposal.

Prices made a solid advance on the American Stock Exchange.

Price-Earnings Ratios Based On A Look-Ahead

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. "How is one to reconcile comparisons such as the following? American Radiator sells for 13 times earnings and earnings are declining. Crane Co. sells for only 9 times earnings and earnings have been increasing. Would you say American Radiator is overpriced and Crane underpriced?

E.R.

A. Not necessarily. The price-earnings multiples you quote are not valid for comparative purposes. Your figure for American Radiator is apparently based on earning for 12 months ended Sept. 30, which were $1.45 a share. Your multiple for Crane is related to full-year income of $4.45 a share in 1966. The market is not evaluating what happened during the past year.

Current prices are reflecting what is expected for 1967 — probably better earnings for American Radiator which was harassed by strikes last year—and little gain for Crane which reported record results. Remember also that other factors affect the P-E ratio. These include the yields at which these cyclical stocks sell and merger possibilities in the case of American Radiator.

Q. "My wife and I own our home. Our portfolio includes Union Oil, Firestone and Eastman Kodak. We have $15,000 in savings accounts. The past year has caused us to think about selling all our stocks and putting the money in the savings bank. Is this foolish?"

R.N.

A. If you will allow me to say so, any such action would seem to me to be most unwise. Savings accounts are highly desirable as the very backlog of your investment position, but to put all your funds in that medium is, in a senes, gambling that inflation has ended in this country. Your money in savings accounts is fixed as to principal, which will neither increase nor decrease as time goes on. Over a period of years your stocks can lift their earnings, dividends and price to offset devaluation of the dollar, which I do not believe will ever be permanently halted.

$1 Million Day For Customs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Customs District had its first $1 million day in history yesterday, thanks to an alcoholic monetary binge.

The day's take was $1,156,864.

It included a $456,705 check from Schenley Industries. Collector of Customs George K. Brokaw said today Schenley's payment was for imported liquor withdrawn from its bonded warehouse in Fresno. Two-thirds of the Schenley payment was alcohol tax. The balance was customs duty.

PG&E Increases Annual Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pacific Gas & Electric Co. is boosting its annual dividend rate by 10 cents to $1.40 a share. It is the second 10 cent increase in a year.

Directors yesterday declared a 35-cent quarterly dividend payable April 15 to shareholders of record March 24.

The dividend rate was boosted last April from $1.20 to $1.30 a share.

Bank Of England Cuts Rate Again

LONDON (AP) — The Bank of England cut the bank rate to 6 per cent today, a drop of half a per cent.

It was the second cut this year in the rate that sets the pattern for banks in the sterling bloc. On Jan. 26 the rate was cut from 7 to 6.5 per cent.

CAPITAL GAINS A PROBLEM?

SECOND FIDUCIARY EXCHANGE FUND

(A New Exchange Fund Managed by Vance, Sanders & Co., Inc.)

This Fund offers you a new opportunity to exchange one or more stocks with large, unrealized profits for a diversified, professionally managed account of quality common stocks.

You will not, in the opinion of counsel, incur a capital gains tax at the time of the exchange.

Counsel advises that deposits of securities for exchange on a tax free basis cannot be made after April 30, 1967.

You may participate if you hold acceptable securities having a market value of $25,000 or more.

This exchange offer is available only until April 29, 1967.

A descriptive Prospectus may be obtained by calling, visiting us or by writing:

Securities Management Corp.
53 Cazneau Ave., Sausalito
332-5291

Please send me, without obligation, Prospectus on Second Fiduciary Exchange Fund.

READ OUR GUARANTEE

1. Certified Tread Mileage Guarantee. Every Triple "S" Tire is guaranteed against wearout for the months or miles specified. If tread wears out in this period, return it. Triple "S" will replace it, charging only a set amount for number of miles or months used—misalignment excepted.

2. Unlimited Road Hazards Guarantee. Every Triple "S" Tire is guaranteed for the months specified against all failures from road hazards, except repairable punctures, including stone bruises, glass cuts, blowouts and sidewall scraping. If tire fails, Triple "S" will repair or replace it, charging for only the amount of service rendered based on tread remaining.

3. Full Time Guarantee of Quality. Every Triple "S" Tire is guaranteed to be free from all defects in workmanship and materials, unless otherwise specified, for the lifetime of the original tread. If the tire fails, return it and Triple "S" will replace it, charging only for service rendered, based on tread remaining.

4. Your Satisfaction Guaranteed. Satisfaction is guaranteed. If you are not satisfied with your tires, Triple "S" will replace them free of charge or refund your money in full during the first 5% of tread wear or charge you only for the use you have received after 5% of wear.

5. Price. If you buy the same product for less any time, anywhere, within 30 days of purchase—return it, we will refund the difference at once. IN CASH.

6. NATIONWIDE GUARANTEE against normal road hazards (except repairable punctures) and defects in workmanship and materials for entire life of tread. Allowance made on new tire based upon remaining original tread and "Kelly Springfield exchange price" current at the time of adjustment.

Musser Computes Votomatic Savings

Votomatic punch card system used by voters in Marin's last election saved taxpayers $55,403, according to figures presented today by Asst. County Clerk for Elections John F. Musser Jr.

Musser's figures show a net cost, after reduction of charges made on special elections consolidated with the November vote, of $60,506 for the election. If the election had been handled with the old manual system the net cost would have been $115,910, he said.

The cost per vote came to 83.9 cents with the Votomatic system and would have been $1.61 under the old system, Musser said.

Musser's figures do not include cost of the Votomatic system, however. There was $79,439 put up in this fiscal year as the first of five equal payments for the International Business Machine devices.

Musser also ran a compilation of net cost per registered voter since the 1962 fiscal year, showing an increase from 60.7 cents per voter in that year to 66.3 cents estimated for this fiscal year. He estimated that regular increases in salaries and printing costs will probably put cost at $1 per voter in fiscal 1970.

Senate Approves Consular Treaty With Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate today approved the long-pending consular treaty with Russia designed to protect American travelers and foster better East-West relations.

The pact now goes to President Johnson for his final U.S. approval.

Senate approval took on importance beyond the treaty's contents because it came in the midst of the Vietnam war despite domestic protests against Russian aid to North Vietnam. Mail against the agreement, much of it organized by the conservative Liberty Lobby, had been flooding in for weeks.

The Administration's victory, far from certain at the outset, was obtained after eight days of Senate debate during which six proposed restrictions to the treaty were rejected.

These included one amendment to the text itself, four reservations and one "understanding." The Administration claimed anyone of these might have provoked Soviet rejection.

Union Leader's Appeal Refused

Hearing of an appeal of Douglas A. Smith, Mailer Union Local 18 president convicted of trespassing on Marin Guide property in Tamalpais Valley, has been refused by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Smith had been granted a stay of execution of a six-month county jail term and $500 fine on Jan. 6 pending a motion for a writ to be heard before the highest court.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Superior Court found Smith guilty of trespassing Oct. 26, 1965, at 200 Shoreline Highway. Smith now must serve the term and pay the fine, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Anthony.

Employment Holds Steady In February

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate remained at 3.7 per cent last month and total employment held virtually steady despite a slight decline in manufacuring work, the Labor Department reported today.

Job gains in construction, state and local governments and service employment helped offset declines in automobile, clothing, machinery and metal manufacturing industries, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

Production cutbacks reduced the average factory work week 41 hours to 40.3 hours for the biggest drop since 1960.

Arthur M. Ross, commissioner of labor statistics, said bad weather was probably partly to blame for the reduction in working time.

The average hourly pay of factory workers rose 1 cent to a record high of $2.78 per hour in February, but the decline in the work week brought weekly earnings down $1.54 to $111.48.

Red Units Swarm Out Of Cambodia To Fight

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops swarmed out of Cambodia today and attacked a company of U. S. infantrymen in a battle that grew in scope and intensity during the day. American reinforcements were rushed to the scene by helicopter.

A U. S. military spokesman said the Communist troops were part of an elite North Vietnamese division that had infiltrated into the Cambodian border region 220 miles northeast of Saigon. He also disclosed a fourth North Vietnamese division had moved into the Demilitarized Zone(DMZ) border between North and South Vietnam.

The air war increased in intensity, and Royal Australian Air Force planes, in action for the first time, unveiled a fiery new technique. They dropped barrels of gasoline into Viet Cong positions and then set them on fire with tracer bullets from helicopters.

B-52 strategic bombers struck near the former imperial capital of Hue in three successive pre-dawn raids aimed at countering the North Vietnamese buildup near the northern frontier. It is in this region U. S. Marines seek to prevent a Communist onslaught by four full North Vietnamese divisions.

A spokesman reported three U. S. planes and a helicopter were shot down, two over North Vietnam and one in the south.

Communists reeling under a series of U.S. ground sweeps retaliated with three more mortar attacks on U.S. and South Vietnamese positions in widely scattered areas —the ninth, tenth and eleventh such attacks in the past few days. Thirty-eight Americans and many South Vietnamese were wounded.

The Communists mortared and overran a Vietnamese government rural development team of between 40 and 50 men and bombarded the town of Chuong Thien, wrecking the city hall that is the symbol of Saigon rule there. The city, 100 miles southwest of Saigon, has a population of 6,000 persons. Light casualties were reported among civilians.

In Saigon, military spokesmen said 1,075 Americans were killed or wounded or missing in combat last week, a drop from a record 1,617 the previous week. The casualties included 175 killed, 892 wouuded and eight men listed as missing. Spokesmen said the Communists suffered 1,407 men slain the same week, during which 226 South Vietnamese soldiers and 103 civilians perished.

They said that last week U.S. servicemen in Vietnam reached a new high of 423,000, an increase of 5,000 over the previous week.

The spokesmen also reported a record 1,918 guerrillas turned themselves into government forces.

Auto Stero Stolen

A $128 auto stereo and $78 worth of tapes were taken from a truck belonging to Merlin J. Williams of 27 Rutherford Avenue, San Anselmo, as the truck was parked behind his house Wednesday night, according to San Anselmo police.

Pro-Mao Army Takes Over Canton Party, Factories

HONG KONG (AP) — Canton Radio said today the Red Chinese army has taken over the Communist party apparatus and most major factories in the south China metropolis, but other reports said stubborn resistance to Mao Tse-tung's purge is continuing there.

Another broadcast said troops loyal to Mao took over factories and businesses in an effort to restore production and were "enthusiastically welcomed" by the workers. But other reports from Canton, which could not be confirmed, said there had been many fights between workers and Maoists and thousands of workers were staying away from their jobs.

Canton, 90 miles northwest of Hong Kong, the capital of Kwangtung Province and south China's largest city, has long been a center of opposition to Mao's "great proletarian cultural revolution," his name for the purge begun last summer.

Moscow Radio, in a Japanese-language broadcast monitored in Tokyo, said yesterday that large numbers of troops were being moved from north China into the south. The broadcast identified Kwangtung and Kweichow Provinces as the key trouble spots.

Hong Kong newspapers reported earlier that thousands of Cantonese workers armed with clubs and iron bars had clashed with pro-Mao soldiers who were trying to force them back to their jobs last Saturday.

There were no estimate of casualties from that incident, but another report Monday said thousands of persons had been killed or wounded in rural Kwangtung areas when troops opened fire on rebellious peasants and workers.

Reports of arrests of anti-Maoists in Kwangtung in the last 10 days have ranged from 1,000 to 100,000 persons, and Chen Yu, governor of the province, is said to have been arrested in Peking.

State Booms, Says Chamber

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California is booming. Just ask the State Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber computed yesterday that in the past 15 years California's personal income tripled — compared to a mere doubling in New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania—while its population and employment soared at greater rates than "unfortunates" such as Texas and New Jersey.

By 1980, the Chamber estimates, California will approach 30 million residents.

Senate Kills Open Door Meeting Plan

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A Senate committee has killed legislation to extend the state's public meeting "open door" policy.

The bills, backed by the California Newspaper Publishers Association, would have required meetings to be open any time two or more members were present from a committee or subcommittee.

Similar legislation passed the Assembly and was sent to the Senate. The Senate's own bills were killed by the Governmental efficiency Committee, which said the legislature had been setting too many ground rules for local governmental bodies.

Driver Wins His State License Case

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Hollywood man will keep his driver's license despite a new state law requiring motorists who refuse a sobriety test to give up their licenses for six months.

The six-month suspension of the license of Sidney B. Wolfe, 58, was overturned yesterday in Superior Court. Judge Ralph H. Nutter ruled that Wolfe had never been formally arrested on a drunken driving charge.

The State Department of Motor Vehicles suspended Wolfe's license after a minor traffic accident last Dec. 1.

Police, meantime, arrested Wolfe on a misdemeanor charge involving the accident, also noting he had refused to take the required chemical sobriety test.

On Jan. 17 the misdemeanor charge against Wolfe was dismissed in Municipal Court because the arresting officers had not witnessed the accident. Wolfe then appealed the loss of his driver's license on the ground he had never been lawfully charged with drunken driving.

Grease Boils Over, Causes $2,000 Fire

Grease being heated for French fried potatoes boiled over and started a $2,000 fire at the home of Margaret Rossbach, 18 Chickasaw Court, Corte Madera, yesterday at 5:05 p.m.

The fire was limited to the stove and kitchen cupboards, but smoke caused damage throughout the house, according to the Corte Madera Fire Department.

Terra Linda Rec Pool Will Open On May 13

Directors of the Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District last night set May 13 as opening day for the district pool. The board ruled that season passes for residents will be $35 and for non-residents $100, the same as last year, and that non-residents can again make payment in three installments, the last due June 15.

Board chairman Norman Gurin said the pool will be open only on weekends until the end of the school year, after which it will be open daily.

Directors learned that the district's basketball team will go to Twentynine Palms March 31 to compete in area recreation district playoffs.

They authorized spending $600 to clear weeds in district parkways, and appointed LeRoy Meeker to serve as district controller, replacing Gordon Young, who resigned.

A catastrophic earthquake strikes the earth about once a year, says the U.S. Geological Survey.

Crippled Children Funds To Reagan

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A once-controversial bill that split an Assembly committee's ranks between Republicans and Democrats has now cleared both the Assembly and Senate by unanimous votes.

The bill to provide California's crippled children $574,000 in emergency funds this fiscal year passed the Senate by a 38 - 0 vote yesterday after earlier Assembly approval.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who sought $274,000 originally and then reached agreement with Democrats for $300,000 more, is expected to sign the bill.

Pacifists Determined To Sail On To Hanoi

HONG KONG (UPI)—The American yacht Phoenix, loaded with medical supplies for North Vietnam, arrived in Hong Kong today on its last stop before Haiphong.

A U.S. consular spokesman said officials were " attempting to discourage" pacifist Earle Reynolds, 56, and his American crew from running the $10,000 worth of supplies to the Communists.

A spokesman for the group told a news conference they would sail for Haiphong March 21 "regardless of any obstacles thrown in our way or any persuasion to call off the trip."

The group is sailing in a 50-foot yacht captained by Earle Reynolds, an American now living in Hiroshima. Sailing with the group are Philip Drath, 53, of San Rafael; Horace Dhampney, 61, Yellow Springs, Ohio; Ivan Massar, 47, Concord, Mass., and Robert Eton, 23, Philadelphia.

Annexation Plan Halted

Sea Haven residents last night generally agreed to hold off seeking annexation to the Inverness Public Utilities District for fire protection, Shirley L. Morgan reported today.

Morgan, heading a committee studying the proposal, said instead that Sea Haven residents will ask the county to keep its one-man fire truck in Inverness and hire a second relief driver, at least as a temporary solution.

Morgan reported residents pay 18 cents per $100 assessed valuation of county tax for structural fire protection. The tax rate of the Inverness Public Utilities District is now 59 cents per $100 valuation.

Pacifist Rally Set

The Students Against War of College of Marin are planning a candlelight march to the courthouse the evening of April 8. They have written county supervisors requesting permission for use of the courthouse steps and lawn, where the marchers will listen to speeches against war and aggression.

Seminarian Publishes New Book On Japanese Church

A new book by Dr. Robert Lee, professor of social ethics at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, has been simultaneously published in London, New York and Tokyo.

"Stranger in the Land: A Study of the Church in Japan," was one of 12 studies commissioned by the World Council of Churches for educational purposes. It is Lee's eighth published work and explores the organization of congregations in Japan and their impact on the community.

One of Lee's previous books, "Religion and Leisure in America," is now in its third printing and was selected as the "Religious Book-of-the-Month for Adult Parish Study."

Cyclist Injured

Thomas Archer, 22, a fireman aboard the carrier Coral Sea, was treated at Marin General Hospital for scrapes, bruises and an ankle injury suffered at 2:20 a.m. Tuesday when his motorcycle went off a curve of Sir Francisco Drake Boulevard in Forest Knolls.

TV Set Stolen

Richard Chambe Box, 55 Seafirth Road, reported Tuesday to Tiburon sheriff's deputies that a television set valued at $115 was stolen from his home while the family was away for only 25 minutes from 10:30 to 10:55 a.m. yesterday.

Guild Sues On Supervisors' Secret Lunch

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Is it possible for a governmental body to meet behind closed doors — and not be in violation of the secret closed door meetings forbidden under the Ralph M. Brown Act?

This is the question before Sacramento Superior Court Judge B. Abbott Goldberg, who has given the parties until April 1 to submit written briefs and answers.

The case was brought to court by the Sacramento Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, which seeks an injunction forbidding further closed door meetings of the type it contends was held Feb. 8 by Sacramento County supervisors.

At a hearing last Friday, supervisors admitted holding a Feb. 8 luncheon meeting at the Elks Club, with all five county supervisors and leaders of the Sacramento Central Labor Council on hand.

But the supervisors' counsel, John B. Heinrich, argued that the closed meeting dealt only with legal actions between supervisors and striking social workers and, as such, didn't violate the Brown Act.

The Guild, a labor union representing several hundred employes of the Capital's two daily newspapers, countered that the discussion involved public business and also went beyond consideration of just legal actons.

Three news reporters said they were barred from the meeting. The Guild said that supervisors planned further such closed meetings.

After briefs are submitted, Judge Goldberg could either set a court date for a hearing or decide on the basis of submitted evidence and argument.

The tiger shark is named because of its hooked teeth rather than its tiger-like stripes, says the Miami Seaquarium.

Two Easter Egg Hunts Planned In San Rafael

Two Easter egg hunts have been scheduled by the San Rafael Park and Recreation Department next week.

Children from three to five in the department's Tiny Tot program for pre-school children will have an Easter egg hunt at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Albert Park.

An "open" egg hunt, for children through 12 years old, will be held at 9 a.m. on March 25, also at Albert Park, co-sponsored by the park department and the San Rafael Lions Club.

The March 25 hunt will be divided into three sections for children of different ages. A dozen large Easter baskets will be given as prizes to children finding special gold or silver eggs.

A Glimpse Into The Fabric Future—

NEW YORK (UPI) —When industrial designer Raymond Loewy looks to the future in fabrics and fashions, many of the advances of the past pale by comparison.

We may one day "harvest" fur or wool from laboratory-produced sheets of living skin. Clothes would act as their own air-conditioners. An evening gown would be demure, or daring, depending on the lights. And, if a person's eyes lighted up, as the saying goes, a gadget could measure their luminosity.

Loewy stated that some of his projections are admittedly speculation while others actually are now possible.

"LOOK AT THE paper phenomenon . . . one of the most amusing and inventive fancies," said Loewy. But "when the last paper party dress has hit the incinerator for the jet set, I think of the potential after-effect." He pointed out that inexpensive apparel could be used by millions of people all over the world who cannot even afford the basic items of clothing.

"Cheap paper coverage (no pun intended) might solve this problem. For I note . . . that as sophisticated people like to go increasingly naked, primitive people like to get more covered."

Even now, Loewy says, there are paper yarns, ready for weaving or knitting. As for other man-made fabrics, Loewy sees "thin sheets chemically bonded and welded into clothing," but with the "breathing" characteristics of wovens through microscopic perforations.

Theoretically, he added, two plastic panels of different characteristics could "expand or contract according to external temperature and thereby regulate the air flow . . . get warmer in winter, cooler in summer."

FABRICS MIGHT remain free of bacteria, and be impregnated with fragrances or deodorants. Already sunglasses with photosensitive lens darken in strong light. Carry the idea farther, and beachwear would change in degree of opacity to protect sensitive skin.

Fabrics in which a design is woven of photosensitive yarns could create decorative effects varying according to lighting conditions—"a sheer evening gown . . . decently opaque on the illuminated dance floor . . . revealing as the lights are dimmed."

Loewy also said consumer reaction to some products can now be calculated with an electronics system of measuring emotion through the pupils, calculating the degree to which a person's eyes light up.

NEW DESIGN INTEREST

Deft combinations of color and texture give new design interest to young-shaped spring pumps. QualiCraft accents blond calfskin with touches of black patent, emphasing the softly squared toe and the broadened heel. Stripes of patent make a gay awning of the up-front tongue. It's from QualiCraft's fresh new spring crop at Leed's, Northgate Fashion Mall.

'No-Look' Evolving As Most Strategic Fashion Maneuver

We are now in the midst of a revolution in the world of women's fashions with the "no-look" evolving as a most influential strategic maneuver. Designers have run the gamut with the "no-neck look" the "no-hip look," the "no-waist look" and the "no-bust look" to name but a few. However, according to a famous British designer the most startling "no-look" of all is on its way, the "no-skirt look."

HE PREDICTS that in another 10 years skirts for women will disappear completely. He also has entertained the possibility that instead men would adopt the use of skirts. A real shocker! Well, consider the Greek soldiers and the Scots in their kilts and the probability is not that impossible. What do the men have to say about all this . . . nobody has asked them.

THIS APPAREL turn-about is forecast only for the Western World, which according to this designer, at present shows a strong front in the United States. On a recent visit to our shores, he observed that women here are indulging the figure more and emphasis has been given to the "leggy look."

However, whether we like it or not the Mod look has touched us all.

Designers Join The Safari

LONDON (UPI) —In every fashion capital, the influence of Africa shows strongly. Dior's Paris designer Marc Bohan, for instance, came out for the jungle look for spring. New York's manufacturers showed jungle prints running riot. The accessories designers have joined the safari.

Now, usually staid London has been treated to the African look. But then, London already had produced the Mod, so maybe it was time for another startler.

The nation of Uganda produced a fashion show here recently, and the host was Uganda's High Commissioner Gerald Nsubuga. He was of fashion interest himself —in ankle length white African robes topped by a Western navy suit jacket with a white and blue painted walking stick in his hand.

Models paraded beach clothes, dresses and leisure wear to the throb of African music.

THE SHOW was said to contain the world's first bark cloth suit and a material named kikoi never seen in the West before.

The bark, pulped just as paper is made from wood, made a rust-colored sleeveless tabard top and straight skirt that ended about three inches above the knee.

Kikoi is a coarse woven fabric which can be made into almost endless mutations of colors. A top and matching ankle-length skirt were checked black and white, then overchecked with yellow, green and red.

Most of the dresses were simple shifts, hemmed just above the knee or right down at ankle length with slits up the sides. Their eye-catching quality depended entirely on the patterns —all colors based on shells, on the African cockerel, on traditional geometric shapes, on Oriental embroidery.

Trouser suits, playsuits and beachwear came in the same prints. Vivid red and orange ponchos topped some styles.

EASTERN INFLUENCES came into the intricate silver and gold embroidery of some of the evening styles, again made as simple shifts or two-pieces which showed an inch or two of bare midriff between the tasseled top and long skirt. From Arabia came the idea of an evening djellaba, a long, straight gown, striped white and gold with a fringed hem and a raised collar embroidered with silver and gold sequins.

Wholesale prices started at four pounds ($11.20) and went up to 50 pounds ($140), the latter for a straight shift wedding dress made in white and Bengal silk silver embroidered with a matching train falling from a pillbox hat.

THIS VENTURE by the Uganda government's National Trading Corporation to sell in Britain and later aim for other countries such as the United States and France is the brainchild of the designer of the clothes, Mrs. Phillips Todd.

She is the only European face in the Kampala workrooms where the clothes are made and she said she would quit eventually. Her husband, professor of fine arts at Makerere University in Uganda, is training Uganda designers to take over.

Pantsuits Are 'In' Like Bicycling

Wearing pantsuits and bicycling seem to go together in the 60s like love and marriage or a horse and carriage. Pantsuits are having wider acceptance everywhere this spring, and predictions are that they will be "in," like bicycling, for a long time.

The Bicycle Institute says that pantsuits look neater for bike riding and lots of other town and country activities. Well-known American designers have introduced a kaleidoscope of designs and colors—the ones most frequently seen on New York's chic Sunday bicycling set are combinations of proper little coats and pipe-stem pants, some cropped coats reaching to the top of the thighs or worn knee length.

THE TURN, or return (some say gallop), to cycling for fun and fitness is a national phenomenon, proving that cycling is "in" when nearly 60 million Americans are doing it. Like the French, how can 60 million Americans be wrong? Cyclists now have a choice of pedaling on the increasing numbers of scenic bicycle paths being developed in cities, states and by the federal government. Many of them are, or will be, near large metropolitan areas.

If you've longed for an activity which can be shared by everybody, young and old alike, you'll want to dust off your old bike this spring, or get one of the new and dazzling models. There are bikes with big and little wheels, tandems, giant trikes, fold-aways, collapsibles —all lighter, easier to ride and store than ever before.

WITH THE RENAISSANCE in cycling has come a fashion revival from the Jean Harlow era. And there couldn't be a happier wedding. Indeed, designers are suggesting in their ads and store displays — that pantsuits and bikes are made for each other.

Pantsuits, however, were not an innovation of the 30's, but rather of the late 1800's when split skirts allowed women for the first time to ride forward-saddle instead of side-saddle.

Beyond the cities, bike togs continue to be what is convenient and comfortable—hip-hugging blue jeans with Western boots and ranch shirts for both boys and girls. The short-shorts, pedal pushers and bikinis have gone the way of all good (to the men anyway) fads. Even the demise of the mini-skirt is predicted this year.

Resort Dress-Up Evenings Call For Colorful Formals

Dress-up evenings at Southern resorts call for colorful formalwear. Take your choice of either traditional or forward fashion dinner jackets in silks, silk-like, linen-type and plain fabrics in pale tones or deep rich shades. There are brand new striped dinner jackets in white, off-white and colors. Newest in resort formal-wear are tropical dinner suits in a sand shade with trousers to match the jacket.

LIGHTWEIGHT shetlands, bends of silk and worsted, pure silk, polyester-worsted blends, hopsacks, cottons and cotton blends — all available in plain shades and bright bold patterns — make up the new sport coat designs. And, of course, blazers in both single- and double-breasted styles in a host of colors are a must in every Southern vacation wardrobe. White and bold plaid, tattersall or striped slacks go great with the blazers.

ALREADY reaching great heights of popularity, the military look is expected to grow even stronger in the next season or so. The doughboy jacket and pea coat have caught hold, and the Army "camel" and Air Force "blue" are the current leading outerwear shades. Along with the aforementioned, Cavalry twills in slacks and clothing fit into the theme — along with head coverings and desert boots associated with the military. Just why this theme should have such great appeal when many young people are avincing their opposition to war and the draft is a puzzlement to many adults. But it's here and growing!

COLOR AND pattern are making deep inroads in the business and dress shirt fields and the impact on white shirts — at one time almost a basic part of the average man's uniform — has been felt. . . . Wide track stripes on pastel grounds are very big in dress shirts, and will continue to hold their popularity against up-and-coming tattersalls and window-pane on white and colored grounds. . . . Incidentally, formal shirts have also gone colorful — with some stores showing pinks, yellows, greens, etc. to complement the colorful new formal clothing.

RANDOM NOTES . . . don't wear a hat squarely on your head. Tilt it slightly to one side or another . . . your topcoat or raincoat should just reach the knee or slightly above. Slim men shouldn't wear "stove-pipe" trousers which emphasize the wearer's slimness.

Needed For Spring: Wardrobe Of Faces

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—A woman only looks as good as her face value.

So get the paint pots and brushes ready. You'll need such fixings to put your best faces forward the fashionable way come spring.

That's right. Faces. Down at the beauty works they're saying a damsel must have a wardrobe of faces.

This has nothing to do with masks, as in Halloween. It has everything to do with painting, brushing, pasting and drawing all sorts of things on your face. The idea: Change your face as you switch from one mood or activity to another.

The many sides of a face were demonstrated during beauty workshops held in conjunction with American Designer and New York Couture Business Council showings for the nation's fashion press corps.

For glitter, consider sequins pasted above the eyebrows, following the line of the eyebrow to set it off.

If that's not enough, reach for a strip of eyelid sequins and paste same on lids right above the lash. Stick on a bit of red feather on the ends of lashes to make an eye-stopping impression.

FOR SPORTY occasions, set off the eyes by painting tiger stripes in verticle lines under the lower lashes. Or maybe you only do this when you want the world to know you're in a catty mood?

Now the nose. You don't just powder it to hide the shine. What you do: Run a white line down the middle to make it appear shorter. To give the illusion of a narrower proboscis, shade each side.

Makeup appears to be coming out of the "no" era—marked by putting on layers of cosmetics to give that pale, plain look. One sign: There's a return to lipsticks with a dash of red in them.

HIGHLIGHTS OF designer collections:

—B. H. WRAGGE continued the shirt silhouette, but made news with the subtraction of sleeves, really going down to the barest essentials in the sleeveless department. This resulted in a new triangular shape in dresses. For brightness the prints were hard to beat. They included prints of sea breeze stripes, pickup sticks, jigsaws.

—CHESTER WEINBERG introduced trail blazer suits with crisp cuffed trousers, tailored wool suitdresses that subtly showed the shape, and wild silk prints suitable for wearing when painting the town day or night. Long evening clothes included those in stripes and abstract prints used with geometric precision in shocking pinks and chrome yellows or in a mirage of color. Black and white silks bared the shoulder and then swept all the way down.

—ADELE SIMPSON presented daytime dresses and suits in banner stripes, pianissimo stripes, fortissimo stripes and adagio stripes. Sample: One navy blue wool crepe dress was topped by a striped yellow, gold, navy and red jacket. Another had a ⅞-length striped coat. Silk costumes for daytime came in patterns of geometric lines and squares with swinging, rippling and pleated skirts.

—MOLLIE PARNIS had these elements of change: String belts worn low, silhouettes that curved noticeably between the bosom and hipline. The designer doesn't believe women are likely to go back to tight waistlines and long skirts in a sudden change from the ease and grace of loose clothes.

—OLEG CASSINI centered his collection on the vertical set-up. It was defined as an alliance between Oleg and an Italian fabric manufacturer who made the fabrics Oleg designed. And then Oleg took this fabric and went to town in his workroom. What came out: Palazzo pajamas with an Aztec theme, beach ensembles in the African mood, shifts, semi-fitted long dresses, caftans, cowboy suits—and all sorts of clothes to catch the fancy of the best-dressed in any country.

Carnaby Designer To Sell Elders 'The Major Skirt'

LONDON (UPI)—The pretty model stepped out of one of Carnaby Street's avant garde boutiques, the hemline of her dress brushing against the top of her calf-length boots.

She was ready to meet the stares of shoppers and sightseers but hardly anyone even glanced at her. They were saving their looks for the miniskirts and mod-suits which made Carnaby Street world famous.

Yet Irvine Sellars, the shrewd ready-to-wear manufacturer responsible for starting many a trend in his boutiques, plans to make a third of his line for girls in this "new" long length—the "major skirt," if you want a name.

"We're making them because we feel there is a demand," Sellers said. "We don't feel the miniskirt is finished—not at all—it's something long young girls can wear that older women can't or won't so it'll be around for quite a while, but there's also a call for something different. It's probably a rebellion against the rebelious."

His chief designer, Liz Cloves, 25, agrees.

"I think some girls are just sick of looking so extrovert," she said, "though I think it will be another year before it really catches on."

Her first designs in the new length—either inches below the average miniskirt in the Seliars line or two to three inches below the knee—are already on sale. Like Yves St. Laurent's "Zhivago" coats of last season in Paris, look somewhat Russian.

"Most of the high-fashion girls—the sort who usually wear very miniskirts and dress very well—are wearing the new length for late day," she said.

LATEST SPRING ENSEMBLE

A lovely new creation by Julie Miller of California is this costume ensemble . . . sleeveless skimmer dress in bitter green with a matching three-color floral pattern, three-quarter sleeve coachman style coat. Belt in back, and coat is lined with the same material as dress. Shown by the new co-owners of Mister C, Virginia and Victor Nuti, at the Northgate Fashion Mall.

LOOK, MA

Sleeveless Coats Will Become Classics

NEW YORK (UPI)—Look Ma, no sleeves.

If you thought coats were to keep you warm, wait until you shop for spring. Dozens of designers show sleeveless coats, which apparently are destined like sleeveless dresses to become classics in feminine wardrobes. Usually the sleeveless coats are worn over coordinated dresses which have sleeves. Some ensembles, though, bare the whole arm.

Pauline Trigere is one designer plunking for the sleeveless coat. One of her outfits has a coat flared from the shoulders, shown over a print dress, also sleeveless. Lots of Miss Trigere's A-line coats came with some sleeve, ending above the elbow. One lime colored, loosely woven wool coat had short, bell-shaped sleeves lined with a gray-yellow print from which the dress also was made.

Another favorite coat sleeve length is the bracelet, coming back after several seasons of the down-to-the-wrist lengths.

In coats, look also for often big, often military looking collars, small rolled collars, mandarin standups, and scarf treatments. Many coats come belted—the belts taking off in two directions, as high half bands at the back, or down around the hipbones, loose and looped through tabs.

In the more traditional suit categories, jackets run the gamut in length. There are long line ones, often fitted toward the body, but never tightly. These fingertip length numbers show over saucy, short and flared skirts.

Other jackets include the boleros, waist-length feminine versions of the famous Eisenhower jacket, still others tunic-length bordering on coats.

Jackets come with single-breasted or double breasted closings, and catching on is the no-button look with either zippers or inside snaps. Look for many hip-riding skirts under long jackets, young and flip, but calling for good bones to carry them.

Add on the shorts suits, with most manufacturers offering both above-knee shorts or skirts to go with the jackets.

In daytime lengths for suits and dresses, above the knee is the rule, although "in America, the miniskirt is not an across-the-board command," as a summary of trends from the Designers' Group puts it.

"Daring prophecies of fitted clothes with belted waistlines have now become a definite statement in important collections," the summary adds. And such leaders as Pauline Trigere and Norman Norell definitely belt the waistline.

Watch for the influences of Africa, the Near, Middle and Far East in shapes, textures, colors and patterns for spring. One is the North African burnoose (a loose, unseamed and sometimes hooded cloak), the caftan (a narrow, high-shaped coat with open side), and the djellaba, (a high-bosomed, flaring tunic). For evening, harem and Turkish-type pants show beneath shaped tunics, dresses and coats are veiled, and the classic Grecian draperies abound.

Short, Short, Short Word From Coif To The Culotte

Short, short, short is the word for spring! From coif to culotte the cue is crop. Every woman will agree, skirts (mini or short) are as much a snare as a lure. Eye-catcher or not, there is nothing quite so unattractive as a woman with too much of her leg (or any of her underwear!) showing.

According to Edie Raymond Locke, fashion editor, one solution to the too-much-leg problem are tights and panty legs — either sheer or opaque. They should be in color harmony with either shoe or skirt to provide continuity. "Too many colors create a chopped up effect," Mrs. Locke warned. "Tights that match shoes or skirts help make the 'total' look."

THE '67 SKIRT shapes are designed for short-stop hemlines. They're fuller and more fluid-pleated, flared, flipped. Or they're culottes — the newest/nowest look for spring. Mrs. Locke adds, "With all short skirts, regardless of shape, wear chunky low-heeled shoes. Besides being more comfortable, low heels keep the proportion between body and legs balanced."

"THE CLIP" — the hair for '67 has arrived! It is the in look, the companion beauty for mini or flip. The beauty go-ahead that knocks the stops right out from under tumbling tresses, are big eyes and good bones. There is no reason to fear a loss of the swinging, romantic image since a hair-cut no longer means a total commitment or a piggy-bank bust.

Wigs, falls and wiglets are for everyone. Dynel which used to shine as bright as a diamond is toned down to the lovely lustre of a pearl. Colors can be blended so well that this man-made fiber is a human-hair duplicate.

The 'Trouser-Suit' Will Stay Forever

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Come summer, girls are going to look like what boys used to look like.

The avant garde dollies are giving Londoners their first view of their his-clothes.

The girls who swung along King's Road in miniskirts a month ago now are ankling past in pants.

Says Tailor and Cutter, the mouthpiece of Saville Row: "The trouser suit is here to stay forever.

"There will probably be an increase in the similarity of men's and women's clothes during the next few years — as women become more and more recognized and accepted in equality terms."

"The tailor who can render fashionable trouser suit stylings for an age group of, say, 30-40 years of age—which wishes to be up-to-date in projection, yet does not wish to be submitted to some of the wilder styles of the teen-age boutique ranges—has a great deal of business waiting for him."

The innovator appears to have been young Yves St. Laurent in Paris.

Commenting on the first crop of long pants for girls — worn with vests, broad ties with floral designs and regimental stripes, even Edwardian gold chains suspended across flat female tummies, and felt hats with turned-down brims — London fashion writer Judy Innes said:

"If you belong to the dwindling band of those who believe that life is more fun when girls are girls and boys are boys, you'd better brace yourself for a pretty grim bit of news."

In Belgravia's smartest drawing rooms, you can see ladies in tuxedos with bell-bottom trousers with cuffs. . . cummerbunds in black silk. . . frilly shirts as worn lately by men. . . cuff links of metal and black string ties. . . gangster-style belted overcoats, wide-brimmed black hats cocked over pairs of pretty, plucked eyebrows.

Weskit Suit Brings Ahs From Paris

All the oo-ahs which have been heard from Paris about the weskit suit really started last year when Marie McCarthy designed the suit with a hacking jacket and weskit to contrast in wool at Larry Aldrich.

The newest version is an improvement on the first one. It's in lightweight fabric for early summer or those cool, cloudy days. The hacking jacket has a suggestion of fit at the waistline, with riding habit cut that takes it longer at the hips. The weskit is a true vest—cut in contrasting fabric, and makes the whole outfit as dashing as a London toff's.

Hosiery Longer As Skirts Hike

As skirts get shorter, stockings must get longer. One hosiery maker has introduced 'hip-lets,' which are hip-high, interchangeable stockings that hook with an adjustable elastic band. Worn with panty girdle or with panties alone, the pair gives a smooth line from toes to hips, says the manufacturer. They're made of stretch yarn and come in two shades , a golden beige and a rich suntan.

Gernreich Sees New Silhouette

Fashion "attitude" is important, says designer Rudi Gernreich. "Since there has been no major silhouette change in so many years," says the California-based stylist, "detail becomes most essential in dress. The attitude of the woman becomes just as important as the designer." So, girls, it's how you feel about clothes as well as how you wear them.

Chalk Striped Suits Returning

Perhaps it is the influence of the chalk-striped suits of the 30's that is coming back to favor, but winter dinner jackets soon may get away from the black or navy tradition. Gentlemen's Quarterly reports prominent manufacturers are running up pin stripes. One is navy silk, double-breasted, shawl-collared, with a bold white stripe. Another is a peak-lapel, single-breasted jacket in dark gray mohair, lightly gray pin-striped.

Night Clothes Take To Morning

Don't be surprised this summer some bright morning if you spy a woman in night-clothes plunging into a backyard pool It's a whole new bit of fashion fun thought up by Clarence A. Ross, of Stretchnit. The designer thinks today's woman should have clothes with more than one function. In the fall, he brought out funny underwear —night clothes that fitted well into the apres-ski and discotheque picture. His new group of patterned fabrics in wild color combos double as underwear and swimwear.

Shiny Footwear

It's the shiny look for footwear for spring and summer. Patents come in just about every color as well as the standard black. One combination is of yellow and orange. Sometimes three colors are used in one pair of shoes.

SMOOTH GOING

To traditional moccasin styling, Florsheim adds a loop strap and a row of vamp stitching, creating a genuine moccasin fashion that will go smoothly and comfortably to important dress suit occasions. At Florsheim Shoe Shop, Northgate Fashion Mall.

Zingy Colors, Racy Prints Add Speed To Jet-Set Styles

Speed is the keynote for spring fashions. Prints are racier, colors are zingy and fabrics are designed for jet-set sophisticates. An added joy: Colors are faster, apparel care is quicker and easier, thanks to textile improvements and washing machine advances, according to experts.

NATURALLY, the word that prints are bolder and gayer while colors are more varied and vibrant will appeal to style-conscious homemakers. Once upon a time it could have raised practical questions. How will the riot of colors wash? How will the blends wear? — she might have asked. Now, more than ever before, she can relax and enjoy.

WHEN the dominant checks, plaids, and stripes in sculptured, lacy textures make their increased washability and bleachability for three reasons: (1) textile suppliers and converters are putting more emphasis on quality in finishes and colors; (2) the new fabrics will be more resistant to shrinkage, wrinkling and stains; and (3) soft-goods firms will be furnishing more detailed laundering advice on labels and hangtags.

Mesh Shoes

Mesh shoes, once dismissed as the ultimate in unfashionable, now look smart for spring. Watch for them in oxfords, ankle boots, with linen or with toes and heels of snake, even in shimmering kid.

PERFECT FOR EASTER

This Bleeker Street creation in robin's egg blue curves gently at the waist and is banded in sparkling white at the neck, sleeves, and hem. Scroll detailing highlights the classic lines of this Tussah wave — so perfect for Eastern morning. At the City of Paris Midinette dress dept., Northgate Fashion Mall.

Jewelry—Big, Bold, Bulky And Sweet

Just as spring's clothing fashion leads a double life—swingy by day, sweet by night—so does spring's fashion jewelry. The "Fake Look" has a special effect flair—bold, bulky and very colorful—for a dash of drama. The "Real Look," on the other hand, is a style statement of ladylike allure, a modest answer to Mod. Both are musts for spring's fashionable femme.

The big and bold in jewelry is making a tremendous fashion splash. Magnificent ropes and chains of multi-colored stones and beads, huge bangles and bracelets, and long, dramatic earrings go way out to be way "in." Oriental arm bands and slave and spiral bracelets are bright and beautiful for an exotic spring.

Gold-colored pieces of huge geometric patterns and shapes, and "pop" plastic are colorful and ultra-contemporary for spring.

IN NECKLACES there is a greater variety than ever. Ranging from chokers to long, long strands, from delicate chains to multi-stranded ropes, from heirloom-type pendants to heavy "pendulums," necklaces are giving a real fashion fling.

Bracelets too make the scene with multi-colored charms, gold-colored filigreed ornaments, and chunky, shaped stones. Favorite bracelet color combinations are gold and platinum—very rich! —and black and white, whether jet and crystal or black and white enamel.

Pins move up front with stunning style innovations. Enamel pins combined with gold in unusual motifs are rising in popularity, as are antique and heirloom designs. Whether textured, bejeweled, intricate or bulky, pins add a major dash of drama to the season's fashion.

AND EARRINGS have gone to dramatic lengths for spring, with designs, colors and shapes styled to delight. More and more designs are available in pierced earrings as their popularity seems to know no bounds. Rings, too, turnr into a rage with new big, bold and beautiful designs.

For the "Real Look" bracelets, necklaces and pins make impressive imitations of precious jewelry. Tailored gold jewelry remains a fashionable frontrunner. Sprinkled lightly with colored stones to provide either harmony or contrast, gold colored jewelry is ideal for spring elegance.

For That Extra Pair Of Shoes—It's The Tote Bag

One large bag which not only promises to be around for a long time to come but is actually gaining in popularity each year, is the tote bag. Its most compatible advocate is the woman who wishes to carry with her an extra pair of shoes and other necessary paraphernalia . . . but want to tote it in something more prosaic than a shopping bag. This season's crop of tote bags are styled in canvas and leather.

For the teenage set, it's the kooky and wet look. They favor the hot colors . . . in some instances toned down by white.

Cotton crepes promise a fresh, crisp feeling all day in smart one-piece dresses or separates.

Color is felt everywhere, fresh, clear, never harsh.

African, Peruvian Prints Make It A Worldly Spring

Early showings indicate there will be multiple combinations of color that will make big news. Prints will include geometric designs, free forms, florals, both small and large stripes, spaced bandings and the new African, Peruvian and South Seas patterns. There are many interesting twin prints.

TEXTURE centers in all fibers . . . ribs, diagonals, overweaves — floral and geometric raised surfaces and jacquard effects. Lacy and embroidered looks will be seen on into Summer. For sportswear the Poor Boy ribs continue, with brushed and scrubbed looks in denims and ticking stripes. There will be a continuation of lively heathers in wools and blends.

Novelty piques, padded ottomans and Bedford cords add another texture dimension. Linen weaves, homespuns and hopsackings can be found on every line with the more rustic burlap weaves looking new. Blends will be the strongest in all Ready-to-Wear designs.

Many bonded fabrics in new weaves are now seen in knits as well as blended cottons. The wispy voiles, organdies and dimities are newest with embroidery and lace insertions. This is the year of the print with color running riot with excitement.

French Tapestries Appearing In Print

Animation is the key word in fashions this spring and for the first time for this airy season, the trend is to shy away from the soft pastels, as colors burst forth in a torrent of vivid hues: lemony lemons, vibrant greens, orangy reds and electric blues.

Although the silhouette remains easy and relaxed with free-flowing lines, fabrics take on a "no-season" look pirating fabrics from every season. The no-holds-barred collection includes silks, worsteds, novelties, gabardine and imported cottons and crepes.

The mini-print has been swept aside by an avalanche of wild African primites with zoo prints topping the list. For a touch of conservatism, designers have reached back into the past and have extracted a French gardenful of tapestry florals in lovely Kahlua colors This makes its appearance in the stained glass prints. The avant-garde influence remains, with a whole new exciting collection of art nouveau prints.

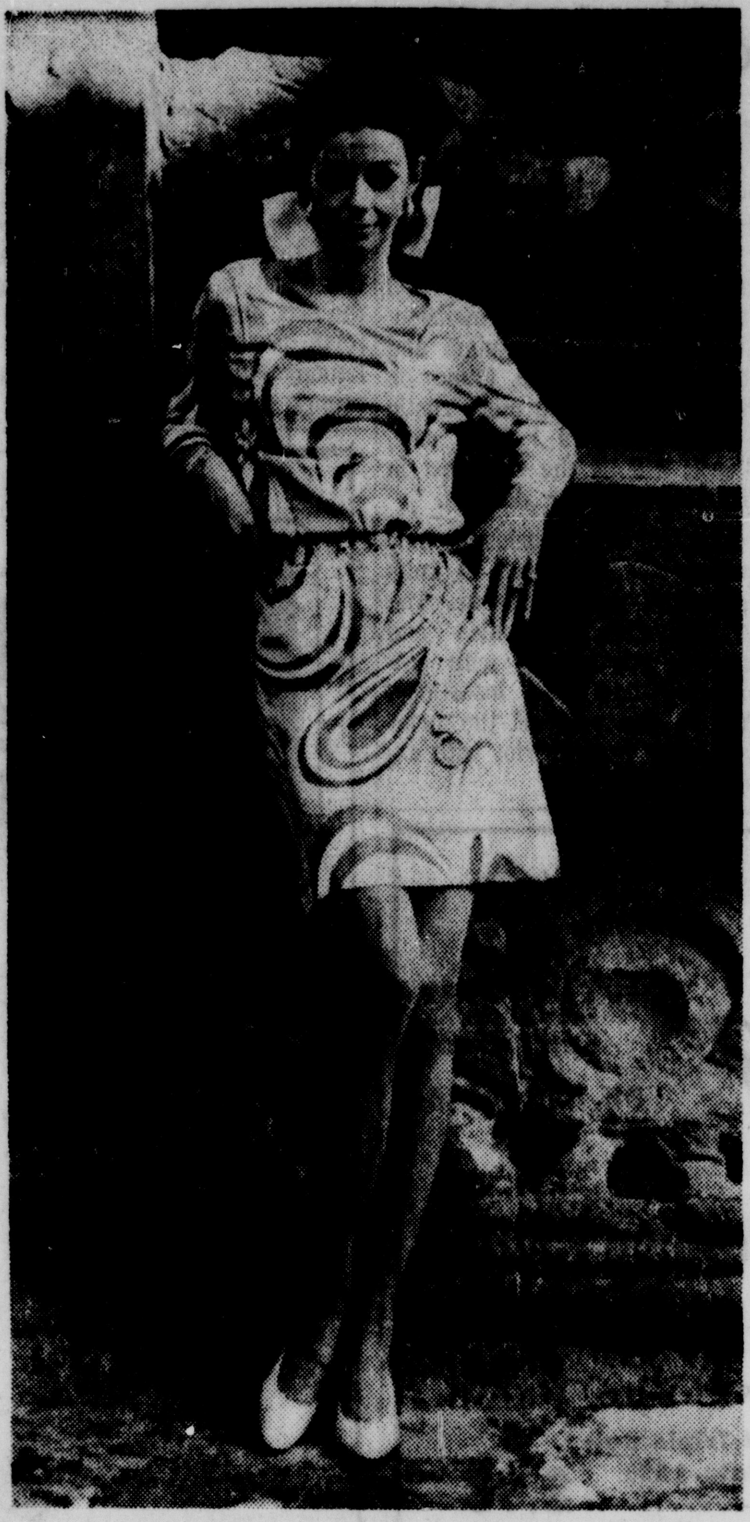
SPRING HAPPENING

Bold boxes of fuchsia crossed with white create a fast-stepping and flat-textured wool rayon engineered into a long jacket with matching over-blouse and short flirt of pleated skirt. Sizes 5-12. Elite Juniors by Luba. Available at Jon Robert, San Rafael.

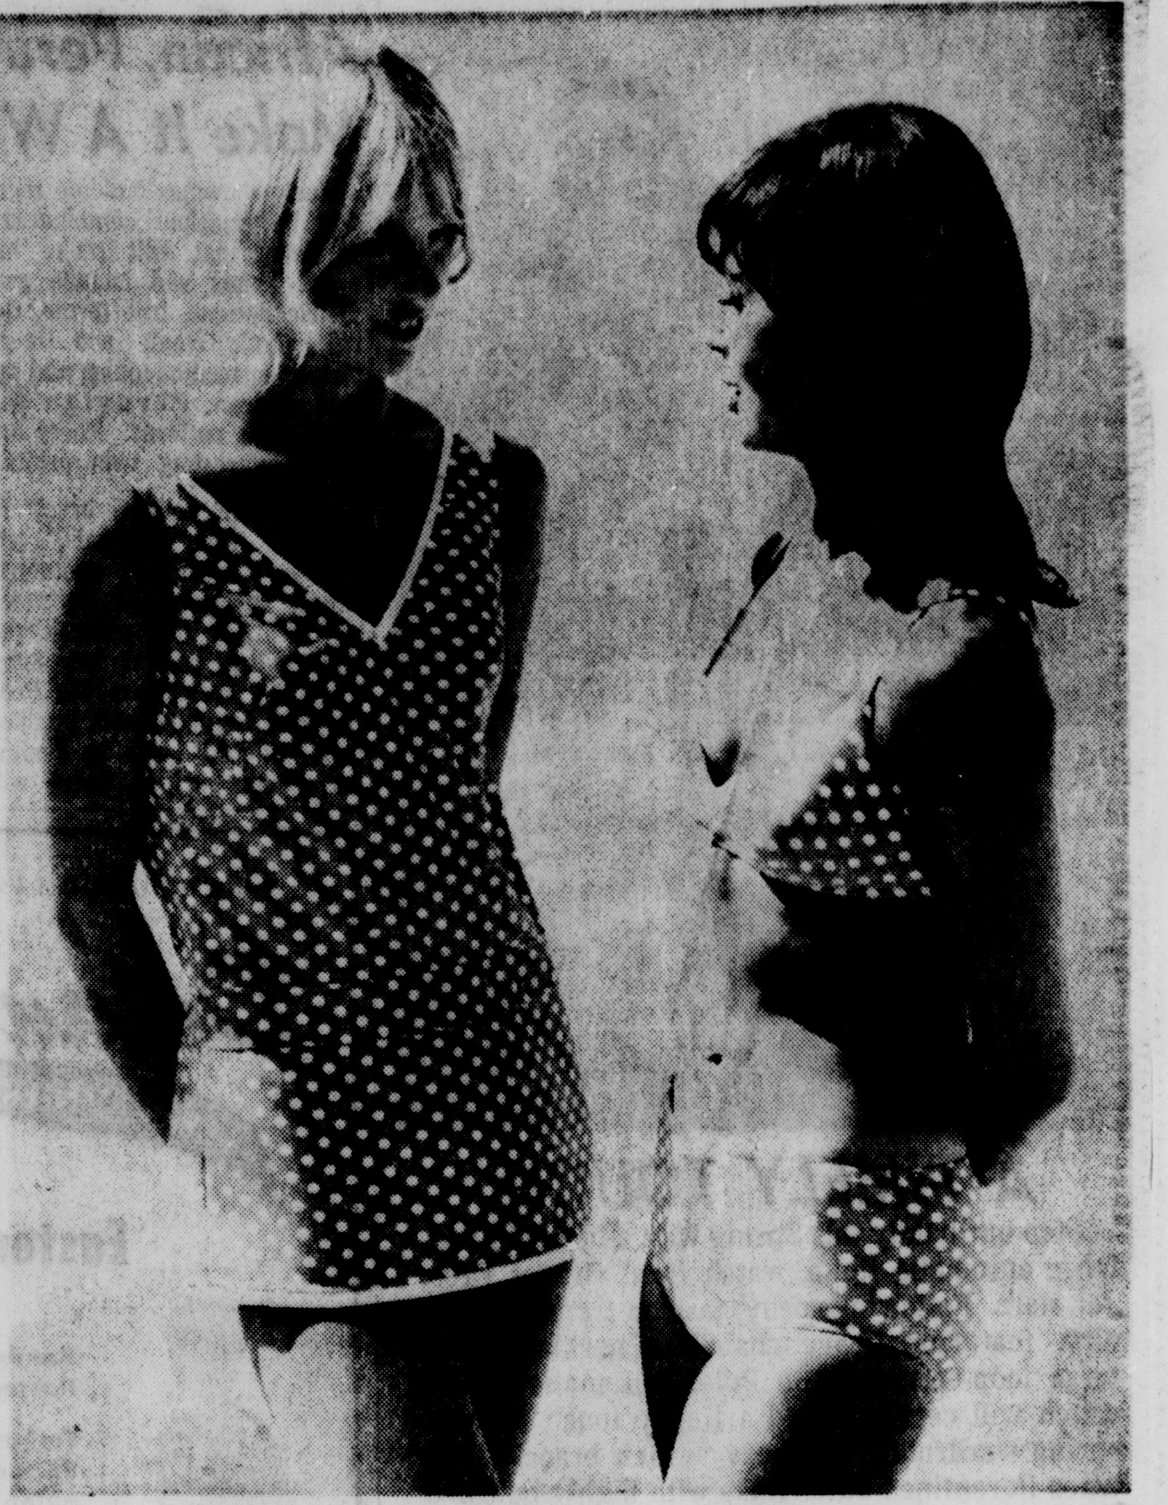


RESORT IMPRESSIONS

Ideal for touring the ancient pyramids of Mexico—abstract swirl printed Celanese Arnel Triacetate shift by Loomtogs in vivid brush strokes of grape, lime and orange. At Modern Eve, San Rafael and Northgate Fashion Mall.

Airy Caftans

The airy floating caftan shapes that dominate the evening scene are dramatized in stained glass voiles and art nouveau silks.



FOR THE SOPHISTICATES—

Remember the teeny-weeny polka dot bikini of a few seasons past? It's been transformed into this more sophisticated version by Elizabeth Stewart for spring '67 and comes in a three-piece ensemble including the bikini and matching play-dune. The fabric is quick-drying antron-nylon and the colors are lime/white and gold/white. You'll find it at Stan's Sports Shops in San Rafael, Strawberry and Novato.

Quality Jewelry

With fashion's swing toward youth, teen-agers are becoming less fad and more quality-conscious in selection of jewelry. The Jewelry Industry Council so reports, adding that pierced earrings are growing ever more popular and new designs meet the quality demand. One expected to be a favorite is the "wedding ring" earring, a gold-filled hoop that doesn't jangle or swing. Pendants remain top teen favorites, particularly in jade, onyx and tiger eye.

STRIPES, STRIPES EVERYWHERE

Neat, executive stripes have taken over the front row of fashion. Stripes are a man's pattern, one that compliments and slims at the same time. And what man has ever voiced an objection about that? Hickey-Freeman tailors them for spring in sumptuous fabrics that are styled with trim modern lines that underscore a modern approach to life and fashion. Shown here is the two-button Drake model which has slanting flap pockets and side vents. The fabric is Corrigan Twill. At Cazassa's Men's Shop, San Rafael.

PARTNERED TOO

Colors Mixed With Mastery Whether Bizarre Or Subtle

Along with the interest in cultural advance, there is emphasis on cultivated fashion. Colors are mixed with mastery — and when there is pattern, it is a work of art — bizarre or subtle and sophisticated. Shape is refined. "Controlled lines and little — if any — construction," says an executive of a leading mill, "call for a new breed of woolens and worsteds, supple but firm."

The leading shape is narrowed above the bustline, fluid towards the hem. Another has a lightly fitted front, restrained back fullness. A third places a low waist on a silhouette that outlines but doesn't touch the body.

COSTUMES: A way of life! Fashion married happily. A jacket has pockets that continue on suit or dress skirt. Geometric insert colors a dress and full-length coat.

Suits . . . partnered, too. Printed blouses match jacket linings but relationship goes further. Blouse often attached to skirt. Or little blouses look like tuck-ins for unity. Prints are fabulous . . . swirling waters, art nouveau, tiffany, primitives. Scarves flutter at necklines — family members. Pants suits continue — often plus skirt. Far-outs wear new short pants.

Coats . . . mainly small armholes, narrowed shoulders. Slim, modified — occasionally quite full. Horizontals with fabric stripes or seaming. Coats more "with it" when dress complements.

Military . . . Paris-inspired "soldat" influences detail. Tri-tones, pockets, epaulets, brass. Buttons important on everything, gleaming stones, chunky bone, silver, jet. Belts — a matter of choice.

FABRICS . . . silken, smoothed-down elegant. Gabardines are famed for color and body.

The look is lively. The name is Leggero, Society Brand's cool, crisp answer to summer. Woven in Italy, the lustrous cotton fabric with the silk look has that Latin flair for pattern and color. Trimly tailored in the silhouettes of today to fit lightly on your shoulders. Exclusively ours. Shown: The Matador, 85.00

'Topless' Shoes Prancing Forward

NEW YORK (UPI)—The almost topless shoe prances to fashion's front ranks for spring as shoe makers of America bare all but the sole of tootsies.

The soles of these shoes for dressed-to-the-nines occasions are held on with tiny bands of rhinestones, a strap of clear plastic or the teeniest width of ribbon or leather imaginable.

The almost-not-there shoe was among fashion footnotes reported by the National Shoe Institute during American Designer showings.

The shoe people also paved the way to spring with a footlight shoe. The was a version of the Miles Standish pump. Its upright tongue was sprinkled with sequins or rhinestones.

By the time this departure afoot filters down to the popular-priced shoe lines, you can bet that the daring will be able to buy shoes decorated with battery-powered lights.

MEANWHILE, SHOE-INS for success this spring are sporty types —jaunty oxfords, flip little ties, the moccasins, the high-fronted slipons.

Moccasins turn up in purple patent, green kid, or lattice weaves in crisped summer colors. Trim might be hardware, or stitching, or wing-tip perforations, or all the high-fronted looks with tall buckles or tongues or ties.

Children's shoes this season, the National Footwear Institute reports, are fashioned for fit, colored for excitement, certain to stir up fun and games all summer long.

THERE ARE zingy patents in bright green or yellow or radiant new orange-red. There is chartreuse, too, and skipper blue and a tart lemon yellow. The rainbow, it seems, is heading for the feet.

For boys, the brogue is the in shoe. It should have a long wing tip or a medallion at the toe or heavy rolled moccasin seams. Or, it could have a monk strap, or, if the front is high, a plain toe.

Spring '67, it was apparent, will go down in fashion history as the season the boot got the boot. Boots were seen in the new collections for women but not nearly so frequently as in the past.

MOVING IN where the boot once stood on the popularity scale is the square deal shoe. Square toes were seen everywhere. Ditto for ankle straps and the lowest heels ever. Many heels were just a fraction of an inch high.

The shoes with the most cool had lots of wide open spaces.

Openings might happen anywhere: Might, for example, be the whole mid-section of the shoe. Designers sometimes set fore and aft adrift in different colors, or made the back of suede, say, and the front of silk.

One of the sexiest ways for a pump: Slashed all the way down on both sides, turning it into a two-piecer. The backs and fronts of these shoes were quite decorous, making the middle look even barer.

THIS WAS interpreted by some fashion seers as the shoe makers' reaction to the frenzy over topless movements in some parts of the country.

THE COOL ONES

Making the scene this season means including Levis on the wardrobe list. Heritage Shop in San Rafafefl is just the spot for the young man whose fancy turns to Levis.

Soft, Uncontrived Styles For Hair

Long or short, hair looks soft and uncontrived, yet very pretty. The large bushy head is out. So is the little curl. Ditto for stick-straight hair. So says Kenneth, New York hair stylist. He's for the small head with bouncy lines, says it looks modern, graceful, free.

Military Copies Up For Teen-Ager

Strike up the band...spring's color schemes for the teen-age dress are filled with red, white and blue. Look for stars and stripes in patterns, for brass buttons and epaulets, for copies of military styles. Even shoes march to the military in combinations of red, white and blue.

Hope For Petite

There's new fashion hope for the small woman. The New York Couture Business Council, Inc., a manufacturers group, reports that more small sizes are being cut and patterned. The really larger woman also is getting consideration, as manufacturers realize the American figure is scarcely standard these days. Half sizes, petites, mini-sizes and extras are filling the gaps.

Color Explodes For Tikes—

Children's wear for spring no longer adheres to the static precepts of the past . . . namely togs in pink, bule and white. This season's galaxy of little tikes' fashions shoots forth in a heavenly explosion of vibrant colors. Bright oranges, vivid greens, hot pinks, yellowy lemons and strong blues form the brilliant new rainbow that looms on the horizon.

Fabrics tend to be soft and feel good to the touch with a (praise be!) knack for staying neat. Voiles figure in party dresses and dresses for just plain coolness, while crinklecrepe is the current inspiration that offers both appeal and practicality. Knits are here to stay in everything from coat-dress costumes to pantsuits.

DRESSES have changed their shape . . . fewer smocks, flounces or lace . . . they have been replaced by the buoyant umbrella dress (flattering to young tummies). Other variations of the new shape are designed close to the shoulders and break away from the waist in a tent or a narrow, easy A.

LITTLE BOYS can now look as dashing as their big brothers. For example, there are pint-size editions of blue herringbone trousers with handsome shortpants styling . . . ably abetted by a Brooksy shirt in light blue with pale pink stripes.

For that south-of-border flair, so important in men's fashions as well, an avocado-green heavy hopsacking side-zippered jacket and matching long pants. Its big-brother look, a coordinated Mexican print cotton shirt with gold turtleneck.

TAILORED FOR SPRING

It's Deep Sea Green tailored in suits for spring and summer by Hart Shaffner & Marx. The very look of it spells comfort for the seasons ahead. So does the styling which is slimly handsome as well. The Ventura suit shown here has lower slanted pockets without flaps, side vents and trousers that are pleatless. The fabric is Bengaline, an all-wool tropical designed for early-season wear. At Hastings Men's and Women's Store, Northgate Fashion Mall.

The Wave To Prettiness Is Rolling In For Hair Designs

Hair is curving again for spring — straight geometrics is marching out, the wave to prettiness is rolling in.

Leading hair styling designers are riding this wave enthusiastically.

"There will be movement in the shape," they predict. "Hair will have more wave, hair will have more luxury. Long hair came in because men like it — now it must be more feminine, not so stringy."

STYLISTS POINT out they don't recommend over-curly hair . . . just a feminine wave that moves softly. "Women will cut their falls to a more practical length, just below the chinline — and will finish the ends with soft unformed curls."

"And girls won't get away with pulling their hair back and tying it with a ribbon," the stylist says.

Models will have to start sleeping on rollers again — they just can't pull out 50 hair pieces and slap them on. Customers still want exciting romantic hairdos at night — the long curls that fall to the side.

"I AM AGAINST torturing the hair with over-teasing . . . I am against one style for all women. The coiffure should always be adapted to the wearer. Hair should say something—it's the crowning glory and if it's cut too short there is no crown."

Says the salon expert: Customers will be more individual and go by what the boyfriend likes . . . and they like a feminine romantic look.

Vibrant Lipsticks

The pale, pale lipstick shades are going out and coming in are bright, clear pinks and reds to go with the vibrant colors awash in spring's ready-to-wear. To go along with the brighter lips, brighter fingernails — "fluid, electric colors," as one cosmetics firm calls them.

Dark Eye Lining For Light-Haired

If you are anything except brunette, try lining your eyes with charcoal or with brown. Underlining for day should be nothing more than a dotted-on line between your lower lashes. Keep any extension short and straight, suggest beauty experts. You see? It's time to bury that just-off-the-barge on the Nile look.

White Mesh Hose Newest

You'll be walking the great white way this summer—that's the way fashion sees it!

Harvey Berin's summer collection of fashions 1967 designed by Karen Stark, showed white stockings and shoes with just everything. Daytime costumes appeared with white mesh hose and low-heeled patent pumps, sometimes with buckles. The heels a little sturdier than in previous seasons, but still unbulky and low.

For evening, there were again white underpinnings for short dance dresses. This time the hose were sheer nylon or lacy whites, with pumps more slim and delicate, often in peau de soie or still in leather. The delicate evening look in white sometimes appeared in white leather sandals.

Jewelry to complete this "frosted" impression is created for Karen Stark's collection. Bracelets, hoop earrings and rings are of white enamel which gleams and sparkles as though they were jewels.

STINSON SWIMWEAR

Perfect for surfing and bathing at Stinson Beach are these Catalina suits called Command Performance and Encore being featured at Luana's in San Rafael. Both are of matelasse knit in ripple flower designs of sturdy Orlon acrylic and nylon fibres.

VERSATILE PERFORMER

The blazer takes the spotlight as one of the most adaptable garments a man can have in his wardrobe. It can be dressed up or down to fit so many spring situations. This blazer, by Hart Schaffner & Marx, is tailored of a comfortable blend of Dacron polyester and worsted. The hopsack weave has the facility for looking correct with sport shirt or dress shirt, Ascot or tie. And it's wrinkle-resisting and shape-retaining as well. It's available in a number of rich spring tones. Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes are featured at Schwartz, Inc., San Rafael.

Brown Next Fall

Already the fashion industry is talking fall. Next season will be a banner year for the browns, reports the American Wool Council. Browns will show in sportswear, coats and suits, with the range from bright copper, toast and rust, on to bitter chocolate.

Zingy Prints Show Up In Spring Knits

What does every woman want in her wardrobe? Knits! What are fashion wits playing around with these days? Prints! Combine the two with news about a brand new nylon fiber that makes the silkiest nylon knits, and you have spring's most exciting fashion trend.

This new silky fiber is called texture-set Enkalure nylon. Knits of this fiber are reported to have the body, the drape, the feel, the color, the luster, the swish of pure silk matte jersey.

The fabric is weightier and heavier and reportedly can be styled with more precise tailoring and greater variety of details than has been possible. Buttonholes, for instance, are said to keep their shape better.

WHAT WOMEN will notice is the luster of the fabric surface and the soft and silky feeling next to the skin.

One of the best known fabrics houses has taken Enkalure and turned it into a group of zingy prints. In this group, all the print themes once available only at expensive high-fashion levels are translated into marvelously colorful new versions.

This new nylon takes the vibrant brilliant colors just as well as it does the soft, pastel tones. Stripes waver in green on white, or navy on camel. Abstract patterns are worked out in orange, tan, black and white or soft shades of green and blue.

Enkalure knits in prints are finding acceptance among dress and sportswear designers. Erica Elias, alert young designer for that swinging new firm called Charlie's Girls, does some easy A-line shifts and tent dresses that come folded into matching handbags with a shoulder chain. It's like an instant overnight package and Erica also adds a toothbrush in the bag.

DOMINO LIKES the green, pink and orange abstract print for its sashed shift with tied cuffs to the sleeves. For Jeunesse it's the fireworks look in the hot color mixture, cut with raglan sleeves and a cowled neckline that ties at one side.

Carol Craig chose the paisley for a supple skimmer with a draped monk's collar like a capelet top. Jane Bradley took advantage of the detailing possible with Enkalure, cut it in a tent dress with yoke and tab front, invert pleat torso and full, buttoned-cuff sleeves. The print is one of the quiet ones, in green on white.

Young Modes went even further with the styling possibilities of this new nylon knit which has so much more body. They created a coat ensemble in the pink and beige stripe. Over an A-line dress with baby sleeves and cowled neckline, they tailored a Regency coat with reverse collar and set-in sleeves.

BESIDES ITS obvious virtue of clear color, sheen and luster, and a soft and silky hand, Enkalure knits reportedly creates less static electricity, therefore cling less and resist riding up. As for care, it has all the virtues of wash and wear and ease-of-care which women expect of nylon.

The pantsuit is running away, and taking companion skirts, skinny knit tubes and tailored dresses (to wear under the jackets) with them.

COOL COMBINATIONS

Real cool are the white hibiscus blossoms on stripes of hot pink and orange that pattern swimsuits by Oleg Cassini for Peter Pan. Camisole neckline and boy-legs are identical features, but the one-piece suit has a low scoop back and optional self-fabric sash. Floral-stripe engineered print is of Caprolan nylon jersey in the hot pink, orange and white color combination. At Frank More, Northgate Fashion Mall.

Color In For Men's Sport Coat

What gives with men's sports coats is color—in solids, stripes, checks or plaids, yes. But also in prints. Gentlemen's Quarterly in its current issue features linen jackets in a many-colored giant paisley print, a polka dot jacket with the coin-size dots in brown on a tan-gold background, and a white cardigan jacket with red and blue trim along the edges.

Small, Neat Look To New Handbags

The small, neat looking handbag is the news for spring and summer. But to utilize every inch of space some of the new leathers abound in pleats and pockets, double entries and zipper compartments. For those who still want the large storage space, there are plenty of outsize satchels, pouches and totes. Some look like versions of shopping bags.

One Shoulder

Continuing on the fashion scene is the "one shoulder" formal. Designers like it in both crepes and chiffons, and in both short and floor length versions, with one shoulder covered, the other bared, creating a 45-degree angle line at the top.

Chili' Is The Hottest Color This Spring

MINI LOOK
BY DREAMSTEP

FOR THE YOUNG ADULTS

Gallenkamp's presents their "mini-look" and "peek-a-bow" by Dreamstep for the young adults. This latest style features the open side quarter and open back. Choose either a cute or provocative bow, or buckle style and you really have a "happening." Try the colors of pattina, bone, and the wild summer pastels like lavender, pink, daffodil, blue, white or green . Available at Gallenkamp's Northgate, San Rafael and Corte Madera stores.

The siren song of tropical breezes can be heard as vacationers ready their wardrobes for a place in the sun. According to experts, the "in" man will travel "light and bright" this winter.

Southern resortwear — sneak preview of next summer's styles — goes all out in new colors, bold patterns and good new disigns. Fashion themes are hitched to such varied inspirations as the pre-Columbian art of the Incas, styles stemming from the Italian Lido and the French Riviera, a leavening of the London Look and, of course, a liberal slice of Americana including Traditional Contemporary, Western and military touches.

THE HOTTEST color for wear in warm climates is called "chili." Devotees of the spicey Mexican dish will recognize the basic color of that fiery combination of frijoles con carne as a reddish — rusty — orangey — Brown. However, just as each cook has his own recipe for chili, each stylist has his own variation of the color. Chili used alone or as an accent color, carries from the true deep tone to pale pastel versions. All of them are attractive and serve as perfect complements to a tan, summer or winter.

Equally Latin in flavor are Aztec-inspired prints. Off-beat and lively enough to ensure a light-hearted vacation mood, some of the prints are bold enough to put the still popular paisleys to shame. Also "muy Mexicano" are updated revivals of the Mexican wedding shirts and serape-like beach ponchos.

The Western theme starts in the cow country, moves on to California and follows the sun to Hawaii. The cowboy influence continues in both authentic and updated jeans, short rider jackets, summerized rancher coats and straw hats with big sweeping brims with which to fend off burning subtropic suns. Western shirts include both working chambrays and fancy dress styles.

WESTERING to California the winter vacation look starts with new alaced-waist surfer trunks with vests to match. Other swim sets have sailor-style tops, oriental Happi coats and bush coats. The colors are hot and bright including yellows, oranges, greens, golds and lime greens. There are also peacock blues, cherry reds and many others. Paisleys, batik prints, engineered stripes and tattersall checks on white of light grounds are just a few of the West Coast patterns. Knit sport shirts and layered-look sweaters, striped and plaided slacks and trimly tailored.

Romans Raise The Hemlines Above Knee

ROME (UPI) —Short skirts, stripes and imaginative colors are on the record as the Italian high fashion mode for spring and summer.

With rare exceptions, designers showing collections in Rome have raised their hemlines a few inches above the knee. Even Fontana and Garnett, who vetoed the mini-skirt, showed a flash of knee.

International buyers, meanwhile, headed for Paris where French designers will unveil their spring-summer creations starting Monday.

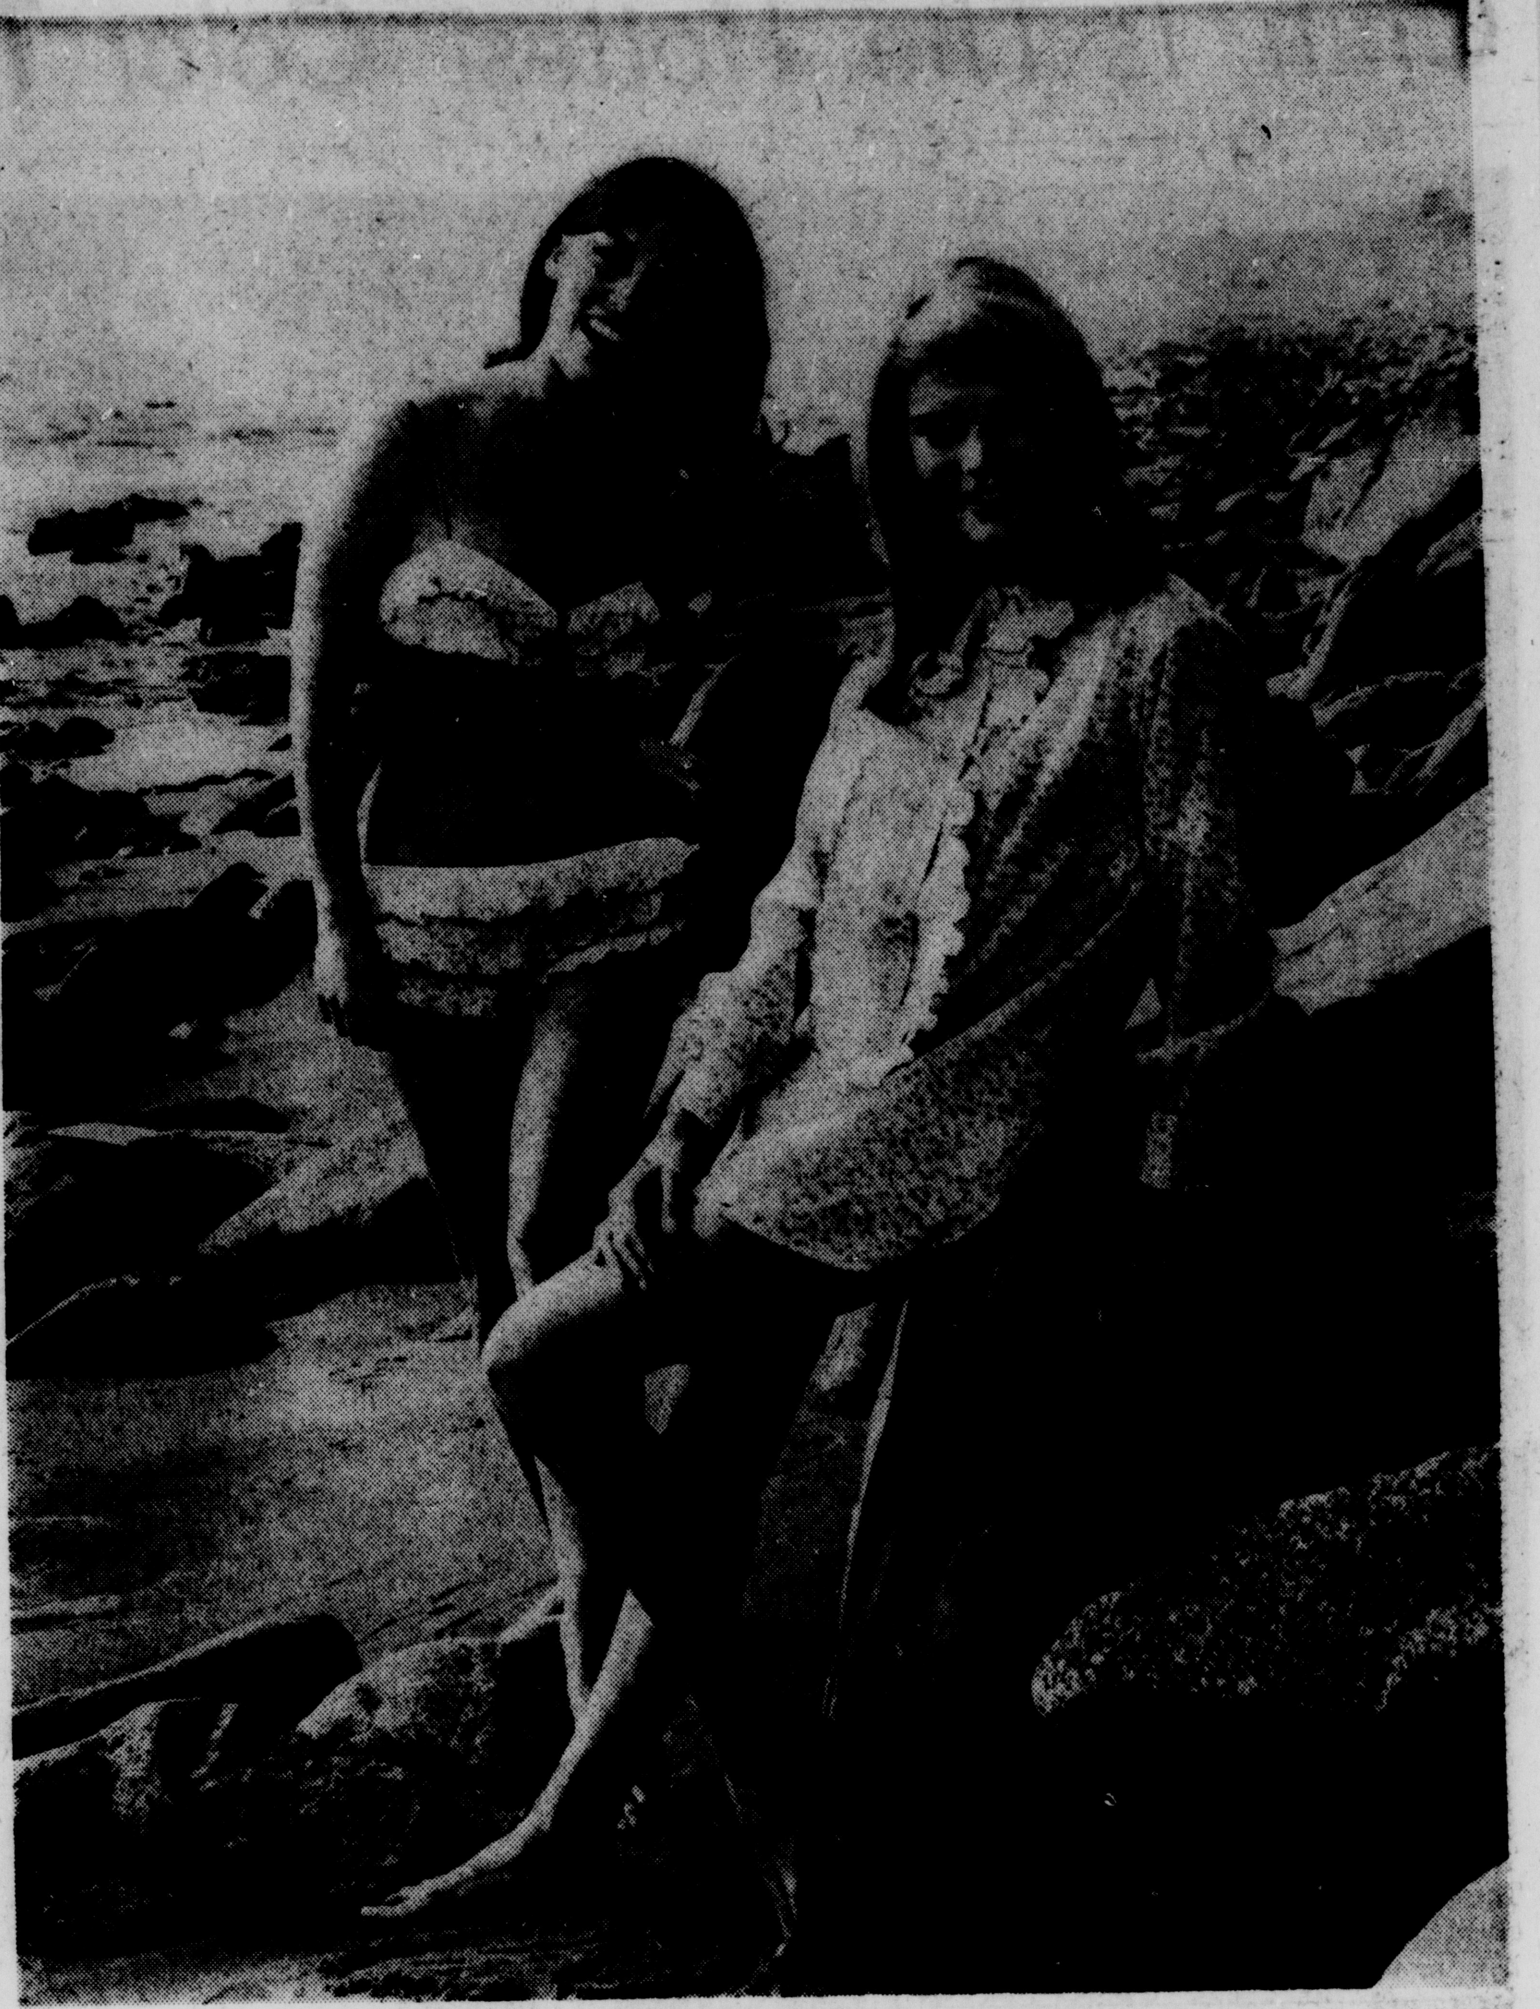
The Italians kept their short hemlines on the move with flares, pleats, folds, and a few ruffles. The trend was away from a straight geometric look and toward a softer, more feminine silhouette.

Spring coats were small around the collar and shoulder with a lot of swinging hemlines and back fullness. The reversible fabrics predominating in Italian collections for the past few seasons are still there but one-sided materials were making cautious reappearances.

There was a lot of flesh on display in the Rome collections. Midriffs and backs were invariably bared in fancy resort clothes. Veneziani's evening gowns with cut-out bodices came within a threat of baring bosoms as well.

THE TREND-SETTER

Designed by Oleg Cassini, a Peter Pan swimsuit called "Border Line" is the trend-setter for this year's beauty-at-the-beach. This sensationally simple swim suit comes in pink and peach or navy and white nylon in sizes 10 to 16. At Kaufman's of San Anselmo.



CATCHING THE YOUNG MOOD

Catalina goes to the beach in this delightfully feminine Bikini swimsuit and matching "cover-up." Tiny allover floral print on batiste for the ruffled Bikini . . . with spaghetti cord straps, and tie-at-the-side cords for the shorts. The fabric is a dacron and cotton blend batiste in blue or pink. Available at the Emporium, Northgate Fashion Mall.

GOLD ACCENTS

This yellow cotton pique dress with a flattering neckline and bold gold button accents may be found at the Expectation Shop, Town and Country Village, Strawberry.

Spring Footnotes— The Strap Is 'IN'

If you are strapped for spring shoes, you are right in style. At least, that is the opinion of a shoe stylist for a leading manufacturer.

"STRAPS ARE the big fashion news this season," the designer reports. "They are in all shapes and forms—inset, cross, front and back. There is a tremendous variety available. And, of course, we know that nothing enhances the foot more than a strap."

He points out that the strap is to the foot as cosmetics are to the face. They can slim a wide foot, round a narrow one. They can draw attention to the ankle, or pull it away. Above all, they flatter.

Why haven't we seen many straps until this past year? A stylist says it is because fashions change — sometimes without reason. He points out that a few decades ago women realized what strapped shoes could do for an outfit. Then, suddenly, it was decided that shoes should be basic, not exciting. "Now," he says, with pleasure, "shoes have become an integral part of the fashionable woman's ensemble. This also accounts for the popularity of buckles, trimming, and open-back shoes. All are highlighted in spring fashion lines."

ANY FOOTNOTES? Yes. The consultant reports that the important color look is the "pale foot." This means shoes in pastels and (even more important) in bone color and coffee-with-cream shades.

All in all, it seems we will be walking pretty.

Leather Shoe Sole Holds The Shape

In every style, newly developed leather soles hold their shape —and the shape of the shoe —for as long as you wear them. Flexible and rugged, they won't ravel, fray or bulge at the edges, Leather Industries of America reports.

Fringe Benefits On Half Lashes

Half a lash is better than none. At any rate, half lashes are now available to slip on from the center of the lid outward to give greater fringe benefits to what nature provided. The demi-lashes come in shades of brown and black.

Color Binge

Men's sports jackets go on a color binge for spring. You'll see them in double-breasted versions in every shade from gold to scarlet, with many that are patterned, reports Gentlemen's Quarterly. Typical —a sports coat in orange with a black and burgundy check, or an olive, blue and tan glen plaid.

MINI QUEEN

Twiggy—London's Very Warm Property

LONDON (AP) — "Oh, Gawd," she moaned in a little girl's voice so Cockney that it sounded like someone overdoing the accent. "I'd rather stay and watch the telly."

The groaner was Twiggy.

Twiggy is a perfect name for Twiggy.

If names should fit their owners — and vice versa — then Twiggy is decidedly more apt than Lesley Hornby, the name Twiggy's mother and father gave her.

Twiggy is a 17-year-old model with enormous eyes. She wears them heavily blackened, which makes one think of a lovely young calf whose long, thin, wobbly legs have dumped it against a tree and bruised its eyes.

BUT IN THE INTERNATIONAL model business, Twiggy is currently very warm property. So warm that some think she will oust Jean Shrimpton before the end of the year.

In this age of gimmickry and the frantic searching for something fresher than tomorrow, Twiggy is already the Mini Queen of a new social aristocracy.

England's aristocracy of 1967 is not the Duke and his Duchess, or the Earl and the movie star. It is the beat group and the singer. The photographer and his model. Or the model and her manager.

Twiggy's manager is Nigel Davies, 27.

As Nigel Davies transformed Lesley Hornby, an unknown weekend worker in a beauty parlor, into Twiggy, Nigel Davies modulated himself into Justin de Villeneuve.

"Justin de Villeneuve is more elegant than Nigel Davies," he has explained.

"My great-great-uncle was Napoleon's admiral," he says.

ASKED HOW HE happened to see in a skinny school girl the prototype of a world-famous model, he replied:

"I saw the potential, but it took two years to really get her launched."

She has been launched as surely as a yacht. She has been interviewed and photographed over and over again. Her great eyes look out from the covers of slick magazines. She regularly flies to Paris for modeling sessions.

Twiggy likes Paris and this somehow seems as it should be, for she has a waiflike quality that the late great French singer Edith Piaf, had.

Although Twiggy has joined the ever-growing list of British teen-agers who have made records, her voice is far from Piaf's.

This does not mean, of course that her record "Beautiful Dreams," will not reach the hit parade.

WHAT IS TWIGGY LIKE?

She says she would rather watch television than attend big parties. She neither smokes nor drinks.

"Oh, Gawd," she has confided, "I had a drink once, I was so ill."

She still lives with her parents in a respectable but hardly fashionable residential section of north London.

Twiggy is refreshingly frank about herself and her Cockney accent.

"I cawn't talk posh," she says. "I tried it once in a mirrow. I looked sooo funny. I wouldn't want to try to talk posh."

She seems to have a natural modeling sense.

Twiggy quit school when she was 15.

Did she go to a modeling school?

"Oh, naow. I never had a lesson in me life. All the models have been so kind to me. I watch them and try to learn. But I don't suppose I'll do it as long as some of 'em do. I mean there is one girl in Paris, and she's 36.

"I couldn't do it for 15 years. I'd want to get married and have little Twiggers.

Twiggy leans heavily on her manager when asked anything but the most rudimentary questions.

TWIGGY LIKES clothes and a big company is sending her to the United States to persuade young Americans to wear Twiggy clothes.

"I started choosing my own clothes when I was 12. By the time I was 14 I was going out dancing. I'd dance the slow dances when the boys arsked me . . . if they did . . . and then I'd dance the fast ones alone 'cos when you're dancing fast you don't need anyone, do you?"

EXPERT TESTIFIES—Charles A. Appel Jr., a handwriting expert displays large photostatic copies of signatures in Thomas J. Dodd's name today. He testified that someone put Dodd's signature on 30 personal checks, but did not say who. (AP Wirephoto)

Expert Declines To Make Identity

WASHINGTON (AP) — A handwriting expert testified today that someone else put Sen. Thomas J. Dodd's signature on 39 personal checks -- but did not say who.

The witness, Charles A. Appel Jr., was summoned as Dodd's lawyers sought to discredit a former bookkeeper for Dodd, Michael V. O'Hare, in the Senate inquiry into the Connecticut Democrat's financial affairs.

John F. Sonnett, Dodd's chief counsel, told the Senate Ethics Committee:

"I . . . propose to show that O'Hare lied under oath when he said checks introduced yesterday were signed by Sen. Dodd."

Then Appel took over, analyzed Dodd's handwriting and that of O'Hare.

With that as his preface, Appel went over a sheaf of checks, some written in the autumn of 1963, some during the last half of 1965, one batch cashed at a Washington liquor store.

They totaled over $3,000.

Sonnett: Were you able to arrive at an opinion as to whether Sen. Dodd signed these checks? Appel: My conclusion is that he did not.

Sonnett cited the sheaf of liquor checks, totaling some $560.

The question, and the answer, were the same.

Sen. John Stennis, D - Miss.: That's your professional opinion — that's what you mean to say? Appel: Yes.

Early in Appel's testimony, Stennis had interrupted to ask Sonnett what he proposed to show.

"I propose to show that O'Hare told the truth yesterday when he said with respect to a number of money orders that he forged the signature of Sen. Dodd," Sonnett said.

"And contrary to his testimony," Sonnett continued, "I propose to show he was a very excellent forger."

"I also propose to show that O'Hare lied under oath when he said checks he introduced yesterday were signed by Sen. Dodd," Sonnett added.

The final witness presented by the bipartisan committee was Edward B. Lockett, who testified that in 1963 Dodd hired him to write a book and that he was paid $8,000 from a testimonial account.

Dodd contends that funds raised for him at a series of events between 1961 and 1965 were not campaign contributions.

'000777' Out For Licenses

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Six letter words or numbers proclaiming the likes of "YIPEEE" or "000777" are out on California license plates, an Assembly committee says.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee disapproved yesterday in a split voice vote a proposal to issue personalized plates of any six letters or numbers for $30 above current plate cost.

The Motor Vehicle Department said the state could make $350,000 a year profit. The California Highway Patrol disliked the proposal.

More Funds For War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed a $4,548,-200,000 Vietnam war supplemental appropriation bill today.

SPRING FASHIONS FEATURED TODAY

Easter, Spring and Summer fashions for the 'in' Marin shopper are featured in a colorful, 18-page special section in today's Independent-Journal.

Cong Unhappy With Failure To Kill Star

SAIGON (UPI)—The Viet Cong leadership has rebuked some of its Saigon terrorists for failing to kill Bob Hope and his entertainment troupe during their Christmas tour of Vietnam two years ago, it was disclosed today.

A captured secret Viet Cong document released today complained that the Viet Cong bombs intended for Hope exploded 10 minutes before the Hope group arrived.

The rebuke came in a general criticism of terror acts that failed by the "Urban Sapper Movement," the Viet Cong terror squads which plant bombs in the cities of South Vietnam. The document was captured by the U.S. 25th Infantry Division Feb. 6.

It was especially critical of the terror attack on the Brinks bachelors officers quarters in the heart of Saigon on Christmas Eve in 1964. The attack killed two Americans, injured 50 Americans and 13 Vietnamese.

"If the bomb exploded at the scheduled time, it might have killed an additional number of guests who came to see the entertainment," the document said.

The document criticized the sapper squads for failing to assess enemy countermeasures, for bad timing and for other errors including a waterborne attack in which one swimmer "made too much noise."

Some of the attacks criticized were the bombing of the U.S. Embassy March 30, 1965, when two Americans and 18 Vietnamese were killed and 145 persons injured, and the bombing of the My Canh floating restaurant in Saigon where 27 Vietnamese, 12 Americans, two Filipinos, one Frenchman and one German were killed and 80 persons injured.

MARIN BLACKOUTS IN STORMY NIGHT

100-Mile Winds Lash Tam; 2.6 Inches Of Rain Pound Hamilton Air Force Base

Gale-force winds gusting to 100 miles an hour whipped Marin last night and early today, bringing trees down across power lines and blacking out lower sections of the county.

Some power cuts lasted no more than two hours, said Leonard Whipple of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., and all electric service had been resumed

Heavy rain showers dumped more than two inches in some parts of Marin but no major flooding was reported. Winds of up to 100 miles per hour were recorded atop Mount Tamalpais.

Sewage began coming out of manholes on Grand Avenue in San Rafael — virtually in front of the county health department building — during the rain this morning. The same thing happened during January rains, causing County Sanitarian William L. Desmond to call for a complete overhaul of San Rafael's sewer system.

The wind and rain began to ease off during he morning and the U.S. Weather Bureau was expecting skies to clear this afternoon. A 10 per cent chance of rain was predicted for tomorrow.

Whipple said he had PG&E crews out around the county from midnight onward.

About 10 customers at Point Reyes Station were without electricity from 6:30 p.m. yesterday to 7:30 a.m. today due to a downed line, said Whipple, but other outages ranged from a few seconds to two hours.

Minor trouble was reported in Mill Valley, San Rafael, San Anselmo, and Fairfax.

Bigges headache for crews was a break in voltage over which they had no control, he said. A 230,000-volt transmission line developed a fault near Sacramento at 4:39 a.m., knocking out some Marin substations for from 45 seconds to about three minutes.

Electric switches at Hamilton Air Force Base failed to respond after a 35-second break and power there was out for an hour until 5:39 a.m. today. Casualties were early morning risers dependent on electric alarm

Campaign Rumor Denied By Lodge

SAIGON (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, the Republican vice presidential candidate in 1960, says he plans to take no part in the 1966 campaign, even though he is leaving his Saigon post.

"I'm not planning to get in the campaign at all," Lodge told newsmen.

Asked about reports that he had been approached to advise Gov. George Romney of Michigan on Vietnam policy, Lodge replied: "I do not intend to get involved."

Lodge declined to say when he would return to the United States, saying: "I'll go to Guam (for President Johnson's conference on Vietnam next week), come back here, then I don't know."

Kent Island Gift Strings Revealed: Ranch Mortgage

By ROBERT STREBEIGH

The much-publicized gift of Kent Island in Bolinas Lagoon to Marin County is more dream than fact and may take years to become reality, the Independent-Journal learned today.

Last month Nature Conservancy, a national conservation organization, announced it had purchased the land from Mrs. Thomas T. Kent Jr. for $85,000 and deeded it to the county for preservation as a wildlife refuge.

The only money that has been paid, however, is $10,000 down payment to Mrs. Kent by the Marin Audubon Society, which has also pledged itself to raise an additional $50,000 and has given a mortgage on the Audubon Canyon Ranch for that amount to Nature Conservancy, Huey D. Johnson, western director of Nature Conservancy, confirmed.

Another $10,000 has been put in escrow by the Marin Conservation League, which has pledged itself to raise $25,000 toward the purchase.

Nature Conservancy is legally obligated to pay the full amount, Johnson said, but is relying on other conservation groups to come up with the money. He said the purpose of the mortgage on Audubon Canyon Ranch is mainly "to keep future directors in line over the years" should they become less inclined than the present board to raise the money.

Johnson said it is hoped the $85,000 will be paid to Mrs. Kent within three years, but acknowledged it might take longer.

Until the 110-acre island is paid for, it remains Mrs. Kent's property.

Asst. County Counsel Thomas Hendricks today said the county will not accept the island until it is unemcumbered and its title clear.

Johnson said Nature Conservancy would normally have completed the transaction without all this uncertain fund-raising activity, but that "Nature did not have $85,000 in its loan fund." In fact, he said, his organization has pledged $10,000, but "will have to raise it."

He said the Sierra Club has offered to join the fund-raising and expressed certainty of sucuess. "As conservationists, we are in this thing together," he declared.

The surprise announcement of the "gift" on Feb. 14 by Johnson, a resident of Mill Valley, brought charges that the plan had been hurriedly put together to block a Bolinas Harbor District plan for development of the island along lines proposed by Mill Valley architect Norman T. Gilroy.

Gilroy raised the question of whether the county would "in effect assume obligation if the subscriptions (by conservationists) aren't forthcoming."

The board of supervisors on Feb. 14, unanimously accepted the "gift" of the island, overriding a suggestion by Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen that a public hearing be held since it would affect the Bolinas Harbor District plan.

Though the money will be raised by such local groups as the Marin Conservation League, the terms of the proposed gift to the county provide that title to the island shall revert to Nature Conservancy if the use is not restricted to wildlife preservation and allied uses.

PERRY RUSSO
Tells of hypnosis

Key Plot Witness Admits Hypnosis

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Perry Raymond Russo testified today he was hypnotized three times on Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's instructions before he told a court hearing he witnessed businessman Clay Shaw conspiring to kill President Kennedy.

"Have you ever heard of a post-hypnotic suggestion?" Shaw's attorney, F. Irvin Dymond, asked him.

Dymond drew from Russo in a full day of cross-examination yesterday an admission that he once underwent psychiatric treatment and that he did not recognize Lee Harvey Oswald as one of the "conspirators" he knew as "Leon Oswald" for three years.

Today, Russo said he underwent the hypnosis sessions between Feb. 24, when he first got in touch with Garrison, and last Monday. Next day, Shaw's preliminary hearing began on Garrison's accusations that he conspired to kill Kennedy.

After Dymond's question about post-hypnotic suggestion, the attorney explained he wanted to know whether the hypnotist had instructed Russo to do anything after the session was over.

"He told me to be very relaxed and come out with a smile on my face," Russo said.

Dymond also bore in today on Russo's statements that he did not know Oswald was the "beatnik" he knew as Leon Oswald until a police artist on Garrison's instructions drew whiskers on a picture of the presidential assassin last Feb. 27.

Russo said he had always been haunted by the thought that Oswald might be the man he allegedly saw conspiring with Shaw and pilot David Ferrie in Ferrie's apartment in mid-September of 1963.

Russo said the hypnosis was conducted by Dr. Esmond A. Fatter under the supervision of

Sniper Fires At Patrol Car, Deputy Fires Back

A sniper fired a single shot at two sheriff's deputies in a Marin City patrol car early today, then escaped after one of the officers slammed three return shots into the darkend hillside.

No one was hit. The bullet shattered the car's right rear window at head level two or three feet behind the deputies.

It was the third time one of the pair Gary Bartolotti, has been a target of a shot in Marin City.

Bartolotti was riding with Deputy Raymond Von Savoye, who was driving north on Cole Drive when the shot rang out at 3:06 a.m.

Von Savoye halted the vehicle, he reported, and Barolotti fired the return shots into the dark in the direction of the gunfire. The two officers then searched the hillside between Cole Drive and Highway 101 on foot, without success.

Lt. Ellis Seibert, in charge os the southern Marin sheriff's subtation, said it was impossible to estimate the distance the sniper was from the car when he fired.

Last Feb. 26, Bartolotti and Deputy Richard C. Russell were fired upon in their patrol car in the 300 block of Drake Avenue. The slug hit the upper part of a door jam.

Bartolotti also was shot at several months earlier. That slug struck the patrol car's door.

HARLEM CANDIDATE — Mrs. Lucille Picket Williams has been named by GOP leaders to compete against Adam Clayton Powell for the congressional seat from which he was ousted. (UPI Telephoto)

Woman Gets Task Of Fighting Powell

NEW YORK (AP) — Lucille Picket Williams, a 50-year-old grandmother, has been given the Republican task of opposing Democrat Adam Clayton Powell in a special congressional election April 11 because she wants to "preserve the two-party system."

For 20 years, she has been working for the Republican party while holding a series of jobs ranging from a stock girl at Sak's Fifth Avenue to teaching beauty culture at the YWCA.

'I'M DETERMINED'

"I am a determined woman," she says, noting that there appears to be overwhelming popular support for Powell in the Harlem community. She says she has no fear that the people will turn against her as they did on James H. Meredith when he agreed to oppose Powell as the Republicans first choice, then withdrew.

"I have no fear of the people up here," she says. "I've spent the best years of my life here, 22 years. I've worked hard for the two-party system. I think it's important for people who don't want to vote for Adam to have a choice.

A week ago when Meredith had declared his intention to run against Powell, Mrs. Williams was determined to stop him, because she was sure he would wreck the small toehold the Republicans have managed to get in Harlem.

Two days ago, she went into a caucus of Republican leaders determined to convince her party it should endorse Powell, as it did in 1958, when she supported him.

"I'm not foolish enough to think I can win," she told the caucus which was considering her as the candidate to replace Meredith.

Today, as the formally endorsed candidate of the Republicans, she no longer will say she doesn't think she can beat Powell.

'A LEGEND'

She says she is determined to "do the very best I can" even though she realizes "Adam Clayton Powell is a legend in this community."

Several Harlem Democratic leaders appeared inclined toward simply dismissing her as a serious candidate.

A handsome Negro woman—5 feet 10 inches tall in her stocking feet—Mrs. Williams is little known outside of Harlem, where she has been a co-leader of the GOP in the 74th Assembly District for 20 years.

She unsuccessfully ran for the state assembly in 1952 but rolled up a bigger numerical vote in Harlem than did the presidential winner, Dwight D. Eisenhower. She also was an unsuccessful candidate for the state assembly in 1954.

For the past eight years, Mrs. Williams has been serving as secretary to the Cosmetology Advisory Committee of the state of New York.

S.P. Line Closed Due To Rock Slide

DUNSMUIR (UPI) — The main Southern Pacific line between San Francisco and Portland is expected to be closed all day after a freight train hit a rock slide south of here last night.

No one was hurt in the accident which occurred about 10 p.m. but three diesel locomotives and one freight car were derailed. The front engine wound up half - submerged in Sacramento River.

Congressmen Plan To Quiz FCC Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission appears headed for bruising battles with two House committees over pay television and a controversial $2-billion broadcasting merger.

The House Small Business Committee already has launched preliminary studies of the FCC's approval earlier this year of the merger between American Broadcasting Companies Inc., and International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

BOTH ISSUES

The House Commerce Committee appears poised to look into both the giant ABC-IT&T merger, biggest in broadcasting history, and a proposal being considered by the FCC to authorize pay television throughout the country.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said today in an interview he has not yet decided whether the full committee or one of its subcommittees will look into the matter.

Staggers heads an investigations subcommittee, while Rep. Torgert H. MacDonald , D-Mass., heads a power and communications subcommittee with jurisdiction over FCC affairs.

HYDE ACCUSED

The pay television issue erupted earlier this week when Rosel H. Hyde, the FCC chairman, told the Commerce Committee that a three-member commission subcommittee expected to report within a month on the proposal for nationwide pay-TV.

Staggers accused Hyde of trying to put pay television into effect without first trying to get consent of Congress.

"Maybe we better have some hearings next week and have you all up and see what your thinking is," he told Hyde.

The FCC chairman told Staggers the proposal would permit establishment of nationwide pay television, a question which has been before the FCC for nearly 15 years.

'A FAST ONE'

"This is amazing to me," said Staggers, "I think you are really trying to pull a fast one on the Congress and this nation."

He told Hyde and the six other commissioners: "You ought not to even put it out until this committee has a chance to look at what is going on."

"We would be happy to have the committee's views on the proposed rules," said another commissioner, Kenneth A. Cox.

Staggers was less definite when interviewed as to when the committee would look into the matter. MacDonald said he also was interested in the pay television issue, as well as the ABC-IT&T merger.

Recovery Held

TUNIS (AP) — A French heart specialist attending President Habib Bourguiba said today the 63-year-old president should have a rapid and complete recovery from the heart attack he suffered Tuesday night.

Russ Supersonic Airliner Sparks Scolding For U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Russia has been secretly flying a supersonic transport (SST) for more than a year, according to the Air Force Association (AFA).

The AFA also charged yesterday at its annual convention that the United States was lagging behind the Soviet Union in strategic military technology.

The organization urged President Johnson and Congress to authorize fullspeed development of an American SST.

"Whereas, a Soviet prototype supersonic transport has been flying secretly for more than a year, and. . . the British-French transport is scheduled to undergo flight testing a year from now. . . a fullscale American SST program" should begin at once to minimize foreign lead time," according to an AFA policy statement.

The success or failure of the program, the association said, affects "this country's prestige, the balance of payments, our defensive posture and other national interests."

The AFA also said Russia was "far ahead" of this nation in its knowledge of how to neutralize long-range missiles before they reach their targets.

The group warned that the United States might face either a surprise nuclear attack or nuclear blackmail.

The policy statement called on the United States to abandon its "mental straitjacket" and proceed with further technological development of offensive and defense weapons.

Eureka Job Woes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Northern California city of Eureka was designated an area of persistent unemployment yesterday by the U. S. Department of Labor.

Dufficy Will Lead Romney Committee

San Rafael attorney Michael Dufficy, former deputy district attorney, has been elected chairman of the Marin County Romney Committee.

The committee will work with a statewide organization called RISE (Romney In Sixty Eight) to push Gov. George Romney of Michigan for President.

Reuther Plans Pullout Help

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Walter P. Reuther plans to ask representatives of 200,000 skilled tradesmen in the United Auto Workers for endorsement of his threat to pull the 1.4-million-member union out of the AFL-CIO.

Unless there is a last-minute change in plans, delegates to the UAW's 12th international skilled trades conference will be asked to support Reuther's charge that the labor movement is "vegetating" under leadership of the AFL-CIO's president, George Meany, 73.

The conference opened today.

A vote most likely will be called for tomorrow or Saturday among 1,300 delegates from practically every UAW local union in the United States and Canada.

Hold-Up Man Gets The Brush

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A gunman wearing a stocking cap failed to get the red carpet when he tried to hold up the Red Carpet bar, police said.

Instead, co-owner Mrs. Florence Hamilton brushed aside the intruder's resolver, which went off and fired one shot. It missed and the man left penniless and in a hurry, she told police.

"It all happened so fast that I didn't get scared until it was all over," she exclaimed of the Wednesday night incident at the bar, located near the state fairgrounds.

The Reed District Parent-Teacher Club will sponsor a candidates' night on March 28 at 8 p.m. at Del Mar School, presenting candidates for the Reed School District and Tamalpais High School District boards in the April 18 trustee elections.

Reed board candidates Mrs. Marilyn Steinau, Leo Souza and Thomas S. Price and Tamalpais board candidates David D. Ring, Mrs. Bette Wallace and Dr. John C. Siemens will each be allowed five minutes to speak. A question period will follow.

Frederick L. Ullner Is Sued For Divorce

Frederick L. Ullner, organizer of the Committee for Abolition of Capital Punishment and a self-styled leader of the Conservative Action Committee, yesterday was sued for divorce on grounds of drunkenness and cruelty.

The suit, filed in Marin Superior Court by Nancy L. Ullner, 37, alleges he twice threatened her and their children with physical violence, and threatened to kill her if she sought police aid.

Ullner once caused the children to get hysterical and run from the house, Mrs. Ullner's complaint claims.

It says she and the children have been residing with a neighbor because Ullner refuses to stay away from the family home at 206 LaBrea Way, Santa Venetia.

The complaint claims the 47-year-old Ullner, former owner of a Larkspur television shop, is now unemployed and drawing $65 a month unemployment compensation.

It asks, however, that he be ordered to support Mrs. Ullner and the couple's two children, Frederick L II, 9, and Mercedes Loret, 6, and requests a division of community property.

The Ullners married April 16, 1955, in Sparks, Nev., and separated on March 5, the complaint says.

Judge Thomas F. Keating signed an order restraining Ullner from staying at the residence or threatening and annoying any of his family, pending further proceedings in the suit.

Ullner has been identified with various causes. A strong supporter of Barry Goldwater for President in 1964, he organized the "26 Mill Club" after Goldwater's defeat. He initially backed Ronald Reagen for governor last year, then reported himself disillusioned with Reagan's policies after he failed to gain a position on a party policy committee.

At one time he attempted to rally public support of Hell's Angels after several members of the motorcycle-riding organization were arrested for assaulting peace marchers in Oakland.

There were 3,650,000 births in the United States during 1966, says the Bureau of the Census.

British Money Taken By Thief

Approximately $230, including 33 pounds 10 shillings in British currency, was stolen last night from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Nielsen at 137 Spring Grove Avenue, San Rafael, police reported.

The Nielsens discovered the loss on returning from bowling. The money was hidden in several places around the house.

Police found no signs of forced entry but reported indications entry may have been through an unlocked bathroom window.

942 'Yes' Votes For Library Bonds

A typographical error in yesterday's Independent-Journal dropped the March 7 vote on Sausalito's $250,000 library bond measure to 92 "yes" votes. The correct vote was 942 yes to 747 no, less than the two-thirds approval necessary to pass the measure.

Also incorrect was the time of Monday's meeting of the library board. Instead of meeting as usual at 8 p.m., the board will meet at 7:30 p.m. in city hall to discuss plans for a new library.

'Clean' Bomb Model Built, Swedish Newspaper Claims

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Swedish scientists have designed and built a model of the world's first "practically clean" nuclear weapon, the newspaper Dagens Nyheter said today.

The weapon if built to full scale and exploded would produce a great deal less deadly radio-active fallout than current nuclear arms, the newspaper said.

Official sources delinced to comment on the report.

Neutral Sweden does not have nuclear weapons. The government has indicated it will not produce them under present conditions. However Swedish industry and science is regarded as fully able to produce the nuclear arms within a few years if the government so ordered.

The model "clean" weapon emerged from studies at the Swedish Defense Research Institute (FOA), the newspaper said. The research is designed to find ways to soften the impact of a nuclear attack.

Scientists Sten Andersson and Bo Holmberg developed the "clean" model in this work, Dagens Nyheter said. It said the pair "proved it is a practical possibility to reduce the condensation around the fireball in a nuclear explosion by chemical means."

The reduction would send the explosion's radio-active particles flowing upwards because of their light weight and not send them directly down to earth, the newspaper said.

"At a high altitude the particles will begin to sink again but before they have reached the ground they have lost a considerable amount of radio-activity," the newspaper said.

"The particles thus are not as dangerous as they would have been if they sunk directly to the ground after the explosion," it said.

UOP Suspends Classes For Viet War Discussion

STOCKTON (AP)—All classes at the University of the Pacific were suspended yesterday for an all-day pro and con discussion of the Vietnam war.

Dr. William F. Byron, a visiting sociology professor, said the UOP administration agreed that "we should shut down the university for the day so that no student would leave feeling that the university had not brought his attention to the most important issue of his future."

Called the All University Study Day on U.S. Foreign Policy in East Asia, the event began with dove and hawk addresses in the gym, then broke into 91 separate discussion groups.

Students and faculty of the 3,000-student university, armed with voluminous fact-sheets supporting differing positions, deposed, argued, held forth, orated—peacefully. Passions were held to the academic level.

Reagan Names Four To Youth Authority

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has announced the appointment of four persons to the California youth authority board, posts which pay $20,500 a year.

Roger C. Chandler, 40, Yuba City, and Julio Gonzales, 50, Pico Rivera, fill new positions on the board created by the 1966 legislature. Capt. William L. Richey, 51, of the Los Angeles police department, and Christopher R. Byrne, 62, replace Robert R. Figone, San Francisco, and Juan D. Acevedo of Montebello.

Employee Spots Late Truck Rental

An alert employee of a San Francisco truck rental firm spotted an overdue truck in Novato yesterday, and as a result, a man wanted in both San Francisco and San Mateo was jailed.

Booked into Marin County jail on a no-bail warrant from San Francisco charging grand theft and receiving stolen property, and an $1,100 bail warrant on auto theft form San Mateo County, was Otis LeRoy Williams of San Francisco.

Novato police stopped the truck at Reichert and Grant Avenues a few minutes after it had been reported at Seventh Street and and Grant Avenue by David Charles Miller III of 40 Vista Avenue, Novato, an employee of Avis Car Rentals in San Francisco.

Stall Critically Injures Driver

A San Rafael accountant was in critical condition today in Marin General Hospital with extensive head and internal injuries suffered when his car stalled at a Novato highway intersection and was hit broadside by another auto.

Leslie Wilfred Simmons, 57, of 520 Canal Street entered Highway 101 from Lamont Avenue at 10:15 p.m. yesterday to make a left turn northbound when his car stalled, the California Highway Patrol reported. It was hit broadside by a car driven by 18-year-old Louis E. Butti of 1861 Virginia Avenue, Novato.

Dennis Coleman, 24, of 417 Turney Street, Sausalito, a passenger with Simmons, was treated at Novato General Hospital for head cuts and held overnight for observation.

Offramp Crash Hurts 3 Women

A young driver and her two passengers from Hamilton Air Force Base were injured in an auto accident at the Nave Drive off-ramp from Highway 101 at 10 p.m. yesterday.

Carolyn Jean DeBois, 19, of 98 Selfridge Way was turning the car into Nave Drive when it went off the highway and hit a power pole, according to California Highway Patrol. She was treated at the Hamilton Air Force Base hospital for fractures of left ankle and kneecap.

Her passengers, Phyllis A. DeBois, 18, of the same address and Christine F. Pricer, 18, of 163 East Kelly Drive, were treated at the hospital for minor cuts.

In Fair Condition

Delmar L. Coulter, 62, of Napa, collapsed from an apparent heart attack while attending the funeral yesterday of Dean De La Montanya Jr. at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Coulter was listed in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Coroner Nicholas J. Chetta.

Presumably, Russo was hypnotized to determine whether he was telling the truth about attending a party in Ferrie's apartment in mid-September of 1963 at which he said he heard Ferrie, Oswald and Shaw do the plotting.

A New Orleans grand jury also resumed today its own investigation of the assassination—or perhaps Garrison's probe of it. The grand jury subpoenaed two men, including attorney Dean Andrews who once told the Warren Commission he was approached to defend Oswald the day after the assassination.

Dymond also asked Russo today if he had ever jumped or threatened to jump from a window while attending Colton Junior High School in New Orleans or had tried to take his life on any other occasion.

"Absolutely not," Russo declared.

Russo said he saw Ferrie four or five times after the assassination, but did not discuss Kennedy's death, or the alleged assassination plot.

He referred to Ferrie at that time as a "broken man" who was developing an antagonism toward authority.

The grand jury also subpoenaed a man shown on the summons as "Gordon Novelle" of New Orleans today—a new name in the investigation. Sources said the correct spelling was Norvelle.

Garrison himself subpoenaed James Lewallen, a former roommate of Ferrie's.

Collision Sends Car Off Freeway

A San Rafael woman escaped with minor injuries yesterday at 3:20 p.m. when her car collided with another on Highway 101, crashed through the highway fence, and hit still another car on Francisco Boulevard near the San Rafael corporation yard.

California Highway Patrol reported a northbound car driven by Mildred McCann Thomas, 51, of 60 East Crescent Drive, San Rafael, changed lanes on the highway and hit the rear of a car driven by Corrine Mary Taylor, 55, of 148 Dominican Drive, San Rafael. Then Mrs. Thomas's car went through the chain-link fence and collided with a car on Francisco Boulevard driven by Larry Rudolph Leska, 26, of 1348 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Thomas was treated for facial injuries at Marin General Hospital.

Personnel Advisers Agree On No-Policy

The Marin County Personnel Commission today agreed that temporary promotions and resultant salary increases should be treated individually, rather than try to formulate a blanket county policy.

Supervisors recently asked the commission to study the problem in a case where a clerk was taking on higher responsibilities due to sickness in the municipal court office.

Young Cyclist Hurt By Novato Woman's Auto

A 6-year-old Novato boy lost three teeth yesterday when hit by a car while riding his bicycle across Sutro Avenue at the entrance ot Pleasant Valley School.

Michael Eric Mehrer of 3 Clarita Court was reported in good condition today by his mother, Mrs. Albert Mehrer.

He was hit at 9:20 a.m. by a southbound car driven by Mrs. George Barnwell of 842 Sutro Avenue, Novato, according to police. Mrs. Barnwell said she thought she was going about 15 miles an hour at the time of the accident and had applied the brakes and swerved but could not avoid the boy.

Police reported that Michael had just passed in front of a stopped northbound car driven by Louis Earl Baldwin of 10 Trish Drive, Novato.

License Charge Jails Driver

A 20-year-old Forest Knolls man was sentenced yesterday in Northwest Marin Justice Court to 15 days in the county jail for driving with a suspended driver's license.

The man, Richard Lee Wagner, was stopped on the Point Reyes-Hicks Valley Road March 4 by sheriff's deputies after refuse was thrown from his car. Subsequent investigation turned up the suspension of his license.

He had served two days in the county jail for the same offense in February after being cited Jan. 30 to municipal court in San Rafael.

One Injured In Crosswalk

One pedestrian received minor injuries and another was uninjured when both were hit by a car in a crosswalk on Tamalpais Drive, near Lakeside Drive in Corte Madera yesterday at 9 p.m.

Francis Blue, 22, of San Francisco, was treated at Marin General Hospital for bruises on her left leg. Imson Stutzman, 25, of 12 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, was uninjured.

Barbara Anne Noblitt, 28, of 327 Summit Avenue, Corte Madera, was driver of the car, police reported. The accident happened during heavy rain.

Novato Firemen Set Annual Fete

The annual Novato firemen's benefit dance, sponsored by the Novato Firemen's Association, will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday at the IDESI Halls at Machin and Sweetser avenues, Novato.

Tino Granucci and his five-piece orchestra will be featured in one hall. In the other hall, drinks and games will be featured.

This is the only fund-raising event of the year for the firemen's sick and benefit fund.

Second Deck For Span Is Held Urgent

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Redwood Empire Association said today a need for a second deck on Golden Gate Bridge is urgent.

An association report said the structure was designed for a maximum annual traffic of 25 million cars and last year volume reached 27.8 million crossings.

If volume grows at 7 per cent, the report said volume would hit 38 million annually in five years.

Bridge directors agreed in principle 17 months ago on construction of a second deck, and the association blamed delays on San Francisco political leaders, saying:

"Opposition, chiefly on the San Francisco side, has stymied progress toward improved approach routes, without which the new deck would be almost useless."

Welfare Budget Pared By Bruce

A county welfare budget of $2,089,661 for next fiscal year was pared down today on order of County Administrator Alan Bruce.

Welfare Director Betty L. Presley had asked for 28 new positions in her department, an increase in staff of 28 per cent. In a lengthy session with Bruce and other county staff members, Miss Presley agreed to drop five positions from her request. Bruce cut nine more, saying that he did not think the case loads would be as high as Miss Presley believed.

Her proposed budget was up considerably from the $1,718,876 budgeted for the current fiscal year. The 28 new positions alone would have added $190,000.

Merit System Is Recommended

The Marin County Safety Commission today recommended a system of merits and demerits for employees, with a provision that too many demerits for preventable accidents could lead to dismissal.

County ordinance already provides for restricting pay increases and dismissal, but there is no demerit system to back it up.

The commission also agreed to seek a budget for the coming fiscal year of $850.

Bell Piers Fund

A sum of $25,000 was allocated today by the California Highway Commission for construction to support the bell piers of the San Rafael - Richmond Bridge. The money will be used for additional backfill to protect the steel piles.

Richmond Man Feared Drowned

A Richmond man who set out from Loch Lomond Yacht Harbor in San Rafael yesterday to tow a boat to Richmond was feared drowned today in San Pablo Bay.

The Coast Guard said James Peterson, operator of a Richmond machine repair shop, was aboard his 28 foot cruiser towing a friend's disabled boat from San Rafael, when the towline broke.

His son Steven, 8, aboard the second boat, was found safe, wet and forlorn, hours later near Redrock. He told his rescuers that the towline had snapped during the windy voyage. His father tried to maneuver his boat near his son's craft and then dived in and tried to swim to his son.

He disappeared beneath the waves.

The Coast Guard had three cutters and a helicopter searching the choppy waters of the bay yesterday evening and the search resumed today, but with no success.

The 28-foot cruiser Peterson was towing with his own craft is owned by Ralph D. Lewis of South San Francisco.

Walter's Gallery Manager Jailed

Walter Connolly, manager of Walter's Gallery at 44 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, was jailed last night by Fairfax police for living in the third floor attic above the gallery.

Connolly was charged with violating the Marin building code by living in a building unfit for habitation. Connolly claimed today that he had been given until March 18 to move from the attic, but police and the city building department said he had been ordered to move by last Monday.

Bail was set at $56. Connolly was still in jail today.

'SCISSORS SPAN' GOES TO WAR

Strawberry Pool Fate Still Far From Solved

By FRANK FARRARA

The Strawberry Recreation District and the Strawberry Swim Club are still on a collision course over operation of the Strawberry Pool.

Directors have voted to terminate the club's lease and take over operation of the pool April 5, while the club intends to start operating the pool March 21.

LONG PARLEY

There was long discussion about the moral and legal aspects of the clash at a special meeting of the district board last night, byt when it was over the impasse remained.

Board Chairman Clarence G. Bush contended that the board has never refused to enter into arbitration, but has asked for clarification of the points to be submitted for arbitration.

Last month Leighton Hatch, attorney for the Strawberry Swim Club, asked for arbitration by the American Arbitration Association in San Francisco on the lease termination issue.

Stanley Anderson, secretary of the Strawberry Swim Club, said the club intends to operate the pool starting "the first day of spring."

One resident contended that the district would be "taking over a $60,000 pool for $20,000" and members would be out $40,000. "I'd be out $190" (his membership fee), he said.

LEASE ENDED

Directors terminated the club's 20-year-lease after five years, claiming the club failed to make its rental payment Jan. 1. The club contends that it was willing to pay the rent if the district would go into arbitration on several points including the balance due, architect's fees, and district liability to the club for use to the pool.

Bush said the pool is on district land paid for by taxpayers, yet the club has not made an effort to encourage district residents to join.

"We didn't want to run this pool, but we weren't happy," he said. "The people of the district should have been encouraged."

One swim blub member said new residents have been reluctant to pay for membership recently because they are faced with losing the club.

If the membership fee were lowered, "a greater number of families would be represented," Bush said.

'PRIVATE CLUB'

Anderson said he didn't know how many charter members of the club were residents of the district. "We have no reason to want to know that figure," he said. "It's a private club."

Bush contended the board "is obligated to the taxpayers."

Director Arthur R. Senter said the club has antagonized district residents by depriving them of guest privileges at the pool which are available to people outside the district. He suggested that the club reduce its membership fee to $20.

James Garner, a swim club member, charged that the district board has not "actively cooperated to try to seek a solution."

ATTORNEYS ARGUE

Stephen H. Kaufmann, attorney for the district, and William Kiriakis, a San Francisco attorney who said he was representing Superior Court Judge Joseph Karesh of San Francisco and working with Hatch, engaged in several lengthy legal arguments.

Kaufmann said he didn't know if it were an appropriate time to debate, since the board had received a demand for arbitration and a claim for $50,000 in damages filed by Hatch.

CLUB'S CLAIMS

Hatch, in the claim, charged the district unlawfully solicited club members to donate their memberships to the district, causing loss of membership values, dues and assessment payments, and inability to continue operation of the club.

Kaufmann contended the claim was defective on two points.

Directors also discussed the $23,000 bond election in a special district May 2 to finance dredging of the Strawberry Channel, but took no action.

Father Watches His Son Perish

BRAGANCA, Portugal (AP) — Portuguese Air Force Lt. Antonio Marcolino was stunting his T-6 training plane over his father's house yesterday when he hit a tree.

The plane crashed in flames and Marcolino, 21, died in his father's arms.

His copilot, Lt. Francisco Afonso, was reported in serious condition.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM FOR EASTER

San Francisco: Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight or your waistline is larger than 32 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga.

Marin To Join Bay Police Network If Budget Allows

Marin will enter the police information network covering eight other Bay Area counties if the fiscal 1968 budget for the county communications center discussed at the Civic Center yesterday is adopted by supervisors.

Mansfield Lewis, director of the communications department, estimated it will cost $12,250 next year to join the system.

The main computer in Alameda County collects outstanding warrants in its memory banks so that police in member counties can learn quickly what warrants are outstanding against persons.

Lewis said the county communication headquarters will operate with an International Business Machine 1050 that will relay inquiries to the main computer in Alameda County. Getting the outstanding warrants on file will require special forms from police departments in the county.

County Administrator Alan Bruce, reviewing the budget proposal with Lewis yesterday, asked if the county should try to charge the cities for the service. Lewis thought not, saying it was important to have all cities take part and a charge might discourage some.

Lewis proposed a total budget of $239,024 for the coming fiscal year, slightly above the $238,591 budgeted for this year. But his figure was reduced by a budgetary change which will charge more telephone and other communication costs against other departments.

Expo Grounds Under Study

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Whether or not the show should go on is being studied today by a Reagan administration task force reviewing the feasibility of the $32 million California Exposition and Fair.

The eight - member group heard a long list of witnesses testify during a hearing yesterday. Most said the project, sometimes described as a "Disneyland-North," was feasible and should be completed.

Gov. Ronald Reagan ordered the review and held up construction funds pending the reassessment after doubts were expressed about the fiscal soundness of the fair and exposition.

Wikel To Speak

Peter J. Wikel, Larkspur accountant and columnist for the Independent-Journal, will speak on "Taxes and the Single Parent" at 8 p.m. tomorrow before the Marin chapter of Parents Without Partners in Sun Valley School, San Rafael.

Pesky Mosquito Study Is Costly

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The pesky mosquito, sometimes a carrier of diseases, but more often just a plain irritant, will cost the American taxpayer at least $50 million this year.

Dr. Harry D. Pratt, of the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., said yesterday the $50 million will be spent on research, eradication and control of the mosquito.

He said that federal, state and local governments soon would be spending a total of $100 million annually for expanded programs.

Silveira Ranch Vote Unanimous

The vote Tuesday to change supervisors' action of February, 1966, on the agricultural preserve for the Silveira home ranch was unanimous.

A story in yesterday's Independent-Journal incorrectly said that supervisors Peter H. Behr and Thomas T. Storer abstained because they were not present when the preserve was established.

The vote Tuesday put an 1,800-foot wide strip, originally excluded, into the preserve, giving the Silveiras a reduction of about $1.1 million in total appraised value for next fiscal year.

County Faces Suit

The Belvedere Lagoon Property Owners Association has filed a $250,000 claim against Marin County, claiming siltation and storm flooding in the lagoon caused by a slide the county public works department has allowed to remain at old Mar West Street and Tiburon Boulevard, diverting flood waters into the lagoon.

Arraignment On Worthless Checks

Robert Allyn Voll, 44, of Hawaii, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on two counts of possession of checks with intent to defraud Myers Shell service station in Mill Valley last Jan. 11-12. He is to enter plea at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

He is also scheduled for sentencing in Marin Superior Court on April 5 for passing six worthless checks totaling $246 in Corte Madera last March, April and May.

THE PRISON'S PRIDE

San Quentin Convicts Create Ambulance

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

It all started when a San Quentin correctional officer was taken ill suddenly in the lower yard.

Concerned at how long it took to get the guard to a hospital bed on a hand-pushed stretcher vehicle, the inmates decided to do something about it.

Out of an accident-battered 1959 Renault Dauphine, the men of the prison's vocational automotive workshop have fashioned a fast, streamlined, stretcher-carrying ambulance.

POOLED SKILL

It is the pride of the vocational auto shop and the auto body and fender shop, which pooled skill and resources to transform a wreck worth $5 as junk into a vehicle of almost revolutionary design.

Instructor John Jansoone explained that the men had no plans from which to work except their own rough drawings.

"A couple of those were ridiculous, but we eventually hit on this idea and it turned out very well," he said.

The men worked through channels with the prison hospital staff to find out what the requirements would be, then set to the task of building and rebuilding.

Then they added innovations. To guarantee operation in all weather, a trickle charger is built in to keep the battery fully powered. When the ambulance is garaged, a heater is hooked up to keep the engine at 150-degree temperature.

TWO-TONE HORN

The finishing touch was a two-tone horn, similar to the type found on French police cars and guaranteed to make the vehicle's presence known as it speeds accident patients to medical aid.

It took the inmates four weeks and $142 to build. Said Jansoone: "Downtown, it would have cost several thousands of dollars to make a vehicle of this type."

"Working on this project has been valuable training for the men," he said — men like inmates Tom Bryant, Ernest Sykes and Charles Aday, who did the custom work on the ambulance.

STATE VEHICLES

There are always several state-owned vehicles being rebuilt and maintained in the automotive workshops, which are under direction of Lester Ecke, supervisor of vocational training at the prison.

"The purpose is not only to keep the men busy but to offer valuable training, equipping them for work on the outside," said Ecke.

Courses in mechanical engineering take four years and 8,000 man-hours to qualify the men for journeyman status. Even if an inmate doesn't stay around long enough to work the hours needed, the instruction is such he can continue it outside at College of Marin or some other educational facility.

Jack Berry, 28, convicted of robbery in Orange County, intends to make the workshops pay off for him.

"I've worked here three years and have 6,000 hours plus credits towards my diploma," he said. "This vocational training gives a man a reason for living, a target to aim for.

CITES CAREER

"When I was about 19, I spent three years in prison and did nothing. I wasted the time and I was back again inside eight months after I was released.

"Only this time, I decided my life was going to be different. . . . I was going to make something of myself."

Berry said he has a sponsor and hopes to have a 51 per cent interest in his own small automotive business when he leaves San Quentin. He is vice chairman of the Inmates Vocational Trades Council.

"I think the majority of the men agree, the apprenticeship scheme at San Quentin is a very beneficial one," he said.

Judging from the new silver-blue ambulance parked outside in the sun, the scheme was proving beneficial all around.

Reagan Firing Plans Alarm Both Parties

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Democrats today charged Gov. Ronald Reagan's employee layoffs in mental hospitals will return California to the "snake pit" era while Republicans cautioned against cutbacks in services.

News that the Republican governor was eliminating almost 4,000 jobs, mainly in mental health, struck GOP legislative leaders without warning and some of them reacted with unexpectedly strong words.

Assembly Minority Leader Robert T. Monagan, R - Tracy, said the governor should have consulted members of his own GOP legislative team before announcing the biggest rollback of state workers in about 25 years.

Republicans with hospitals in their districts said they will support the governor only if mental care quality isn't hurt.

"If, however, the cuts in any way impair the quality of the program in the state mental hospitals, I will fight them with all the power at my disposal," said Senate Minority Leader John F. McCarthy, R - San Rafael.

Mental hygiene wasn't the only department affected by the latest administration economy wave. General Services lost 80 jobs, Corrections 140 and Industrial Relations 40.

But the cutback in the state's 10 hospitals for the mentally ill and four institutions for the retarded created the loudest furor.

Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Railroad Flat, a physician, said it was "a step backward toward the 'snake pit' conditions of the Middle Ages."

Democratic Senate Chairman Charles Warren of Los Angees, an assemblyman, also used the phrase "snake pit," the title of a novel and a movie exposing conditions in post-World War II mental hospitals.

"We're come a long way since the days of the snake pit approach to mental hygiene in California and this would appear to be a step toward wiping out the gains we have made," Warren said.

Monagan and Assemblyman John G. Veneman, R - Modesto, said they were going to look closely at the situation in mental hospitals in their own area.

Monagan, however, said he would approve if the administration shows the hospitals can do with less staff.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said Reagan is "doing exactly" what Post's office has suggested in the past.

"I have absolutely no basis for disagreement at all," said the legislature's economy expert.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D - Inglewood, withheld comment.

The administration was forced to revise upward the number of jobs affected by the move.

Tuesday night, Philip M. Battaglia, Reagan's executive secretary, said only 2,892 jobs would be cut from the 166,000 state positions.

But yesterday morning, the number was boosted. Spencer Williams, Health and Welfare Agency administrator, and Dr. James Lowry, Mental Hygiene Department chief, disclosed almost 4,000 jobs would be eliminated.

They said 2,632 mental health workers will be fired in the next 15 months and their jobs eliminated. Another 400 jobs normally emptied by attrition will not be filled and 600 to 700 current vacancies also will be unfilled. Add that to firings in General Services, Industrial Relations and Corrections, and the total approaches 4,000.

Children Aid Bill Is Passed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A much-debated bill to provide a $574,000 emergency appropriation for crippled children programs reached Gov. Ronald Reagan today.

The governor promptly said he would sign it. Press secretary Paul Beck said Reagan was "pleased and gratified" at a Senate vote Tuesday.

The upper chamber, with little debate, passed the bill late yesterday on a 38-0 vote—ending a month-long, sometimes strictly partisan battle.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE ASSEMBLY

Open Housing Foe Loses First Round To Rumford

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The sponsor of bills to repeal the state's Rumford open housing law planned today to promote his legislation despite initial rejection by a Senate committee.

The Senate Governmental Efficiency Committee refused approval of the two bills by Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tulare, yesterday. But one member said the issue should be brought up again.

The committee action was the first legislative test of the open housing law since California voters approved Prop. 14 in 1964. It nullified the 1963 Rumford Act.

The State Supreme Court said Prop. 14 was unconstitutional and the case is now on appeal before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Former Assemblyman W. Byron Rumford, D - Berkeley, defended his law at the committee hearing. The act prohibits racial discrimination in housing sales or apartment rentals but excludes single units such as rented rooms.

Schmitz, a John Birch Society member, said he wouldn't endorse any compromise legislation "which would force the property owners to sell or rent against his will."

There were 102,300,000 licensed drivers in the United States at the end of 1966, says the Bureau of Public Roads.

Population Boom Causing Concern

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — America's fast - growing population may be good for business, but it no longer is good for the country, an authority on population told the North American Wildlife Conference here.

Dudley Kirk, director of the Population Council, New York, said, "It is time we stop giving priority to economics."

Highway Commission Acts Against Scenic Ridge Route

SACRAMENTO (AP)— Will the State Highway Comission say "no" to Walt Disney Enterprises in its bid for a $23 million highway?

Commissioners decided yesterday to give themselves another month to answer that question: whether the state should construct a road to the Disney firm's planned $35 million Mineral King ski resort.

But commissioners did, after nine years of second thoughts, decided against a controversial, scenic and roundabout San Francisco area freeway idea.

It unanimously voted down the plan backed by San Fracnisco and San Mateo County officials to construct a "ridge route"—with sort of an ice cone-shaped curve—instead of a straight line route.

Involved are about four miles of Interstate 280 freeway in San Mateo County, just south of San Francisco and near that city's Upper Crystal Springs Reservoir.

James K. Carr, San Francisco Public Utilities manager, argued for the ridge route, which he said would be more scenic and not harm the reservoir.

Commissioners said they were swayed to the straight line freeway because their engineers said the roundabout shape would cost $29.7 million and the other $8.6 million.

The commission first adopted the straight line route back in 1958 and ever since has faced an outcry from the San Francisco area.

Although the commission said its yesterday decision was "final," the PUC manager vowed to fight it to the courts, if necessary. He said state estimates of the "ridge route" were too high.

Money was also the key in the Mineral King project of Tulare County. The commission's tabling until its April meeting was to give members time to learn how much of the tab the federal government might pick up.

Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, opposed state construction of the highway, saying it wolud divert money now slated for Southern California freeway construction.

"If you've ever been on our freeways, you know the problem we have," Sieroty said. "These are Southern California monies you're being asked to divert."

But Republican Assemblyman Gordon W. Duffy of Hanford said the facility "will serve the unmet recreational needs of millions of Southern Californians."

Duffy, whose district includes the Mineral King site, accused opponents of "misleading quotations" and "emotion."

Australia's koala bears usually shun even liquids for an exclusive diet of eucalyptus leaves.

COURTHOUSE FATE PLEBISCITE URGED

San Rafael Council Candidates Stress Importance Of Square To The Taxpayers

A referendum on acquisition of the Courthouse Square was proposed today by John A. Miskimen, candidate for the San Rafael City Council, who contended "a very large ex penditure of money in relation to the size of the city" was involved and "we must go to the people."

Miskimen said there are many conflicting ideas among the people of San Rafael on what should happen to the courthouse, ranging from retaining the old building to turning it into commercial property or a park.

His suggestion on the radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" was endorsed by two other council candidates in the April 10 city election. Joseph O. Dahlman said "this is something the people of San Rafael should have a voice in. The courthouse square should not just be put on the tax rolls for acquiring real property."

TIMING QUESTIONED

Candidate George S. Burton endorsed the referendum, and said he is concerned with the city council's statement that the county needs the money now.

"Why didn't this problem come before the city council before?" he asked. "I am sure disposition of the courthouse came about shortly after the civic center was built.

"Sales tax revenue to San Rafael last year was $1,250,000 so far this year, due to the business slump, it's less. We should by all means get the utmost out of the property."

Councilman Fred E. Jensen, who is seeking re-election said there was no time for a referendum. "The county needs the money in a hurry," he said. "The county wanted an answer last month and we've forestalled the sale one month already."

FOR CITY BENEFIT

Gene F. O'Connor, another of the six candidates for city council, said the courthouse square property should be acquired to zone it for the city's benefit, adding: "The greatest scource of revenue to San Rafall is from sales tax, and we should be ever cognizant of developing, at all times, any facility that will tend to bring revenue to this city to relieve property taxes."

The clutter of signs on Francisco Boulevard came under fire from all five candidates who spoke on the broadcast, to be repeated Sunday at 12:30 p.m. A sixth candidate, Orlando Conti, was unable to take part.

O'Connor said San Rafael was ineligible for state or federal landscaping on the freeway from the San Quentin overpass to the foot of the San Rafael overpass because the city's sign ordinance was inadequate. Candidate Miskimen a planning commissioner, called the ordinance "horribly out of date."

Burton, himself a merchant on Francisco Boulevard, said the "merchants there are trying to do their utmost to enhance the beautification and welcome any suggestions that the people might have."

FIRE PACT

Councilman Jensen said he will ask the city council to sign a mutual aid contract with the Terra Linda Fire Department, as a result of a recent fire which Terra Linda firemen could have reached more quickly than the San Rafael Fire Department.

Miskimen endorsed the proposal.

Miskimen attacked the city's practice of picking and choosing prime pieces of taxable property for annexation, "leaving the residential areas around them to fend for themselves."

Asked by a listener if he still thought downtown parking was a joke, Jensen said: "We are trying to buy the courthouse property for underground parking lot for 300 cars, and I don't know why I have ever been accused of thinking parking a joke."

Burton said one of the biggest problems in city parking is the top ramp of the Third Street parking lot, which is making only eight cents per meter per day.

Dahlman said some drivers don't use the lot because the ramp is difficult to get on, and others don't know of its existence.

Death Verdict For One Slayer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Death in the gas chamber for one defendant and life imprisonment for the other is a jury's verdict for two men convicted of killing Los Angeles police officer Keith DuPuis.

The seven-man, five - woman Superior Court jury deliberated about six hours yesterday. The jurors voted death for Edgar Leonard Robinson, 27, and life in prison for his cousin, Gilbert Durham, 31.

DuPuis, 27, was shot through the mouth after he stopped Robinson and Durham during a search for a stolen car. The officer died Oct. 27, 11 days after the shooting.

U.C. Profs Raise Viet Rally Funds

BERKELEY (AP) — Some University of California professors are chipping in to raise $5,000 to advertise an anti-Vietnam war rally in San Francisco next month.

The scheduled April 15 rally at Kezar Stadium is sponsored by the Spring Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. A similar rally is scheduled in New York on the same day.

Labor Council Sets Up Wage Committee

A special committee was set up last night by Marin County Labor Council to deal with wage and hour problems of any working person, whether a member of a union or not.

President Charles B. Weers said today the committee will deal specificially with complaints of violations of the new Wages and Hours Act which went into effect Jan. 1.

"We shall hold hearings to help anyone who might have some problem over whether they are getting the proper rate for the job and advise them as to their rights under the act," he said. "They do not have to be members of a union."

Weers said it was expected Thomas McCarthy of the Building Service Employees will head the committee, formed at a request made nationwide by George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

Weers said further information would be available through the council office at 701 Mission Avenue, San Rafael.

Speaker at last night's meeting was Marin Junior College District trustee Thomas A. Skornia, who spoke on the vocational training available at College of Marin.

Repair Tour Set

Corte Madera Town Council's public works committee will meet for breakfast at 9 a.m. Saturday at Bob's of Marin, then make a site inspection of the town's sidewalk repair program.

Pasteur Treatment If Dog Not Found

A black Afghan hound that bit a 13-year-old boy on the hand yesterday at Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley was sought today to spare the youngster the painful anti-rabies Pasteur treatment.

John Rich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Rich of 410 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley, was bitten on the school playground at about 8 a.m. Shortly afterward, another boy at the school reported the dog attempted to bite him.

Burglar Takes Tranquilizer Dart Pistol

A burglar stole a tranquilizer dart pistol and a .22 caliber magnum pistol from the Marin County Humane Society office at 402 Third Street, San Rafael Tuesday night or yesterday morning.

Theft of the tranquilizer gun was reported to police yesterday. A further check showed the .22 pistol, owned by an employee, was also taken along with its holster, gun belt and ammunition.

The tranquilezer gun will be useless to the thief, Herbert Martin, director of operations, said today. The weapon is used to calm animals for capture. No darts were taken with the gun, and the thief will be unable to buy any, Martin said.

Entry was by prying a boiler room window, then prying the door to the gun storage room.

Permit On Agenda

George Cohoat's application for a permanent permit to teach sailing, rent and sell sailboats will be considered by the Tiburon Board of Adjustments at 8 p.m. Monday in City Hall.

Attractive Public Works Site Pledge

Tiburon will have an attractive, well landscaped public works site City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose promised today.

At two city council meetings, residents of Hawthorne Terrace have opposed location of a city corporation yard on Belvedere Tennis Club property below their residences.

"The spectre of a corporation yard seems to frighten people," comments a report from the council's public services committee of William R. Bremer and Gordon W. Strawbridge. "A corporation yard is nonetheless absolutely essential and it need not be unattractive or offensive."

Public Works Supt. Louis H. Brunini said today the city has been considering many properties. Eight of which have already been rejected. Still being considered are a park site opposite Little Reed Heights, Reed School, Tiburon Boulevard at Trestle Glen Boulevard, a site on Trestle Glen Boulevard, the Safeway store, old right-of-way of Mar West Street, Richardson Bay Sanitary District Plant, Tiburon Sanitary District plant, "Blackie's Pasture" and the much-discussed site on Belvedere Tennis Club property below Hawthorne Terrace.

Brunini noted that Sausalito recently completed an attractive corporation yard on Nevada Street.

Rose said he felt strongly the site should be handsomely landscaped "not only to be representative of how the city expects others to do similar improvement , but out of consideration for the congenial surroundings in which we find ourselves."

The council has provided $7,500 in the budget to accomplish the goal of a good-looking corporation yard, Rose noted.

Art Official To Talk

The ad hoc committee on fairgrounds Monday will hear Sue McDonald, consultant on arts councils to the State Arts Commission, speak on community service commissions on art. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in Room 102-A of the courthouse annex in San Rafael.

Arraignment Held On Ketch Theft

Norman T. Hettman, 24, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge of theft of a 29-foot ketch from Wilbur Hubbinett of San Francisco and is to enter plea at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Hettman, of San Francisco, allegedly took the $7,000 ketch, the Zealous, from Clipper Yacht Harbor in Marin County on Feb. 22, sailing her to Gas House Cove on San Francisco's Marina.

Waterfront Permit Plan Is Endorsed

Sausalito Planning Commission last night endorsed amendment of the city's interim use permit ordinance to allow permits for changes in use on the waterfront if no structural alteration is required.

The amendment, proposed by City Mgr. George M. Patterson, would allow him to grant permits with a recommendation from the planning commission's zoning committee. The amendment previously was rejected by the city council.

The ordinance was adopted last month to regulate development and changes in the waterfront area pending adoption of a master plan.

Commissioners also recommended subdivision into two lots of a 162,784-square-foot parcel on Bridgeway in Marinship. The Marinship general plan envisions a road through the parcel.

A proposal by Trident Productions to exchange a portion of the former Purity store for city property was referred to commissioners Roy Starbird, Robert L. Nissen and Hendrik J. Keizer.

Chairman Alan D. Bonapart appointed Commissioner Walter Thomson to a city committee which is to draw a plan for undergrounding utility lines.

Commissioners Keizer, George C. Hoffman and Norman Murdoch were absent.

Youth Held On Knife; Stolen Car Discovered

San Rafael police found an abandoned rental car yesterday in a follow-up to the arrest of 19-year-old youth for possession of a concealed weapon.

James Douglas Mettalia of 65 Fairfax Street was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on the weapon charge. Judge Hadden W. Roth ordered Mettalia to plead to the charge March 22.

Police found a hunting knife with a five-inch blade in Mettalia's coat, Inspector Richard A. Douglas said, after arresting him for throwing a bicycle into a back yard at approximately 3:30 a.m.

Police later found Mettalia's car at the foot of Gold Hill Grade Road, a fire trail, and found an abandoned 1967 Ford registered to Hertz Rent-a-Car of San Francisco farther up the road.

Mettalia was arrested earlier this month on a charge of stealing a 1962 Corvette from DeLong Chevrolet of San Rafael. Judge Roth referred that case to juvenile court on March 7.

Nine-Year-Old Burried Alive For 18 Hours

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) — For almost 18 hours David Shaw, 9, was buried alive under tons of earth.

His legs cramped tightly beneath him, he breathed the air trapped by an overhanging ledge above him—and stayed too frightened to fall aselep.

"Where's Ronnie?" David asked when a Marine rescue team found him yesterday.

His friend, Ronnie Staggs, 10, was killed by the earthslide that fell on the two boys as they played in a steep-sided canyon on the Camp Pendleton Marine Base.

"When the dirt first fell, I heard Ronnie scream 'get me out.'" David said.

"I told him I didn't think we could get out. Then I heard him crying and it was the last thing I remember until I heard footsteps and the noise the shovels to kill me because all the dirt was falling on me."

Hub Woman Said In Good Condition

Clara Shearer of 7 Roble Court, San Anselmo, was reported in good condition today at Ross General Hospital where whe was taken by ambulance yesterday at 7:20 p.m.

San Anselmo police received a call that an ambulance had been called to her home, and police found her lying semi-conscious on the floor. Hospital officials would not say what she was being treated for.

Theft Of Auto

Theft of a 1961 black and white Rambler convertible, license DOA 111, was reported yesterday to Sausalito police by Brian Heath, co-owner of Heath Ceramics, 400 Gate Give Road. His car was stolen sometime during the day, he said, while it was parked in front of his shop with the keys in the ignition.

Novato Father Is Given Son's Medals

The Bronze Star with valor insignia has been awarded posthumously to Army Pfc. Allan J. Nelson Jr. of Novato, killed in Vietnam in December.

The medal was accepted by his father, Allan J. Nelson Sr., in a ceremony at the Presidio of San Francisco.

It was the second decoration for young Nelson. His father also accepted the Purple Heart shortly after his son was killed during a search-and-clear mission in dense jungle Dec. 1.

A citation accompanying the Bronze Star said Nelson, of Troop C, First Squadron, Ninth Cavalry, First Cavalry Division, was "point man" of his platoon when it came under intense automatic weapons fire.

"Disregarding his own safety, young Nelson exposed himself to the hostile fire in an attempt to warn his unit of the impending danger," the citation said.

Nelson, 21, of 771 St. Francis Avenue, Novato, is buried in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Boating Fatalities Decline During 1966

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Boating accident deaths declined by six during 1966, to 103, compared with the previous year, the state reported today.

However, the number of all accidents increased from 444 in 1965 to 582 last year.

Kuchel-Reagan Rapport Sought

By WAT TAKESHITA

SACRAMENTO—The cool attitude between Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel will be replaced by a spirit of cooperation, in the opinion of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Bagley, who is in close contact with both the Reagan administration and Senator Kuchel, said that a "rapprochement" between the two camps will work to the benfit of the Republican Party. The Marin assemblyman made the statements at an interview in the state Capitol yesterday.

"The Reagan people realize that the worst thing that could happen to the Republicans would be blood-bath primary next year," said Bagley. "Some of the staff people around the governor want to effect a rapprochement, an accommodation, with Kuchel to avoid this."

Bagley said he has conferred with Senator Kuchel, and the senator welcomes a cooperative working arrangement with Reagan and is willing to reciprocate.

Senator Kuchel not only is a tremendous vote-getter, but also has the strong backing of such Republican leaders as Sen. Everett R. Dirksen of Illinois, said Bagley. "Senator Dirksen has said he's going to do all he can to see Kuchel re-elected. All we're trying to do is to hold this thing together—to keep the party unified—as we did last year."

Marinites Finish Their Boot Camp

Nine privates first class from Marin have completed their Marine Corps boot camp and six-month active duty training at San Diego and Camp Pendleton and will now attend monthly meeetings of their reserve unit in Marin, the corps has announced.

They are Jerome N. Akey of Woodacre, James M. Cranney and Kemp D. Dowdy of Novato, Richard M. Paulsen Jr. of Mill Valley, and John C. Breummer, Adolph J. Mendonca, Edward J. Posusney, Michael J. Solomon, and Richard A. St. Gaudens of San Rafael.

Ferry Exempt Plan Asked By McCarthy

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A passenger ferry that operates between Vallejo and Mare Island, under contract with the federal government, would be exempt from stringent sections of the Public Utilities Code under a bill introduced by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael.

McCarthy said his SB 493 would apply only to the Mare Island passenger ferry and one other ferry in Southern California. It also provides for an annual review by the PUC to make sure that conditions of the exemption are being met.

Another bill introduced by Senator McCarthy is SB 494, which gives retailers of alcoholic beverages more time to pay the wholesaler. The present 30 days' time would be extended to 42 days.

Nelson Luncheon Reset For April

A Democratic luncheon in honor of former State Consumer Counsel Helen E. Nelson will be held on April 12, instead of next Tuesday, at Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito.

Mrs. Elaine Guthrie, who is in charge of the luncheon, said that the date was changed because next Tuesday falls in the middle of Easter vacation.

The luncheon is sponsored by the Marin Democratic Central Committee.

Marin Women

ALONG THE BUNNY TRAIL

Reception To Fete Newlyweds; Marinites Partying, Traveling

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pendergrass will honor his recently married daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duncan Priest at a reception on Saturday afternoon at their home in San Rafael.

The bride, the former Rhea Elizabeth Pendergrass, was graduated from San Rafael High School and Stanford University. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer A. Priest of Medfield, Mass., was graduated from Dean College and is continuing his studies in hotel management at Michigan State University.

The wedding took place on Feb. 25 in Camden, S. C.

MRS. ROBERT PRIEST

THE BERNARD Devotos will be hosts at a dinner party Saturday evening at their home in Mill Valley. Guests will be Messrs. and Mesdames David Plant of San Francisco, John Hemingway of Mill Valley and Mr. Larry Jordan of Mill Valley. Mrs. Jordan and the family are at their home at Mount Shasta skiing.

SEVERAL MARIN people are Mrs. Doris Schwab of San Rafael who is on a trip to the Orient and Australia aboard the Canberra and Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Whiteaker of Corte Madera sailing on the Lurline for Hawaii.

SEVERAL Marin people are planning to attend a luncheon and reception at the Empress of China Restaurant in San Francisco Saturday. They will follow a morning session "Communist Perspective and Policy" to be presented by seven of the world's leading authorities on Communist China, one of a series of such events sponsored by the University of Chicago. Planning to attend are the Benjamin Drapers and John Robinsons of Mill Valley, Ernest Olsons of San Rafael and Mrs. James E. Carroll of Sausalito.

SPENDING the Easter season in the Holy Land is Mrs. Harold Goerndt of Novato. On a world tour, Mrs. Goerndt left Novato after Christmas. She has been enjoying the trip by plane and ship, visiting in Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Thailand and India before going on to the Holy Land, according to letters received by the Paul Brindels of Novato. She expects to return home in May.

Inverness Club To Present Primrose Tea On March 29

The Inverness Garden Club is preparing its renowned Primrose Tea for March 29 at St. Columba's Episcopal Church, set in a glade just beyond the town of Inverness, overlooking Tomales Bay.

Special transportation will be provided from the parking area up the hill to Frick Hall, where the tea will be given again this year. Traditionally the tea draws visitors from throughout the Bay Area to partake of the homemade breads made by the garden club members for the tea and for sale during it.

A special attraction are the fresh flower hats worn to the affair by the members and guests featuring primroses and other spring garden flowers.

Proceeds from the public event are use by the Inverness Garden Club for the Jessie Craig Lovell memorial scholarship fund, which is awarded each June to a Tomales High School graduate.

Hours for the tea are 1 to 4 p.m., announced the garden club press chairman, Mrs. Frank P. Myer of Point Reyes Station.

Women Oversold On Glamor Of Working?

NEW YORK (UPI) —The "feminine mistake" —made by women oversold on the glamor of being a working woman.

Dorothy Whyte Cotton, editor of "Parents" magazine, believes millions of women are developing needless anxieties over such at the expense of their and their families' happiness by making "the feminine mistake."

"I'm tired of women who say that nothing less than a job will suffice," Mrs. Cotton said.

"I've interviewed hundreds of women and found that a lot of them didn't want to go to work and should never have been urged to. They had perfectly useful lives and many did important volunteer work."

Mrs. Cotton, the wife of a psychiatrist and mother of four, disputes the prevailing view that the only mothers who can justify working are highly talented women in creative fields.

"Feminists who maintain you have to be at the top of your profession add to the discontent," she said. "Numerous women get much satisfaction from jobs without status or title."

For those who are or want to be working mothers, Mrs. Cotton is reassuring, too.

"It is perfectly possible for a well-organized woman to have both the jobs of motherhood and the joys of work," she said.

"Going to work and being a good mother is not an either-or proposition. Recent studies have shown that there is no correlation between working mothers and juvenile delinquency."

However, she maintains many mothers fail to realize that working per se will not reduce existing tensions or establish a happier family environment.

She advocates a more rational attitude about what is necessary for the child and what is best for the mother in the modern world.

For example, so long as the working mother feels that her working is good for her, but bad for the child, little good will come of it for her or for the child.

What about mothers who feel guilty if they prefer spending their time in the home instead of working

"When there is more agitation than cognition as there appears to have been in recent months concerning the working versus the non-working mother, I believe it is time for each woman to re-establish her own individuality and thereby gain true independence," Mrs. Cotton said.

Mill Valley Couple Wed

Brian Joel Gustafson and Jeannette Potts, both of Mill Valley, were married on March 11 in a noon ceremony at the Mill Valley Community Church.

The bride, the daughter of Francis D. Potts and the late Mrs. Jeannette Potts of Mill Valley, was given in marriage by her father in the double ring rite performed by the Rev. Gordon L. Foster.

She recited her vows wearing a street length white faille dress. The maid of honor, Diana Gustafson, the bridegroom's sister, and bridesmaids, Anne Bassett and Jo Valens of Mill Valley, wore pink linen dresses.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joel F. Gustafson of Mill Valley and the grandson of Mrs. Joel Gustafson of San Anselmo was served as best man by his brother, Ronald Gustafson of Mill Valley. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Paul Potts of Fairfax and Lloyd Potts of Kentfield.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the former home of the late grandparents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wood of Mill Valley, which is owned by his parents.

Brian is a graduate of Tamalpais High School and attended the College of Marin. He is with the medical corps of the U. S. Army at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio, Tex., where the couple will live.

Jeannette plans to attend college in Texas in the fall. She has two other brothers, Ronald and Stephen Potts of Mill Valley.

Novato Father Is Given Son's Medals

The Bronze Star with valor insignia has been awarded posthumously to Army Pfc. Allan J. Nelson Jr. of Novato, killed in Vietnam in December.

The medal was accepted by his father, Allan J. Nelson Sr., in a ceremony at the Presidio of San Francisco.

It was the second decoration for young Nelson. His father also accepted the Purple Heart shortly after his son was killed during a search-and-clear mission in dense jungle Dec. 1.

A citation accompanying the Bronze Star said Nelson, of Troop C, First Squadron, Ninth Cavalry, First Cavalry Division, was "point man" of his platoon when it came under intense automatic weapons fire.

"Disregarding his own safety, young Nelson exposed himself to the hostile fire in an attempt to warn his unit of the impending danger," the citation said.

Nelson, 21, of 771 St. Francis Avenue, Novato, is buried in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Boating Fatalities Decline During 1966

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Boating accident deaths declined by six during 1966, to 103, compared with the previous year, the state reported today.

However, the number of all accidents increased from 444 in 1965 to 582 last year.

Kuchel-Reagan Rapport Sought

By WAT TAKESHITA

SACRAMENTO—The cool attitude between Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel will be replaced by a spirit of cooperation, in the opinion of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Bagley, who is in close contact with both the Reagan administration and Senator Kuchel, said that a "rapprochement" between the two camps will work to the benfit of the Republican Party. The Marin assemblyman made the statements at an interview in the state Capitol yesterday.

"The Reagan people realize that the worst thing that could happen to the Republicans would be blood-bath primary next year," said Bagley. "Some of the staff people around the governor want to effect a rapprochement, an accommodation, with Kuchel to avoid this."

Bagley said he has conferred with Senator Kuchel, and the senator welcomes a cooperative working arrangement with Reagan and is willing to reciprocate.

Senator Kuchel not only is a tremendous vote-getter, but also has the strong backing of such Republican leaders as Sen. Everett R. Dirksen of Illinois, said Bagley. "Senator Dirksen has said he's going to do all he can to see Kuchel re-elected. All we're trying to do is to hold this thing together—to keep the party unified—as we did last year."

Marinites Finish Their Boot Camp

Nine privates first class from Marin have completed their Marine Corps boot camp and six-month active duty training at San Diego and Camp Pendleton and will now attend monthly meeetings of their reserve unit in Marin, the corps has announced.

They are Jerome N. Akey of Woodacre, James M. Cranney and Kemp D. Dowdy of Novato, Richard M. Paulsen Jr. of Mill Valley, and John C. Breummer, Adolph J. Mendonca, Edward J. Posusney, Michael J. Solomon, and Richard A. St. Gaudens of San Rafael.

Ferry Exempt Plan Asked By McCarthy

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A passenger ferry that operates between Vallejo and Mare Island, under contract with the federal government, would be exempt from stringent sections of the Public Utilities Code under a bill introduced by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael.

McCarthy said his SB 493 would apply only to the Mare Island passenger ferry and one other ferry in Southern California. It also provides for an annual review by the PUC to make sure that conditions of the exemption are being met.

Another bill introduced by Senator McCarthy is SB 494, which gives retailers of alcoholic beverages more time to pay the wholesaler. The present 30 days' time would be extended to 42 days.

Nelson Luncheon Reset For April

A Democratic luncheon in honor of former State Consumer Counsel Helen E. Nelson will be held on April 12, instead of next Tuesday, at Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito.

Mrs. Elaine Guthrie, who is in charge of the luncheon, said that the date was changed because next Tuesday falls in the middle of Easter vacation.

The luncheon is sponsored by the Marin Democratic Central Committee.

Marin Women

ALONG THE BUNNY TRAIL

ENTRANCED with the clown (Mrs. Dean Reilly) during the hunt are Jennifer Dwyer, left, and Tanya Reilly. The fair also features pony rides, story telling and puppet shows. Proceeds from the two-day event are used to maintain and improve the grounds and equipment at Pixie Place.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Don't Give Him The Chance To Stand You Up One More Time

DEAR HELEN:

My boy friend lives in a different town and I don't get to see him often. Recently we had a fight and he wrote and apologized, then asked for a date the coming Friday night.

Friday, he didn't show or even call. In his next letter, no explanation, just asked for another date. Same Friday, same thing. This happened for three consecutive weeks.

Last Friday, I went on a date with another boy.

Yup, you guessed it. Boy No. 1 arrived on the scene and called me a "two-timer" in front of Boy No. 2. What should I say? —H.P.

DEAR H:

Tell him it's time to be a two-timer when you're a three-time loser, and from now on he's at the bottom of your list.

When a boy isn't dependable you can be sure he has other bad qualities too. Don't give him a chance to stand you up again. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

The problem is: college or marriage. I am 17, a senior, very popular with both sexes, also called "The Brain," an odd name for a girl.

I have won a $25,000 scholarship to the college of my choice. The boy friend thinks we should get married and go to college together. We'd probably have the money for it, but I might get pregnant.

We love each other, and marriage is all right, I guess, but after all I am very fortunate to have this scholarship and I don't want to lose it. My parents say the decision is mine, as my brother is getting married and going on to college. Which? — BEWILDERED

DEAR BE:

You're lukewarm on marriage, but all fired up about your scholarshhip. If that doesn't answer your question, you rate "A" on brains, but "D" on understanding your own emotions (which aren't all that strong for your present boyfriend. Right?) —H.

DEAR HELEN:

On TV, men who aren't married act so prissy. Like Batman and Captain Nice, flapping their capes around, etc.

I think it's the same in life. I think men who are not married should be, because their wives might straighten them out. — YOUNG BUT SMART (AGE 10)

DEAR Y BUT S:

I'm quite sure all unmarried girls agree with you, honey. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

My engagement party was held in a private room at a hotel. My mother told me beforehand not to open any gifts at the party as everyone wouldn't bring something and it might be embarrassing. I was to wait till I got home, then write thank-you notes.

Well, after the dinner, some of my fiance's family asked when I was going to open my presents. They insisted this was proper. I had no choice, so I opened them right there. My mother is mad because my future relatives won. Some of the guests are mad because they gave money which I didn't open, not wanting people to compare.

This is a heck of a way to start out. Who was right? —JANET

DEAR JANET:

Gifts may be opened whenever the bride-to-be wishes. The only thing wrong about this situation is that tempers were lost. Why, oh why, must relatives work overtime to make a girl unhappy about her wedding? These should be the loveliest moments of her life, yet how often they're spoiled by petty squabbling among adults who certainly should know better! —H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Chaplains Night

"Military Chaplains Night" will be the theme when the "Pairs and Spares" of St. Francis Episcopal Church meet for a potluck dinner and program at 7 p.m. Saturday at John Collins Hall in Novato. The Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Gebhart will be the hosts. Chaplain Howard Scholten of Hamilton Air Force Base will speak.

SOMETHING A LITTLE SPRINGY

Easter instead of St. Patrick's Day was the theme this year of the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club benefit bridge-luncheon yesterday. Around the table are members looking over the cakes donated as prizes. In front of the table are, from left, Mesdames Ernest Box and Fred Pierre. Behind the table, admiring one of the flower and Easter egg table centerpieces used for bridge prizes are president, Mrs. Bruno Maraccini, Mrs. Stuart Burt and Mrs. Parker Archer. Mrs. James Betts was chairman of the party attended by more than 200 members and guests. (Independent-Journal photo)

Tiburon Peninsula Club Sets Events For Easter Weekend

Two events are planned at the Tiburon Peninsula Club for the Easter weekend. On March 25 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. an Easter egg hunt for children under 10 is planned. Brunch for 200 will be given from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Easter Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Matthews are chairmen of the Easter egg hunt; Mesdames Bonnie Raisin, Joseph Bacheller and Bruce Moody will assist. Kevin and Karen O'Leary, dressed as bunnies, will distribute prizes to the younger children.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald O'Leary are chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Jack and Mr. and Mrs. Bacheller, assistants.

To Attend Meet

Sixteen members of the Novato Assembly 194, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, will attend their grand assembly Sunday through Thursday in Fresno.

Mrs. Buford Gilliland and Mrs. Vivian Mahler and Mrs. Wilfred E. Waldrop will accompany the girls.

To Participate

Mrs. J. Paul Hurd of Mill Valley is bonsai chairman for the Ikebana International spring flower show to be given by the San Francisco Bay Area chapter March 31 to April 2 at the Hall of Flowers, San Francisco.

Redwood Shrine Will Install

The open installation of Redwood Shrine No. 102, San Rafael, will be held Saturday at the San Rafael Masonic Temple.

The officers to be installed are Bonnie F. Jordan, worthy high priestess; Stanley Annis, watchman of shepherds; Gisela Ratliff, noble prophetess; Edward Robbins, associate watchman of shepherds; Emily Farris, chaplain; Florence Annis, worthy shepherdess; Lillian Studley, worthy guide; Dorothy Schad, scribe, and Marjorie Dangers, treasurer.

Marguerite Bates will be installing officer and Orrin Buell, assistant.

Statements Are Clarified

Dr. Patricia Hallinan, assistant public health officer for the Marin Health Dept., in speaking at a program sponsored by the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club at Del Mar School in Tiburon on Monday clarified some statements made in Tuesday's Independent-Journal.

Speaking on the topic, "The Child and Today's Changing Values," Dr. Hallinan was quoted as saying that there was a 64 per cent increase in syphilis in Marin when it should have been a 64 per cent increase in venereal disease in Marin.

The health officer was also quoted as saying that there is not a high school and scarcely a grammar school in the county where marijuana and narcotics are not used. Dr. Hallinan said that only in some grammar schools were marijuana and narcotics used.

The doctor was also attributed with the remark that LSD was an addictive drug and produces withdrawal symptoms.

The doctor said that LSD was not an addictive drug and has no withdrawal symptoms. "LSD is not an addicting drug except perhaps psychologically," Dr. Hallinan said.

Marinite Named To Membership

Mrs. Allen Feder of San Rafael is one of the 13 Bay Area women invited to membership in the San Francisco Auxiliary of the Stanford Children's Convalescent Hospital. New members will be honored at a tea at the home of Mrs. T. Edward Bailly Jr. in San Francisco.

Mrs. Feder, the former Conny Parry, attended the University of the Pacific and San Francisco State College. She was group president of the Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary and is a member of the Loch Lomond Guild.

Others from Marin who will attend the tea include auxiliary officers Mesdames Martin J. Waterfield, recording secretary of Kentfield; George K. Whitney, publicity, Belvedere, Byron Du Bain, telephone, Kentfield.

Service Award

The Grand Cross of Colours, highest award to be given for service in the International Order of Rainbow for Girls, has been awarded to Novatans Mrs. Marie Tubbs, assistant mother advisor, John Hoekman, worthy patron of Novato chapter, Order of Eastern Star, and Kristine Coursey and Kanani Jones.

Home Economics And Skiing Interest New Guild Leader

New president of the Tiburon Guild of Sunny Hills is Mrs. Thomas Duffy Teichmann. Mrs. Teichmann, who has been a member of the guild for three years, now lives in San Rafael.

She has been active in the guild, which last year changed its name from the Belveron Guild, and is a former chairman of the group's Grape Festival booth.

Raised in Louisiana, Jacquelyn Teichmann attended business college in New Orleans. The Teichmann's have lived in Marin for five years. Their daughters are Kerri Lea, 6, and Tammi Lyn, 5.

Mrs. Teichmann is interested in gardening, decorating, furniture restoring and sewing. She enjoys skiing at Lake Tahoe. Her ambition is to go back to college and obtain a master's degree in home economics.

Other new officers are Mesdames Michael Brown, vice president; Douglas Dwyer, treasurer; Gerald Schiffman, secretary; Robert Murphy, booth chairman; Forrest Whiting, Bargain Box, and Walter McGowan, project.

Pamela Finke Recites Vows

Pamela Michelle Finke of Terra Linda became the bride of Timothy Lewis Sallady at St. Isabella's Church in Terra Linda on March 5. The Rev. John O'Connor officiated.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Donald Walker of Novato, Pamela recited vows wearing a gown of white faille in Empire style.

The daughter of Mrs. Fredrack H. Finke of Terra Linda and the late Mr. Finke, Pamela was attended by her sister, Janet, as maid of honor, who wore a pink taffeta dress with pale pink overlay of lace.

Russel Sallady was his brother's best man, and ushers were Larry Lenhart and David Timmer.

A reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walker in Novato.

The couple will live in Terra Linda after a Lake Tahoe wedding trip.

Both are graduates of Terra Linda High School. The bridegroom is serving with the U.S. Navy, and is en route to Vietnam.

Russel D. Carpenter and the late Mrs. Carpenter are grandparents of the bridegroom, whose parents are Mrs. Benjamin Sallady of Terra Linda and the late Mr. Salladay.

Mrs. E. Theirot Cryer of Terra Linda is Pamela's grandmother.

Town & Country Village

For the wearin' of the green, or most any other color, you'll find just what you want in The Village. Whether dressing yourself or a springtime sprucing-up of the old homestead, The Village specialty shops will delight you.

On the 22nd at 12:30, the Wednesday FASHION-LUCNHEON at the Cherish Inn will feature Easter and other springtime finery. This Easter Show, during school vacation, would make a nice mother-and-daughter outing, since children's fashions will be included in the program. Reservations are suggested . . . phone 388-4212.

This is Grand Opening Week at THE DAISYBUG. You'll find this new shop adjoining The Little Daisy, and stocked with Villager and Ladybug labels exclusively. THE DAISYBUG is a charming addition to The Village fashion scene . . . Early American decor blends well with the merchandise to add an attractive note to your Villager and Ladybug collecting.

CAPRICORN BOOKS reminds us to remind you that an important publishing date is fast approaching. You'd be wise to place an order now for William Manchester's "Death of a President" which will be available April 7th. As always, CAPRICORN BOOKS is right on top of the best-seller situation, but this particular best-seller is bound to be bought-up quickly . . . so don't say they didn't warn you.

Have you ever been to a banquet where the rather small group is made to feel insignificant by a huge banquet hall? This uncomfortable feeling never occurs at KUBLAI KHAN since they go out of their way to make smaller groups feel at home. The menu at this attractive restaurant is also nicely suited to the smaller banquet . . . with American, Chinese and Polynesian cuisine to choose from, everyone is bound to be pleased. Banquet prices at KUBLAI KHAN are equally pleasing and bound to make a hit with the treasurer.

HAPPY HOUSE

My stars and garters, Harriet . . . just look at that Cleaning Tree in the window at HAPPY HOUSE. (Cleaning what?) Well it's a white plastic flower pot, "planted" with a tiny artificial tree with two plastic scouring pads "blooming" on the branches. In red, blue, green or orange this Cleaning Tree would give an attractive and useful touch of springtime to the old kitchen sink. Hard-to-find item noticed at HAPPY HOUSE . . . asparagus steamers . . . both upright and horizontal designs.

One of this season's most newsworthy fashions seems to be the coat and dress ensemble. CONTESSA ANGELA of ROMA offers this headliner in a number of colors and fabrics . . . and her realistic prices on these ensembles will make news too . . . $45.00 to $59.95 for the complete outfit. Our favorite in this collection is a cocoa brown sleeveless linen sheath with a coat of lighter brown tweed with cocoa brown piping. Perfectly stunning, and most appropriate for either city or suburban wear.

CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE TOMORROW!

When Irish Eyes Are Smiling . . . chances are they've heard about the St. Patrick's Day dinner feature at The HICK'RY PIT. Faith, and wouldn't you know 'tis Corned Beef and Cabbage as an entree, and dinner includes beverage and one of those wonderful HICK'RY PIT desserts. Since everything else on this menu has proven to be consistently delicious, we'll just bet their Corned Beef and Cabbage is a winner. And that's no blarney, darlin'!

If the family mutt suffers from seasonal wanderlust about this time of year, he needs this new item we found at MUTTS OF MARIN. A small golden disc for his collar, imprinted with the silhouette and name of St. Roch, patron saint of dogs. Maybe not a remedy for Fido's spring fever, but at least you'll know it won't prove fatal.

To celebrate the wearin' of the green, VILLAGE LIQUORS suggests the drinkin' of Irish Mist Liqueur. If nothing else the special decanter of Irish Mist shown to us would make a handsome conversation piece. Would you believe it, darlin' . . . this decanter is in the shape of a figurine of a long ago Irish soldier wearing his brightly colored dress uniform.

Springtime news from LAILA OF NASIMO'S . . . her new collection of suits that proudly display her own label. As always, LAILA combines fabulous fabric with fastidious tailoring . . . and the results are outstanding. Spotted a crazy caftan by Gernreich at LAILA's . . . this show-stopper is a floor length slink of white silk with a wild, swirling print . . . dramatic, yet ever so feminine.

Noticed that TOWN & COUNTRY VILLAGE T.V. has a complete supply of hard-to-find color T.V. sets. These remote control, portable and table models are available for immediate deliver. Again, we remind you about the excellent service department at TOWN & COUNTRY VILLAGE T.V. No need to fret when the "boob tube" goes on the fritz at some weird hour . . . this service department is open Monday through Friday from 9 to 9.

FU'S ART STUDIO

Madeline Fu, at FU'S ART STUDIO, is much too modest about her many talents as artist and teacher, but husband Paul was almost poetic the other day talking about this charming lady. Madeline Fu's classes in Chinese Traditional Brush Painting are always popular. Besides being a fine artist in her own right, Madeline is also an excellent teacher and guide. Her student's paintings are proof of the high caliber instruction at FU'S ART STUDIO. We like the expert framing done here . . . this framing is done by artists and looks absolutely right. You can tell an artistic hand and eye had a lot to do with the end results.

If you too get kind of itchy about now to see your garden in bloom, then follow us down to ALBERTA OF MARIN. We found some colorful splashes of bloomery here for 19c each . . . trotted on home and "planted" them . . . and, voila! we've got a whole bloomin' garden. Must admit we sneaked a few artfully artificial tulips into a drab corner of the living room for a welcome touch of springtime.

Louis Reimers, Master Chef at L'ENTREE, has thoughtfully made arrangements so you can still phone for catering bookings, even though L'ENTREE is closed until March 28th. While Louis is on vacation, just phone 383-1323 to reserve your party dates.

New shipment of nylon tricot travel robes at THE HOUR GLASS. These very packable, but not transparent, robes are in both long and short styles . . . and a number of pretty prints. There's a fresh and neat look about the blue robe with white polka dots (often a difficult look to achieve when traveling). Another HOUR GLASS travel robe is in a multi-colored print, to belt or not as you wish . . . looks almost hostessy.

MORE LOVE AND HAIR AND MUSIC FOR FAIRFAX

The Sir Douglas Quintet, whose avowed aim is "to be happy and spread love and be part of a grooving scene," will appear at a dance at the Fairfax Pavilion March 24 at 8 p.m. The bespectacled chap in the middle is "Sir Douglas," who was Doug Sahm in San Antonio, Tex., until his group decided their American ryhthm and blues should jump on the British bandwagon.

Committee Told Another Tam Unification Vote Due

The Marin County Committee on School District Organization may have to do a hurry-up job of scheduling another election on unification of school districts within Tamalpais High School District.

The committee, meeting last night at the county schools office, was presented an opinion by Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lunch that another unification election must be held in any district within two years after an election failed. Voters twice have turned down unification with Tamalpais High School District of all elementary districts within its boundaries. The second turndown was in June, 1965.

This would mean that another election must be held this June.

The committee made no move toward an election last night, however, referring the opinion back to Asst. County Supt. Robert F. Stannard, who presented it, and asking him to confer with the county counsel.

A state requirement for a junior college district master plan for the county was neatly disposed of, however. The committee instructed Stannard to inform the State Board of Education that all of Marin County should be included in Marin Junior College District.

This would take three rural school districts in North Marin out of the junior college district of which they are now parts. Lincoln, Union and Laguna districts are in Santa Rosa Junior College District.

The committee went on record opposing criteria for unification which has been used by the State Board of Education, in particular the minimum of 10,000 students and the allowance of not more than 10 per cent deviation in assessed valuation if a high school district is divided.

No action was taken on a county grand jury recommendation that the committee be made up on basis of population, rather than school districts.

One member submitted his resignation — Dr. John Hamren, who has served four years on the committee. He said he lacks the time.

Mrs. Rachael Conner, committee chairman, asked that nominations for a successor to Hamren be addressed to her care of the county schools office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera. Hamren represented San Rafael Elementary School District on the committee.

Waterfoul Departing For North

Most of the waterfowl that use the Richardson Bay Sanctuary having departed for northern breeding grounds, the sanctuary area will be reopened to public use Saturday, Charles H. Callison, executive vice president of the National Audubon Society, announced today.

This is done, Callison said, in accordance with the terms of leases of the submerged lands to the society by Marin County and Belvedere for wildlife conservation purposes.

The sanctuary is closed to public use each fall when overwintering migratory birds become plentiful, usually about the middle of October. Public notice of the closing date will be given next fall as usual.

"The National Audubon Society wishes to thank the people of neighboring communities for their fine cooperation during the closed period since last October," Callison said.

Club Seeking Area Rezoning

Almonte Improvement Club directors last night recommended unanimously that commercial property on Almonte and Homestead boulevards be rezoned by the county to single-family use, reported club president Herbert E. Davis.

The county planning staff has proposed rezoning the parcels to multi-family use. Streets are too narrow and lots too small, Davis said, to support more than single-family use.

Directors also agreed to sponsor a clean-up, brush-up campaign with Almonte Sanitary District during the last two weeks of April. A debris box will be provided, Davis said, for garden clippings.

Linda Arrives In Vintage Car

NEW YORK (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson stepped out of a 1931 vintage Cadillac and was greeted by actor Henry Fonda, who played the role of doorman at the Sutton Theater last night.

The event was the New York premier of Charlie Chaplin's movie, "A Countess From Hong Kong."

Vintage cars of the 1920s and early 1930s, used to recreate the Chaplin era, pulled up to the entrance of the Sutton Theater and disgorged celebrities attending the charity benefit for Research to Prevent Blindness, Inc.

Thurber Play To Be Staged At Tam High

"Many Moons," a children's fairytale by James Thurber, will be presented tomorrow and Saturday at Tamalpais High School by the fine arts department's drama-music workshop.

Performances in Ruby Scott Auditorium will be at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow and at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Producer and director is Jan McReady Arian, Tam graduate and teacher's assistant and San Francisco State College student. Additional performances will be given at elementary schools at their request, she said.

The play is about an unhappy princess who wants something, but does not know what it is until wise men find that it's the moon.

Assistant director is Diann Rigby and set designer and technical director is Paul Stoll.

'Annie' Will Close

Final performances of the San Rafael High School production of "Annie Get Your Gun" will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday at the school auditorium. The show opened last weekend.

Gallery Plans Easter-Time Art Show Fete

The Braeloch Gallery of San Rafael has announced an Easter Art Festival to be held on the Braeloch grounds at 1456 Lincoln Avenue, March 24, 25 and 26, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

Gallery director R. Jeremy Dwyer said that while it is the first such show in Marin County, he and co-director Bruce Allen Walker have conducted similar events in San Jose.

Entrants are permitted one painting in each of two categories — modern and traditional work. Only Marin County artists are invited to compete, Dwyer said.

Finland has 130,160 square miles of water surface.

Floral Paintings

A one-artist show of floral paintings by Mrs. Traute Kindt of Tiburon will be held March 21-31 at the Tiburon Gallery. Mrs. Kindt's painting won first prize this month at an exhibit held in connection with a flower show in Sacramento.

A State Withholding Tax Seems Increasingly Vital

The Governor has consistently opposed withholding income taxes in California.

While consistency and "sticking to your guns" is a commendable quality, inflexibility in the face of changing conditions can be a liability.

Conditions have changed, even during the few months that the new Administration has been in office.

The much-hoped-for hold the line program on over-all spending, let alone a reduction, has proved impossible this year.

The Governor's new tax proposal indicates that various taxes, including income tax, will be rising. In fact, raised income taxes are counted upon as the biggest source of new revenue.

The Administration tax program estimates $325 million in new revenue from increased sales tax, $30 million from tax on distilled spirits, $83 million from cigarettes and tobacco taxes, $92 million from bank and corporation taxes, and $335 million from increased income taxes.

The government should exhaust every other legitimate revenue source before asking the taxpayer to shoulder further burdens. One such revenue source is the tax that is escaping collection because of individuals and firms which leave the state during the year without paying the income tax.

The withholding system, which requires each individual or firm to pay as they earn, would plug this loophole. Estimates of escaped taxes run as high as $250 million.

The purpose of withholding (like the federal income tax) is not only to ease the jolt of paying all at once but also to make sure that all taxpayers pay their share, regardless of the length of their stay in California.

The Administration's proposal to raise income taxes will only aggravate the inequity between "permanent" Californians who pay regularly and those who continue to escape taxes.

Faced with even higher income taxes this coming year, taxpayers are justified in demanding that those who go scot free now should help share the added burden.

As long as the Administration finds that it must raise income taxes, it would do well to reconsider its inflexible stand against the withholding system.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

The first computer to "talk" without prerecorded taped sounds has been invented by a Japanese scientist.

It took an entire year for the inventor and a team of four scholars to figure out how to simulate the 17 functions of the human throat in electronic terms. It took three more years to build the machine.

Within 10 days of its completion, the computer learned 20 of the 50 basic sounds in the Japanese language, and enough words to speak about 10 simple sentences. After it has been taught to master Japanese, the machine will start learning foreign languages.

Although its inventor hopes to make the talking computer sound friendlier as time goes on, the sounds it emits at present are flat and bare of emotion.

Computers can perform astonishing feats in enabling man to get quick answers for highly complicated problems. But even the most efficient and "friendliest" machine is no match for the spontaneity and personality which Almighty God has planted in the most ordinary human being.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Year-Old Medi-Cal Program Due Legislators' Searching Look

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The Assembly Committee on Public Health, with its new chairman, Assemblyman Gordon W. Duffy, R - Hanford, is launching one of the biggest in-session studies in years, concerning the state's year - old Medi-Cal program.

An air of urgency is present in plans for the hearings on the program because of the fact the 1967-68 budget presently calls for $99 million to make up for shortages in the current program.

THE PROGRAM was enacted quickly during a special session in late 1965 and took effect in March, 1966. It was to supplement the federal Medicare program, which provides doctor's care and medical services to persons under Social Security, or over 65.

Medi-Cal applies to persons not on Social Security or over 65 and includes persons on some sort of welfare program, as well as "medically indigent." The latter are persons of low incomes who would qualify for welfare if they spent necessary money on medical expenses.

"This is the first time there has been a study of this program since it began," Duffy said. "It was enacted quickly and there were a lot of questions. Many of those questions have been answered by the administration through adoption of policies.

"NOW IT'S TIME to see whether it's being carried on as it should," he said. "We want to know if the people who are supposed to be getting the care are getting it.

"We want to find out if the fees are reasonable," Duffy said. "And we also want to know if we are breeding a category of welfare doctors."

Duffy said the area of the study is so broad and so little is known that this is one series of hearings which the committee is entering with open minds. However, Duffy admitted that he had voted against the bill which set up the original program.

The present budget must pick up a carry-over deficit from 1965-66 of several million dollars, plus a deficit in the 1966-67 fiscal year. This total of some $24 million must be added to an expected shortage of $75 million in the coming year for a total need of $99 million.

DUFFY SAID some of the deficit is explained away automatically by the fact that nurses' salaries and other hospital costs have increased dramatically. However, Duffy said the committee also would study other possible causes of the deficit, including doctors' fees.

In another area, under a policy adopted by the health and welfare administrator, services to the medically indigent have been limited to in-service care — actual hospitalization. By July of this year, this service will have to be expanded, under federal law, to include out-patient care for the medically indigent.

This expansion will qualify the program for considerably more federal funds, Duffy said. However, this money will go to the counties who now are handling the out-patient care for medically indigent. The state actually will have to spend more under expansion of the program.

The committee's first hearing will be April 4.

FINANCIAL QUESTIONS hopefully will be resolved in time to permit adjustments in the 1967-68 budget, if needed.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Medicare Speed Is One Solution

Editor, Independent-Journal:

It may well be that your paper will not think it advisable to publish a copy of my letter to Congressman Clausen, dated Dec. 29.

Congressman Clausen did not choose to acknowledge receipt of my letter, evidently not deeming it important enough for comment.

I believe, however, there are many solid citizens and organizations who, if acquainted with the lack of efficient processing of claims by the California Physicians Service, will get together and do something to correct the situation.

As a matter of fact, reputable physicians have informed me after almost nine months since the inception of Medicare they still wait four months and more for payment of claims.

According to Look magazine, "the state of our nation's health is bad, we rank far below less affluent countries."

It is my opinion the prompt processing of Medicare claims will be of some help to correct the above quote.

To Servicemen: You Are America

Editor, Independent-Journal;

This is written in answer to L/C Doug MacRae, U.S.M.C. and A/2C Dave Rosso, whose letters recently appeared in your paper.

Gentlemen, we are as proud of you as you are of the uniform which you wear. You are the backbone and the salvation of the future of our country . . .

You are not ashamed of being called a "patriot." You are not so lazy in mind and body that you have to rely on the "needle" or "weed" to dull your senses to keep you from exerting any energy. You have a love of life and clean adventure so you do not have to depend on a pill to take a trip". You have enough confidence in yourself as an individual so you do not have to dress and look like a freak in order to attract attention. You have respect for others and their well-being so you believe in law and order and do not have to condemn law enforcement agencies to cover a personal weakness. You have enough pride and intelligence so that you can speak for yourself and not be a blurred face and chanting voice in a herd directed and controlled by a few radicals whose job it is to mold the weak in mind into one ugly mass of soft clay.

Because you are what you are and because you have left the shelter of your own home in the cause of freedom for mankind, we ask that you be given all the support and protection that our government can give, and that you not be handicapped by the ideas promoted by Senators Morse, Kennedy (Bobby), Fulbright, and their ilk, whose public utterings are giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

Thank you for the sacrifices you are making. When the job is done, we'll welcome you home with open arms and pride in our hearts. You are America.

New Year Time For Peace, Unity

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On March 21, members of the Baha'i Faith all over the world will celebrate Naw-Ruz, our New Year.

The date is astronomically fixed at the March equinox—the first day of spring. We look to a spiritual renewal to coincide with the physical rebirth in the world at springtime.

We are hopeful for peace and unity on earth, for "the earth is but one country and mankind its citizens."

Just What Are We Fighting For?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In a recent letter to the I-J, L/C Doug MacRae suggested that an invasion of Stinson Beach or Lucas Valley sounds proposterous. I disagree. It is entirely within the bounds of our current military action and morality. If we are foredoomed by a Communist plot to dominate the world, why don't we have the U.S. military bomb those two communities now? After all, what are Stinson Beach and Lucas Valley but a couple of small friendly villages.

If the parents involved are grieved over the loss of a few children, we taxpayers can easily afford to pay them $29.95 per child. Considering the cost of military might, it is far more expensive to kill than to educate, and we must somehow prove to those Viet Cong tax collectors that we peace-loving Americans, as well as the Communists, are willing and able to spend far more money to kill, than to feed the hungry, or to educate the living.

Those of us who continue to believe in the teachings of Jesus, such as "Love thy neighbor as thyself," cannot accept the incantations of Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas who urges us to kill thy neighbor as thyself.

What could be more civilized in this atomic-space age, than the peoples of a powerful nation, either American or Russian, who preach democracy and practice the opposite.

MacRae assures himself and all the small villagers that he is fighting for their right to protest military suicide and slaughter. I hope he lives to find out whether or not he is right. Other Americans have not been so fortunate. History did not fall in line with the U.S. propaganda of World War I. Over 125,000 were killed, believing that they were fighting the war to end all wars.

Good Samaritan Role Applauded

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In response to the letters from servicemen who have recently written about Vietnam, I want to assure you boys that there are many of us who pray for you and wish you well. May God speed your return home! We appreciate your sacrifices, understand that this is a dirty job that has to be done, and thank you for doing it for us.

It is hard for some to understand why we are sending you boys around the world to fight for people that we do not know; but not so hard if we picture it thus: If we should see a child in front of our house being attacked and viciously beaten, and just stand there and do nothing, are we not in effect aiding and abetting that crime? So too, if we were to allow the people of Vietnam to fall into the hands of the Viet Cong, who have proved by their actions that no crime is too unspeakable for them to commit, then our country must share in the guilt for that crime.

We hear a great deal today about how we should love our neighbor. But who is our neighbor? Christ answered that question with the story about the good Samaritan who stopped to help a complete stranger who had been attacked. May the United States continue to be a "good Samaritan" to the people of Vietnam.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

AT THE ST. JAMES club in England, an elderly party admitted, "I'll never forget a night I spent at a rundown old castle near the Welsh border. It was raining cats and dogs outside. The most sinister looking butler I ever beheld led me to a bedroom at the far end of a dank corridor. 'Anything unusual ever transpire in this room?' I demanded. 'Not in 41 years,' cackled the butler. 'And what happened THEN?' I persisted. The butler's chuckle froze the marrow in my bones as he answered slowly, 'A man who stayed here the entire night showed up for breakfast in the morning'."

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Romney's Unstable Viet Policy Stand Renders Him Vulnerable

WASHINGTON—Gov. George Romney is in political peril because he has been all over the lot on Vietnam.

He could lose the Republican presidential nomination on this issue alone if he does not act soon to repair his uncertain and incomprehensible public statements and take a stand which is persuasive and credible.

Thus far, many of Romney's supporters are dismayed—and his opponents, Republican and Democratic, are delighted.

THE QUESTION is no longer whether the Governor needs to define his views on Vietnam and make them coherent. The question is what are his choices.

He could continue to be a jab-and-run critic of the Administration as he was during his recent five-state political trip.

He could move in the direction of let's-negotiate-at-almost-any-price, which would hardly distinguish him from Senators Robert Kennedy and William Fulbright.

He could make it clear that the United States was right in resisting the aggression against South Vietnam and that his goal would be to succeed at it.

AN ARDENT and knowledgeable supporter of Romney put it this way recently in private conversation:

"All he needs to do is to make it clear that he basically supports the President in the decision to defend South Vietnam. I am convinced that this would reflect his own convictions. He does not have to propose alternative actions. He should not play Kennedy. He should leave the conduct of the war alone. That's Johnson's problem. That's Johnson's responsibility."

It may not be quite that simple, because Romney does not wish and does not need to give the President any blank-check support for what he may do on the future or an unqualified endorsement for the way he has handled the peace possibilities.

I WOULD NOT be surprised to see Romney, after his upcoming trip to Saigon, clarify his position along these lines:

1. That the U.S. could not and should not have stood by and watched the aggression against South Vietnam take place without doing anything about it. We had to help if the word of the United States was to be kept.
2. That the U.S. must and should see it through, willing to negotiate, willing to keep up the military pressure as long as necessary.
3. That Vietnam ought not to be made a campaign football and that he has no intention of saying anything which would lend aid and comfort to Hanoi or make it more difficult for the President.

BEYOND HIS own convictions on these points, there are political factors which could add their weight to causing Romney to move in this direction.

The Republican party is overwhelmingly united in supporting the defense of South Vietnam. The Democrats are substantially disunited and at the highest level of party leadership, which helps persuade Hanoi that we are so divided that it can win by hanging on a little longer.

Robert J. Donovan of the Los Angeles Times reports from New Hampshire that as things now stand Richard Nixon — whose position is very clear on Vietnam — would defeat Romney in the New Hampshire primary.

The return of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge from Saigon in the next few months heralds an important political role for him. He won New Hampshire hands down in 1964. He wants to support Romney and his support in New Hampshire could be decisive.

Lodge can support Romney only if they are in basic agreement on Vietnam. They conferred at length recently in Washington and will be conferring in a Vietnam stand which would enable him to support him.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

LBJ Cautious About Humphrey's Advice

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Vice President Humphrey is pressing President Johnson to make sweeping changes at the Democratic National headquarters.

Deeply concerned over the breakdown in communications between the National Committee and state organizations, Humphrey has proposed that Chairman John Bailey be replaced with former Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward McCormack, 42-year-old nephew of Speaker McCormack.

Humphrey also wants the committee restaffed with younger people to give the party a more vigorous image to attract the millions of voters who will be casting their first ballots in 1968.

IN URGING the changes during a frank discussion at the White House, the Vice President told the President that the appointment of a new chairman was vital to bolster his popularity and tighten control over the party.

McCormack's attributes of youth and energy, Humphrey stressed, could be used effectively to counter the appeal Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y., has for Irish-Catholic politicians within the party.

Although expressing doubts that Kennedy would attempt to challenge the President in 1968, Humphrey warned that this possibility could not be ruled out completely because of Kennedy's growing political activities.

President Johnson, after raising several questions about McCormack's past unsuccessful political bids, concluded the discussions, stating:

"ALL YOUR SUGGESTIONS are good and let's pursue them further when Marvin Watson is available. Changes are being made at the National Committee, and we should make more. As for Eddie McCormack, I would like to discuss this with Speaker McCormack and get his reaction."

Bailey, who has served in his present post longer than any other national chairman except Jim Farley, was selected by President Kennedy in 1961.

Following Kennedy's assassination in November 1963, President Johnson asked Bailey to stay on. He has served as a "figurehead" chairman, with authority for making political decisions remaining in the White House. At present, presidential assistant Marvin Watson makes most of these.

SIGNIFICANTLY, Vice President Humphrey has begun to take a more active role in President Johnson's growing feud with Senator Kennedy.

Before Kennedy delivered his speech calling on the U.S. to stop the bombing of North Vietnam, Humphrey personally contacted more than a dozen Democratic senators urging them to denounce Kennedy for his stand.

In these talks he pointed out that Kennedy had refused an urgent appeal by Ambassador Averell Harriman, a close friend, not to make the speech because it might upset delicate diplomatic negotiations on Vietnam.

THE PRESIDENT'S Commission on Crime is drafting its own proposed anti-eavesdropping statute.

The proposal, which would require law enforcement officials to obtain advance court approval, would permit the use of listening devices in major federal criminal cases. Federal officials would have to show that normal investigative procedures had been tried and had failed.

By JEFF GREER

Class In Swahili Presenting Insight Into African Cultures

Who in Marin County would want to study Swahili?

For that matter, what is Swahili?

Putting the last first, Swahili is a language, more or less understood the length and breadth of the huge continent of Africa. It is especially favored by traders, including the traveling Arabic merchants, I've been told.

AND, BROTHER, if the natives of Africa can understand it easily, they're no simple savages. After a fair grounding in English grammar, wrestling with at least 10 tenses in Spanish and exposure to German, I'm fascinated with the complexities of the African tongue.

About 50 Marinites are interested enough in learning Swahili to go each Thursday night to a small schoolroom in Marin City. Eight out of 10 students are Negro. All seem to be keenly interested not only in the language, but also seek a new viewpoint on African cultures.

Teacher is a charming native of Africa named John Shoka. A former student at College of Marin, he's now a graduate student at San Francisco State College. He has a happy, relaxed sincerity that is getting across to his students.

The classes are a busy three hours, half devoted to learning to talk Swahili, and half to African culture.

And that is where the students really turn on.

The other night, one young man suddenly sat bolt upright while Shoka was talking about the glories of Egypt.

"MAN, I LEARNED all about Egypt in grade school — but I never thought those people were Africans," he exclaimed.

Not only that, but Egypt drew greatly from other cultures all over Africa, Shoka assured the class.

This was good; this was some of that identity with a past the young Negro students had been hungering for.

THIS IS NO different from the European who searches genealogies to find a family crest, or the American who boasts that his ancestors fought at Valley Forge. But there's surprisingly little in print about the powerful kingdoms that held sway in Africa when plague and superstition ruled Medieval Europe.

Some of John Shoka's students seemed a bit disappointed to learn that Swahili has no native alphabet of its own; it uses Roman letters.

HOW MUCH African writing exists, outside Egypt, we haven't been told yet. But I personally know that Africa strongly influenced European culture.

The pre-Christian Bushmen, who may have lived as long ago as Europe's cave men, were remarkable artists. The color and vigor of their drawings is still an inspiration to modern artists.

In the British Museum, I have seen cases full of African bronze and iron craftsmanship so sophisticated the objects seem destined to go in some ultramodern Marin waterfront apartment. Yet they are centuries old.

So, it will be interesting to see what comes out of the class in Marin City in the 10 weeks it has yet to run.

THE STUDENTS aren't interested purely in ivory-tower learning. Their insights and their resentments demand more than that.

It's humorous, and yet it isn't, to an Ofay like myself. I couldn't help remembering when I was the only so-called Anglo in a school in Mexico. As a seven-year-old, I got so I could run like hell, to keep my classmates from beating up the dirty Gringo.

Trying to tell my Mexican classmates that my family didn't rob its servants (or have any to mistreat, for that matter), didn't drive Cadillacs, and wasn't rolling in gold, didn't make any impression.

BUT WHEN they found out that my family once grew cotton and corn, and my father was a non-wealthy but busy artist—these things had value in relation to the Mexican background.

This is just one man's opinion, but I think John Shoka's class will give the students something to equate better Negro values with today's society. If Negroes know that back in Africa their ancestors were expert artisans, great architects, powerful politicians, even good farmers in a hostile environment, they'll have something to be proud of.

And not in the sense of the belittled Uncle Tom.

WHICH REMINDS me:

In lesson Two, the students wanted to know the Swahili for Uncle Tom.

It's Mjomba Tomasa.

There, now you know something in Swahili.

What About Credibility Gap In Everyday Common Sense

OF ALL OUR MANY credibility gaps, no yawning chasm is as wide as that between the theories of our self-anointed intellectuals and plain, everyday common sense.

Yet there you are. If a first-grader says "Two and two make five," he is corrected. But let a so-called intellectual say it, and it gets serious editorial attention. Eventually, it may even become a law.

I've often asked the advocates of unlimited welfare to show me one case in recorded history where a government continually spent more than it took in and survived. The reply has always been—when I wasn't ignored altogether—that I placed property rights above human rights. That may be so, but it certainly is irrelevant and immaterial, and I wish the judge would direct the defendant to be more responsive.

IT IS THE LIBERAL'S proud—and patronizing—boast that he has made this the Era of the Common Man. I say patronizing because the last thing in the world he wants for himself is to be regarded as a common man.

No, he is a superior being, fairly reeking with intellect and goodness, and his heart bleeds profusely and constantly — I have termed the phenomenon cardiac hemophilia—for less fortunate folk. If God is dead, He was thoughtful enough to leave us intellectual humanitarians to take His place.

To these deep thinkers, money, though they scream at it in other hands, is not necessarily the root of all evil. Just give them enough and they will produce instant justice, integration, security and peace. So they say.

They do not, however, mention bankruptcy—a far more likely concomitant. If the poor, via the Anti-Poverty program, can make more—as has happened—by not working than working, you haven't cured poverty but are perpetuating it. Parkinson's Law.

LIKEWISE, IF YOU gush too sentimentally over the plight of an unmarried mother by giving her an extra allowance for each of her five children, the chances are good she'll have six. Just such a case was reported in England. When the welfare people asked the lady why she didn't marry the father of her five, she replied, "I don't like him that much."

The papers chronicle that the President's Commission on Education, after deep research, concludes that children of poor families, if taught with other such children, are bound to get an inferior education. To which I say, "Horsefeathers!"

In my day, the students at the College of the City of New York came almost entirely from the families of the "huddled masses" immortalized by Emma Lazarus. And out of that college poured thousands who wrote their names indelibly on the history of Manhattan.

In the arts, the professions and the business world, they ranked every bit as high as those from the Ivy League. And managed at the same time to turn out basketball teams that beat the bejabbers out of Yale, Harvard and my own Columbia. But that, of course, was pre-welfare.

WASHINGTON NOW has "public facility" plans, notes the Chicago Daily News, that will require $500 billion over the next decade, with the final cost of these programs coming to a trillion and a half. (I was going to run that last item in figures, but I never remember how many zeros there are in a trillion.)

Where is that money coming from, you ask? Sorry, but your conservative background is showing. Whatever is needed, God—oops!—I mean the Welfare State will provide. You can fly now—and let your children and grandchildren pay later.

I was shocked when friends, visiting India, wrote me of the beggar caste, which deliberately mutilates its children at birth to make them objects of pity that will stir the purse strings of tourists.

BUT, IF OUR bleeding hearts have their way, it won't be too long before visiting Indians are tossing pennies to our own children, sold into the slavery of the Welfare State.

Intellectuals? Says who?

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Playing Can Be Tough Even In Far-Off Tasmania

Tasmania is almost as far south as you can go and still find good bridge players.

It's only appropriate, therefore, that the South cards in today's hand were held and elegantly played by a Tasmanian expert named Kaljuvee.

No. 3190 ....March 16, 1967

Opening lead — ◇ A

West made the inelegant opening lead of the ace of diamonds.

You don't often see this kind of play in the Australian National Team Championships, but you'll find only the truth in this column.

SOUTH PLEASED

West continued with the five of diamonds, and East took the king and continued with a diamond to the queen.

Kaljuvee sighed with some relief; he would not have won a diamond trick if West had made the proper lead of the four of diamonds.

Nevertheless, declarer was not yet out of the woods. He had only eight tricks and if he let East get a trick the rest of the diamonds would defeat him.

In a case of this kind it always pays to take tricks that present no problem.

Our Tasmanian hero cashed the four hearts to see how East liked them.

FEELS PRESSURE

East could afford to discard one spade, but could not part with another.

He likewise could not afford to part with a club.

For lack of anything better East had to throw one of his good diamonds.

Now declarer could afford to cash the good clubs and give up a club.

East could cash his remaining good diamond, but then dummy had the last two tricks with the nine of clubs and the ace of spades.

(Dummy had previously thrown a spade on the third round of diamonds.)

It's a comfort to know that you'll find experts and bridge clubs even if you take a trip more than halfway to the South Pole.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

♠ K J 6
♥ 8 3
♦ K J 10 8 6
♣ Q J 10

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

This hand was opened with one diamond in the Australian National Team Championships, but most experts would consider it not quite worth an opening bid.

Change either of the kings to the ace, and the hand would be a sound opening bid.

Unless It Snows

NEW YORK (UPI)—One of the easiest ways to start your car in the winter is to live in Florida or California, says Chris Andrews, president of a sports car company.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, March 16, the 75th day of 1967 with 290 to follow.

The moon is between its first stage and new quarter. The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The fourth president of the United States, James Madison, was born on this day in 1751.

On this day in history:

In 1882, the Senate approved a treaty making the United States a member of the Red Cross.

In 1945, Japanese resistance ended on Iwo Jima.

In 1966, astronauts Armstrong and Scott successfully docked their Gemini 8 with an Agena craft—the first docking of orbiting spacecraft.

A Thought for the Day — British writer Izaak Walton said it: "Look to your health; and if you have it, praise God, and value it next to a good conscience . . ."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Light-face type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

DOUG DICKER SAYS:

JUST LEAVE US A BUCK PROFIT!

INVENTORY CUT-BACK ON NEW '67 CARS

Our showroom floor and warehouse are packed with new '67 cars! We're overstocked and undermanned! And must cut down on our inventory. So Doug Dicker wants you to select your new car from our over HALF-MILLION DOLLAR inventory of new '67 cars. As Dicker says: "Leave me a buck profit . . . JUST ONE DOLLAR . . . that's all I want on your choice from my inventory of new '67 cars."

LEAD THE EASTER PARADE IN A NEW '67 CAR FROM DOUG DICKER'S!

5 Reasons Why Dicker's Out to Become California's No. 1 Chrysler Dealer:

1. DOUG DICKER customers have the option of ORDERING any new car at a guaranteed base price . . . without being coerced into buying loaded models off our floor!
2. DOUG DICKER'S HIGH VOLUME SALES cuts the unit cost on every car. These savings are automatically passed on to you.
3. The convenient "$50 Delivers" and "Pick-Your-Payment" program at Doug Dicker's has enabled hundreds of Marinites to purchase cars they had never before realized they could afford to own.
4. A friendly, courteous sales staff at Doug Dicker's relies upon your customer intelligence to know "a good buy" without resorting to high pressure tactics.
5. DOUG DICKER'S factory-equipped service department is geared to handle high volume service requirements to customer satisfaction.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING BEFORE THE CITY COUNCIL ON FINAL REPORT OF THE PLANNING COMMISSION FOR REZONING OF PROPERTY

WHEREAS, heretofore on the 16th day of January, 1967, the verified petition of Paul D. Buchholz, agent for Eleanor McArdle and Anthony Trevellick was filed with the City Planning Commission of the Town of Fairfax, for the amendment of Ordinance No. 230 by changing the District Classification of all that certain real property in the Town of Fairfax, County of Marin, State of California, from R-2 (Second-class residential) and L-C (Limited Commercial) to C (Commercial) and more particularly described on the attached, marked "Exhibit A".

WHEREAS, thereafter the City Planning Commission set a date for the holding of a public hearing as provided by law, and

WHEREAS, the City Planning Commission of the Town of Fairfax, held such public hearing on said petition as required by law on the 23rd day of February 1967 when and where all interested persons were afforded an opportunity to be heard, and

WHEREAS, it appears that in all respects due and legal notice of said public hearing was given and same was held and conducted in the manner prescribed by law, and the requirements of the City Planning Commission of the Town of Fairfax.

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission of the Town of Fairfax has made and filed its Final Report with the City Council of the Town of Fairfax all in accordance with the law in such cases made and provided;

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that there will be a public hearing on said Final Report on March 27, 1967, at the hour of 8:00 o'clock P.M. at the Council Chambers, Fairfax Women's Club Bldg., 46 Park Road, in the City of Fairfax, County of Marin, State of California, before said City Council, at which time and place all interested persons will be given an opportunity to be heard.

Reference is hereby made to the Final Report of the Planning Commission on file in the office of the City Clerk of the Town of Fairfax for further particulars.

Dated March 13, 1967.

FRANCES LESTANGUET
City Clerk
Town of Fairfax

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Mysterious Malabsorption Syndrome Can Be Common

VAN DELLEN

The malabsorption syndrome is impaired absorption of foodstuffs by the small intestine. Most of the victims cannot assimilate fats but many also are unable to utilize proteins, minerals, and vitamins. In the severe form, the bowel cannot absorb even water. These individuals are acutely ill and must be fed intravenously.

The malabsorption syndrome comes in many packages and may be more common than we are led to believe. Diagnosis is difficult because the condition develops so slowly and is accompanied by bizarre signs and symptoms. The severe forms of the disease are obvious, but the mild types are easily missed.

IN PRIMARY malabsorption the flaw is in the wall of the intestine. Nontropical and tropical sprue are examples. Celiac disease is their counterpart in children. The secondary form of the disease stems from disorders of the pancreas and the liver, parasites, tumors, drugs, and mechanical defects of the small bowel. Stomach resection because of ulcer also interferes with the assimilation of nutrients.

Since most of the victims cannot absorb fats, the stools are likely to be liquid and frothy (steatorrhea). Vitamins A, D, E, and K are dissolved in fats and a deficiency may develop when they are not carried into the system along with the fats. Inability to absorb proteins or vitamin B 12 leads to anemia. A failure here leads to deficiencies in other systems explaining the bizarre nature of the disorder.

DYSPEPSIA, lack of appetite, weakness, weight loss, depression, bloating and abdominal cramps are the most common complaints. Other signs include muscle spasms, aching and bleeding tendencies. The skin may darken, the tongue redden, and painful fissures develop at the corners of the mouth. Diagnostic tests are available and treatment usually is successful.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

DAILY VITAMINS

L. A. B. writes: Is it necessary for a person who is in good health (no apparent vitamin deficiency) and who maintains a balanced diet to take several kinds of vitamins daily?

REPLY

Not unless he has habits such as over indulging in alcohol that require additional vitamins.

NOT ADVISED

Mrs. M. E. J. writes: Will cod liver oil or baking soda help high blood pressure?

REPLY

No. Furthermore, soda bicarb may increase blood pressure because it, like table salt, contains sodium. In certain types of hypertension this element is taboo.

VITAMINS, BLEEDING

J. I. writes: Please correct me if I'm mistaken but I think you will find that bleeding tendencies are associated with deficiencies of vitamin K and not vitamin C.

REPLY

Did you ever hear of scurvy? Deficiencies of either vitamin C or K lead to bleeding tendencies.

FOOT CALLUS

L. E. writes: Will surgical removal of calluses prevent recurrence?

REPLY

No, not unless the source (fallen arches or improperly fitted shoes) is corrected also.

SCAR REMAINS

F. B. writes: In a case of arrested tuberculosis, does the lesion always remain?

REPLY

The healed lesion remains as a scar.

Two Appointed To Parks Board

SACRAMENTO (CNS)— Gov. Ronald Reagan has announced the appointment of Horace Parker, Balboa Island veterinarian, and Leonard S. Thomson, Taft stock broker, as members of the state park commission.

Parker succeeds John P. Elsbach of Los Angeles and Thomson will take the place of George C. Fleharty, Atherton, who was the chairman. Both new appointees are Republicans.

Parker, a retired veterinarian, is a trustee and former president of the board of trustees of Orange Coast college. Thomson is the the stock brokerage business in Taft and formerly was associated with the Honolulu Oil Corp.

Both new appointees are members of the Sierra Club.

Rights Group Revives Study

The education committee of the Marin Human Rights Commission last night revived preschool programs and courses offered by Sausalito and Tamalpail high school districts, seeking means of assuring quality, integrated education.

It was noted that no recent high school graduate from Marin City has gone on to a four-year college, and too few have gone to College of Marin, reported Robert Brauer, commission executive officer.

The committee, headed by Walter B. Belden, met at the home of Bella H. Aaron in Sausalito, in its first meeting. Further sessions will be set soon, Brauer said.

Sheriff's Station Rental Approved

The Kentfield Fire District Commission last night agreed to rent a sheriff's substation at the planned new fire station to the county on a five-year lease.

The commission originally proposed to add the substation to the new fire station for use on a 20-year lease, but the county Board of Supervisors asked the commission for a shorter lease. The commission did not set a rental figure.

Former Point Choirmaster To Lift Baton

An 85-year-old former choirmaster at West Point, now visiting his son in Kentfield, will pick up his baton again tomorrow.

Frederick C. Mayer, choirmaster and chapel organist at the U. S. Military Academy from 1911 to 1954, will direct a West Point alumni group in alma mater songs during the annual Founders' Day reunion at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Mayer, an organist, composer and carillon architect, also will play two of his own marches, "Spirit of West Point" and "Flying Falcons," which he composed for the military and Air Force academies.

He has been visiting his son, John R. Mayer of 16 Hillside Avenue, since Christmas Eve and will leave on a motor trip to his home city of New York tomorrow.

Mayer spends his time visiting his children, including a daughter in Geneva, Switzerland, "and went skiing on his 80th birthday," according to his daughter-in-law, Mrs. John R. Mayer.

GOP Women To Study Operations Of ABAG

The Novato Federation of Republican Women, headed by Mrs. John Haines, will meet Tuesday at 11 a.m. at Nave Lanes Restaurant, Ignacio.

Mrs. Eugenia Kay of Walnut Creek Federation of Republican Women will conduct a workshop on ABAG, Association of Bay Area Governments. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m.

To Graduate Saturday

Three students from Marin are scheduled to receive their bachelors' degrees Saturday from the University of California at Davis: John E. Heath of Kentfield in engineering, Edward E. Grissell of San Anselmo in entomology, and Betty J. Bregante of San Rafael in home economics.

Scout 'Fun Day'

Cub Scout Pack 7 of Fairfax will hold "Fun Day," its annual fund-raising event, from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Saturday at Manor School. Fairfax merchants have donated prizes to be awarded.

Professors Recite Impact Of Freud

By CAROL MARSH

Few fields of endeavor have escaped the impact of Freudian psychology.

That was the main message at a discussion by five members of the College of Marin faculty and a theology student yesterday at College of Marin.

The discussion, first in a "Great Man" series sponsored by the associated students, was shown over closed circuit television throughout the student center.

Donald R. Holmlund, a psychology teacher, briefly described Freud's theories. Freud defined the personality in three parts: the id, or pleasure principle; the ego, or reality principle, and the superego, or conscience.

Holmlund said Freud was the first to develop a complete theory of personality. He described man's thoughts, desires and feelings as being seven-eighth unconscious, and explained adult behavior in terms of "psychosexual" development in the first four or five years of life.

Holmlund said Freud's great impact on psychology is not fully recognized because many of the theories Freud developed are taken today as self-evident truths.

Karen Riley, a sociology and anthropology teacher, said Freud's theories marked the end of the assumption that man's cultural development was rational.

The relationship of the individual to his culture was neglected before Freud's theory of personality was developed, she said. Freud also opened up the field of sexual research, making sex "researchable."

Donald Palmer, a philosophy teacher, said Freud forced the re-evaluation of philosophers whose theories had been rejected until Freud provided a scientific basis for them. He said Freud's theories also led to a re-evaluation of philosophical thought on free will.

Charles Robertson, a theology student at San Francisco Theological Seminary, said the idea of progress, or of man's perfectability, ended with Freud.

The entire field of abstract art was influenced and made acceptable by Freud's theories, Thomas Johnson, an art instructor, said. And those theories, he declared, have made people more tolerant toward artists' attempts to portray something deeper than surface impressions. However, Freud's emphasis on symbolism has had a "threatening" effect on art, Johnson declared.

Jack de Benedictis, a communications teacher, illustrated the effect of Freud on literature by writings of Freud and of James Joyce dealing with similar subjects in similar ways.

Two more "Great Man" discussions are planned, at noon on April 19 and May 17.

Dentist Faces Back Tax Fine

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal grand jury returned an income tax indictment yesterday against Dr. Kenneth A. Hobson of Atherton. Jurors said he understated his income for the years 1960 through 1963.

The orthodonist is charged with evading taxes on $27,000 of income.

If convicted he could receive a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine on each of four counts against him.

Cub Scout Kite Derby Is April 1

A kite derby for Marin County Cub Scouts will be held at 12:30 p.m. April 1 at the Civic Center, with prizes to be awarded the largest, smallest, highest flying and most unusual kites. The Marin Council of Boy Scouts is sponsoring. Registration will begin at 11 a.m.

Court Hears Marincello Road Debate

Testimony on behalf of petitioners for a referendum on a Marincello access road has ended in Marin Superior Court and a two-day review session is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson, hearing the case, said he will rule at close of that session on how many petition signatures disqualified by the county clerk's office are actually legal.

If an insufficient number is ruled legal, the petition will be denied.

If the number of disqualified signatures found legal reaches the needed total of 316, additional hearing will be required to give Frouge Corp., developers of Marincello, opportunity to challenge names on the petition, said Judge Wilson.

Golden Gate Headlands Committee filed the petition last May 11, demanding that the board of supervisors either negate its ordinance granting the road access, or call a referendum.

British Halt Pipeline Sale

LONDON (AP) — The British government last night forbade the sale of the empty oil pipeline between Rhodesia and the port of Beira, in Portuguese Mozambique.

Operation of the 180-mile pipeline was halted in December 1965 as part of the campaign to overturn the unilateral declaration of independence by the white minority government of the British colony.

The pipeline is reported on the market, and the British are concerned that it might be bought by international interest sthat would flout the oil blockade against Rhodesia.

The order barring its sale was issued to the Lonrho company, a British firm which controls 62 per cent of the Portuguese corporation that owns the pipeline.

Group Discussions To Match Lectures

Small group discussions between addresses by major speakers will be a new feature this year of the Thomas Verner Moore Memorial Lectures, presented annually by San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

The group discussions will be aimed at producing questions to present lecturers at the April 10 and 11 event.

Theme for the lectures this year will be the Christian's involvement and responsibilities in facing the world's current revolutions.

Lecturers will be M. M. Thomas, a visiting professor at Union Theological Seminary in New York and director of the Christian Institute for the Study of Religion and Society in India, and Rev. Charles C. West, professor of Christian ethics at Princeton Theological Seminary, N.J., and formerly associate director of the World Council of Churches' Ecumenical Institute.

Thomas will give the opening lecture at 2 p.m. April 10 on "Christian Responsibility and World Community." After discussion groups meet at 4 p.m., Thomas will speak at 8 p.m. on "The Christian Response to the Asian Revolution."

The April 11 schedule opens at 9 a.m. with discussion groups, followed by open discussion with Thomas. At 2 p.m., Dr. West will lecture on "Theology, Ideology and Social Change." Discussion groups meet at 4 p.m., and West lectures at 8 p.m. on "Power and Reconciliation in Social Change." A final open discussion with West will be at 9 p.m.

Another new feature, an alumni luncheon, will be at noon April 11 in Alexander Hall.

All lectures and discussions will be in the sanctuary of First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo, and are open without charge to the public.

Park To Demolish Red Barn Landmark

The large red barn at Bear Valley Ranch is to be torn down by the National Park Service, which uses the ranch for headquarters for Point Reyes National Seashore.

In a letter to fellow county supervisors, Board Chairman Thomas T. Storer reported he had confirmed the park service's intention to remove the barn through correspondence with Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall. Storer said he asked Udall to see if further construction changes could be reviewed by the county planning commission prior to federal action.

Meeting Postponed

The regular meeting today of Sausalito Recreation Commission has been postponed to tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in city hall, reported chairman James E. Muldoon. Commissioners are to consider a senior citizen program.

Honoring Our "1966 Man of the Year"

ROBERT C. LAMPERT

For outstanding service to his clients, his profession and his community, we are pleased to recognize Robert C. Lampert as the recipient of our Man-of-the-Year Award. Mr. Lampert joined the local San Rafael District Office in 1964, and during his first twelve months he was named one of the Company's Freshman Five winners for 1965. Mr. Lampert led the Freshman Five in the amount of individual insurance protection sold, with a record $2,771,000. The first year total is unprecedented in the 115-year history of the Massachusetts Mutual and also is believed to be an industry record.

We proudly salute our associate, Robert C. Lampert, who has been honored by membership in the 1967 Million Dollar Round Table.

Next Move Is Up To Juan, Says Stoneham

Independent-Journal Sports

THIRD SECTION Thurs., March 16, 1967 31

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—"The next move is up to Juan Marichal", declared President Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants who put aside established company policy and said the club had offered $100,000 and the pitcher wanted $110,000.

Apparently pride is involved on both sides. Marichal believes Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers gets $100,000 and thinks that, as the only pitcher to win 20 games in each of the past four seasons, he should be paid more.

The Giants point out their right-hander would be getting a $25,000 raise and a total of $60,000 more over three years.

Stoneham called a special news conference yesterday, announced the terms of the negotiations and said, "We feel we have been fair to him and it would be unfair to the other players if we give him anything further."

In past years, the Giants never have announced contract figures nor amounts mentioned in negotiations and the seriousness of the holdout was seen in the unprecedented news conference.

The Giants paid Marichal $75,000 last season when he posted a 25-6 record and a 2.23 earned-run-average. The original offer this year was $90,000 where the ace hurler asked $125,000.

Willie Mays of the Giants is reported getting $125,000 and $100,000 is the amount believed received this season by Drysdale. He teamed with Sandy Koufax last year in contract negotiations with the Dodgers. Drysdale took a cut after a 13-16 season.

"Marichal is the highest paid at this stage of his career of any player in history", declared Vice President Charles (Chub) Feeney. "We know he is a great pitcher but are a little perplexed at his stand."

Marichal, 28, came to the Giants in mid-1960 and has 6½ years with the National League club. He pitched a 1-0 no-hitter against Houston in 1963 and was the winner in two All-Star games. His winning percentage of .691 is best among active pitchers.

Negotiations primarily have been by phone to Marichal in his Dominican Republic home. Feeney said the pitcher plans to leave for San Francisco but only because he has other business there.

Stoneham said he believes Marichal will be paid more for this season at $100,000 than is realized by many operators of major league teams and said the demands are "somewhat out of line. The next move is up to Juan. That was our last figure."

Feeney added, "He's stubborn, and so are we".

Spring Training: The Truth Season

After all these years, I've finally figured out what spring training is for. It's for the players to work the truth out of their systems.

YOU ARE ALL AWARE, I am sure, that when a player is in mid-season form, the truth is longer in him. Let a teammate get traded and his public comment will be enough to give you diabetes. Old Solly Shortstop, he will tell you, was (choose one) (1) "a great guy," (2) "a tremendous competitor," or (3) "a great team leader." "We will miss him," he will add piously.

Dissolve now to spring training. Some 2,000 players come to camp absolutely creaking with the Truth. Winter-long exposure to the little woman has convinced them of the utter futility of a lie.

"TRY THAT ONE on that dunderhead of a manager or sportswriter," she will shriek, "but don't tell me you've been to the public library. You wouldn't know which end of a book to open!"

You can see where, when Cincinnati's Joe Nuxhall came to camp and someone asked him of his opinion of teammate Milt Pappas, Joe still hadn't worked the kinks of truth out.

"I DIDN'T THINK he put out last year, not 100 per cent," Joe said candidly, adding: "Of course, I'll probably get a punch in the nose for this."

Of course, he won't. Browning tells us, "So absolutely good is Truth, Truth never hurts the teller." Besides, Joe is bigger. And tougher.

THE NUXHALL Knock was followed in short order by (a) Jimmy O'Toole's "Amen" to Joe's attack of truth; (b) Jimmy Piersall announcing he was glad Dean Chance had left the Angels because he used to get mad when outfielders made an error behind him; and (c) Don Cardwell laying the blame for the Pittsburgh pennant loss squarely in the lap of manager Harry Walker.

It was then that a reporter, seeking a few flowery goodbys for traded team captain Maury Wills of the Dodgers, approached ex-teammate Willie Davis for some prose Maury could press in his memory book.

"I NEVER CARED for the guy," Willie allowed, neatly throwing to the wrong base. "And most of the guys feel the same way."

Willie, of course, was putting out 110 per cent on this. Merely giving his own opinion would have served. Actually, the proper response where you feel this strongly is to say, "No comment." That alone is enough to sustain a whole summer of "dissension of the Dodgers" stories.

BUT ONE AREA of the Grand Old Game that is always in mid-season form as far as truth is concerned is the front office. No sooner did Willie Davis' burst of honesty come off the presses than general manager Buzzie Bavasi decided that this onslaught of truth was "bad for the game."

Now, we all know that nothing that makes Page One is bad for the game, but the facts are that the front office is always in condition to throw the truth out at first. Whenever they feel themselves weakening in this regard, they go back and replay some of their old public utterances, like "We will never leave Milwaukee," "I wish to give our manager every vote of confidence," or "Fire Casey Stengel?! (or Yogi Berra?!) (or Babe Ruth?!) Sell out to CBS?! Are you crazy?!"

MEANWHILE, WOULDN'T it be refreshing if the whole world went at spring training in the truth? Imagine the White House saying: "Bobby Kennedy? Never cared for the guy to tell the truth. Frankly, all he knows about China he found in a fortune cookie."

The British prime minister might refer to Charles De Gaulle as the "awful tower of France." Premier Kosygin could rip off a wire to Mao Tse-tung: "Shut up and do the shirts!" The CIA could say, "Of course, we're spies. What the hell did you think we were—the Salvation Army?"

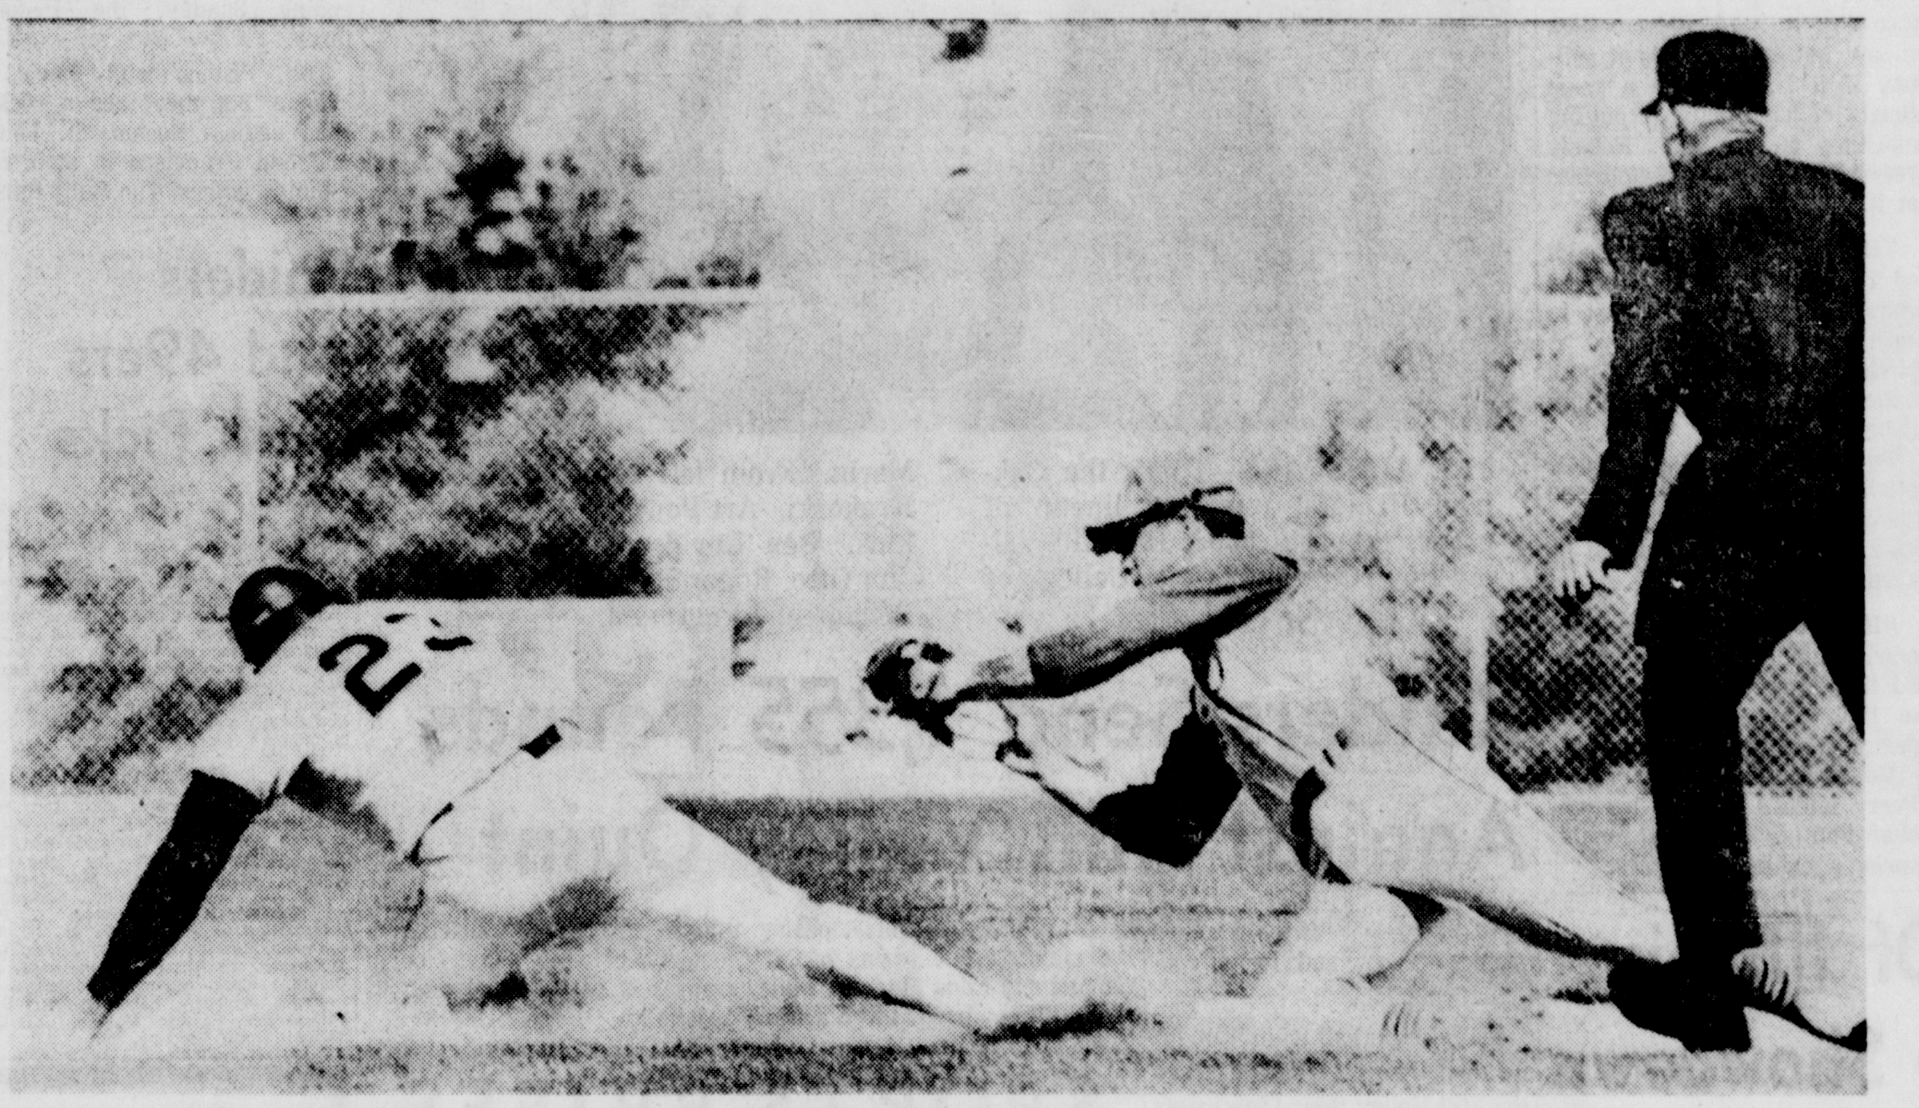
WELL, IT WON'T LAST any longer than the crocuses and the forsythia. Baseball will soon get these weeds out of its garden of lies. As James Russell Lowell has said, "Truth forever on the scaffold, Wrong forever on the throne."

Alcindor, Allen, Critchfield On Team

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — UCLA's Lew Alcindor, was the only unanimous choice on the 1967 Pacific-8 All-Conference basketball team that includes a Bruin teammate, guard Lucius Allen.

Alcindor and Allen are the only sophomores on a team filled out by three juniors-Washington State's Jim McKean and Southern California's Bill Hewitt at the forwards and California's Russ Critchfield at the other guard.

Thomas J. Hamilton, executive director, announced yesterday the picks oft he conference's eight coaches.



COSTLY SLIDE—Giant shortstop Tito Fuentes slides back to second base after a pickoff attempt by Cleveland pitcher Steve Hargan to Larry Brown. Fuentes strained at ligament in his left leg while sliding and will be out of action four or five days. Calling the play is umpire Doug Harvey. (AP Wirephoto)

Seven Errors Help Giants Win

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Sometimes it's advantageous to let a fellow rest.

Arguing the two sides of the question today would be Herman Franks, manager of the San Francisco Giants and Joe Adcock of the Cleveland Indians.

Franks didn't let Ollie Brown or Jesus Alou, usually his starting outfielders, into the game yesterday until the tenth inning.

Then with two on, Ollie belted some tremendous fouls and finally drew a walk to fill the bases. Alou, after running a full count, hit to shortstop and was safe on a bad throw as the winning run came in.

That was the Indians seventh error of the game.

The final score stood 3-2 but the Indians would have won if Adcock hadn't believed his first baseman, Fred Whitfield, needed a rest.

Willie Smith, first a pitcher and then an outfielder, tried his fortunes at first with little success although he lasted the route.

The Giants scored two runs in the first inning by virtue of one dingy infield single plus four errors, two by Smith. He dropped balls at first base to a point where he was cheered by the crowd of 2,682 in Phoenix Stadium when he caught one.

Tito Fuentes led off with a walk, Frank Johnson hit one back to the pitcher's box after Fuentes had gone to second when the pitcher's throw to first was dropped.

Fuentes scored when the catcher's throw to get Johnson hit the runner. Willie Mays, who continued his record of hitting safely in each exhibition game, was safe when Smith dropped the ball again.

Then Steve Hargan tried to catch Mays off first, Smith again dropped the ball and Johnson scored.

After three men had been officially at bat, the Giants had two runs and the Indians four errors.

Leon Wagner belted a 420-foot homer off starter Bob Bolin in the fourth and Joe Gibbon receipted for another run in the eighth on a double by Jose Vidal who advanced on a fly and scored on Chuck Hinton's sacrifice.

LAWYERS STILL BATTLING

Cassius Clay Might Be An Army Man By April 11

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Come April 11, it will be Pvt. Cassis Clay, U.S. Army — maybe.

The heavyweight champion, turned down by a presidential appeals board in his efforts to remain a civilian, has been ordered to report for induction on that date.

Clay's attorneys had anticipated the decision, however, and before the induction order was made public, they had begun a new legal action.

They filed suit in U.S. District Court alleging racial discrimniation by Local Board 47, Clay's Louisville draft board, and by all other Kentucky draft boards because of a racial imbalance in their makeup.

Judge James F. Gordon set March 29 for hearing arguments on whether to name a three-judge panel to hear the suit, but he refused to issue a temporary restraining order barring Clay's induction. The suit asks for a permanent injunction.

TURNED DOWN

J. Allen Sherman, chairman of the local board ,said he had received word Tuesday that the appeals board had turned down Clay's request for deferment as a Black Muslim minister. He said the induction notice had gone out the same day.

But Clay apparently didn't know about it until reporters told him. He is in New York training for his March 22 title defense against Zora Folley.

"If what you say is true, this is gonna be my last fight," he said. "All those people who want to see the greatest heavyweight who ever lived better come to see me now."

The usually loquacious fighter visibly shaken, added, "I don't want to say any more. I don't want to talk to nobody. I'm gonna go see a movie and think about things."

Appearing in court yesterday, Hayden Covington, one of Clay's attorneys, said all of Kentucky's draft boards "discriminate against the Negro race."

The suit challenges the constitutionality of a federal statute that, Covington said, "allows the governor of Kentucky to appoint an imbalance of whites and Negroes to local draft boards.

CHARGE

"Unless Local Board 47 and all other boards are revised, Clay cannot be drafted," he said.

Sherman denied that there is any racial discrimination by his board. He noted that one member, Robert Terry Downs, is a Negro. Downs' wife said he recently was appointed to the local board.

Covington contended that only one-fifth of one per cent of draft board members are Negro, while Negroes make up seven to 12 per cent of Kentucky's population.

The suit names as defendants Gov. Edward T. Breathitt; Col. Taylor Davidson, Kentucky Selective Service irector; Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, National Selective Service director; the Attorney General of the United States, and members of Local Board 47.

Thurmond Not Expected To Play Against 76ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Nate Thurmond is expected to miss the San Francisco Warriors' final home game of the regular National Basketball Association tonight against the Philadelphia 76ers.

The 6-foot-11 center suffered two broken bones in his left hand on Feb. 10 and returned to action one month later wearing a protective cast.

But the injured hand was hit against Detroit last Monday and it became so swollen that he was forced to miss Tuesday's game against Philadelpha won 139-110 by the 76ers.

The game itself is meaningless because both teams have long since wrapped up their respective divisional titles. The 76ers have won seven of their eight games against the Warriors so far.

The Warriors finish the regular season on the road against Chicago, Cincinnati and Detroit in that order, with the last named game on national television next Sunday.

Then it's back home for the start of the Western Division playoffs next Tuesday in Oakland. The Warriors hope to have Thurmond reasonably healthy by then because they've lost 10 of their last 12 games, nine played without him.

Mrs. Roberts Wins Tourney

Mrs. Don Roberts came to within two feet of the 19th green to win honors at the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club Flag Tournament last week.

The results:

Class A—Mesdames Don Roberts, two feet, 19th; E. J. Halm, 27 feet, 19th; Frank Kern, 100 yds., 19th.

Class B — Mesdames Harold Wagstaff, 120 yds., 19th; Hugh Richardson, 125 yds., 19th; Joe Wittenmeier, cup, 18th.

Pro Grid Teams Pick Some Basketball Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — On the final day of the first combined draft by the National and American football leagues such stars as Jimmy Walker, Pat Riley and George Carter were picked.

If you say these three were basketball stars in college, you're right.

And if you also say such pro football players as All-NFL defensive back Cornell Green of Dallas played basketball instead of football in college, you're right again.

So, following the formula which has proved so successful in the cases of players like Green and his Dallas teammate Pete Gent, the pros selected Walker and several other basketball standouts yesterday.

WALKER

Walker, the All-America from Providence which fields no football team, was taken by New Orleans on the last pick of the 17th and final round.

The 25 NFL-AFL clubs drafted 262 players in the final 12 rounds after picking 133 Tuesday in the first five rounds.

Some college stars, strictly in football, drafted yesterday included quarterback Terry Southall of Baylor, by Baltimore in the sixth round; quarterback Virgil Carter of Brigham Young, by Chicago in the sixth; Tulsa tackle Don Bandy by Washington in the sixth, and All-America defensive back Tom Beier of Miami, Fla. by Miami in the 10th.

One player also was signed — San Diego's first round pick, defensive tackle Ronald Billingsley of Wyoming.

Riley, the backcourt star from Kentucky, was selected by Dallas in the 11th round. Carter, the scoring star of St. Bonaventure, another school which shuns football, was picked in the 13th by Buffalo.

Walker was chosen as an end, Riley as a quarterback and Carter as a halfback.

NO REDSHIRTING

Another well-known basketball player, big David Lattin of defending national champion Texas Western, was picked in the final round by Kansas City. However, Lattin is only a junior, and his selection undoubtedly will be voided.

Beginning with this year, there no longer is a future, or redshirt, draft.

Basketball wasn't the only other sport looked at in the search for talent, the world of track and field also was invaded.

Randy Matson of Texas A&M the world record holder in the shotput, was taken as a defensive tackle by Atlanta in the fifth round, and Tommie Smith of San Jose State, the world record holder in the 220-yard dash, was picked as a halfback by Los Angeles in the ninth round.

Oregon Says No To Match

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—The University of Oregon has pulled out of a weekend rugby match with the San Francisco Olympic Club because of the Olympic Club's recent refusal to change its discriminatory membrship clause.

University of Oregon president Arthur S. Flemming announced yesterday that it would not join Oregon State players in the match. California and UCLA have also canceled rugby games with the Olympic Club this season because of the club's racial policy.

But Olympic Club officials said that the Club Sunday would still meet a team of top Northwest players calling itself the Oregon-Washington Rugby Union.

Perry Trying Out New Pitch In Spring Camp: A Changeup

HANLEY

PHOENIX—Baseball is a game but to Gaylord Perry it is "my job." Perry works very, very hard at his job. He has a fine sense of humor but not while on the job. He is all business when there is work to be done.

"When I left North Carolina for spring training last year I was determined to work so hard that nobody could overlook my effort," said Perry, who was to become a 20-game winner for the first time in his major league career.

PRIOR TO 1966 Perry's pitching record with the Giants was primarily distinguished for the number of home runs hit off the 6-4, 205-pound righthander. In 1965 he was belted for 21 homers, most of them at critical moments in tight ball games.

Enroute to his 21-8 record last year, Perry threw only three home run pitches in his initial 19 appearances, 14 of which he won. The secret of Perry's success could be traced to his diligent work in spring training camp a year ago.

"I NEVER SAW a man work harder for success," Larry Jansen now recalls. "And this spring he is working even harder to retain it," added the Giant pitching coach.

Jansen converted Perry from a three-quarter delivery to an over-the-top serve and also taught Perry the technique of throwing a hard slider which enemy batters claim is a spitter. If it is, Perry is a great sleight of hand artist in putting moisture on the ball. Nobody yet has been able to catch him at it.

THIS SPRING Perry has added a new pitch. It's an off-speed changeup. "I added it just in case I need it," said Perry. "A pitcher can't stand still. Those batters will catch up with him if he does."

Perry may not need a new pitch. His fast ball, slider and curve were quite sufficient last year. Jansen isn't convinced he needs another pitch.

"HE HAS ALL the equipment now," said Jansen who believed that Perry's problems prior to 1966 stemmed from his experimenting with a sinker.

However, for the present Perry intends to keep his new changeup pitch—at least for this spring's exhibition games.

University Of Illinois Headed For Showdown

CHICAGO (AP) — The University of Illinois, ordered to fire three coaches in its $21,000 slush fund scandal or face ouster, from the Big Ten, goes into the showdown Saturday playing its cards close to the chest.

"I won't be able to say until after Saturday's meeting," University President Dr. David D. Henry replied yesterday when asked whether Illinois has a counterproposal to the Big Ten demand to fire the coaches.

Dr. Henry has called the demand "too harsh," a viewpoint shared by Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner.

The meeting was requested by Dr. Henry and convened yesterday by the Big Ten's commissioner, Bill Reed. Policy-making faculty representatives from the conference's nine other members will be present Saturday at the Chicago meeting.

Illinois must appeal by tomorrow the faculty group's March 3 mandate upholding a Feb. 22 action by Big Ten athletic directors.

The directors at that time ordered the firing of head football Coach Pete Elliott, head basketball Coach Harry Combes and assistant basketball coach Howie Braun.

Five Illinois athletes were ruled permanently ineligible. Two others were suspended for one year. Seven who were suspended by the school Dec. 23 were reinstated March 3 by the faculty group.

At the March 3 session, Dr. Henry pleaded for 45 minutes on behalf of the school, the 14 athletes and the coaches.

Although the school has been ordered to show cause why it should not be expelled from the Big Ten, the faculty members held that the March 3 appearance did not fall in the "show cause" category. Saturday's meeting apparently does.

The faculty action will be final, said Commissioner Reed. But he added that Illinois "would have an opportunity to make their announcement as to reaction and, if confronted with options would have a period of time to consider them."

Raiders Send 1,355 Pounds Against Mill Valley Quint

The starting five totals 1,355 pounds — not bad for a construction gang.

For a basketball team it might be something else again when the Mill Valley Boys Club meets the Oakland Raiders' beefy all-stars, led by 6-8, 285-pound Ben Davidson Sunday at College of Marin at 2:30 p.m. in a benefit game with the proceeds going to the Mill Valley Boys Club.

Tickets are $1 for adults and can be bought at Taveggia-Brusati Sports Shop in San Rafael and several Mill Valley locations.

The Raider All-Stars, who have compiled a 3-3 record, will have two ex-Raiders among them as of Tuesday. They're end Art Powell and quarterback Tom Flores who are now Buffalo Bills.

Also playing for the Raiders are 6-0, 250-pound Wayne Hawkins, 6-2, 212-pound Jim Otto, 6-2, 250-pound Joe Krakoski, and 6-2, 240-pound Roger Hagberg.

Hagberg leads the club in scoring with a 23-point average followed by Powell with a 17.8 average.

Flores, Hagberg and Powell are no cage neophytes. They played basketball in college.

The Mill Valley Boys club are 13-13 on the season in the San Rafael A League.

They'll have such stars as Reg Corolan, 6-6 and a member of the AFL champion Kansas City Chiefs, Jay Johnson, a student at UCLA who scored 99 points in the Recreation Christmas Tournament and top scorer Brad Busch, who's pushed through 462 points in 19 games, for a 23.7 average.

Steve Anderson has 435 points in 26 games, Terry Jorcik, 206, Mike Anthony, 159, Jim Tupper, 112, Mike Planchard, 109, Dan Busch, 61, Jim Harvey, 55, Bob Ostaggi 24, and Stan Wells, 20.

For the season, the Mill Valley Boys Club average 73.3 points per game so it's likely to be a high-scoring contest.

The game will be preceeded by a preliminary contest pitting the eighth grade teams of Mt. Carmel and Edna Maguire while the halftime show will be a two-minute per quarter, four-quarter contest between the fourth graders of Mt. Carmel and St. Anselm's.

Bulls Might Make Pro Cage Playoffs

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Bulls have taken a giant stride towards landing a spot in the NBA playoffs in their first season in the ational Basketball Association.

The Bulls whipped the Detroit Pistons on the road last night 98-91 and moved into fourth place in the Western Division, a half-game ahead of the now last-place Pistons.

The Bulls have two games left to play in the regular season ending Sunday, the Pistons three.

The Pistons still have a chance, but they face a rocky road against Boston, St. Louis and San Francisco in their remaining games. The Bulls finish against San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Jerry Sloan threw in 32 points to lead a second half Chicago rally that erased a 69-62 Detroit lead.

Baskets by Dave Bing, who led the Pistons with 28 points, pulled Detroit to within three points before the Bulls sewed it up on a 20-foot jumper by Jerry Ward with 45 seconds to go.

Cincinnati broke a tie with the New York Knicks for third place in the Eastern Division. The Royals beat the Boston Celtics at home 112-108 while the Knicks lost on the road to the Baltimore Bullets 121-114.

Philadelphia came from behind in the second half to rout Los Angeles on the road 138-123 in the other NBA game scheduled yesterday. The 76ers played the second half without Wilt Chamberlain. He was ejected for unsportsmanlike conduct with 75 seconds left in the first half.

Oscar Robertson's 31 points, including two free throws that insured the victory in the closing seconds, paced the Royals to their first conquest of the Celtics this season.

The Big O got seven baskets and 17-of-17 free throws to extend his foul shooting streak to 34 in a row. In addition, he handed out 15 assists. John Havlicek was high for Boston with 30 points.

Kevin Loughery, with 29 points, led Baltiore over the Knicks. Two of his 11 free throws helped pull the Bullets out of danger after the Knicks had rallied to within 109-105. Walt Bellamy, with 32 points and 22 rebounds, paced the Knicks.

Billy Cunningham, with 31 points, and Hal Greer, with 29, led the second half attack for Philadelphia after the 76ers trailed at halftime 69-68. It was the 66th vicory against only 12 defeats for the Eastern Division champs. Gail Goodrich's 26 points was high for the Lakers.

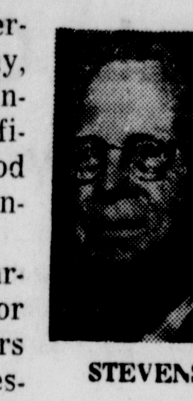
Inclement Weather Cancels Out Great Sturgeon Challenge Derby



STEVENS

The great Sturgeon Challenge Derby scheduled to take place Sunday, was postponed because of very inclement weather. George Mura, official publicity man for the Reel Rod Benders sports club, made the announcement.

Captain Eugene Walker, Fire Marshall of South County, had the honor of installing the new panel of officers for the Reel Rod Benders at their festive installation dinner, hence congratulations are due to the new president, Bob Reinkie, vice president Willy Naruo, secretary Bob Connor and treasurer Mat Southworth. May they reign in spite of rain and wind.

SPEAKING OF WIND and rain, the past weekend was almost a complete washout for the salmon trollers outside the G. G. Then Monday happened, and happy days were back again. Limits and near limits were the order of the day on Monday. Betty Urbais of the Sausalito Boat and Tackle called me to report the Blue Horizon with only five rods working, came back to port with limits at about 8:45 a.m. Not lunker sized salmon but hard fighting mediums.

Betty Urbais also mentioned the Blue Horizon braving the wild waters to do a stint of rockfish angling. Twelve rods working and limits all around of assorted rockfish and eight lings to 27 pounds.

The most productive area on Monday for the salmon trollers was Duxbury Reef and adjacent waters.

THE SCUTTLEBUTT has it that a flock of avid anglers will begin fishing for five-dollar bills in Lake Nacimiento. Seems a generous Department of Fish and Game has tagged or will tag 300 black crappies, each carrying a tag which, when turned over to the F&G, will win a reward of five bucks.

Better make a mental date right now to try for a tagged black crappie in Lake Nacimiento. Historically, the black crappie catches rank high during the months of March, April and May, but drops after that as the fish retreat to the deeper water, and shun the shoreline areas.

BY THE WAY — you are reminded again that angling in Santa Clara County for trout won't be open until April 29. (Coyote Reservoir will remain closed to all fishing until April 29, but you may fish for other species of fish in Uvas, Chesbro and Lexington reservoirs, so long as you release any trout you may hook until the opening of trout season.)

HAVE YOU and other members of your club made arrangements to attend the 10th Biennial Wilderness Conference at the Hilton Hotel in San Francisco on April 7, 8, and 9? If you are really interested in the present and future of our wilderness lands, especially as pertains to the fish and wildlife, you most certainly should attend one or all sessions. Why not write for registration while it's fresh in your mind. Send your request to the Sierra Club, 1050 Mills Tower, San Francisco.

Here's hoping that you were not one of the 54 eager anglers who opened your year of angling sans a legal license.

TWO SAN RAFAEL sportsmen, D. K. Sherwood and George Dreyer, recently returned from a week's vacation at Mazatlan, Mexico where they experienced plenty of deep sea fishing thrills.

Dreyer, a realtor, said he and his pal caught four blue marlin weighing between 140 and 200 pounds and measuring up to eight feet in length.

"It was my first time for marlin," Dreyer said, "and it was quite a thrill. It takes about 45 minutes to land one of those whoppers."

Susan Van Meter Is Learning Fast; Bowls 245 Game And 589 Series

Susan Van Meter, a housewife from San Rafael, has been bowling for only three years but she continued to show that she's a fast learner last week as she spun out a 245-211-589 series in the Girls A Go Go league to top the ladies at Country Club Bowl.

The 245 was also high game for the distaff bowlers.

Dan Jeung, manager of Diablo Bowling Supply in San Rafael, chopped out a 247-231-636 to take high series honors for the men, in the Belles and Beaus League while Fred Ness was a close second with a 237-235-630 in the 840 Scratch League.

Frank Helbing had the high game with a 267 in the Civic Center League followed by Jeung's 247.

Baltimore Rookie Leads Punters

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie David Lee of Baltimore, who averaged 45.6 yards for 49 kicks, was confirmed as the National Football League's 1967 punting champion in official league statistics released yesterday.

Billy Kilgore of Los Angeles was second with a 42.8 average for 71 kicks.

Bobby Walden of Minnesota had the longest punt, 70 yards, against Chicago at Minnesota on Oct. 2, while Bobby Joe Green of Chicago had the most punts, 80.

Gary Collins of Cleveland, the 1965 leader, averaged 39 yards on 57 punts.

Nicklaus Might Build His Own Golf Course

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus became a millionaire by playing golf, but the 27-year-old Ohio belter says he thinks there are "lots of things more important in life than beating a golf ball around a course."

The three-time Masters champion — and only golfer to win consecutive titles — isn't ready to halt his bid to become the game's undisputed top player, however.

"As long as I enjoy it and can compete successfully, I'll play," the blond distance-hitter said before starting his challenge in the $100,000 Jacksonville Open today.

"But there are a lot of things I want to do, particularly building golf courses," he said. "I can't make as much money doing that as I can playing, but that is one way I can put a little bit back of the things I have gotten from golf."

Nicklaus won the Bing Crosby Tournament in January for his last triumph, but his failure to claim championships in the spring swing doesn't worry him.

"Any time I play, I play to win," Nicklaus said, "but you can hit your peak only five or six times a year, and I don't want to burn myself out this spring before all the big tournaments come up."

Physical Education Book Written By Charles Nagel

Charles Nagel, Ph.D., coordinator and general counsultant of health, physical education, science, safety and athletics for the Marin County Superintendent of Schools, is a dedicated advocate of physical education.

Nagel, 57, in good shape at 6 foot, 220 pounds, recently teamed with Fredrica Moore, special consultant in physical education, Santa Clara County Schools, to compile a book entitled "Skill Development Through Games and Rhythmic Activities," intended as a text for elementary school teachers. It was published by National Press of Palo Alto.

Already he has to his credit two previous publications, "Methods in Physical Education and Recreation for Elementary Schools," written in 1956; and "Developing Boys and Girls Skills Through Physical Activities," printed in 1958.

Nagel began his career as a teacher and coach in Montana Public Schools where he worked from 1934-1941.

In the forefront of the 308-page hardback edition, it states the goal of physical education "is to develop in children the capacity to meet the physical, social, emotional, and mental challenges of their present and future environment."

Incorporated within the text is a well-planned, detailed method of achieving that end. It is through the skills of locomotion such as dancing; the game skills, such as starting, stopping, jumping, etc.; ball skills such as throwing, catching, etc., all of which in the expert opinion of the co-authors serve to prepare children for enjoyment of effective everyday living. Among its complexities, it is also intended to make physical education a major contribution to education.

San Rafael Cager Is All-Far West

San Francisco State forward Joe Galbo, a Chicago transplant living in San Rafael for the past four years, has been named to the All-Far Western Conference basketball team for the second straight year.

The 6-4 senior has also been named to honorable mention on the all-coast team.

He led the Gators with a 19.7 scoring average this year and his total of 507 points is third best for a single season in S. F. State scoring annals. His career total of 1,223 points also places him third on the Gator lists.

He hit on 507 field goals in 430 attempts for a 48 per cent accuracy and cashed in on 92 out of 126 free throws for 73 per cent.

Thumbprints.

To the inexperienced
they all look alike.

Bourbons may look alike, too.
But the similarity stops with the first sip of Jim Beam.

The taste is distinctive.

The result of six generations of Bourbon-making know-how.

To the experienced,
Jim Beam means the world's finest Bourbon.

Warehouse Auction Presages Moving Firm's Moving Plans

Construction is under way for a new warehouse and office for Pierce-Hardin Van and Storage, Inc., at 4238 Redwood Highway, opposite Terra Linda, where Tamalpais Fences was formerly located.

The company will have an 8,000-square foot building, 27 feet high, allowing space for three tiers of palettized storage. Ralph Murphy and Sons is the general contractor.

Pierce Hardin, agent for North American Van Lines, is now located at 26 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, and hopes to move into the new building by the end of April. One of the reasons for its auction of unclaimed storage goods this Saturday is to help in clearing the warehouse.

If the weather is clear, the auction will be held at 10 a.m. and probably continue straight through the lunch hour until the goods are sold. If it rains, it is quite probable the auction will be postponed.

CHRIS CRAFT SALES OF SAN RAFAEL has closed at 25 Third Street, and owner William N. Denton has retired.

In doing so he says it is a case of "doctor, take your own medicine." Over the years (18 of them in the boat business) he has advised countless boat purchasers to take time out for relaxation. With his own 38-foot Chris Craft he'll probably voyage down to Mexican waters on an extended fishing trip and may even stay there—or return to a place he has in Nevada.

During the eight years Denton has had the San Rafael agency of Chris Craft, he reports he built up its rating among the 584 nationwide dealers from No. 432 to No. 2 in sales volume. No wonder he can retire so young.

No Chris Craft dealer has been appointed to succeed him in Marin.

STEPHEN KRAMER, who closed his Mill Valley real estate office in 1962 and opened up in New York, has established another office in Marin—this one at 1330 Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael. He is a licensed real estate broker in both states and will keep his 500 Fifth Avenue address in New York City. He and his family will settle again in Marin.

Previously in Marin he was chairman of the Mill Valley Planning Commission and for two years was executive director of the Marin County Development Foundation (now the Marin County Chamber of Commerce).

ROBERT L. SHERMAN of Novato has been appointed assistant director of life insurance sales and training for Insurance Securities, Inc. He was formerly supervisor of training for Northern California with Aetna Life Insurance Co. and has been in this field of business since 1949. He is a director of the Marin County Life Underwriters Association and serves as an educational instructor for Chartered Life Underwriters.

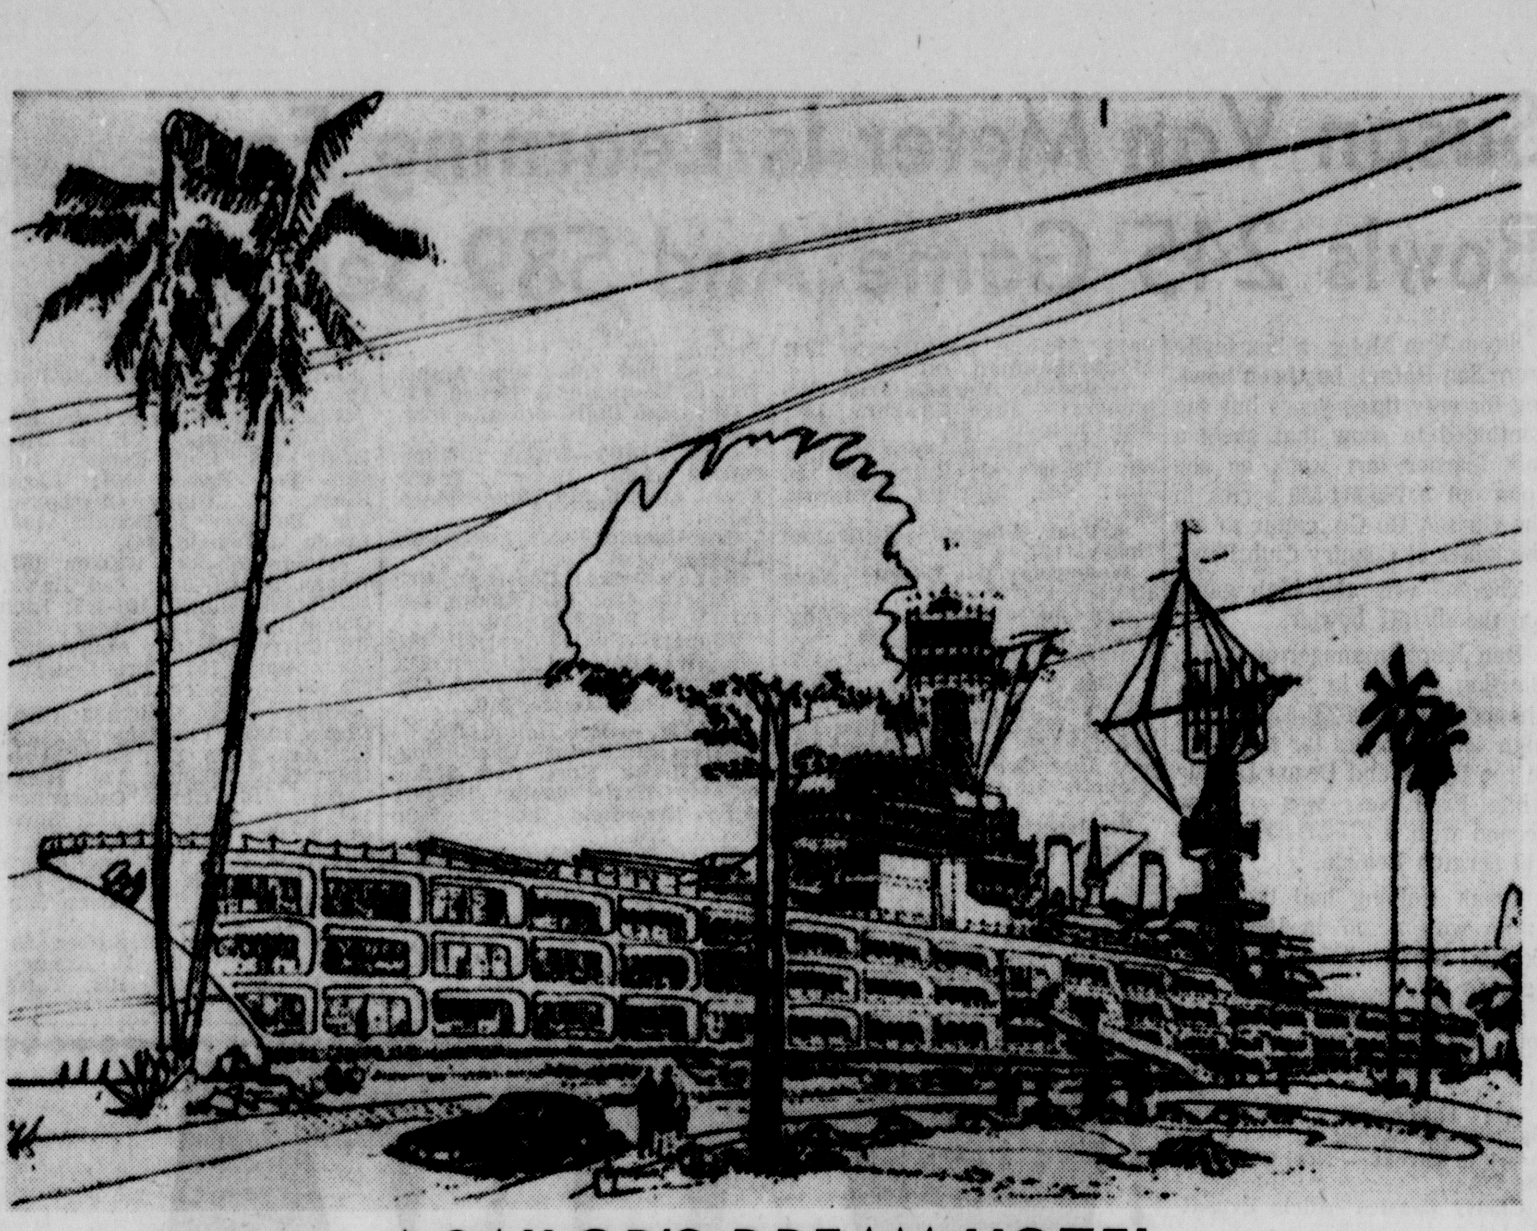
A NEW OPENING TODAY in Strawberry Town and Country Village was The Daisybug, a ladies' specialty store featuring wardrobes of dresses, knits, sweaters, skirts, pants, blouses, coats, swimsuits and accessories for misses and teens.

Decor of the shop is early American and almost all fixtures are antiques of that period. It adjoins and is under the same ownership of Little Daisy of Marin, 420 Town and Country Village.

HARBOR BOAT REPAIR is back in business in San Rafael—with the same telephone number, but a new address. Owners Larry LaBruzzi and Bernard Weis closed on Harbor Street last November to make way for the new shop of Rossi Garage and then associated themselves with Seaway Marine for a time.

The new location is 630 Point San Pedro Road at Loch Lomond, where La Bruzzi says they have "topside quarters"—an office and a berth for working, which may be expanded later. Hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays. La Bruzzi and Weis have been together more than nine years.

In 1965, timber sales, grazing permits and other fees yielded the U.S. Forest Service $149 million.



A SAILOR'S DREAM HOTEL

Navy Chief Petty Officer David Graham hopes to see this replica of the battleship California built near San Francisco's Cliff House, or ideally, Alcatraz to serve as a plush hotel, with executive suites in the gun turrets, a swimming pool on the quarterdeck and a fancy restaurant in the conning tower. It all is the result of a dream two years ago, Graham says, that he was driving down the road in search of lodging and suddenly came upon just such a hotel. (UPI Telephoto)

Stocks Close Higher In New Peak Level

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed substantially higher today, making a new peak for 1967. Trading was heavy.

The ticker tape lagged in final transactions. Blue Chips had "a real move," market technicians said.

Although Chrysler dipped on profit taking from Wednesdays' 3-point jump there was great strength elsewhere.

In late dealings, IBM was up 7, Du Pont 5, Alcoa and Anaconda 3, Montgomery Ward 2 and General Motors 1.

The market was higher from the start as it resumed yesterdays' powerful rally.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up a dozen points in late afternoon, more than enough to put it above the 1967 closing high reached Feb. 18 if the gains were held until the close.

A 4-point jump by Du Pont gave powerful support to the popular averages.

Schenley was again the volume leader but dipped fractionally as some mild profit taking followed its rise of 11¼ points Wednesday.

Chrysler, off a fraction, also underwent profit taking from tis 3-point jump of the previous session.

A big Blue Chip, Standard Oil (New Jersey) stepped into the breach with a gain exceeding a point.

Gains of a point or more were made also by Carpenter Steel, Kaiser Aluminum, General Motors, Leesona, Consolidated Cigar, Parke, Davis and Publicker Industries, all on big volume.

Alcoa rose about 3 and RCA 2. American Airlines added a couple of points in further response to its stock split proposal.

Prices made a solid advance on the American Stock Exchange.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Price-Earnings Ratios Based On A Look-Ahead

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. "How is one to reconcile comparisons such as the following? American Radiator sells for 13 times earnings and earnings are declining. Crane Co. sells for only 9 times earnings and earnings have been increasing. Would you say American Radiator is overpriced and Crane underpriced? E.R.

A. Not necessarily. The price-earnings multiples you quote are not valid for comparative purposes. Your figure for American Radiator is apparently based on earning for 12 months ended Sept. 30, which were $1.45 a share. Your multiple for Crane is related to full-year income of $4.45 a share in 1966. The market is not evaluating what happened during the past year.

Current prices are reflecting what is expected for 1967 — probably better earnings for American Radiator which was harassed by strikes last year—and little gain for Crane which reported record results. Remember also that other factors affect the P-E ratio. These include the yields at which these cyclical stocks sell and merger possibilities in the case of American Radiator.

Q. "My wife and I own our home. Our portfolio includes Union Oil, Firestone and Eastman Kodak. We have $15,000 in savings accounts. The past year has caused us to think about selling all our stocks and putting the money in the savings bank. Is this foolish?" R.N.

A. If you will allow me to say so, any such action would seem to me to be most unwise. Savings accounts are highly desirable as the very backlog of your investment position, but to put all your funds in that medium is, in a senes, gambling that inflation has ended in this country. Your money in savings accounts is fixed as to principal, which will neither increase nor decrease as time goes on. Over a period of years your stocks can lift their earnings, dividends and price to offset devaluation of the dollar, which I do not believe will ever be permanently halted.

$1 Million Day For Customs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Customs District had its first $1 million day in history yesterday, thanks to an alcoholic monetary binge.

The day's take was $1,156,864. It included a $456,705 check from Schenley Industries. Collector of Customs George K. Brokaw said today Schenley's payment was for imported liquor withdrawn from its bonded warehouse in Fresno. Two-thirds of the Schenley payment was alcohol tax. The balance was customs duty.

PG&E Increases Annual Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pacific Gas & Electric Co. is boosting its annual dividend rate by 10 cents to $1.40 a share. It is the second 10 cent increase in a year.

Directors yesterday declared a 35-cent quarterly dividend payable April 15 to shareholders of record March 24.

The dividend rate was boosted last April from $1.20 to $1.30 a share.

Bank Of England Cuts Rate Again

LONDON (AP) — The Bank of England cut the bank rate to 6 per cent today, a drop of half a per cent.

It was the second cut this year in the rate that sets the pattern for banks in the sterling bloc. On Jan. 26 the rate was cut from 7 to 6.5 per cent.

CAPITAL GAINS A PROBLEM?

SECOND FIDUCIARY EXCHANGE FUND

(A New Exchange Fund Managed by Vance, Sanders & Co., Inc.)

This Fund offers you a new opportunity to exchange one or more stocks with large, unrealized profits for a diversified, professionally managed account of quality common stocks.

You will not, in the opinion of counsel, incur a capital gains tax at the time of the exchange.

Counsel advises that deposits of securities for exchange on a tax free basis cannot be made after April 30, 1967.

You may participate if you hold acceptable securities having a market value of $25,000 or more.

This exchange offer is available only until April 29, 1967.

A descriptive Prospectus may be obtained by calling, visiting us or by writing:

Securities Management Corp.
53 Cazneau Ave., Sausalito
332-5291

Please send me, without obligation, Prospectus on Second Fiduciary Exchange Fund.

READ OUR GUARANTEE

1. Certified Tread Mileage Guarantee. Every Triple "S" Tire is guaranteed against wearout for the months or miles specified. If tread wears out in this period, return it. Triple "S" will replace it, charging only a set amount for number of miles or months used—misalignment excepted.

2. Unlimited Road Hazards Guarantee. Every Triple "S" Tire is guaranteed for the months specified against all failures from road hazards, except repairable punctures, including stone bruises, glass cuts, blowouts and sidewall scraping. If tire fails, Triple "S" will repair or replace it, charging for only the amount of service rendered based on tread remaining.

3. Full Time Guarantee of Quality. Every Triple "S" Tire is guaranteed to be free from all defects in workmanship and materials, unless otherwise specified, for the lifetime of the original tread. If the tire fails, return it and Triple "S" will replace it, charging only for service rendered, based on tread remaining.

4. Your Satisfaction Guaranteed. Satisfaction is guaranteed. If you are not satisfied with your tires, Triple "S" will replace them free of charge or refund your money in full during the first 5% of tread wear or charge you only for the use you have received after 5% of wear.

5. Price. If you buy the same product for less any time, anywhere, within 30 days of purchase—return it, we will refund the difference at once. IN CASH.

6. NATIONWIDE GUARANTEE against normal road hazards (except repairable punctures) and defects in workmanship and materials for entire life of tread. Allowance made on new tire based upon remaining original tread and "Kelly Springfield exchange price" current at the time of adjustment.

Musser Computes Votomatic Savings

Votomatic punch card system used by voters in Marin's last election saved taxpayers $55,403, according to figures presented today by Asst. County Clerk for Elections John F. Musser Jr.

Musser's figures show a net cost, after reduction of charges made on special elections consolidated with the November vote, of $60,506 for the election. If the election had been handled with the old manual system the net cost would have been $115,910, he said.

The cost per vote came to 83.9 cents with the Votomatic system and would have been $1.61 under the old system, Musser said.

Musser's figures do not include cost of the Votomatic system, however. There was $79,439 put up in this fiscal year as the first of five equal payments for the International Business Machine devices.

Musser also ran a compilation of net cost per registered voter since the 1962 fiscal year, showing an increase from 60.7 cents per voter in that year to 66.3 cents estimated for this fiscal year. He estimated that regular increases in salaries and printing costs will probably put cost at $1 per voter in fiscal 1970.

Senate Approves Consular Treaty With Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate today approved the long-pending consular treaty with Russia designed to protect American travelers and foster better East-West relations.

The pact now goes to President Johnson for his final U.S. approval.

Senate approval took on importance beyond the treaty's contents beoause it came in the midst of the Vietnam war despite domestic protests against Russian aid to North Vietnam. Mail against the agreement, much of it organized by the conservative Liberty Lobby, had been flooding in for weeks.

The Administration's victory, far from certain at the outset, was obtained after eight days of Senate debate during which six proposed restrictions to the treaty were rejected.

These included one amendment to the text itself, four reservations and one "understanding." The Administration claimed anyone of these might have provoked Soviet rejection.

Union Leader's Appeal Refused

Hearing of an appeal of Douglas A. Smith, Mailer Union Local 18 president convicted of trespassing on Marin Guide property in Tamalpais Valley, has been refused by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Smith had been granted a stay of execution of a six-month county jail term and $500 fine on Jan. 6 pending a motion for a writ to be heard before the highest court.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Superior Court found Smith guilty of trespassing Oct. 26, 1965, at 200 Shoreline Highway. Smith now must serve the term and pay the fine, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Anthony.

Employment Holds Steady In February

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate remained at 3.7 per cent last month and total employment held virtually steady despite a slight decline in manufacuring work, the Labor Department reported today.

Job gains in construction, state and local governments and service employment helped offset declines in automobile, clothing, machinery and metal manufacturing industries, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

Production cutbacks reduced the average factory work week 41 hours to 40.3 hours for the biggest drop since 1960.

Arthur M. Ross, commissioner of labor statistics, said bad weather was probably partly to blame for the reduction in working time.

The average hourly pay of factory workers rose 1 cent to a record high of $2.78 per hour in February, but the decline in the work week brought weekly earnings down $1.54 to $111.48.

Red Units Swarm Out Of Cambodia To Fight

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops swarmed out of Cambodia today and attacked a company of U. S. infantrymen in a battle that grew in scope and intensity during the day. American reinforcements were rushed to the scene by helicopter.

A U. S. military spokesman said the Communist troops were part of an elite North Vietnamese division that had infiltrated into the Cambodian border region 220 miles northeast of Saigon. He also disclosed a fourth North Vietnamese division had moved into the Demilitarized Zone(DMZ) border between North and South Vietnam.

The air war increased in intensity, and Royal Australian Air Force planes, in action for the first time, unveiled a fiery new technique. They dropped barrels of gasoline into Viet Cong positions and then set them on fire with tracer bullets from helicopters.

B-52 strategic bombers struck near the former imperial capital of Hue in three successive pre-dawn raids aimed at countering the North Vietnamese buildup near the northern frontier. It is in this region U. S. Marines seek to prevent a Communist onslaught by four full North Vietnamese divisions.

A spokesman reported three U. S. planes and a helicopter were shot down, two over North Vietnam and one in the south.

Communists reeling under a series of U.S. ground sweeps retaliated with three more mortar attacks on U.S. and South Vietnamese positions in widely scattered areas —the ninth, tenth and eleventh such attacks in the past few days. Thirty-eight Americans and many South Vietnamese were wounded.

The Communists mortared and overran a Vietnamese government rural development team of between 40 and 50 men and bombarded the town of Chuong Thien, wrecking the city hall that is the symbol of Saigon rule there. The city, 100 miles southwest of Saigon, has a population of 6,000 persons. Light casualties were reported among civilians.

In Saigon, military spokesmen said 1,075 Americans were killed or wounded or missing in combat last week, a drop from a record 1,617 the previous week. The casualties included 175 killed, 892 wouuded and eight men listed as missing. Spokesmen said the Communists suffered 1,407 men slain the same week, during which 226 South Vietnamese soldiers and 103 civilians perished.

They said that last week U.S. servicemen in Vietnam reached a new high of 423,000, an increase of 5,000 over the previous week.

The spokesmen also reported a record 1,918 guerrillas turned themselves into government forces.

Auto Stero Stolen

A $128 auto stereo and $78 worth of tapes were taken from a truck belonging to Merlin J. Williams of 27 Rutherford Avenue, San Anselmo, as the truck was parked behind his house Wednesday night, according to San Anselmo police.

Pro-Mao Army Takes Over Canton Party, Factories

HONG KONG (AP) — Canton Radio said today the Red Chinese army has taken over the Communist party apparatus and most major factories in the south China metropolis, but other reports said stubborn resistance to Mao Tse-tung's purge is continuing there.

Another broadcast said troops loyal to Mao took over factories and businesses in an effort to restore production and were "enthusiastically welcomed" by the workers. But other reports from Canton, which could not be confirmed, said there had been many fights between workers and Maoists and thousands of workers were staying away from their jobs.

Canton, 90 miles northwest of Hong Kong, the capital of Kwangtung Province and south China's largest city, has long been a center of opposition to Mao's "great proletarian cultural revolution," his name for the purge begun last summer.

Moscow Radio, in a Japanese-language broadcast monitored in Tokyo, said yesterday that large numbers of troops were being moved from north China into the south. The broadcast identified Kwangtung and Kweichow Provinces as the key trouble spots.

Hong Kong newspapers reported earlier that thousands of Cantonese workers armed with clubs and iron bars had clashed with pro-Mao soldiers who were trying to force them back to their jobs last Saturday.

There were no estimate of casualties from that incident, but another report Monday said thousands of persons had been killed or wounded in rural Kwangtung areas when troops opened fire on rebellious peasants and workers.

Reports of arrests of anti-Maoists in Kwangtung in the last 10 days have ranged from 1,000 to 100,000 persons, and Chen Yu, governor of the province, is said to have been arrested in Peking.

State Booms, Says Chamber

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California is booming. Just ask the State Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber computed yesterday that in the past 15 years California's personal income tripled — compared to a mere doubling in New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania—while its population and employment soared at greater rates than "unfortunates" such as Texas and New Jersey.

By 1980, the Chamber estimates, California will approach 30 million residents.

Senate Kills Open Door Meeting Plan

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A Senate committee has killed legislation to extend the state's public meeting "open door" policy.

The bills, backed by the California Newspaper Publishers Association, would have required meetings to be open any time two or more members were present from a committee or subcommittee.

Similar legislation passed the Assembly and was sent to the Senate. The Senate's own bills were killed by the Governmental efficiency Committee, which said the legislature had been setting too many ground rules for local governmental bodies.

Driver Wins His State License Case

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Hollywood man will keep his driver's license despite a new state law requiring motorists who refuse a sobriety test to give up their licenses for six months.

The six-month suspension of the license of Sidney B. Wolfe, 58, was overturned yesterday in Superior Court. Judge Ralph H. Nutter ruled that Wolfe had never been formally arrested on a drunken driving charge.

The State Department of Motor Vehicles suspended Wolfe's license after a minor traffic accident last Dec. 1.

Police, meantime, arrested Wolfe on a misdemeanor charge involving the accident, also noting he had refused to take the required chemical sobriety test.

On Jan. 17 the misdemeanor charge against Wolfe was dismissed in Municipal Court because the arresting officers had not witnessed the accident. Wolfe then appealed the loss of his driver's license on the ground he had never been lawfully charged with drunken driving.

Grease Boils Over, Causes $2,000 Fire

Grease being heated for French fried potatoes boiled over and started a $2,000 fire at the home of Margaret Rossbach, 18 Chickasaw Court, Corte Madera, yesterday at 5:05 p.m.

The fire was limited to the stove and kitchen cupboards, but smoke caused damage throughout the house, according to the Corte Madera Fire Department.

Terra Linda Rec Pool Will Open On May 13

Directors of the Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District last night set May 13 as opening day for the district pool. The board ruled that season passes for residents will be $35 and for non-residents $100, the same as last year, and that non-residents can again make payment in three installments, the last due June 15.

Board chairman Norman Gurin said the pool will be open only on weekends until the end of the school year, after which it will be open daily.

Directors learned that the district's basketball team will go to Twentynine Palms March 31 to compete in area recreation district playoffs.

They authorized spending $600 to clear weeds in district parkways, and appointed LeRoy Meeker to serve as district controller, replacing Gordon Young, who resigned.

A catastrophic earthquake strikes the earth about once a year, says the U.S. Geological Survey.

Crippled Children Funds To Reagan

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A once-controversial bill that split an Assembly committee's ranks between Republicans and Democrats has now cleared both the Assembly and Senate by unanimous votes.

The bill to provide California's crippled children $574,000 in emergency funds this fiscal year passed the Senate by a 38 - 0 vote yesterday after earlier Assembly approval.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who sought $274,000 originally and then reached agreement with Democrats for $300,000 more, is expected to sign the bill.

Pacifists Determined To Sail On To Hanoi

HONG KONG (UPI)—The American yacht Phoenix, loaded with medical supplies for North Vietnam, arrived in Hong Kong today on its last stop before Haiphong.

A U.S. consular spokesman said officials were "attempting to discourage" pacifist Earle Reynolds, 56, and his American crew from running the $10,000 worth of supplies to the Communists.

A spokesman for the group told a news conference they would sail for Haiphong March 21 "regardless of any obstacles thrown in our way or any persuasion to call off the trip."

The group is sailing in a 50-foot yacht captained by Earle Reynolds, an American now living in Hiroshima. Sailing with the group are Philip Drath, 53, of San Rafael; Horace Dhampney, 61, Yellow Springs, Ohio; Ivan Massar, 47, Concord, Mass., and Robert Eton, 23, Philadelphia.

Annexation Plan Halted

Sea Haven residents last night generally agreed to hold off seeking annexation to the Inverness Public Utilities District for fire protection, Shirley L. Morgan reported today.

Morgan, heading a committee studying the proposal, said instead that Sea Haven residents will ask the county to keep its one-man fire truck in Inverness and hire a second relief driver, at least as a temporary solution.

Morgan reported residents pay 18 cents per $100 assessed valuation of county tax for structural fire protection. The tax rate of the Inverness Public Utilities District is now 59 cents per $100 valuation.

Pacifist Rally Set

The Students Against War of College of Marin are planning a candlelight march to the courthouse the evening of April 8. They have written county supervisors requesting permission for use of the courthouse steps and lawn, where the marchers will listen to speeches against war and aggression.

Seminarian Publishes New Book On Japanese Church

A new book by Dr. Robert Lee, professor of social ethics at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, has been simultaneously published in London, New York and Tokyo.

"Stranger in the Land: A Study of the Church in Japan," was one of 12 studies commissioned by the World Council of Churches for educational purposes. It is Lee's eighth published work and explores the organization of congregations in Japan and their impact on the community.

One of Lee's previous books, "Religion and Leisure in America," is now in its third printing and was selected as the "Religious Book-of-the-Month for Adult Parish Study."

Cyclist Injured

Thomas Archer, 22, a fireman aboard the carrier Coral Sea, was treated at Marin General Hospital for scrapes, bruises and an ankle injury suffered at 2:20 a.m. Tuesday when his motorcycle went off a curve of Sir Francisco Drake Boulevard in Forest Knolls.

TV Set Stolen

Richard Chambe Box, 55 Seafirth Road, reported Tuesday to Tiburon sheriff's deputies that a television set valued at $115 was stolen from his home while the family was away for only 25 minutes from 10:30 to 10:55 a.m. yesterday.

Guild Sues On Supervisors' Secret Lunch

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Is it possible for a governmental body to meet behind closed doors — and not be in violation of the secret closed door meetings forbidden under the Ralph M. Brown Act?

This is the question before Sacramento Superior Court Judge B. Abbott Goldberg, who has given the parties until April 1 to submit written briefs and answers.

The case was brought to court by the Sacramento Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, which seeks an injunction forbidding further closed door meetings of the type it contends was held Feb. 8 by Sacramento County supervisors.

At a hearing last Friday, supervisors admitted holding a Feb. 8 luncheon meeting at the Elks Club, with all five county supervisors and leaders of the Sacramento Central Labor Council on hand.

But the supervisors' counsel, John B. Heinrich, argued that the closed meeting dealt only with legal actions between supervisors and striking social workers and, as such, didn't violate the Brown Act.

The Guild, a labor union representing several hundred employes of the Capital's two daily newspapers, countered that the discussion involved public business and also went beyond consideration of just legal actons.

Three news reporters said they were barred from the meeting. The Guild said that supervisors planned further such closed meetings.

After briefs are submitted, Judge Goldberg could either set a court date for a hearing or decide on the basis of submitted evidence and argument.

The tiger shark is named because of its hooked teeth rather than its tiger-like stripes, says the Miami Seaquarium.

Two Easter Egg Hunts Planned In San Rafael

Two Easter egg hunts have been scheduled by the San Rafael Park and Recreation Department next week.

Children from three to five in the department's Tiny Tot program for pre-school children will have an Easter egg hunt at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Albert Park.

An "open" egg hunt, for children through 12 years old, will be held at 9 a.m. on March 25, also at Albert Park, co-sponsored by the park department and the San Rafael Lions Club.

The March 25 hunt will be divided into three sections for children of different ages. A dozen large Easter baskets will be given as prizes to children finding special gold or silver eggs.

'No-Look' Evolving As Most Strategic Fashion Maneuver

We are now in the midst of a revolution in the world of women's fashions with the "no-look" evolving as a most influential strategic maneuver. Designers have run the gamut with the "no-neck look" the "no-hip look," the "no-waist look" and the "no-bust look" to name but a few. However, according to a famous British designer the most startling "no-look" of all is on its way, the "no-skirt look."

HE PREDICTS that in another 10 years skirts for women will disappear completely. He also has entertained the possibility that instead men would adopt the use of skirts. A real shocker! Well, consider the Greek soldiers and the Scots in their kilts and the probability is not that impossible. What do the men have to say about all this . . . nobody has asked them.

THIS APPAREL turn-about is forecast only for the Western World, which according to this designer, at present shows a strong front in the United States. On a recent visit to our shores, he observed that women here are indulging the figure more and emphasis has been given to the "leggy look."

However, whether we like it or not the Mod look has touched us all.

A Glimpse Into The Fabric Future—

NEW YORK (UPI) —When industrial designer Raymond Loewy looks to the future in fabrics and fashions, many of the advances of the past pale by comparison.

We may one day "harvest" fur or wool from laboratory-produced sheets of living skin. Clothes would act as their own air-conditioners. An evening gown would be demure, or daring, depending on the lights. And, if a person's eyes lighted up, as the saying goes, a gadget could measure their luminosity.

Loewy stated that some of his projections are admittedly speculation while others actually are now possible.

"LOOK AT THE paper phenomenon . . . one of the most amusing and inventive fancies," said Loewy. But "when the last paper party dress has hit the incinerator for the jet set, I think of the potential after-effect." He pointed out that inexpensive apparel could be used by millions of people all over the world who cannot even afford the basic items of clothing.

"Cheap paper coverage (no pun intended) might solve this problem. For I note . . . that as sophisticated people like to go increasingly naked, primitive people like to get more covered."

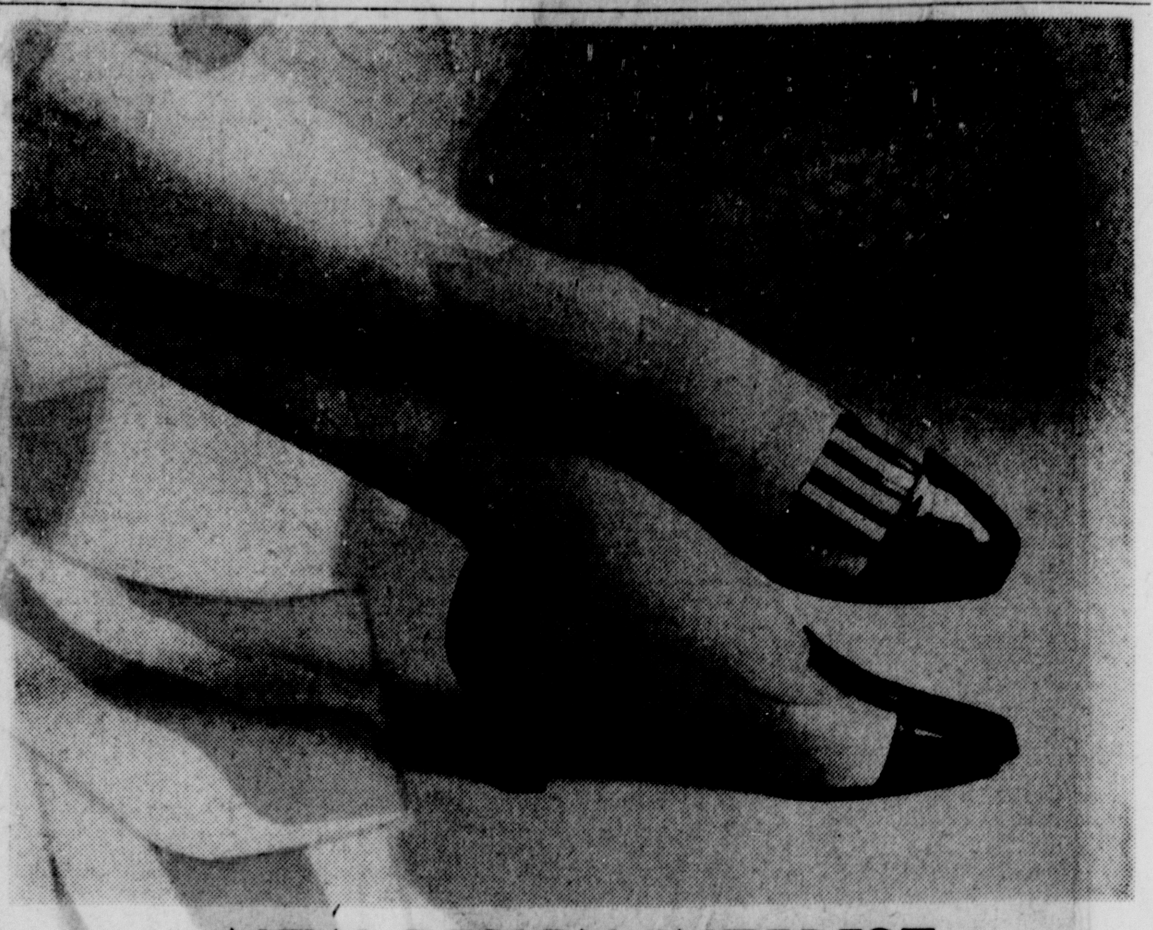
Even now, Loewy says, there are paper yarns, ready for weaving or knitting. As for other man-made fabrics, Loewy sees "thin sheets chemically bonded and welded into clothing," but with the "breathing" characteristics of wovens through microscopic perforations.

Theoretically, he added, two plastic panels of different characteristics could "expand or contract according to external temperature and thereby regulate the air flow . . . get warmer in winter, cooler in summer."

FABRICS MIGHT remain free of bacteria, and be impregnated with fragrances or deodorants. Already sunglasses with photosensitive lens darken in strong light. Carry the idea farther, and beachwear would change in degree of opacity to protect sensitive skin.

Fabrics in which a design is woven of photosensitive yarns could create decorative effects varying according to lighting conditions—"a sheer evening gown . . . decently opaque on the illuminated dance floor . . . revealing as the lights are dimmed."

Loewy also said consumer reaction to some products can now be calculated with an electronics system of measuring emotion through the pupils, calculating the degree to which a person's eyes light up.



NEW DESIGN INTEREST

Deft combinations of color and texture give new design interest to young-shaped spring pumps. QualiCraft accents blond calfskin with touches of black patent, emphasing the softly squared toe and the broadened heel. Stripes of patent make a gay awning of the up-front tongue. It's from QualiCraft's fresh new spring crop at Leed's, Northgate Fashion Mall.

Designers Join The Safari

LONDON (UPI) —In every fashion capital, the influence of Africa shows strongly. Dior's Paris designer Marc Bohan, for instance, came out for the jungle look for spring. New York's manufacturers showed jungle prints running riot. The accessories designers have joined the safari.

Now, usually staid London has been treated to the African look. But then, London already had produced the Mod, so maybe it was time for another startler.

The nation of Uganda produced a fashion show here recently, and the host was Uganda's High Commissioner Gerald Nsubuga. He was of fashion interest himself —in ankle length white African robes topped by a Western navy suit jacket with a white and blue painted walking stick in his hand.

Models paraded beach clothes, dresses and leisure wear to the throb of African music.

THE SHOW was said to contain the world's first bark cloth suit and a material named kikoi never seen in the West before.

The bark, pulped just as paper is made from wood, made a rust-colored sleeveless tabard top and straight skirt that ended about three inches above the knee.

Kikoi is a coarse woven fabric which can be made into almost endless mutations of colors. A top and matching ankle-length skirt were checked black and white, then overchecked with yellow, green and red.

Most of the dresses were simple shifts, hemmed just above the knee or right down at ankle length with slits up the sides. Their eye-catching quality depended entirely on the patterns —all colors based on shells, on the African cockerel, on traditional geometric shapes, on Oriental embroidery.

Trouser suits, playsuits and beachwear came in the same prints. Vivid red and orange ponchos topped some styles.

EASTERN INFLUENCES came into the intricate silver and gold embroidery of some of the evening styles, again made as simple shifts or two-pieces which showed an inch or two of bare midriff between the tasseled top and long skirt. From Arabia came the idea of an evening djellaba, a long, straight gown, striped white and gold with a fringed hem and a raised collar embroidered with silver and gold sequins.

Wholesale prices started at four pounds ($11.20) and went up to 50 pounds ($140), the latter for a straight shift wedding dress made in white and Bengal silk silver embroidered with a matching train falling from a pillbox hat.

THIS VENTURE by the Uganda government's National Trading Corporation to sell in Britain and later aim for other countries such as the United States and France is the brainchild of the designer of the clothes, Mrs. Phillips Todd.

She is the only European face in the Kampala workrooms where the clothes are made and she said she would quit eventually. Her husband, professor of fine arts at Makerere University in Uganda, is training Uganda designers to take over.

Resort Dress-Up Evenings Call For Colorful Formals

Dress-up evenings at Southern resorts call for colorful formal-wear. Take your choice of either traditional or forward fashion dinner jackets in silks, silk-like, linen-type and plain fabrics in pale tones or deep rich shades. There are brand new striped dinner jackets in white, off-white and colors. Newest in resort formal-wear are tropical dinner suits in a sand shade with trousers to match the jacket.

LIGHTWEIGHT shetlands, bends of silk and worsted, pure silk, polyester-worsted blends, hopsacks, cottons and cotton blends — all available in plain shades and bright bold patterns — make up the new sport coat designs. And, of course, blazers in both single- and double-breasted styles in a host of colors are a must in every Southern vacation wardrobe. White and bold plaid, tattersall or striped slacks go great with the blazers.

ALREADY reaching great heights of popularity, the military look is expected to grow even stronger in the next season or so. The doughboy jacket and pea coat have caught hold, and the Army "camel" and Air Force "blue" are the current leading outerwear shades. Along with the aforementioned, Cavalry twills in slacks and clothing fit into the theme — along with head coverings and desert boots associated with the military. Just why this theme should have such great appeal when many young people are avincing their opposition to war and the draft is a puzzlement to many adults. But it's here and growing!

COLOR AND pattern are making deep inroads in the business and dress shirt fields and the impact on white shirts — at one time almost a basic part of the average man's uniform — has been felt. . . . Wide track stripes on pastel grounds are very big in dress shirts, and will continue to hold their popularity against up-and-coming tattersalls and window-pane on white and colored grounds. . . . Incidentally, formal shirts have also gone colorful — with some stores showing pinks, yellows, greens, etc. to complement the colorful new formal clothing.

RANDOM NOTES . . . don't wear a hat squarely on your head. Tilt it slightly to one side or another . . . your topcoat or raincoat should just reach the knee or slightly above. Slim men shouldn't wear "stove-pipe" trousers which emphasize the wearer's slimness.

Pantsuits Are 'In' Like Bicycling

Wearing pantsuits and bicycling seem to go together in the 60s like love and marriage or a horse and carriage. Pantsuits are having wider acceptance everywhere this spring, and predictions are that they will be "in," like bicycling, for a long time.

The Bicycle Institute says that pantsuits look neater for bike riding and lots of other town and country activities. Well-known American designers have introduced a kaleidoscope of designs and colors—the ones most frequently seen on New York's chic Sunday bicycling set are combinations of proper little coats and pipe-stem pants, some cropped coats reaching to the top of the thighs or worn knee length.

THE TURN, or return (some say gallop), to cycling for fun and fitness is a national phenomenon, proving that cycling is "in" when nearly 60 million Americans are doing it. Like the French, how can 60 million Americans be wrong? Cyclists now have a choice of pedaling on the increasing numbers of scenic bicycle paths being developed in cities, states and by the federal government. Many of them are, or will be, near large metropolitan areas.

If you've longed for an activity which can be shared by everybody, young and old alike, you'll want to dust off your old bike this spring, or get one of the new and dazzling models. There are bikes with big and little wheels, tandems, giant trikes, fold-aways, collapsibles —all lighter, easier to ride and store than ever before.

WITH THE RENAISSANCE in cycling has come a fashion revival from the Jean Harlow era. And there couldn't be a happier wedding. Indeed, designers are suggesting in their ads and store displays — that pantsuits and bikes are made for each other.

Pantsuits, however, were not an innovation of the 30's, but rather of the late 1800's when split skirts allowed women for the first time to ride forward-saddle instead of side-saddle.

Beyond the cities, bike togs continue to be what is convenient and comfortable—hip-hugging blue jeans with Western boots and ranch shirts for both boys and girls. The short-shorts, pedal pushers and bikinis have gone the way of all good (to the men anyway) fads. Even the demise of the mini-skirt is predicted this year.

Needed For Spring: Wardrobe Of Faces

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—A woman only looks as good as her face value.

So get the paint pots and brushes ready. You'll need such fixings to put your best faces forward the fashionable way come spring.

That's right. Faces. Down at the beauty works they're saying a damsel must have a wardrobe of faces.

This has nothing to do with masks, as in Halloween. It has everything to do with painting, brushing, pasting and drawing all sorts of things on your face. The idea: Change your face as you switch from one mood or activity to another.

The many sides of a face were demonstrated during beauty workshops held in conjunction with American Designer and New York Couture Business Council showings for the nation's fashion press corps.

For glitter, consider sequins pasted above the eyebrows, following the line of the eyebrow to set it off.

If that's not enough, reach for a strip of eyelid sequins and paste same on lids right above the lash. Stick on a bit of red feather on the ends of lashes to make an eye-stopping impression.

FOR SPORTY occasions, set off the eyes by painting tiger stripes in verticle lines under the lower lashes. Or maybe you only do this when you want the world to know you're in a catty mood?

Now the nose. You don't just powder it to hide the shine. What you do: Run a white line down the middle to make it appear shorter. To give the illusion of a narrower proboscis, shade each side.

Makeup appears to be coming out of the "no" era—marked by putting on layers of cosmetics to give that pale, plain look. One sign: There's a return to lipsticks with a dash of red in them.

HIGHLIGHTS OF designer collections:

—B. H. WRAGGE continued the shirt silhouette, but made news with the subtraction of sleeves, really going down to the barest essentials in the sleeveless department. This resulted in a new triangular shape in dresses. For brightness the prints were hard to beat. They included prints of sea breeze stripes, pickup sticks, jigsaws.

—CHESTER WEINBERG introduced trail blazer suits with crisp cuffed trousers, tailored wool suitdresses that subtly showed the shape, and wild silk prints suitable for wearing when painting the town day or night. Long evening clothes included those in stripes and abstract prints used with geometric precision in shocking pinks and chrome yellows or in a mirage of color. Black and white silks bared the shoulder and then swept all the way down.

—ADELE SIMPSON presented daytime dresses and suits in banner stripes, pianissimo stripes, fortissimo stripes and adagio stripes. Sample: One navy blue wool crepe dress was topped by a striped yellow, gold, navy and red jacket. Another had a ⅞-length striped coat. Silk costumes for daytime came in patterns of geometric lines and squares with swinging, rippling and pleated skirts.

—MOLLIE PARNIS had these elements of change: String belts worn low, silhouettes that curved noticeably between the bosom and hipline. The designer doesn't believe women are likely to go back to tight waistlines and long skirts in a sudden change from the ease and grace of loose clothes.

—OLEG CASSINI centered his collection on the vertical set-up. It was defined as an alliance between Oleg and an Italian fabric manufacturer who made the fabrics Oleg designed. And then Oleg took this fabric and went to town in his workroom. What came out: Palazzo pajamas with an Aztec theme, beach ensembles in the African mood, shifts, semi-fitted long dresses, caftans, cowboy suits—and all sorts of clothes to catch the fancy of the best-dressed in any country.

PEEP SHOE

Twice as smart with its twin flexible instep straps . . . this light, lilting open shoe doubles your walking pleasure, too! Beautifully balanced on a short shaped heel . . . with easy-rounded toe and very special cushioned fit. Twin View by Socialites. At Kramar's Shoes, Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Carnaby Designer To Sell Elders 'The Major Skirt'

LONDON (UPI)—The pretty model stepped out of one of Carnaby Street's avant garde boutiques, the hemline of her dress brushing against the top of her calf-length boots.

She was ready to meet the stares of shoppers and sightseers but hardly anyone even glanced at her. They were saving their looks for the miniskirts and mod-suits which made Carnaby Street world famous.

Yet Irvine Sellars, the shrewd ready-to-wear manufacturer responsible for starting many a trend in his boutiques, plans to make a third of his line for girls in this "new" long length—the "major skirt," if you want a name.

"We're making them because we feel there is a demand," Sellers said. "We don't feel the miniskirt is finished—not at all—it's something long young girls can wear that older women can't or won't so it'll be around for quite a while, but there's also a call for something different. It's probably a rebellion against the rebelious."

His chief designer, Liz Cloves, 25, agrees.

"I think some girls are just sick of looking so extrovert," she said, "though I think it will be another year before it really catches on."

Her first designs in the new length—either inches below the average miniskirt in the Seliars line or two to three inches below the knee—are already on sale. Like Yves St. Laurent's "Zhivago" coats of last season in Paris, look somewhat Russian.

"Most of the high-fashion girls—the sort who usually wear very miniskirts and dress very well—are wearing the new length for late day," she said.

Enamel Jewelry

Enamel used to be for kitchens. Now it's for jewelry, with its bright surfaces used for earrings, bracelets, pins and pendants. They come in bold colors, pastels and white.

LATEST SPRING ENSEMBLE

A lovely new creation by Julie Miller of California is this costume ensemble . . . sleeveless skimmer dress in bitter green with a matching three-color floral pattern, three-quarter sleeve coachman style coat. Belt in back, and coat is lined with the same material as dress. Shown by the new co-owners of Mister C, Virginia and Victor Nuti, at the Northgate Fashion Mall.

LOOK, MA

Sleeveless Coats Will Become Classics

NEW YORK (UPI)—Look Ma, no sleeves.

If you thought coats were to keep you warm, wait until you shop for spring. Dozens of designers show sleeveless coats, which apparently are destined like sleeveless dresses to become classics in feminine wardrobes. Usually the sleeveless coats are worn over coordinated dresses which have sleeves. Some ensembles, though, bare the whole arm.

Pauline Trigere is one designer plunking for the sleeveless coat. One of her outfits has a coat flared from the shoulders, shown over a print dress, also sleeveless. Lots of Miss Trigere's A-line coats came with some sleeve, ending above the elbow. One lime colored, loosely woven wool coat had short, bell-shaped sleeves lined with a gray-yellow print from which the dress also was made.

Another favorite coat sleeve length is the bracelet, coming back after several seasons of the down-to-the-wrist lengths.

In coats, look also for often big, often military looking collars, small rolled collars, mandarin standups, and scarf treatments. Many coats come belted—the belts taking off in two directions, as high half bands at the back, or down around the hipbones, loose and looped through tabs.

In the more traditional suit categories, jackets run the gamut in length. There are long line ones, often fitted toward the body, but never tightly. These fingertip length numbers show over saucy, short and flared skirts.

Other jackets include the boleros, waist-length feminine versions of the famous Eisenhower jacket, still others tunic-length bordering on coats.

Jackets come with single-breasted or double breasted closings, and catching on is the no-button look with either zippers or inside snaps. Look for many hip-riding skirts under long jackets, young and flip, but calling for good bones to carry them.

Add on the shorts suits, with most manufacturers offering both above-knee shorts or skirts to go with the jackets.

In daytime lengths for suits and dresses, above the knee is the rule, although "in America, the miniskirt is not an across-the-board command," as a summary of trends from the Designers' Group puts it.

"Daring prophecies of fitted clothes with belted waistlines have now become a definite statement in important collections," the summary adds. And such leaders as Pauline Trigere and Norman Norell definitely belt the waistline.

Watch for the influences of Africa, the Near, Middle and Far East in shapes, textures, colors and patterns for spring. One is the North African burnoose (a loose, unseamed and sometimes hooded cloak), the caftan (a narrow, high-shaped coat with open side), and the djellaba, (a high-bosomed, flaring tunic). For evening, harem and Turkish-type pants show beneath shaped tunics, dresses and coats are veiled, and the classic Grecian draperies abound.

Short, Short, Short Word From Coif To The Culotte

Short, short, short is the word for spring! From coif to culotte the cue is crop. Every woman will agree, skirts (mini or short) are as much a snare as a lure. Eye-catcher or not, there is nothing quite so unattractive as a woman with too much of her leg (or any of her underwear!) showing.

According to Edie Raymond Locke, fashion editor, one solution to the too-much-leg problem are tights and panty legs — either sheer or opaque. They should be in color harmony with either shoe or skirt to provide continuity. "Too many colors create a chopped up effect," Mrs. Locke warned. "Tights that match shoes or skirts help make the 'total' look."

THE '67 SKIRT shapes are designed for short-stop hemlines. They're fuller and more fluid-pleated, flared, flipped. Or they're culottes — the newest/nowest look for spring. Mrs. Locke adds, "With all short skirts, regardless of shape, wear chunky low-heeled shoes. Besides being more comfortable, low heels keep the proportion between body and legs balanced."

"THE CLIP" — the hair for '67 has arrived! It is the in look, the companion beauty for mini or flip. The beauty go-ahead that knocks the stops right out from under tumbling tresses, are big eyes and good bones. There is no reason to fear a loss of the swinging, romantic image since a hair-cut no longer means a total commitment or a piggy-bank bust.

Wigs, falls and wiglets are for everyone. Dynel which used to shine as bright as a diamond is toned down to the lovely lustre of a pearl. Colors can be blended so well that this man-made fiber is a human-hair duplicate.

The 'Trouser-Suit' Will Stay Forever

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Come summer, girls are going to look like what boys used to look like.

The avant garde dollies are giving Londoners their first view of their his-clothes.

The girls who swung along King's Road in miniskirts a month ago now are ankling past in pants.

Says Tailor and Cutter, the mouthpiece of Saville Row:

"The trouser suit is here to stay forever.

"There will probably be an increase in the similarity of men's and women's clothes during the next few years — as women become more and more recognized and accepted in equality terms."

"The tailor who can render fashionable trouser suit stylings for an age group of, say, 30-40 years of age—which wishes to be up-to-date in projection, yet does not wish to be submitted to some of the wilder styles of the teen-age boutique ranges—has a great deal of business waiting for him."

The innovator appears to have been young Yves St. Laurent in Paris.

Commenting on the first crop of long pants for girls — worn with vests, broad ties with floral designs and regimental stripes, even Edwardian gold chains suspended across flat female tummies, and felt hats with turned-down brims — London fashion writer Judy Innes said:

"If you belong to the dwindling band of those who believe that life is more fun when girls are girls and boys are boys, you'd better brace yourself for a pretty grim bit of news."

In Belgravia's smartest drawing rooms, you can see ladies in tuxedos with bell-bottom trousers with cuffs. . . cummerbunds in black silk. . . frilly shirts as worn lately by men. . . cuff links of metal and black string ties. . . gangster-style belted overcoats, wide-brimmed black hats cocked over pairs of pretty, plucked eyebrows.

Weskit Suit Brings Ahs From Paris

All the oo-ahs which have been heard from Paris about the weskit suit really started last year when Marie McCarthy designed the suit with a hacking jacket and weskit to contrast in wool at Larry Aldrich.

The newest version is an improvement on the first one. It's in lightweight fabric for early summer or those cool, cloudy days. The hacking jacket has a suggestion of fit at the waistline, with riding habit cut that takes it longer at the hips. The weskit is a true vest—cut in contrasting fabric, and makes the whole outfit as dashing as a London toff's.

Hosiery Longer As Skirts Hike

As skirts get shorter, stockings must get longer. One hosiery maker has introduced 'hip-lets,' which are hip-high, interchangeable stockings that hook with an adjustable elastic band. Worn with panty girdle or with panties alone, the pair gives a smooth line from toes to hips, says the manufacturer. They're made of stretch yarn and come in two shades , a golden beige and a rich suntan.

Gernreich Sees New Silhouette

Fashion "attitude" is important, says designer Rudi Gernreich. "Since there has been no major silhouette change in so many years," says the California-based stylist, "detail becomes most essential in dress. The attitude of the woman becomes just as important as the designer." So, girls, it's how you feel about clothes as well as how you wear them.

Chalk Striped Suits Returning

Perhaps it is the influence of the chalk-striped suits of the 30's that is coming back to favor, but winter dinner jackets soon may get away from the black or navy tradition. Gentlemen's Quarterly reports prominent manufacturers are running up pin stripes. One is navy silk, double-breasted, shawl-collared, with a bold white stripe. Another is a peak-lapel, single-breasted jacket in dark gray mohair, lightly gray pin-striped.

Night Clothes Take To Morning

Don't be surprised this summer some bright morning if you spy a woman in night-clothes plunging into a backyard pool It's a whole new bit of fashion fun thought up by Clarence A. Ross, of Stretchnit. The designer thinks today's woman should have clothes with more than one function. In the fall, he brought out funny underwear —night clothes that fitted well into the apres-ski and discotheque picture. His new group of patterned fabrics in wild color combos double as underwear and swimwear.

Shiny Footwear

It's the shiny look for footwear for spring and summer. Patents come in just about every color as well as the standard black. One combination is of yellow and orange. Sometimes three colors are used in one pair of shoes.

SMOOTH GOING

To traditional moccasin styling, Florsheim adds a loop strap and a row of vamp stitching, creating a genuine moccasin fashion that will go smoothly and comfortably to important dress suit occasions. At Florsheim Shoe Shop, Northgate Fashion Mall.

Zingy Colors, Racy Prints Add Speed To Jet-Set Styles

Speed is the keynote for spring fashions. Prints are racier, colors are zingy and fabrics are designed for jet-set sophisticates. An added joy: Colors are faster, apparel care is quicker and easier, thanks to textile improvements and washing machine advances, according to experts.

NATURALLY, the word that prints are bolder and gayer while colors are more varied and vibrant will appeal to style-conscious homemakers. Once upon a time it could have raised practical questions. How will the riot of colors wash? How will the blends wear? — she might have asked. Now, more than ever before, she can relax and enjoy.

WHEN the dominant checks, plaids, and stripes in sculptured, lacy textures make their increased washability and bleachability for three reasons: (1) textile suppliers and converters are putting more emphasis on quality in finishes and colors; (2) the new fabrics will be more resistant to shrinkage, wrinkling and stains; and (3) soft-goods firms will be furnishing more detailed laundering advice on labels and hangtags.

Mesh Shoes

Mesh shoes, once dismissed as the ultimate in unfashionable, now look smart for spring. Watch for them in oxfords, ankle boots, with linen or with toes and heels of snake, even in shimmering kid.

The American Way With Wool Blends

Viracle by Hart Schaffner & Marx.

Step into Spring in one of these flattering and newsworthy stripes in dress-up blues and greys. They look handsome on all men since they lend an illusion of slimness and height. These '67 models are a showpiece for HS&M's meticulous tailoring; note how precisely the stripes match, line for line at the seams and pockets. Just one of the many extra touches in detail that separates a Hart Schaffner & Marx suit from an ordinary one. The choice of a wool blend fabric woven in the U.S.A. gives you the style, quality and performance that you want...it's the American way with wool blends. A cool comfortable teaming of Dacron* polyester and wool. Come in now and pick a stripe ...or if you prefer, a plaid, a check, slub-weave. The choice has never been better. $95

PERFECT FOR EASTER

This Bleeker Street creation in robin's egg blue curves gently at the waist and is banded in sparkling white at the neck, sleeves, and hem. Scroll detailing highlights the classic lines of this Tussah wave — so perfect for Eastern morning. At the City of Paris Midinette dress dept., Northgate Fashion Mall.

Jewelry—Big, Bold, Bulky And Sweet

Just as spring's clothing fashion leads a double life—swingy by day, sweet by night—so does spring's fashion jewelry. The "Fake Look" has a special effect flair—bold, bulky and very colorful—for a dash of drama. The "Real Look," on the other hand, is a style statement of ladylike allure, a modest answer to Mod. Both are musts for spring's fashionable femme.

The big and bold in jewelry is making a tremendous fashion splash. Magnificent ropes and chains of multi-colored stones and beads, huge bangles and bracelets, and long, dramatic earrings go way out to be way "in." Oriental arm bands and slave and spiral bracelets are bright and beautiful for an exotic spring.

Gold-colored pieces of huge geometric patterns and shapes, and "pop" plastic are colorful and ultra-contemporary for spring.

IN NECKLACES there is a greater variety than ever. Ranging from chokers to long, long strands, from delicate chains to multi-stranded ropes, from heirloom-type pendants to heavy "pendulums," necklaces are giving a real fashion fling.

Bracelets too make the scene with multi-colored charms, gold-colored filigreed ornaments, and chunky, shaped stones. Favorite bracelet color combinations are gold and platinum—very rich! —and black and white, whether jet and crystal or black and white enamel.

Pins move up front with stunning style innovations. Enamel pins combined with gold in unusual motifs are rising in popularity, as are antique and heirloom designs. Whether textured, bejeweled, intricate or bulky, pins add a major dash of drama to the season's fashion.

AND EARRINGS have gone to dramatic lengths for spring, with designs, colors and shapes styled to delight. More and more designs are available in pierced earrings as their popularity seems to know no bounds. Rings, too, turnr into a rage with new big, bold and beautiful designs.

For the "Real Look" bracelets, necklaces and pins make impressive imitations of precious jewelry. Tailored gold jewelry remains a fashionable frontrunner. Sprinkled lightly with colored stones to provide either harmony or contrast, gold colored jewelry is ideal for spring elegance.

For That Extra Pair Of Shoes—It's The Tote Bag

One large bag which not only promises to be around for a long time to come but is actually gaining in popularity each year, is the tote bag. Its most compatible advocate is the woman who wishes to carry with her an extra pair of shoes and other necessary paraphernalia . . . but want to tote it in something more prosaic than a shopping bag. This season's crop of tote bags are styled in canvas and leather.

For the teenage set, it's the kooky and wet look. They favor the hot colors . . . in some instances toned down by white.

Cotton crepes promise a fresh, crisp feeling all day in smart one-piece dresses or separates.

Color is felt everywhere, fresh, clear, never harsh.

African, Peruvian Prints Make It A Worldly Spring

Early showings indicate there will be multiple combinations of color that will make big news. Prints will include geometric designs, free forms, florals, both small and large stripes, spaced bandings and the new African, Peruvian and South Seas patterns. There are many interesting twin prints.

TEXTURE centers in all fibers . . . ribs, diagonals, overweaves — floral and geometric raised surfaces and jacquard effects. Lacy and embroidered looks will be seen on into Summer. For sportswear the Poor Boy ribs continue, with brushed and scrubbed looks in denims and ticking stripes. There will be a continuation of lively heathers in wools and blends.

Novelty piques, padded ottomans and Bedford cords add another texture dimension. Linen weaves, homespuns and hopsackings can be found on every line with the more rustic burlap weaves looking new. Blends will be the strongest in all Ready-to-Wear designs.

Many bonded fabrics in new weaves are now seen in knits as well as blended cottons. The wispy voiles, organdies and dimities are newest with embroidery and lace insertions. This is the year of the print with color running riot with excitement.

French Tapestries Appearing In Print

Animation is the key word in fashions this spring and for the first time for this airy season, the trend is to shy away from the soft pastels, as colors burst forth in a torrent of vivid hues: lemony lemons, vibrant greens, orangy reds and electric blues.

Although the silhouette remains easy and relaxed with free-flowing lines, fabrics take on a "no-season" look pirating fabrics from every season. The no-holds-barred collection includes silks, worsteds, novelties, gabardine and imported cottons and crepes.

The mini-print has been swept aside by an avalanche of wild African primites with zoo prints topping the list. For a touch of conservatism, designers have reached back into the past and have extracted a French gardenful of tapestry florals in lovely Kahlua colors This makes its appearance in the stained glass prints. The avant-garde influence remains, with a whole new exciting collection of art nouveau prints.

FOR THE SOPHISTICATES—

Remember the teeny-weeny polka dot bikini of a few seasons past? It's been transformed into this more sophisticated version by Elizabeth Stewart for spring '67 and comes in a three-piece ensemble including the bikini and matching play-dune. The fabric is quick-drying antron-nylon and the colors are lime/white and gold/white. You'll find it at Stan's Sports Shops in San Rafael, Strawberry and Novato.

Airy Caftans

The airy floating caftan shapes that dominate the evening scene are dramatized in stained glass voiles and art nouveau silks.

Quality Jewelry

With fashion's swing toward youth, teen-agers are becoming less fad and more quality-conscious in selection of jewelry. The Jewelry Industry Council so reports, adding that pierced earrings are growing ever more popular and new designs meet the quality demand. One expected to be a favorite is the "wedding ring" earring, a gold-filled hoop that doesn't jangle or swing. Pendants remain top teen favorites, particularly in jade, onyx and tiger eye.

STRIPES, STRIPES EVERYWHERE

Neat, executive stripes have taken over the front row of fashion. Stripes are a man's pattern, one that compliments and slims at the same time. And what man has ever voiced an objection about that? Hickey-Freeman tailors them for spring in sumptuous fabrics that are styled with trim modern lines that underscore a modern approach to life and fashion. Shown here is the two-button Drake model which has slanting flap pockets and side vents. The fabric is Corrigan Twill. At Cazassa's Men's Shop, San Rafael.

PARTNERED TOO

Colors Mixed With Mastery Whether Bizarre Or Subtle

Along with the interest in cultural advance, there is emphasis on cultivated fashion. Colors are mixed with mastery — and when there is pattern, it is a work of art — bizarre or subtle and sophisticated. Shape is refined. "Controlled lines and little — if any — construction," says an executive of a leading mill, "call for a new breed of woolens and worsteds, supple but firm."

The leading shape is narrowed above the bustline, fluid towards the hem. Another has a lightly fitted front, restrained back fullness. A third places a low waist on a silhouette that outlines but doesn't touch the body.

COSTUMES: A way of life! Fashion married happily. A jacket has pockets that continue on suit or dress skirt. Geometric insert colors a dress and full-length coat.

Suits . . . partnered, too. Printed blouses match jacket linings but relationship goes further. Blouse often attached to skirt. Or little blouses look like tuck-ins for unity. Prints are fabulous . . . swirling waters, art nouveau, tiffany, primitives. Scarves flutter at necklines — family members. Pants suits continue — often plus skirt. Far-outs wear new short pants.

Coats . . . mainly small armholes, narrowed shoulders. Slim, modified — occasionally quite full. Horizontals with fabric stripes or seaming. Coats more "with it" when dress complements.

Military . . . Paris-inspired "soldat" influences detail. Tri-tones, pockets, epaulets, brass. Buttons important on everything, gleaming stones, chunky bone, silver, jet. Belts — a matter of choice.

FABRICS . . . silken, smoothed-down elegant. Gabardines are famed for color and body.

The look is lively. The name is Leggero, Society Brand's cool, crisp answer to summer. Woven in Italy, the lustrous cotton fabric with the silk look has that Latin flair for pattern and color. Trimly tailored in the silhouettes of today to fit lightly on your shoulders. Exclusively ours. Shown: The Matador, 85.00

'Topless' Shoes Prancing Forward

NEW YORK (UPI)—The almost topless shoe prances to fashion's front ranks for spring as shoe makers of America bare all but the sole of tootsies.

The soles of these shoes for dressed-to-the-nines occasions are held on with tiny bands of rhinestones, a strap of clear plastic or the teeniest width of ribbon or leather imaginable.

The almost-not-there shoe was among fashion footnotes reported by the National Shoe Institute during American Designer showings.

The shoe people also paved the way to spring with a footlight shoe. The was a version of the Miles Standish pump. Its upright tongue was sprinkled with sequins or rhinestones.

By the time this departure afoot filters down to the popular-priced shoe lines, you can bet that the daring will be able to buy shoes decorated with battery-powered lights.

MEANWHILE, SHOE-INS for success this spring are sporty types —jaunty oxfords, flip little ties, the moccasins, the high-fronted slipons.

Moccasins turn up in purple patent, green kid, or lattice weaves in crisped summer colors. Trim might be hardware, or stitching, or wing-tip perforations, or all the high-fronted looks with tall buckles or tongues or ties.

Children's shoes this season, the National Footwear Institute reports, are fashioned for fit, colored for excitement, certain to stir up fun and games all summer long.

THERE ARE zingy patents in bright green or yellow or radiant new orange-red. There is chartreuse, too, and skipper blue and a tart lemon yellow. The rainbow, it seems, is heading for the feet.

For boys, the brogue is the in shoe. It should have a long wing tip or a medallion at the toe or heavy rolled moccasin seams. Or, it could have a monk strap, or, if the front is high, a plain toe.

Spring '67, it was apparent, will go down in fashion history as the season the boot got the boot. Boots were seen in the new collections for women but not nearly so frequently as in the past.

MOVING IN where the boot once stood on the popularity scale is the square deal shoe. Square toes were seen everywhere. Ditto for ankle straps and the lowest heels ever. Many heels were just a fraction of an inch high.

The shoes with the most cool had lots of wide open spaces.

Openings might happen anywhere: Might, for example, be the whole mid-section of the shoe. Designers sometimes set fore and aft adrift in different colors, or made the back of suede, say, and the front of silk.

One of the sexiest ways for a pump: Slashed all the way down on both sides, turning it into a two-piecer. The backs and fronts of these shoes were quite decorous, making the middle look even barer.

THIS WAS interpreted by some fashion seers as the shoe makers' reaction to the frenzy over topless movements in some parts of the country.

FOR THE PERFECT FIT

First things first for Easter. Elaine's Fashions in Foundations in San Rafael features Compensate by Flexnit, machine washable lightweight powernet of DuPont Lycra Spandex with Antron Nylon. Compensate is available in a full range of sizes and styles with figure trimming front panels, front and back panels and front, back and side panels.

THE COOL ONES

Making the scene this season means including Levis on the wardrobe list. Heritage Shop in San Rafafefl is just the spot for the young man whose fancy turns to Levis.

Soft, Uncontrived Styles For Hair

Long or short, hair looks soft and uncontrived, yet very pretty. The large bushy head is out. So is the little curl. Ditto for stick-straight hair. So says Kenneth, New York hair stylist. He's for the small head with bouncy lines, says it looks modern, graceful, free.

Military Copies Up For Teen-Ager

Strike up the band...spring's color schemes for the teen-age dress are filled with red, white and blue. Look for stars and stripes in patterns, for brass buttons and epaulets, for copies of military styles. Even shoes march to the military in combinations of red, white and blue.

Hope For Petite

There's new fashion hope for the small woman. The New York Couture Business Council, Inc., a manufacturers group, reports that more small sizes are being cut and patterned. The really larger woman also is getting consideration, as manufacturers realize the American figure is scarcely standard these days. Half sizes, petites, mini-sizes and extras are filling the gaps.

Color Explodes For Tikes—

Children's wear for spring no longer adheres to the static precepts of the past . . . namely togs in pink, bule and white. This season's galaxy of little tikes' fashions shoots forth in a heavenly explosion of vibrant colors. Bright oranges, vivid greens, hot pinks, yellowy lemons and strong blues form the brilliant new rainbow that looms on the horizon.

Fabrics tend to be soft and feel good to the touch with a (praise be!) knack for staying neat. Voiles figure in party dresses and dresses for just plain coolness, while crinklecrepe is the current inspiration that offers both appeal and practicality. Knits are here to stay in everything from coat-dress costumes to pantsuits.

DRESSES have changed their shape . . . fewer smocks, flounces or lace . . . they have been replaced by the buoyant umbrella dress (flattering to young tummies). Other variations of the new shape are designed close to the shoulders and break away from the waist in a tent or a narrow, easy A.

LITTLE BOYS can now look as dashing as their big brothers. For example, there are pint-size editions of blue herringbone trousers with handsome shortpants styling . . . ably abetted by a Brooksy shirt in light blue with pale pink stripes.

For that south-of-border flair, so important in men's fashions as well, an avocado-green heavy hopsacking side-zippered jacket and matching long pants. Its big-brother look, a coordinated Mexican print cotton shirt with gold turtleneck.

White Mesh Hose Newest

You'll be walking the great white way this summer—that's the way fashion sees it!

Harvey Berin's summer collection of fashions 1967 designed by Karen Stark, showed white stockings and shoes with just everything. Daytime costumes appeared with white mesh hose and low-heeled patent pumps, sometimes with buckles. The heels a little sturdier than in previous seasons, but still unbulky and low.

For evening, there were again white underpinnings for short dance dresses. This time the hose were sheer nylon or lacy whites, with pumps more slim and delicate, often in peau de soie or still in leather. The delicate evening look in white sometimes appeared in white leather sandals.

Jewelry to complete this "frosted" impression is created for Karen Stark's collection. Bracelets, hoop earrings and rings are of white enamel which gleams and sparkles as though they were jewels.

TAILORED FOR SPRING

It's Deep Sea Green tailored in suits for spring and summer by Hart Shaffner & Marx. The very look of it spells comfort for the seasons ahead. So does the styling which is slimly handsome as well. The Ventura suit shown here has lower slanted pockets without flaps, side vents and trousers that are pleatless. The fabric is Bengaline, an all-wool tropical designed for early-season wear. At Hastings Men's and Women's Store, Northgate Fashion Mall.

The Wave To Prettiness Is Rolling In For Hair Designs

Hair is curving again for spring — straight geometrics is marching out, the wave to prettiness is rolling in.

Leading hair styling designers are riding this wave enthusiastically.

"There will be movement in the shape," they predict. "Hair will have more wave, hair will have more luxury. Long hair came in because men like it — now it must be more feminine, not so stringy."

STYLISTS POINT out they don't recommend over-curly hair . . . just a feminine wave that moves softly. "Women will cut their falls to a more practical length, just below the chinline — and will finish the ends with soft unformed curls."

"And girls won't get away with pulling their hair back and tying it with a ribbon," the stylist says.

Models will have to start sleeping on rollers again — they just can't pull out 50 hair pieces and slap them on. Customers still want exciting romantic hairdos at night — the long curls that fall to the side.

"I AM AGAINST torturing the hair with over-teasing . . . I am against one style for all women. The coiffure should always be adapted to the wearer. Hair should say something—it's the crowning glory and if it's cut too short there is no crown."

Says the salon expert: Customers will be more individual and go by what the boyfriend likes . . . and they like a feminine romantic look.

Vibrant Lipsticks

The pale, pale lipstick shades are going out and coming in are bright, clear pinks and reds to go with the vibrant colors awash in spring's ready-to-wear. To go along with the brighter lips, brighter fingernails — "fluid, electric colors," as one cosmetics firm calls them.

Dark Eye Lining For Light-Haired

If you are anything except brunette, try lining your eyes with charcoal or with brown. Underlining for day should be nothing more than a dotted-on line between your lower lashes. Keep any extension short and straight, suggest beauty experts. You see? It's time to bury that just-off-the-barge on the Nile look.

STINSON SWIMWEAR

Perfect for surfing and bathing at Stinson Beach are these Catalina suits called Command Performance and Encore being featured at Luana's in San Rafael. Both are of matelasse knit in ripple flower designs of sturdy Orlon acrylic and nylon fibres.

VERSATILE PERFORMER

The blazer takes the spotlight as one of the most adaptable garments a man can have in his wardrobe. It can be dressed up or down to fit so many spring situations. This blazer, by Hart Schaffner & Marx, is tailored of a comfortable blend of Dacron polyester and worsted. The hopsack weave has the facility for looking correct with sport shirt or dress shirt, Ascot or tie. And it's wrinkle-resisting and shape-retaining as well. It's available in a number of rich spring tones. Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes are featured at Schwartz, Inc., San Rafael.

Brown Next Fall

Already the fashion industry is talking fall. Next season will be a banner year for the browns, reports the American Wool Council. Browns will show in sportswear, coats and suits, with the range from bright copper, toast and rust, on to bitter chocolate.

Zingy Prints Show Up In Spring Knits

What does every woman want in her wardrobe? Knits! What are fashion wits playing around with these days? Prints! Combine the two with news about a brand new nylon fiber that makes the silkiest nylon knits, and you have spring's most exciting fashion trend.

This new silky fiber is called texture-set Enkalure nylon. Knits of this fiber are reported to have the body, the drape, the feel, the color, the luster, the swish of pure silk matte jersey.

The fabric is weightier and heavier and reportedly can be styled with more precise tailoring and greater variety of details than has been possible. Buttonholes, for instance, are said to keep their shape better.

WHAT WOMEN will notice is the luster of the fabric surface and the soft and silky feeling next to the skin.

One of the best known fabrics houses has taken Enkalure and turned it into a group of zingy prints. In this group, all the print themes once available only at expensive high-fashion levels are translated into marvelously colorful new versions.

This new nylon takes the vibrant brilliant colors just as well as it does the soft, pastel tones. Stripes waver in green on white, or navy on camel. Abstract patterns are worked out in orange, tan, black and white or soft shades of green and blue.

Enkalure knits in prints are finding acceptance among dress and sportswear designers. Erica Elias, alert young designer for that swinging new firm called Charlie's Girls, does some easy A-line shifts and tent dresses that come folded into matching handbags with a shoulder chain. It's like an instant overnight package and Erica also adds a toothbrush in the bag.

DOMINO LIKES the green, pink and orange abstract print for its sashed shift with tied cuffs to the sleeves. For Jeunesse it's the fireworks look in the hot color mixture, cut with raglan sleeves and a cowled neckline that ties at one side.

Carol Craig chose the paisley for a supple skimmer with a draped monk's collar like a capelet top. Jane Bradley took advantage of the detailing possible with Enkalure, cut it in a tent dress with yoke and tab front, invert pleat torso and full, buttoned-cuff sleeves. The print is one of the quiet ones, in green on white.

Young Modes went even further with the styling possibilities of this new nylon knit which has so much more body. They created a coat ensemble in the pink and beige stripe. Over an A-line dress with baby sleeves and cowled neckline, they tailored a Regency coat with reverse collar and set-in sleeves.

BESIDES ITS obvious virtue of clear color, sheen and luster, and a soft and silky hand, Enkalure knits reportedly creates less static electricity, therefore cling less and resist riding up. As for care, it has all the virtues of wash and wear and ease-of-care which women expect of nylon.

The pantsuit is running away, and taking companion skirts, skinny knit tubes and tailored dresses (to wear under the jackets) with them.

COOL COMBINATIONS

Real cool are the white hibiscus blossoms on stripes of hot pink and orange that pattern swimsuits by Oleg Cassini for Peter Pan. Camisole neckline and boy-legs are identical features, but the one-piece suit has a low scoop back and optional self-fabric sash. Floral-stripe engineered print is of Caprolan nylon jersey in the hot pink, orange and white color combination. At Frank More, Northgate Fashion Mall.

Color In For Men's Sport Coat

What gives with men's sports coats is color—in solids, stripes, checks or plaids, yes. But also in prints. Gentlemen's Quarterly in its current issue features linen jackets in a many-colored giant paisley print, a polka dot jacket with the coin-size dots in brown on a tan-gold background, and a white cardigan jacket with red and blue trim along the edges.

Small, Neat Look To New Handbags

The small, neat looking handbag is the news for spring and summer. But to utilize every inch of space some of the new leathers abound in pleats and pockets, double entries and zipper compartments. For those who still want the large storage space, there are plenty of outsize satchels, pouches and totes. Some look like versions of shopping bags.

One Shoulder

Continuing on the fashion scene is the "one shoulder" formal. Designers like it in both crepes and chiffons, and in both short and floor length versions, with one shoulder covered, the other bared, creating a 45-degree angle line at the top.

'Chili' Is The Hottest Color This Spring

MINI LOOK
BY DREAM STEP

FOR THE YOUNG ADULTS

Gallenkamp's presents their "mini-look" and "peek-a-bow" by Dreamstep for the young adults. This latest style features the open side quarter and open back. Choose either a cute or provocative bow, or buckle style and you really have a "happening." Try the colors of pattina, bone, and the wild summer pastels like lavender, pink, daffodil, blue, white or green . Available at Gallenkamp's Northgate, San Rafael and Corte Madera stores.

The siren song of tropical breezes can be heard as vacationers ready their wardrobes for a place in the sun. According to experts, the "in" man will travel "light and bright" this winter.

Southern resortwear — sneak preview of next summer's styles — goes all out in new colors, bold patterns and good new disigns. Fashion themes are hitched to such varied inspirations as the pre-Columbian art of the Incas, styles stemming from the Italian Lido and the French Riviera, a leavening of the London Look and, of course, a liberal slice of Americana including Traditional Contemporary, Western and military touches.

THE HOTTEST color for wear in warm climates is called "chili." Devotees of the spicey Mexican dish will recognize the basic color of that fiery combination of frijoles con carne as a reddish — rusty — orangey — Brown. However, just as each cook has his own recipe for chili, each stylist has his own variation of the color. Chili used alone or as an accent color, carries from the true deep tone to pale pastel versions. All of them are attractive and serve as perfect complements to a tan, summer or winter.

Equally Latin in flavor are Aztec-inspired prints. Off-beat and lively enough to ensure a light-hearted vacation mood, some of the prints are bold enough to put the still popular paisleys to shame. Also "muy Mexicano" are updated revivals of the Mexican wedding shirts and serape-like beach ponchos.

The Western theme starts in the cow country, moves on to California and follows the sun to Hawaii. The cowboy influence continues in both authentic and updated jeans, short rider jackets, summerized rancher coats and straw hats with big sweeping brims with which to fend off burning subtropic suns. Western shirts include both working chambrays and fancy dress styles.

WESTERING to California the winter vacation look starts with new alaced-waist surfer trunks with vests to match. Other swim sets have sailor-style tops, oriental Happi coats and bush coats. The colors are hot and bright including yellows, oranges, greens, golds and lime greens. There are also peacock blues, cherry reds and many others. Paisleys, batik prints, engineered stripes and tattersall checks on white of light grounds are just a few of the West Coast patterns. Knit sport shirts and layered-look sweaters, striped and plaided slacks and trimly tailored.

Romans Raise The Hemlines Above Knee

ROME (UPI) —Short skirts, stripes and imaginative colors are on the record as the Italian high fashion mode for spring and summer.

With rare exceptions, designers showing collections in Rome have raised their hemlines a few inches above the knee. Even Fontana and Garnett, who vetoed the mini-skirt, showed a flash of knee.

International buyers, meanwhile, headed for Paris where French designers will unveil their spring-summer creations starting Monday.

The Italians kept their short hemlines on the move with flares, pleats, folds, and a few ruffles. The trend was away from a straight geometric look and toward a softer, more feminine silhouette.

Spring coats were small around the collar and shoulder with a lot of swinging hemlines and back fullness. The reversible fabrics predominating in Italian collections for the past few seasons are still there but one-sided materials were making cautious reappearances.

There was a lot of flesh on display in the Rome collections. Midriffs and backs were invariably bared in fancy resort clothes. Veneziani's evening gowns with cut-out bodices came within a threat of baring bosoms as well.

THE TREND-SETTER

Designed by Oleg Cassini, a Peter Pan swimsuit called "Border Line" is the trend-setter for this year's beauty-at-the-beach. This sensationally simple swim suit comes in pink and peach or navy and white nylon in sizes 10 to 16. At Kaufman's of San Anselmo.

GOLD ACCENTS

This yellow cotton pique dress with a flattering neckline and bold gold button accents may be found at the Expectation Shop, Town and Country Village, Strawberry.

Spring Footnotes— The Strap Is 'IN'

If you are strapped for spring shoes, you are right in style. At least, that is the opinion of a shoe stylist for a leading manufacturer.

"STRAPS ARE the big fashion news this season," the designer reports. "They are in all shapes and forms—inset, cross, front and back. There is a tremendous variety available. And, of course, we know that nothing enhances the foot more than a strap."

He points out that the strap is to the foot as cosmetics are to the face. They can slim a wide foot, round a narrow one. They can draw attention to the ankle, or pull it away. Above all, they flatter.

Why haven't we seen many straps until this past year? A stylist says it is because fashions change — sometimes without reason. He points out that a few decades ago women realized what strapped shoes could do for an outfit. Then, suddenly, it was decided that shoes should be basic, not exciting. "Now," he says, with pleasure, "shoes have become an integral part of the fashionable woman's ensemble. This also accounts for the popularity of buckles, trimming, and open-back shoes. All are highlighted in spring fashion lines."

ANY FOOTNOTES? Yes. The consultant reports that the important color look is the "pale foot." This means shoes in pastels and (even more important) in bone color and coffee-with-cream shades.

All in all, it seems we will be walking pretty.

Leather Shoe Sole Holds The Shape

In every style, newly developed leather soles hold their shape —and the shape of the shoe —for as long as you wear them. Flexible and rugged, they won't ravel, fray or bulge at the edges, Leather Industries of America reports.

CATCHING THE YOUNG MOOD

Catalina goes to the beach in this delightfully feminine Bikini swimsuit and matching "cover-up." Tiny allover floral print on batiste for the ruffled Bikini . . . with spaghetti cord straps, and tie-at-the-side cords for the shorts. The fabric is a dacron and cotton blend batiste in blue or pink. Available at the Emporium, Northgate Fashion Mall.

Fringe Benefits On Half Lashes

Half a lash is better than none. At any rate, half lashes are now available to slip on from the center of the lid outward to give greater fringe benefits to what nature provided. The demi-lashes come in shades of brown and black.

Color Binge

Men's sports jackets go on a color binge for spring. You'll see them in double-breasted versions in every shade from gold to scarlet, with many that are patterned, reports Gentlemen's Quarterly. Typical —a sports coat in orange with a black and burgundy check, or an olive, blue and tan glen plaid.

MINI QUEEN

Twiggy—London's Very Warm Property

LONDON (AP) — "Oh, Gawd," she moaned in a little girl's voice so Cockney that it sounded like someone overdoing the accent. "I'd rather stay and watch the telly."

The groaner was Twiggy.

Twiggy is a perfect name for Twiggy.

If names should fit their owners — and vice versa — then Twiggy is decidedly more apt than Lesley Hornby, the name Twiggy's mother and father gave her.

Twiggy is a 17-year-old model with enormous eyes. She wears them heavily blackened, which makes one think of a lovely young calf whose long, thin, wobbly legs have dumped it against a tree and bruised its eyes.

BUT IN THE INTERNATIONAL model business, Twiggy is currently very warm property. So warm that some think she will oust Jean Shrimpton before the end of the year.

In this age of gimmickry and the frantic searching for something fresher than tomorrow, Twiggy is already the Mini Queen of a new social aristocracy.

England's aristocracy of 1967 is not the Duke and his Duchess, or the Earl and the movie star. It is the beat group and the singer. The photographer and his model. Or the model and her manager.

Twiggy's manager is Nigel Davies, 27.

As Nigel Davies transformed Lesley Hornby, an unknown weekend worker in a beauty parlor, into Twiggy, Nigel Davies modulated himself into Justin de Villeneuve.

"Justin de Villeneuve is more elegant than Nigel Davies," he has explained.

"My great-great-uncle was Napoleon's admiral," he says.

ASKED HOW HE happened to see in a skinny school girl the prototype of a world-famous model, he replied:

"I saw the potential, but it took two years to really get her launched."

She has been launched as surely as a yacht. She has been interviewed and photographed over and over again. Her great eyes look out from the covers of slick magazines. She regularly flies to Paris for modeling sessions.

Twiggy likes Paris and this somehow seems as it should be, for she has a waiflike quality that the late great French singer Edith Piaf, had.

Although Twiggy has joined the ever-growing list of British teen-agers who have made records, her voice is far from Piaf's.

This does not mean, of course that her record "Beautiful Dreams," will not reach the hit parade.

WHAT IS TWIGGY LIKE?

She says she would rather watch television than attend big parties. She neither smokes nor drinks.

"Oh, Gawd," she has confided, "I had a drink once, I was so ill."

She still lives with her parents in a respectable but hardly fashionable residential section of north London.

Twiggy is refreshingly frank about herself and her Cockney accent.

"I cawn't talk posh," she says. "I tried it once in a mirrow. I looked sooo funny. I wouldn't want to try to talk posh."

She seems to have a natural modeling sense.

Twiggy quit school when she was 15.

Did she go to a modeling school?

"Oh, naow. I never had a lesson in me life. All the models have been so kind to me. I watch them and try to learn. But I don't suppose I'll do it as long as some of 'em do. I mean there is one girl in Paris, and she's 36.

"I couldn't do it for 15 years. I'd want to get married and have little Twiggers.

Twiggy leans heavily on her manager when asked anything but the most rudimentary questions.

TWIGGY LIKES clothes and a big company is sending her to the United States to persuade young Americans to wear Twiggy clothes.

"I started choosing my own clothes when I was 12. By the time I was 14 I was going out dancing. I'd dance the slow dances when the boys arsked me . . . if they did . . . and then I'd dance the fast ones alone 'cos when you're dancing fast you don't need anyone, do you?"

THE SHIFT TO SUMMER

Elizabeth Stewart goes big this summer with the "Lissy" and "Lissy Shift" in assorted prints. The duo may be found at Little Daisy, Town & Country Village, Strawberry.
